A CHAPTER ABOUT FUR SMUGGLING

Mysterious Man Disappeared with Bag, and Later on the Filling of a Bale of Wool Vanished from C. T. R. Station—An Arrest in Orillia, and a Strange Fitting from Barrie Hospital.

Evening Post of July 31

For months past the police of this district have had reason to believe that an illicit trade in close season furs was being carried on under their noses, so to speak, but try as they might, they were unable to get on the trail of the smugglers. Some months ago they received a "tip" that a man with a suspicious looking bag in his care was on board the north country train, due to reach Lindsay in half-an-hour, but when the sleuths boarded the cars it was learned that the man they were after had slipped off on the opposite side of the train and was nowhere to be seen. Disappointment No. 1.

About five weeks ago High Constable Jones, of Fenelon Falls, and Magistrate James Dickson, of the same village, happened to be on the same train coming to Lindsay. Jones, while fraternizing with the baggage man, happened to notice a bundle of wool, directed to Horn Bros., of this town, and made a cursory inspection of the same, with the result that he satisfied himself that the interior of the innocent looking bale was made up of beaver skins. The Constable was informed that the bundle was being looked after by a man on board, but the latter was too wise to claim it, and when Lindsay was reached the bundle was placed in charge of the G. T. R. baggage man, who was ordered by the Magistrate and Constable to keep watch and ward over it until their return from Toronto next day.

Sure enough, the bale was hanging over next day on demand, but alas it had wilted sadly. Only a bunch of wool remained—apparently the outer covering of the original bale. The baggage man could offer no solution of the mystery, and the man said to have been in charge of the bundle the day previous could not be located by Constable Jones or the local police. Disappointment No. 2.

THE SUSPECT.

A warrant was then issued for one Simon Marshall, of the south yard, who was suspected in connection with the spiriting away of the illicit furs. For some days the local police have been on his trail, but without success—although Marshall is known to have been in town several times, he managed to evade arrest, and went his way rejoicing. Disappointment No. 3.

Friday last Chief of Police Reid, of Orillia, arrested an individual in that town who was acting in a suspicious manner. He gave the name of Peter McDonald, and said he was buying horses for Mr. Wm. Wexse, of Lindsay. On being taken to the lock-up McDonald became ill, and when a physician was called he said his patient had pneumonia. That evening he was taken by train to Barrie hospital. In the meantime Chief Reid called up Chief Vincent, of this town, on the phone, and informed him of the fact that the man who claimed to be McDonald had papers on his person, which seemed to prove that his real name was Simon Marshall. Chief Vincent informed his brother constable that Marshall was wanted in Lindsay, and that there was a warrant out for him. The Orillia man notified Baggage Chief to that effect, but the latter refused to neglect to act. Chief Vincent on Saturday night called up the Barrie police man and out him with, telling him to have a man remain on guard at the hospital. Instead, the night man consulted the hospital authorities or doctor, who said a watchman was unnecessary—Marshall was too ill to be left alone.

Before a couple of days had passed, Sunday night the sick man had escaped from the ward, tricking with him the clothing of a juvenile patient, and has not been seen since. Disappointment No. 4.

Chief Vincent, now thoroughly aroused—is on the trail of Marshall, and says he will land his man inside of a week. Marshall, it is thought, received furs from north country trappers, who penetrated into Algonquin Park, either doing the killing themselves, or receiving them from unscrupulous Park rangers.

The Canadian Magazine.

The holiday equipment would be well supplemented with a copy of the August number of The Canadian Magazine, which contains a good supply of short stories and excellently illustrated travel articles. The art features are exceedingly good this month, the wash and pen drawings being above the average. With one or two exceptions, for instance, an article entitled "Party Government," by Prof. Goldwin Smith, the number contains light, warm weather reading matter.

COUNTERFEITERS SENTENCED

End of Celebrated Case That Has Done so Much to Advertise Town of Lindsay.

Magistrates Jackson and Moore Pronounced Judgment Last Friday—The Guilty Men Received the Reward of Their Misdeeds—Conclusion of Interesting Proceedings—How the Accused Took Their Sentences.

RESULT OF FRIDAY MORNING'S TRIAL.

C. BURKE—Sentenced to three years of hard labor in Kingston Penitentiary.
R. LOGIE—Sentenced to two years at hard labor in Kingston Penitentiary.
A. BOUYEA—Sentenced to one month in the County Gaol at hard labor.
R. WYNN—Sentenced to one month in the County Gaol at hard labor.
GEO. MILLER—Discharged.
JOHN EVELEIGH—Liberated on suspended sentence.

Evening Post of July 26

The Court room in the Court House was crowded this morning by citizens anxious to hear sentence imposed on Burke, Logie, Bouyea, Wynn, Eveleigh and Miller, the parties charged with counterfeiting. Police Magistrates Jackson and Moore occupied the bench.

GEORGE MILLER

was first called. Magistrate Moore proceeded to review the evidence given in the case. When Miller was first arrested he positively denied any connection with the crime, and afterwards, when face to face with Logie and Burke, he repeated his denial. The only witnesses produced by the Crown against him were Detective Parkinson and the two prisoners, Burke and Logie. There was nothing conclusive in the statement of the first named to connect Miller with the crime, his evidence consisted of a resume of his own movements and what he had picked up from Logie and Burke. He did not claim to have connected Miller with the crime—the only testimony to that effect had been furnished by Burke and Miller. Nothing had occurred to couple Miller with the second forgeries; if connected with the first case he apparently had kept himself aloof from the second offence.

What is the charge against Miller? It is that on or about Nov. 25th, 1905, he had in his possession forged bank notes of the Dominion and Montreal Banks, knowing such to be forged. That is what the Crown undertook to prove. The charge was very distinct and definite—was there any evidence in support of it? His Honor then read extracts from Robt. Logie's evidence relative to the time of year that offence had been committed with which he claimed Miller had been conversant and given at. The time fixed by Logie was April or May—did that support the charge as to Jan. 25th? He didn't think so. At a later stage in his evidence Logie said he was sure the bills had been made in the spring or whether the time was two years ago, or not.

What does Burke say on this point? He said, in reply, that it must be three or four years since the bills were made, while the Crown fixed the time of Miller's guilt at a period two and one-half years ago. Could he (Magistrate Moore) be expected to make a year and a half off the Burke period to make it fit? Then Burke thought the bills were made in the fall because they used to get apples out of the orchard. Does not that statement contradict Logie? The latter says the crime was committed in April or May, the Crown fixes January, Burke says in the fall, and Miller says it was never committed—in his case, at least. One would think it would be quite possible for these men to fix a date of that kind precisely. How am I going to reconcile such differences? I find no evidence upon which to convict the prisoner—if heard before a jury he would regard it as his duty to submit the jury against accepting the evidence of Burke and Logie, as it came from a tainted source. The demeanor of Burke during the trial had not satisfied him—he seemed to treat the proceedings as a joke; on the other hand, Miller's demeanor throughout. A judge or jury may convict a prisoner on the evidence of one accomplice, but owing to the discrepancies in the present case he felt there should be corroborative evidence in the case to justify the conviction of the prisoner. His Honor then referred to cases on record as bearing out his contention, after which he announced that he found Geo. Miller not guilty of the charge brought against him by the Crown. (Applause.)

TRIAL OF THE LEADER.

Burke, Eveleigh, Wynn, Logie and

Bouyea were then brought in from the gaol, whereupon County Crown Attorney Devlin asked that sentence be imposed upon the first named. Mr. Thos. Stewart, counsel for the accused, addressed the Court, and made an earnest appeal for a light sentence, contending that the ends of justice would be well served. Burke had lived in town all his life—56 years—and this was the first time he had appeared before any Court of criminal or civil justice—the greatest offence he had been guilty of was idleness in recent years, and this it was that had led him astray. Since his arrest he had played the man. Regarding his conduct in Court, it should be remembered that different men are differently constituted, and that levity is not far removed from crime—they are not to be classed in the category of dangerous criminals; they had been led into this thing through childish foolishness. Very little of the bogus money had been scattered, and all of it had been redeemed. The object of punishment is corrective, and in this case a light sentence would serve the ends of justice. The accused were nothing better or worse than children in crime. The officers had admitted that they had seldom dealt with so artless a combination of wrongdoers. Burke had received a lesson that would never be forgotten, and which would induce him to lead the balance of his free life in an industrious and lawful occupation.

Magistrate Jackson said in imposing sentence—"The four of you (meaning Burke, Logie, Bouyea and Wynn) are to be commended for honestly acknowledging your crime. It is indeed a serious one. You are to be commended on the conduct of your counsel, in that you were not advised to plead innocence and so lay the cause of justice. I believe the truth was told—perhaps not the whole truth; perhaps there was shielding of some one, and perhaps all of you were excited and didn't know whether you were standing on your head or your heels. The extreme penalty for the crime of which you have been guilty is 14 years. You, Burke, are 56 years of age. You didn't stop at a first offence—you repeated it; you have been in a sense the ringleader, as you procured the plates in both cases. I sentence you, Charles Burke, to three years in Kingston penitentiary at hard labor."

was the next prisoner called upon to stand up, and in his behalf Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., spoke briefly, but effectively. Evidence as to the prisoner's unimpeachable character was unnecessary, because those who knew him were aware of the facts. The prisoner had lived here 50 years, and had been a hard working and industrious, yet unsuccessful farmer, and therefore was liable to temptations. He was a man of simple mind—so simple, indeed, that he did not fully understand the serious nature of his offence. When arrested he had voluntarily made a clean breast of the whole thing to the detectives. The Crown had used him as a witness. He was likewise entitled to the consideration of the Court on that account. There was no good reason why a light sentence should not suffice.

Magistrate Moore said: "In regard to your case, I agree entirely with what has been said as to your past good character, and your good offices in becoming a Crown witness. Knowing you as I have for many years, it is a painful duty for me to have to sentence for this deed. Had you given the matter, any thought you would have realized what the end was sure to be. Your crime is a serious one, as it strikes at the financial integrity of our country. It was Burke's insidious advances which led you astray; I cannot forget, however, that this was your second offence—had you remained after your first crime your punishment would be lighter. Although the colleague of Burke, you are not equally guilty, and therefore I sentence you to two years in penitentiary at hard labor."

was the next to respond to his name, and Mr. L. V. O'Connor, his counsel, made a feeling appeal for clemency. A week previous to committing the offence the prisoners had been engaged in a trusted capacity as night watchman for a local firm; previous to that he had been in the employ of the Bank of Montreal, but owing to blindness he had been dismissed and had fallen because of his desire to earn a living for his family but it was a fact that he had become dissatisfied with his new work, and had quit before his arrest, while the bogus bills distributed had been redeemed. Finally Mr. O'Connor submitted a testimonial in behalf of his client, signed by Mr. J. A. Paddon, of St. John's, N.B., formerly manager of the Bank of Montreal, town.

RICHARD WYNN

Was likewise included in the scope of Mr. O'Connor's remarks. Wynn was a native of Emily township, 66 years of age, well connected and always known to be respectable and hard-working.

Magistrate Jackson—"Bouyea I have known for years—he evidently was persuaded into this; Wynn I have not known, but have heard many speak well of him. It is said indeed to see men of their age here—men who have heretofore led honest, upright lives. It is not in my power to liberate you on suspended sentence—I will order that each of you be imprisoned in the County Gaol for one month at hard labor. (Applause.)

J. EVELEIGH

When this prisoner was called County Attorney Devlin said that on behalf of the Crown he asked that the prisoner be allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Magistrate Jackson—"This prisoner is the youngest of the lot, and I have heard that he is a most exemplary young man, but one easily led astray. I cheerfully comply with the request made on behalf of the Crown, and order that the prisoner be liberated on his own recognizances." (Applause.) This concluded the business of the Court.

CITY SCRIBE'S IMPRESSIONS

WORLD STAFF CORRESPONDENT AND LINDSAY COUNTERFEITERS.

Locates Weak Spot in Crown's Management of the Case.

Evening Post of July 27
Mr. T. W. King, the Toronto "World" Ottawa correspondent, spent Thursday and Friday in town, and reported the counterfeiting case for his paper. We take the following extract from his racy report:

It is not yet explained why the crown selected this particular day in January in drawing the information. It happens to be the day of the last provincial general elections. No other reason can be assigned, as the crown must have known from the statements of Burke and Logie that this was not the date which they would swear to.

Miller's case disposed of, Burke was called for sentence. The press reports may have given one the impression of a rollicking, devil-may-care Irishman, presumably red-haired, freckle-faced and blue-eyed, with legs impatient to dance a jig, and a round face dimpling with laughter. In fact, Burke is a lank, lean French-Canadian, apparently with a trace of Indian blood in his veins, dark and sulky, self-contained and seemingly reticent. Those who know him say that he is fond of disputation. He views that border on socialism. He greatly shocked the resident senators by declaring that it was no worse to steal $2500 from the postoffice than it was for a Dominion senator to draw his $2500 indemnity. People now also recall that he was known to defend smuggling upon the ground that if the customs officers did get the money some grafter would get it away from them.

Neither Mr. Burke's peculiar views sprang from his occupation as a counterfeiter, or whether he adopted his profession of counterfeiting as the result of his views, must remain a mystery. At any rate he has been looked upon as a dangerous radical, and by common consent, was accepted as the ringleader of the gang when the counterfeits were arrested, and picked upon for the awful example. It was known that his sentence would be severe.

He might have gotten fourteen years, but Magistrate Jackson made it three.

LOGIE AND THE REST

Next came Logie. He is said to be 50 years old—a man of medium size, of florid complexion, dark hair, and sandy moustache, streaked with grey. He has a narrow intelligent face, with bright eyes, rather shifty. There is an unwritten history in Logie's life, which borders upon romance, and which in part explains his comparative poverty after years of labor. He was mixed up with Burke and counterfeiting as far back as 1905, and then, again in 1907, Magistrate Moore, however, found him less guilty than Burke, and gave him two years in the penitentiary.

Bouyea and Wynn came next. Bouyea has a good, earnest face, wears spectacles and a grey moustache. He is the sort of man you might pick out as a cabinet maker or a locksmith. He was for years a messenger in the Bank of Montreal. Then his eyesight failed him, and now he is nearly blind. Until quite recently he was a night watchman. Wynn is a trembling old man with a thin black beard, approaching seventy. He dresses in corduroy, and looks like a man who is thoroughly broken in body and mind. If Wynn produced a genuine five dollar bill, he would have difficulty in passing it. For him and his half blind companion to cross over to the American Soo on the 4th of July to "push" counterfeit money among people who shy at genuine money made in Canada, was a performance so closely bordering upon open bouffé, that sympathy is mingled with amusement. Some young lawyer, speaking for Bouyea and Wynn, suggested a "suspended sentence." This was beyond the power of Magistrate Jackson, but he did his next best thing. Each man got 30 days in jail.

PLEASED THE PEOPLE
The last defendant to be called was Eveleigh. The crown moved for sentence and suggested that a remand would be satisfactory. He left the court room a free man, upon giving his own recognizance. He was the first man to be arrested and likely led to the capture of the others.

The crowd, which cheered the acquittal of Miller, was no less enthusiastic when Bouyea and Wynn came with a nominal sentence, and Eveleigh with no sentence at all. Apparently the crowd would have cheered had Burke and Logie been released. An effort will be made to commute their sentences. Magistrate Jackson estimated that a higher power might reduce the sentence of Burke and Logie's attorney applied for a certificate that his client had been used by the crown as a witness, thus indicating that he would apply for commutation.

A SCHOOL OF TELEGRAPHY

To be Opened by Mr. A. M. Paton, Late of the C. T. R.

If you are the father or mother of a family, perhaps the greatest problem you will be compelled to solve is what to do with the boys and girls. Professions of all kinds are overcrowded. Before taking action, think for a moment on the wide and varied opportunities a knowledge of Telegraphy—commercial or railway—presents. Some of the wealthiest men on the continent to-day owe their position in life to starting away on this line, and this at a time when there was not one opening to a thousand at the present.

The railroads of the country at the present time are face to face with the task of securing thousands of telegraph operators. The law which limits the hours of labor in this branch of the service, together with the construction of new roads is responsible for this condition of things, and the opening up of our vast West, the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific from ocean to ocean, the continuous extension of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways, together with the fact that there is not one railway in the United States knows where, or how it is going to get the additional force needed, emphasizes the great need for a School of Telegraphy.

In this connection, we are pleased to inform our readers that Mr. A. M. Paton, of Lindsay, has secured the top flat, foot of Kent-st., in building recently vacated by The Post-Printing Co., and in a short time he will open up a School, to be known as The National School of Telegraphy. He will give the School his personal attention, and the pupils the benefit of many years of railway and commercial telegraphy.

Board in Lindsay is reasonable, and Mr. Paton informs us that a pupil here should graduate in from one to two months less time than in a city, on account of fewer attractions. For terms and all particulars, address National School of Telegraphy, Lindsay, Ont., A. M. Paton, Principal.

Bound for Simcoe's Shores.

Terry's gasoline launch left Tuesday morning with a party on board on an extended water tour. The trip will take in the now popular Kirkfield lift lock, and proceeding along the shore make Simcoe, where Beaverton, Jackson's Point, Grills, and other points of interest will be visited. The party comprises Mrs. Mounter, of Cannington, and her mother, Mrs. R. Hill, of Lumsden, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Newton Smale; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Murphy, Miss A. Ward, Miss Graham and Mrs. T. Stinson, Liza Wickett, and others, of town.

Railway Notes.

—Superintendent W. R. Tiffin, of Allendale, was in town lately, and went east with Trainmaster J. Brown to inspect certain improvements required in Peterboro.

—After over seven years service with the G. T. R. as news agent on the run between Midland and Blackwater, Mr. Albert Birchard has retired from railway work, and taken a position at the Canada Specialty Works.

—Wonderful to relate, the engine driver who ran the famous Rocket of George Stephenson, the first passenger locomotive to draw a passenger train in the world, is still alive, in good health, and celebrating his 92nd birthday a few weeks ago at his home in the States. Edward Eastwistle is the name of the man who has the unique claim to distinction.

—The Peterboro Examiner complains of low water in Stony Lake. The Examiner man should visit the end of the Kawartha chain if he would like to hear a better explanation of the right brand. The water on this way has been falling for a month past without apparent reason as it is not being drawn off for the benefit of Peterboro power companies.

SYLVESTERS 4, ORIENTALS 3

The Orientals were forced to take their first sip of the bitter cup of defeat last Monday before Ernie Wetherup's "braves." It was not without a hard struggle, however, and they still call the T. B. L.

The evening was a gloomy one, and a slight rainstorm deterred many from being present. It was at a late time when the game started, and five innings were played, the "shades of evening" falling fast as the last stanza was finished.

The class of ball played was fully up to the now high standard furnished regularly by the league. The game was between the two teams until the last. The diamond was slightly tilted, and it made the pitchers' task no sinecure. Gray had the better of the argument in this line owing to superior speed and better control. Suggitt has some artful box play, however, and a nice drop ball. Gray struck out nine men and "Vic" Suggitt five.

The personnel of the Sylvester team was completely changed, and they played snappy base once more, and broke into the game on the second. They contributed his full share to the securing of the victory. Fred Martin and Ernie Sharpe were "old faces."

The Orientals must have left their house collars and rabbit ears behind them last Monday. They played their usual speedy brand of ball, but could not touch Gray at opportune moments.

VICTORS 1, QUAKERS 0

The Quakers gave the Victors a run for their money last week, the league leaders just pulling out one run to the good. Six innings of fast ball were played. Several times the Quakers looked like scoring, but the Victors succeeded in whitewashing them. Stewart pitched a good game for the losers, using a speedy ball to the victors. He received fair support. John Spratt had his usual assortment of sprints, and had fine support. C. Paton and D. Spratt showed up at opportune time for the winners, while McMahon, Hickinbottom and Connell were silver spots on the Quaker lineup.

WIDEAWAKES 3, SYLVESTERS 1

The Wideawakes took a fall out of the Sylvesters last week—the second this year—and are tied for top cellar position with Ernie Wetherup's braves. The latter fought hard last evening, but failed to connect with Hopkins' slub artist pitched a mess of a game and fielded his position well. He worked the "quick delivery" ball to advantage.

The game was, as is now customary in Town League ball, close and well-contested. Five innings were played and even then it was getting dark at the close. Hollingsworth opened up in the box for the Foundryites and Gray pitched the last two innings.

The losers had Perkins on first once more and "Pete" Beteau, of Boeky fame, and hailing from the Carleton place, struggling up to centre garden. R. Gray played second and George Little third. The Wideawakes filled up with McIntyre in left field, Moyne on second, and Nesbitt short. "Black" Seaton, whom everybody knows, played in centre field.

The Wideawakes started in with a vim and secured one run in the first. Ryan scored in the second on a ball that went soaring over Perkins' head, and House brought in the next on a nice drive which carried him to second, a steal of third, and home on a Little's error. R. Gray scored for Sylvesters on a wild throw to first which carried him to third, and with two out, Hopkins threw wild to third in an attempt to catch Gray off the bag.

The game was interesting from a spectator's standpoint. The rapidly approaching first season makes the fight for the first place a keen one. The Orientals have a long lead, but they have been beaten once, and the other teams think they can duplicate the trick.

A UNIQUE DECISION

Catcher Frank Roth, of the Milwaukee Club, tells a story of how an umpire sent him back to bat after making a "tie" call.

"Speaking of funny umpires," says Roth, "the funniest I ever met officiated in a small town in Illinois, where the team I was with was kept out of the game for years ago. We played at night in the business. I was at bat, and bunted the ball. I ran my hardest trying to beat the throw to first with the umpire racing after me. I crossed the bag and the umpire gave his decision. 'It's a tie,' he shouted. 'Go back and bat over again!'"

"I protested, but it was no use. 'It's a tie,' he said, 'I tell you,' repeated the umpire, and you get another chance! It was no use and I went back to the plate and struck out."

PETERBORO BEATEN

Cobourg won from Peterboro 6-2 on Saturday last, and the Porridge City team are down in third place. The Peterboro team played in their own back yard, too, but that didn't make any difference to Cobourg, who hit Quinn for eight safeties. Batters: Peterboro—Quinn and Burridge; Cobourg—Leo Downs and Floyd.

IT WAS A RUMOR.

The rumor around town that the Y.M.C.A. have dropped out of the league is altogether untrue, as they will be stronger than ever for Wednesday night against the Express Nine.

MAY PLAY IN COLLINGWOOD

Arrangements are being made for the sending of a ball team from Lindsay to Collingwood on August 12th. The W. O. W. run an excursion from Lindsay there that day, and the Sylvester band will compete in a band tournament. Mr. R. Butler has received a letter from the manager of the Collingwood ball team, and a picked team from town will probably be sent.

Bill Cinnamon, who is playing ball with Dauphin, Manitoba, has made good with that team, and writes that fast ball is being played in the league. Dauphin is in, Bill not only catches, but has pitched a couple of games. Since his arrival Dauphin has not lost a game. The town is about half Lindsay's size, and pays a total salary of $1000 a month to the players.

A picture post card of the team, received by Mr. R. Butler, contains also the picture of Mr. A. Parkin, formerly of town, who is one of the backers of the Dauphin team.

FOR THE FANS

Capt. Schaffly, of the Maple Leafs, is now batting .300.

It's a neck and neck race between Toronto and Buffalo.

Port Perry may be seen here next week in an exhibition game.

A game might be arranged for Toronto's Civic holiday in town.

The young ladies enjoyed the game as well as the stronger sex.

One more schedule to play, and the Town League will be finished for the season.

Thoney leads the Eastern League batters, with an average of .345 for 68 games.

"Del" Mason, the renowned twinner of the Cincinnati Club, will probably pitch for Toronto.

Ochawa was thrown out of the Midland League for having defaulted a game with Cobourg.

The Peterboro Examiner and Review staffs will play a game of ball of August 12th at Joly Wyld.

McIntyre, the C. L. S. first baseman, left today for his home in London. The C. L. S. will miss him.

The ball furnished this year has been of the xxx brand. The support from the town citizens has been excellent, also.

Some Cincinnati player is to get a gold watch when he reaches his one hundredth hit. It's a warm race among Mitchell, Lobert and Ganzel.

A Baltimore ball scribe roasts the Express Nine, and hints that they are a poor bunch. Are the troubles of the poor baseball referee ever to end?

Pitcher Jacobson, of Boston, is Toronto's latest acquisition. While playing with the Americans he won seven and lost eight games. He gave 35 bases on balls, allowed 153 hits, and his percentage was .467. He fielded .900 and batted .159. He was taken out five times and he relieved five times also.

At Buffalo—Buffalo and Muggsy McGraw's New York National League team played a rip-roaring eleven inning game recently, each side giving one out to get to Montreal. The allow Buffalo to get to Montreal and New York to Cincinnati. Eastern League ball showed up well alongside that of the major league article. Kissinger pitched for Buffalo.

As can be seen, the teams are evenly balanced, and any team has a chance to win out before the season closes.

sumption. He was one of the greatest players of that day, and by many Joe Quest, the old-time second baseman of the famous Chicago White Stockings, under Anson's management, 25 years ago, is dying of cancer. It was thought that Anson, Quest, Williamson and Burns were the peers of any infield ever put together on one team. Quest was a great favorite with the youngsters, and the late Mike Kelly, who has been for years a player at large, has a story of how he was caught by a fly ball with his hands behind his back was always uproariously applauded.

It looks as though Billy Stalker has dropped out of the game for good and all. Bill has been for years the best of the youngsters and has given his match with Workman, Miller, Manzie, McGill and Cinnamon. He was one of the pillars of the Lindsay team when they won the Midland League pennant. As an outfielder there was a time when Stalker couldn't be beat in the Midland district. As a catcher he was the steady, and his cheerful "heads up" could be heard all over the field. He had his arm badly hurt recently and will probably give up the game for good.

HAIL TO OZAR CAMERON

Hail to Ozar Cameron of the C. L. A. His action in the Young Toronto protest against Beaverton, as revealed at the meeting of the C. L. A. executive, certainly qualifies him for the title.

Young Toronto's protested Beaverton because the Checkers played "Mary" Curran, an Orlia boy, who went as far as Vancouver with Jack Miller's tourists, and then returned to the C. L. A. rules are as plain as lay on the point. It is plain to anybody the least little bit of intelligence, that by C. L. A. law any player who plays even exhibition games with another club after May 30, "May" played in all the games this tourists played in Canada.

What was to be done? President Cameron of the C. L. A. is a loyal son of Beaverton. Something had to be done.

Ozar Cameron obligingly assured Beaverton that the Young Toronto protest was irregular. Nobody knows why, and he told the Checkers that they didn't need to put in any defence, or to put up the necessary $25 deposit.

Wasn't that nice of him? But happily for the cause of that blind goddess, Justice, the C. L. A. Executive did not see eye-to-eye with the Czar, and, therefore, Beaverton has a couple of weeks in which to prepare a defence.

And defence seems impossible. Why did Beaverton play Curran? Let Beaverton suffer for her sin—Toronto Star.

OWEN SOUND FOR PAT

Sporting life was too strenuous in Peterboro for Paddy McDonough, the big home lacrosse player. Pat didn't take any time to the trimmings the Checkers of Beaverton administered to the Electric City, and he has jumped his job with its 300 per. and betaken himself to the wilds of Owen Sound. Life must seem a burden to Pat.

Now that the Teumseh's went under to the Irishmen by 3-1. Ald. Tom O'Connell, of Montreal, is in the seventh heaven of bliss.

RUNNING.

At Burn, the Calgary runner, who won the five-mile championship of Manitoba at Winnipeg, recently, covered the distance in 27.50 and the track was heavy.

Bonhag, who beat Longboat for a short distance on an indoor track last winter, does not seem particularly anxious to meet the Indian again.

Alfred Shrubbs, the champion English distance runner, has issued a challenge to Billy Sherring, of Marathon fame, for a race at ten miles or farther. Sherring will not likely meet the Englishman, however, as he promised when he was in Athens that he would not compete again.

TROTTING.

RILEY GRANNAN BROKE

The fate of the race track plunger has come upon Riley Grannan whose meteoric career as the king pin of the betting ring on New York tracks several years ago made him a wonder of his time. He is clean broke after a determined effort to renew his shattered fortunes. The very young bookmaker who set the racing men against prior to the great Henry of Navarre-Dominio match race at Gravesend by handling nearly $200,000 on that race alone, when he was but a boy, is now a beggar, offering a point higher on Dominion than any other bookmaker, a nervous wreck. His only apparent means of support is handling a commission or winning a lucky wager with his proceeds. He says that he tried the game from all ends—from making a book to betting from the green and owning and having an interest in horses, but couldn't make the money hold. His conclusion is the conclusion so often stated by men of his class—that this racket can't be beaten.

COLF.

For the first time in its history the open golf championship of the British Isles, Arnold Maesey, the French champion, won the title one month ago, with a score of 312 strokes for four rounds. His nearest opponent was J. H. Taylor, an ex-champion, with a score of 314. Taylor and George Burdett tied for third place with 317 strokes. The contest was played under adverse weather conditions, and Maesey's game was the most reliable of all the competitors. The grand aggregate of Alex. Smith, the American champion, was 333 strokes. He finished twenty-fourth. Smith says that the game in England is harder than in the United States, owing to the difference in the balls used. The winner won on his merits, there can be no possible doubt about that. He is a brilliant player, more brilliant than almost anybody believed him to be, and he has played at the top of

LINDSAY'S LATE SENSATION

Who Is the "Man Behind" Lindsay Counterfeiters? Asks The Toronto World.

To-day's "Toronto World" contains the following criticism of the recent trial of counterfeiters conducted here, combined with an enumeration of salient points likely to interest to our readers:

Lindsay, July 28.—(Special).—The Lindsay counterfeit case has fair to rival the recent case at Orangeville as a shining example how not to do it. There are many things about it that invite enquiry, and the kind of enquiry that leads to criticism.

In the first place it is evident that the counterfeit bills were not made by Burke and Logie, as alleged. It has been said that they were crude affairs, which could deceive nobody. But so far from this being true, the fact is that some of the bills are exceedingly good. A World correspondent examined one of them. It is a trifle greasy to the touch; otherwise it is perfect, so far as any layman can observe.

True, this particular note was selected from several hundred specimens, but a man can afford to throw away any number of counterfeit bills, and if he could make one like this he could make others. That such a counterfeit could be made by a couple of farmers in a woodshed by the light of a lantern and the aid of a letter press seems ridiculous. Indeed, Burke and Logie now admit that the Traders' Bank bills were made in Toronto.

Who made them? Who is the man behind—the directing intelligence?

Burke's occupation in life has been operating a sawmill. He is uneducated and without any knowledge of engraving. It is suspected that these counterfeit bank bills came from some one else, and that Burke was merely one of many agents for their distribution.

If this incredible story be true, that he bought the paper, ink, press, etc., and manufactured the stuff, then is it not fair to enquire "Where is the press? Where did he get the paper? Whom was he dealing with?"

It is given out that three years ago the Dominion police traced counterfeit bills to Lindsay. There was an investigation, but influence was brought to save some persons from arrest. Apparently nothing was done towards destroying the press, plates and other outfit, if any, in fact, were to be found in Lindsay.

There seems to have been a general of blunders all along the line. Men were arrested with a flourish of trumpets who could not, and would not, run away. The publicity gave the smooth and dangerous criminal a week's start. These men who could not escape were arrested, brought before magistrates, and their cases disposed of practically without any cross-examination.

The method taken in Miller's case is typical. He was confronted with Burke and Logie, who had recovered him of complicity. Instead of causing the three men, the accusers and accused, to talk it out, a detective read to Miller from a book what purported to be the statements of Burke and Logie, and he was asked if the charges were true.

When the provincial government sent down an assistant to the local crown attorney, who was selected, DuVernet? Shepley? E. B. Johnston? Some expert in the art of criminal litigation? No, a very capable, estimable, legal gentleman from office of the attorney-general was selected, but one with little experience as a trial lawyer.

Without commenting upon organizing color to mere rumors, the situation is not unfairly summed up as follows:

1. Three years ago Lindsay was found to be the headquarters of counterfeiters and the matter was dropped.
2. It does not appear that it was followed up or that any press or plates were located or destroyed.
3. After three years the police again find counterfeiters at Lindsay. A few poor men plead guilty, but the plates and press they pretend to have operated with are not produced.
4. The case is dropped, but the money from a man in Toronto. This man is at large and will continue to be, it seems, indefinitely.
5. The trials were not made use of to probe deep. The Dominion government had no counsel nor can it be learned that the banks employ his form all through the competition, being perfectly steady and consistent all the time. There is really no pronounced peculiarity about the winner's play. It is simply fine golf, and what golf ought to be.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

WONDERFUL FEAT
London Referee: Stupendous is the only word which can adequately describe the performance of Selwyn Francis Edge on the new motor track at Brooklands, near Weybridge. Mr. Edge made it known that he intended to travel round the track for twenty-four hours at an average speed of sixty miles an hour, the total distance to be traversed being 1440 miles. Not only did Mr. Edge do this, but when "time was up" it was found that Mr. Edge's six-cylinder Napier had compassed a distance of 1,581 miles, 1,310 yards, at an average speed of 24 hours of 35 miles, 1,594 yards.

Lindsay's Civic holiday is on the 8th of August.

ed any, to advise the crown, nor did the provincial government bring out at the trial anything beyond the uncontradicted confessions of the accused containing such absurdly impossible statements as the making of first-class counterfeit bills with no press but a letter press.

4. The place of trial was chosen at the locality most favorable to the accused, who were brought before magistrates who had known them personally for years and surrounded by a community openly sympathetic.

It will now be of interest to see whether the powerful influence heretofore so effective will be able to rebut the terms of Burke and Logie in the penitentiary. If not, will they have something more to say?

Meanwhile it might be well to find and destroy the plates and presses used by Burke and Logie.

But did they ever use any? If not, who did?

The Dominion police state that two or three years ago they discovered that counterfeit bills were being put out at Lindsay. At that time there was an investigation, and several persons were threatened with arrest. It is generally believed that the matter was hushed up through some influence at that time, but it is now evident from the statements of the authorities and from the testimony of Burke, Logie and others, that some of them at least, were putting out counterfeit money at Lindsay in 1905, who were recently arrested and prosecuted for the same crime in 1907.

The Watchman and Warder, Lindsay, is true, eulogizes Mr. Bayley, as follows:

"If Mr. Edward Bayley be a fair sample of the class of men that the present Ontario Government purposes sending out to assist in crown cases, it would appear as if both the government and the dignity of the law would gain materially in public estimation. In the minds of most people there is a certain ideal as to what a crown prosecutor should be. There is a feeling that the whole force of the crown should not necessarily be to secure a conviction at any cost, but rather that the first and strongest consideration should be the furtherance of the ends of justice."

But does the record justify any great amount of congratulation? Seven men were arrested, of whom five pleaded guilty on the go off. Of the seven, two received substantial punishment; two got a nominal sentence of a month in jail apiece; the other three got off. That is to say the crown convicted some of the men who pleaded guilty.

Many of the accused, as soon as arrested, began to confess. Their statements were taken down and apparently believed without investigation and acted upon by the crown. The story put up by the defence was in substance this:

That the counterfeit money was made in a barn or woodshed belonging to Logie, from a plate furnished by Burke; that the work was done mainly after night by the light of a kerosene, and that the press used was an ordinary letter press. There was little or no effort to learn who manufactured the plate, Burke merely stating that he got it from a man whose name he had never known. There was no effort upon cross-examination to show whether Burke or Logie or either of them possessed the knowledge or skill to manufacture any counterfeit money. Both are entirely uneducated men, and it was evident from Logie's testimony that he thought the entire manufacture consisted of rubbing a paraffin candle on bills already prepared.

The impression had been given out that the counterfeiters were so crude as to deceive nobody, and that they were about the kind of bills a farmer could make with a hatchet. This is entirely erroneous. Some of the bills would deceive an ordinary layman.

Another curious thing is this. If these farmers had some plant for making counterfeit money, where is it? No press or plate was ever produced in court, nor, so far as we are here told, were any such contrivances ever destroyed. People are asking, "Is the press still running?"

It is, therefore, apparent that the authorities had everything in their favor to make a good case against the counterfeiters. They found Eysaugh in their possession a few weeks ago at Montreal. The only person to be arrested not named by Eysaugh was Miller. There was testimony against him given by Burke and Logie, but it was so contradictory and inconsistent that it was dropped from the bench as "tainted." The question now being asked by Mr. Miller and his friends is this: "Who was screened by Burke and Logie, and what influences, if any, were brought to bear upon them?"

SAVED BY HIS DAUGHTER

Aged Resident of Somerville Attacked by Enraged Bull.

On Monday afternoon last Mr. Edward Hopkins, of Somerville, one of the best known and most popular residents of the township, narrowly escaped fatal injury by being trampled and tossed by an infuriated bull. His escape was due to the bravery of his daughter.

Mr. Hopkins essayed to drive the animal from a field near the barn to one adjoining. The bull turned on him without warning, knocked him down, and had already trampled him before the daughter became aware of her father's dangerous position. With true filial devotion and remarkable self-possession she ran to her father's aid with a heavy club, with which she belabored the bull until he turned tail and ran away.

Mr. Hopkins escaped with a broken rib and a number of painful bruises.

MUST TAKE STAND IN DOCK.

General Says Procedure in Countering Case Was Wrong.

In view of the refusal of one of the counsel at the recent trial of Lindsay counterfeiters to allow his client to take his stand in the dock when giving evidence, in which refusal he was sustained by the magistrates trying the case, it is interesting to note a memorandum from the Department of the Attorney-General for Ontario calling attention to the "uncertainty" regarding the cases in which defendants when on trial must stand in the dock, and suggests that it is "desirable that the practice should be definitely settled."

In Archibald's Criminal Pleading, 23rd ed., p. 188, the rule is thus expressed: "No trial for felony can be had except in the presence of the defendant, and he must, it is said, stand in the dock to be tried." Citing Regina v. St. George, 9 C. & P. 483; Regina v. Zulutetz, 1 C. & K. 215, 1 Cox. 20. In Roscoe's Criminal Evidence, 12th ed., page 171, it is said: "In all cases of felony the prisoner must take his place within the dock." As under the Criminal Code, cases are no longer divided into felonies and misdemeanors, it is suggested that the reasonable course would be to hold that the rule as to the prisoner standing in the dock should apply in all cases where, on conviction, the punishment may be as much as 5 years' imprisonment. It is not pointed out in the departmental memorandum, but it is the fact, that the present Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and the late Mr. Justice Ross adopted the rule now suggested immediately after the coming into force of the Criminal Code.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUG. 2nd, '07

THE LESSON FROM LINDSAY.

(From To-day's Toronto World.)
Theiasco at Lindsay brings us face to face with a grave danger, and it brings the government of this country face to face with a great responsibility.

Our people accept the federal notes and the notes of the chartered banks as and for money. They cheerfully take them to full requisit for merchandise and labor. They accept them, not because they know much about banking or finance, but because they feel that the Dominion government is behind them and that they are protected by the Banking Act and the Dominion departments of justice and finance. People will not use paper money unless it is protected from counterfeiting. To be in anxiety and doubt respecting the genuineness of every bank note received in the course of business and in the transactions of daily life, is a condition that is intolerable. The public can not afford it; they will not submit to it, even though they be driven to a coin circulation. The Dominion government can not afford such a condition; neither can the chartered banks.

Yet, if counterfeiters caught pushing out spurious money are to be released with suspended sentences, and to some pass with sentences no more severe than those daily imposed upon "common drunks"; if it is freely stated that certain men were saved from arrest by "influence" and that others were prosecuted without sufficient evidence, while the real criminals made their escape; if our languid efforts are put forth to get the whole affair and the trials are hurried through before local magistrates with natural sympathy for the persons accused; if, finally, the press and the plates used by the counterfeiters are neither looked for nor destroyed; can it be wondered at if counterfeiting becomes more common?

It is recognized in the United States—where, as a rule, criminal laws are not so well enforced as they might be—that the temptation to counterfeit paper currency is so great and the profits are so enormous that unceasing vigilance is required. A permanent secret service force in that country is maintained by the federal government and all bank bills are printed by that government. When a counterfeit is caught, he is not tried by a local magistrate, but by a United States judge and jury at the capital or chief city of the State.

To counterfeit money is the most insidious and dangerous offense against civil government. To treat it as a mere misdemeanor is wrong. To let a notorious case of extensive counterfeiting go without full investigation is intolerable. In a word, the public demand protection. The Dominion Government must afford it and allow every case of counterfeiting to the end. The provincial authorities must do the same. Can the banks afford to do less?

A WAVE OF TEMPERANCE.

The man who said, "There is good whiskey, and better whiskey, but no bad whiskey," had more than half of the population of Kentucky at his back not long ago, and in most of the Southern States drinking was a very general habit until recently. The prohibitionist was the exception. But now Kentucky has "gone dry," disappointing most of the prophets, and an unprecedented wave of temperance sentiment and legislation is sweeping over a vast area of country where formerly a majority of the male population had a weakness for whiskey. Kentucky is perhaps the most striking example of the new order of things, for the Blue Grass state was long the most famous in the union for its brands of "red liquor." Yet to-day ninety out of 119 Kentucky counties are "no license."

Moreover, as Edward Ligner explains in Harper's Weekly, the whole State of Tennessee, as well, is dry, save for the cities of Memphis, Nashville and Chattanooga. In the dry sections no alcoholic beverages may be bought—not even a glass of beer or claret with dinner. The State of Texas, according to reliable information, contains ninety counties that have abolished saloons; North Carolina, Mississippi and other states of the South tell the same story; and one may travel up and down the rural parts of Kentucky and Tennessee without finding one bar or cross-roads saloon. As a result, says Mr. Ligner, politicians in the South have come to a realization that the prohibition movement in their region is one which must be taken with the utmost seriousness. "The politico-temperance crusade," he remarks, "with its new life and energy, constitutes the most startling development in Southern politics to-day." The politicians will give the people all sorts of temperance legislation if they discover that it is the way to get votes and hold on to office. Whether or not temperance legislation will mean temperance to the people themselves. If a great majority of the population in a large and populous territory should prove that they are determined to get along without saloons, licensed or unlicensed, there should be little or no demand for whiskey. But if temperance legislation means merely a political move to gratify the temperance element and the laws are not enforced because they have an overwhelming public sentiment behind them, the South will not be any more sober than it was before. The movement in the South is being watched with keen interest throughout the United States. As a rule a whole section of a nation does not change its habits in one year or ten. Its laws are another matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Montreal Star is shocking the conservative elders by speaking of the grafting and grabbing of the party.

Toronto bakers and dealers convicted of selling short-weight bread have paid $275 in fines, bakers paying $25 apiece, and dealers $5. An effort will be made to have the law amended to enable municipalities to fix a standard weight of loaf.

The Toronto Street Railway Company and its men have signed a two-year agreement, the net result of which is to add $84,000 a year to the wage bill, the men getting an advance of 2 cents an hour. An excellent spirit seems to have prevailed on both sides.

It is a good sign, says the Ottawa Free Press, when the Canadian oil-producers, in convention assembled, decide not to pass any bills of an immoral character, and bind themselves to fine any member who violates such an agreement. That is the kind of a combine which Canada needs.

The Presbyterian says that the speech of Mayor Coatsworth on the Twelfth of July was disgraceful. After its treatment of Police Magistrate Woodyard, surely the Whitey government will not allow a man guilty of "disgraceful" language in public to become one of its candidates in a Toronto hive, remarks the Kingston Whig.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that there has been a depreciation of New York State's farming lands to the amount of $170,000,000, and that 12,000 farms have been abandoned, through no fault of the soil, but from a disposition of the young population to seek the cities, and when the old people die the farm is left to itself. The department proposes to send lecturers through the country to explain to the farmers, and especially to their children, how more money can be made out of the farm. The secretary thinks that the system of keeping the hired men all year round would improve matters. And that is something Canadian farmers would do well to think about.

Chicago Weekly American: As an example of the marvelous rapidity of development in the Canadian West, the new city of Calgary, Alberta, may be cited. But a few years ago it was not known even as a name. Now it is going through all the motions of a real city. Last month a thorough police census of the place was entered upon, the results of which were made known on July 18. By this it appears that the population of Calgary is twenty-one thousand and forty, of which three thousand and three hundred and forty-one are children under fourteen years. This is a remarkable showing, but it is typical of the new towns that have sprung up as if by magic among the golden grain fields of Western Canada.

In a report to the Washington Bureau of Manufacturers Mr. Geo. N. Liff, the United States consul at Annaberg, says that high-priced meat has greatly increased the consumption of horse and dog flesh throughout the German Empire, especially in the densely populated industrial centres. During 1906 12,922 horses and 3,736 dogs were slaughtered for food in the Kingdom of Saxony; this is an increase of 224 horses and 313 dogs over 1905. In all Germany, during 1906, 182,000 horses were slaughtered for food, an increase of about 20,000 over 1905, and of about 47,000 over 1904. While we are often told about the poverty in Britain, which our Tory friends attribute to the want of protection to make food dearer, we never heard of them eating either horse or dog flesh, nor partaking of a puppy stew. That delicacy appears to be reserved for the highly protected workman on the continent.

Peterboro Examiner: It cannot be urged that the sentences imposed upon the Lindsay counterfeiters are unduly severe. In view of the interests affected, many persons think they are unduly lenient. We must have our money, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. We may stand water and embalming fluid in our milk, and in our sugar, and other forms of spuriousness, but our money must be sound, and worth its face value.

A few days ago we had a lurid story from San Francisco about the arrest of a Japanese caught sketching the configuration details at Fort Rosecrans. He was said to have a load of plans and photographs, and to have made desperate efforts to escape. Now it is learned that there was a Japanese arrested on suspicion, but that he turned out to be a restaurant waiter; that he did not know the why of his being detained, and that nothing more incriminating was found upon him than a common blank memorandum pad used in his everyday work. The effort made to create by falsehood a bitter feeling between Japan and the United States is a disgrace to an intelligent people. And some New York papers and press agencies are just as guilty as the San Francisco gutter press.

Peterboro Examiner, Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, has been doing everything in his power to bring back Quebec into line. It must have been discouraging to him to have Mr. Sam Hughes declaring in the House that "French priests were a curse to Canada". His efforts, however, have not met with great success. The triumphal progress of Laurier, necessarily, through Quebec, shows that that province is still true to Laurier. For this there is good reason, aside from the negative reasons implied in the violent language of Mr. Sam Hughes, and the sweeping statement of Mr. Sproule, to the effect that the whole Quebec parliamentary delegation is venal and corrupt. With such lieutenants, high up in the party, taking such attitudes, and others equally high showing restiveness, to put it most mildly, under Mr. Borden's leadership, makes his task rather a difficult and discouraging one.

THE ALLANDALE PARROT.

Bird Known to Many Travellers Dies of Old Age.

Many travellers over the Northern Division of the Grand Trunk will remember the late Ed. Meeking, who, ten years ago, was the jovial and round proprietor of the refreshment rooms at Allandale station. Mr. Meeking had a parrot, which only recently died of old age, and this sagacious bird was the hero of a little incident over which the citizens of Barrie and its railway suburb still chuckle when they recall it. The parrot was a great talker, and was quick at picking up and rehearsing the many sounds of a busy railway junction.

One summer morning as the engineer of a northbound train waited in his cab for the order to pull out, he heard the familiar call of "All aboard for North Bay" followed by the command, "All right, Mike; go ahead."

He unhesitatingly obeyed, only to discover when he reached Barrie, a mile away, that the conductor was not on hand, but that Polly had acted as his proxy. The train had to run back to Allandale for the conductor, and thereafter engine drivers were careful not to start their trains without making certain that their orders proceeded were given by the proper official.

A TRIP WORTH TAKING

Party of Young Men Enjoyed a Delightful Cruise.

A vacation in the city or on a farm can be thoroughly enjoyable, but a water trip in a gasoline yacht—especially if that yacht is the Arrowanna—for true enjoyment of a reel, jolly vacation can't be beaten. So think Messrs. Fred G. Perrin, of Oakwood; Ivan Tompkins, of Sarnia; Alvin G. Gould, of Fenelon Falls; and Neil McFadden, Dick Butler, Bill Moggridge and Jack Gray, of Lindsay. In the latter's trim little gasoline launch the party completed the tour of the Kawartha Lakes in this vicinity, going from Lindsay to Pigeon Lake, thence back to Rosedale and through the Kirkfield lift-locks to Beaverton and Orillia, and return. They got back Saturday evening.

Break Up Your Old Meadows.

Minden Echo: Farmers with, this year, see the need of breaking up their old meadows, perhaps more than ever, as the hay crop is very light where the meadows have been allowed to stand year after year. New meadows are showing in most places, splendid crops, clearly demonstrating the fact that it does not pay to neglect the fields. Grain crops are also much better where the land has been kept in a good state of cultivation. It pays to fertilize and plow frequently, as many farmers have proved by good crops on land that would scarcely yield decent thistles under the one plowing system.

What an Evening Post Reporter Cleaned as a Result of a Brief Visit to Victoria County's Stone Home of Detention—Diet of Prisoners—Gaoler Jackson's Reminiscences.

Evening Post of July 31

A gaol, by the average person, is looked upon as a place of irksome confinement, iron bars and bread and water diet. From the castle prisons of the French Bastille and the Tower of London to the American Sing Sing prison, all are regarded with a feeling akin to dread—by the outsider.

The Lindsay gaol, with its iron-barred windows and high stone walls, has the appearance from the exterior, of a very unpromising dwelling place. When inside, however, the awesome feeling is not so strong—one becomes used to massive oak doors with ponderous locks, iron-railed bedrooms and corridors, and other evidences of security.

Last evening a Post reporter was taken the rounds of the gaol by the affable gaoler, Mr. Andrew Jackson. In view of its recent connection with the counterfeiters' case, a description will be interesting.

A feeling of complete separation from the outer world pervades one on first hearing the entrance door close behind him. Turning to the right, and going down a short flight of stairs into the basement, a commodious kitchen gives everything a more home-like aspect. Here Gaoler Jackson pointed out a prisoner busy with needle and thread, making suits of the prison garb, one legging of dark cloth and other a dull yellow in color. Our tailor, said Mr. Jackson with an explanatory laugh, turning once more to the left, the scribe was led into an open yard—or rather a lawn—enclosed with high brick walls. This yard is used by the inmates of the gaol for recreation and exercising purposes. A doorway in the north wall communicates with another yard of small dimensions, previously used by juvenile inmates of the gaol. The door between the yards has been removed to prevent prisoners from escaping by climbing up on the door and scaling the walls. Two Richardson brothers, awaiting trial for grand larceny, Mr. Jackson informed the reporter, escaped in this way years ago, but were recaptured later. A third yard, to the north, is the wood yard, and here the prisoners are sometimes employed.

PRISONERS' QUARTERS.

Entering the gaol from the rear, the Post man was shown the corridors and cells in which the prisoners are confined. To the north Gaoler Jackson opened a corridor—the one in which Bouyea and Wynne are confined. The prisoners were inside and appeared light-hearted, laughing and chatting with their gaoler. The corridor is of considerable size, enabling the inmates to move around. On one side sleeping cells, arranged in rows, the prisoners go to bed in the summer time at eight, and at seven in winter. The beds are not uncomfortable, being composed of a mattress on spring wire netting, with suitable bed clothes. The iron doors of the sleeping rooms are locked at night.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

THE DROONIN' O' THE CAT.

My mistress has a fine black cat
That might have been a chief.
'Twas bad an' bonnie, sleek an' fat,
But just as awfu' thief.
The maister likit plenty game—
Grouse, patricks, pheasants fine;
So did the cat, Nick was his name,
On fowl who aft did dine.

"Noo, if ye'll tak' that revin' cat,"
My mistress said, and droon
I'll give either a new hat
Or else a half a croon."
I'm free to own that scarce weel hats,
And as for half a croon,
I'd wilit be to bag six cats
For sic a prize and droon.

I put him in a pillow-slip Aside a weelty brick;
On street car took canalward trip,
Sich row he did upkick!
But he was in a basket pent,
While laughed at me the folk;
Of course ilk yin o' them weel kent
What was within the poke.

To leave the car I was right glad,
Syne hadna far to gang,
'Til soon be rid of you, my iad,
To live ye hanna lang."
I lookit round so very quick;
But ye yin could I see,
The basket opened, out popt Nick—
A splash and doon went he.

I just had time to look around
And shut the basket lid,
I heard a voice and almost swooned
That's what I trowed in the canal—
A hand upon my shoulder lay—
"Police-man's tall and stout—
'What's that ye've done," I heard him say.

"What hae ye been aboot?"
A lightning' thoct flashed through my mind,
"He'll mak' o' this a case—
Afore the coort mysel' I'll find;
I'll hae a charge to face."

He askit me with searchin' sneer
'What's that ye threw in there?
I doot ye something gae and queer
That gars ye that way stare."

"Hae mercy on me an' I'll tell!"
I feel sae deidly sick—
But presently I was gey weel,
For out crawled dear, black Nick,
That's what I trowed in the canal—
A lang three miles I came;
Gode night to you, police-man tall,
I think I'll noo gang hame."

The mistress was as gude's her word;
Giv' me weel won half croon;
Next morn the deevil's new, she heard—
He's crossed ower half the town.

A dark room for incorrigible prisoners was the next place inspected, and several cold chairs to run down the scribe's back. The room is seldom occupied, its very presence having a salutary effect on too lively prisoners. The corridor on the first floor facing the south was the one occupied by Chas. Burke and Robert Loe, now in penitentiary. It is almost identical with the other corridors, but the bedrooms are a little larger. Ordinarily the bedrooms are little larger than the bed. "So they won't fall out," remarked the gaoler.

Higher up in the gaol, facing the south, and fitted with narrow grated windows, is the corridor, by Miller and Gostlin, who were acquitted. In the topmost story is a corridor in which old people and sick prisoners are confined. A stove here makes the corridor more comfortable looking.

With six corridors, twenty-four prisoners can be accommodated in the gaol. In each corridor the prisoners are together, and can chat or in other ways while away the time.

THE BILL-OF-FARE.

Meals are served regularly, and two kinds are served—one for hard labor and the other for ordinary confinement. The ordinary course is:

Breakfast—One pint gruel of oatmeal or Indian corn, eight ounces of bread with syrup.

Dinner—Four ounces cooked meat, eight ounces bread, eight ounces of potatoes, one pint of gruel or vegetables.

Supper—One pint of gruel, eight ounces of bread, syrup and pea cake.

With hard labor, eight ounces of meat are served for dinner, instead of four ounces. On Sunday extra dainties are served.

GAOLER FOR 40 YEARS.

The universally respected gaoler, Mr. Jackson, has been some 40 years in charge of the local gaol. During that period many criminals have been under his jurisdiction, and his reminiscences are varied and interesting. Of murderers he can recall Jack Kearney, who some years ago killed an old man named Agnew; a man named Finnegan, who ran a tavern in this vicinity, and killed a relative. Another murderer named English was also confined there, and a date, "1873," painted on the wall in the central yard is pointed out by the gaoler to inquisitive visitors. At the spot where a noted murderer was hanged, Mr. Jackson also distinctly remembers rowdy Bill Montgomery, whose ruffianly acts terrorized the entire district some years ago. To see and similar recollections made conversation with the Governor at Lindsay gaol—or "Castle Jackson" as it is popularly termed—something to be wished and remembered.

Turnkey Mort Andrews, Gaoler Jackson's efficient assistant, has been in charge of the gaol while the gaoler was holidaying among the Thousand Islands. He has had considerable experience and is a thoroughly reliable man.

With two such capable men, the gaol is kept in ideal condition. The lawns and trees surrounding the gaol bear testimony to the fact.

BUCCY VERSUS CANOE.

"That's shairly Nick come back again."
I tellt very quick—
"In the canal he sank like stone, Weel-watched wi' a brick."

He ne'er got in the hoose agin,
Chased him awa' ay.
Tho' 't was in his hoove was fain;
He had to bide the law.

He never stole another bird
Fave pantry oors—the loon!
And mone yin frac me he's heard
The tale o' the half-roon.

I'll wash my buggy up to-night,
To make it shine I'll strive;
To-morrow Sunday—I'll take
My sweetheart for a drive.

The fairest girl in Tattletown,
The dearest girl alive;
We've got so now we never miss
Our Sunday evening drive.

Along the quiet country roads
My darling doth connive
To take the reins—there's nothing like
A Sunday evening drive!

I put my arm around her waist—
I could not well drive Myself of rights belonging to
Our Sunday evening drive.

(You couldn't put your arm around
Her waist—you know it's true—
You've got to just behave yourself
When you're out in a canoe.

Besides, there is resemblance
'Twixt a girl and a canoe;
They're both of them uppittin'
Sometimes—ah, me, how true!

The God of Love would idle be,
He'd know not what to do,
If the only weapon that he had
Was a tiddy-wink canoe.

To-morrow's Sunday—day of fate—
I'll pay my soul revived!
I'll pop the question when we take
Our Sunday evening drive.

Rathbun Branch at Bancroft.

The Bancroft Times says: We have it on good authority that the Rathbun Company, of Deseronto, are contemplating the erection of a big factory—one of the biggest of its kind in Ontario—in this village. They have not yet decided on a site, but it will be either near the dam, or close to the sawmill. They intend to close up their business in Deseronto and move all the machinery away.

Telegraphy Opens the Way

TO A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

Several thousand Telegraph Operators will be required by the various Railway companies within the next nine months.
ON AUGUST 1st, I will open a School in Lindsay, to be known as the

National School of Telegraphy

Board here is reasonable, and all ordinary students should graduate here within six months. Write or see me for terms. The greatest and most successful managers of to-day have, with rare exception, risen from the ranks of the operators.

Salaries of operators run from $50 to $80 per month, according to the importance of the position. Operators who are Agents, make from $60 to $100 per month, and are always eligible for promotion. Lady operators for commercial work are in great demand.

Qualifications necessary are few but absolutely essential, viz.: a common school education, strict sobriety, honesty, industry and carefulness.

Sir William C. Van Horne, of C.P.R. fame, began his railway career as an operator, so did J. W. Leonard, C. W. Spencer, Geo. C. Jones, and scores of others, all now holding high positions.

BIG LEGAL FIGHT ON

Struggle Between Dominion Coal and Steel.

VAN HORNE WAS SUSPICIOUS

Says He Mistrusted President Ross—Was the Steel Company Justified in Refusing Coal and Was the Coal Company Justified in Breaking Contract?—The Main Issues—Sir William on the Stand.

Sydney, N. S., July 31.—The legal struggle between the two great corporations—the Dominion Steel and the Dominion Coal—was justified in breaking its contract with the Coal Company, began yesterday. There was a large attendance in court, Judge Longley is presiding. Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., of Toronto, is leading counsel for the Steel Company, and H. A. Lovitt, K.C., of Halifax, for the Coal interests.

The feature of yesterday's evidence was that given by Sir William Van Horne, who, in telling of his connection with the companies, acknowledged that he distrusted President Ross (head of both companies).

"My feeling against Mr. Ross was caused by an old business transaction. Superficially we have been on friendly terms. I felt I had been cheated by Mr. Ross. The merits were all on my side," said Sir William. Trouble between them dated back eight years.

"I have been heart and soul with the Coal Company. My trouble with Mr. Ross made me feel I could not trust the Coal Company to the merchandise of Mr. Ross.

"I was with the Steel people because I believe they were in the right. Before the contract we made enquiries as to the quality of the coal necessary for the making of steel."

W. P. White, general manager of the National Trust, declared that consent had never been given to either of the contending companies for the cancellation of the contract.

F. P. Jones, general manager of the Steel Company since 1901, said that just prior to October, 1903, the date of the contract, there were five collieries on the Phelan seam. So long as the Steel Company was getting coal from the Coal Company there were no other mines known to be on the Phelan seam. The greater portion of the coal supplied before the contract came from these five. There was no official notice given to designate any particular seam. The coal at first was fairly well adapted for steel purposes. In the autumn of 1904, they sent coal which he refused because it was slack. About 30 cars were rejected and the Coal Company took them all back. Some coal that came designated as No. 2 run of mine, was not run of mine at all, but slack.

Elections In Philippines.

Manila, July 31.—The independence factions that united in the campaign under the name of the Nationalists, appear to have won the general election held throughout the islands yesterday.

No Bail for Pettibone.
Boise, Idaho, July 31.—Formal application was made in the District Court yesterday to have George A. Pettibone admitted to bail. The motion was submitted without argument, and was promptly denied by Judge Wood. It was announced that bond for Charles H. Moyer would be ready by noon. It is in course of preparation, and will be signed by Timothy Reagan, president of the First National Bank of Boise. The bond is guaranteed by $25,000 cash on deposit by the Bate, Mont., local of the Western Federation of Miners.

Prohibition Bill Adopted.
Atlanta, Ga., July 31.—The Hardman-Covington prohibition bill passed by the Senate some days ago, was adopted by the House last night by a vote of 139 to 39.

Two amendments made yesterday permit the sale of alcohol by wholesale druggists on the prescription of a reputable physician, and also allows wholesale druggists to carry pure alcohol in stock for sale to retailers only.

The new law is to become effective Jan. 1, 1908.

Guide to Mariners.
Kingston, July 31.—The Government has established a steel cylindrical gas buoy, painted red and surmounted by a pyramidal steel frame, supporting a lantern on the southern side of the Northport shoal, in the Bay of Quinte.

Schmitz Still Mayor.
San Francisco, July 31.—Eugene Schmitz, the convicted mayor, has made appointments to fill the vacancies created by the forced resignations of fourteen members of the board of supervisors.

Clothing Caught Fire.
York, Pa., July 31.—Charles Bradley, 35 years old, was stealing a ride on a Lehigh Valley freight train, when his clothing ignited from a spark of the locomotive. He was seen to run along the top of the train with his clothing ablaze until he was blinded and exhausted. Then he fell between two of the cars and was crushed.

Invited to Buffalo.
Buffalo, N.Y., July 31.—Invitations have been extended by the committee in charge of Canadian Day (Sept. 1) of the Buffalo old home week, to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Mayor of Toronto and the Mayor of Hamilton to deliver addresses and review those Canadian troops which may take part in the program arranged for this day.

Britain and Russia.
London, July 31.—It is announced that the negotiations between Great Britain and Russia have resulted in an agreement amicably adjusting all outstanding differences on the Indian frontier and in Persia.

Both powers have consented to the delimitation of their spheres of interest in those regions.

Dropped to His Death.
Toronto, July 31.—Wellington Grant, 33 years, employed by Haney & Miller on the waterworks tunnel at Allan's Point, is dead, as the result of a 20-foot fall from a trestle at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. He died at noon of a fractured skull. He came to the city from Prince Edward Island a year ago.

Invasion of Anglers.
Toronto World. A jovial bunch of a dozen anglers from Pennsylvania are quartered at the Iroquois. They hail from Greenburg and Luthrope, and their destination is Kawartha Lakes district.
"We are getting the habit more and more on the side of the line of striking for somewhere, in Ontario, for our fishing jaunts," one of the party remarked last night. "A few years ago we used to think we had to go away from home, but we are becoming educated to the fact that the real angler's paradise is further up north."

Interesting Paragraphs.
—Children, says Professor Star, of Congo exploration fame, who is lecturing in Chicago, "Should wear no clothes until ten years old." Evidently the Professor never went canoeing up the St. Lawrence river, else he would be aware that in this part of Ontario, at least, his theory is being improved on to the extent that men, as well as boys, disport themselves every evening on the river bank without clothing, and unashamed.

A question has arisen as to the qualification of chauffeurs. A locomotive engineer, before he can run an engine, must serve years of apprenticeship as a fireman and pass an examination as to his eyesight. Even a stationary engineer requires certain qualifications before he can legally run an engine. The chauffeur needs a few weeks picking up pointers and learning how to run an auto, or no one of us would pay a quarter of the highway and byways and send the machine flying at a pace that beats even the express trains.

—The night of a bunch of dogs each striving to devour the other, is a common one on Kent-st. A couple of these battles occurred on Sunday night. The majority of the brutes would be shot or poisoned by their captives owners, if they did not get their living by stealing food from neighbors' houses.

—Capt. C. W. Burgoyne, Fenelon Falls, owner of the staunch little craft Kawartha, who scoured the flag offered by the Oritia Board of Trade for being the first vessel to call at that town through the Kawartha waters, is contemplating the building of a larger boat capable of making the return trip from Fenelon Falls to Oritia in half a day.

—Fenelon Falls Gazette: On Monday last Mr. Edward Hopkins, of Somerville, was attacked by a dehorned bull, which gave him a bad shaking up and broke one of his ribs. As he is advanced in years he would probably have been killed, had not his daughters bravely assisted the animal and driven it away. He is under Dr. Wilson's care and doing well.

—It is just possible that a crumb of the Irish Canadian Athletic Association of New York may be organized in Lindsay in the near future. The recent amateur meet in Toronto, held under its auspices, was a grand success, and has encouraged the promoters. In case the idea is carried out Lindsay will see the leading athletes of the United States and Canada taking part in games.

—A western physician says hot water will cure anything. No doubt of it at all, if mixed properly with certain other ingredients and taken carefully through his straw, remarks the cautious editor of the Oritia News-Letter.

—A case of municipal indifference is furnished by the city of Calgary. A sewer by-law was submitted to vote the other day, at a cost of $53.25 for submission, but only 28 votes were polled. Of these the city officials cast 13.

BAD ACCIDENT IN MARIPOSA.

TWO MEN INJURED WHILE RIGGING A HAY-FORK.

Scaffold Cave Way and They Fell Thirty-Five Feet.

A few minutes after 1 o'clock on Wednesday a serious accident occurred at the farm of Mr. John Sluggett, north of Graham's church, on the north-western boundary, as a result of which Mr. A. Switzer, of Cameron, and Mr. Henry Sluggett, sustained severe injuries.

The two men had been engaged by Mr. Wes. Brethour, implement agent of this town, to erect a track for a new hay fork in Mr. Sluggett's barn, and while at work up near the peak of the roof the scaffold on which they were standing, gave way, precipitating them to the barn floor below—a distance of 35 feet. Sluggett suffered serious injuries to the head and back; Switzer's left leg was broken at the ankle, both bones being fractured, head and face were cut, and his back injured.

Dr. White, of town, was apprized of the accident by telephone, and made a quick run to the Sluggett home in his auto through a driving rainstorm, covering the distance of about five miles in 20 minutes. Switzer was removed to Ross Hospital, town, during the afternoon. Just how badly the men are injured was not known at time of going to press with this issue.

PULP AND PULPWOOD.

The Toronto Globe is putting up a lot of evidence which goes to show that it is the duty of the Dominion government to prevent the export of Canadian pulpwood or pulp, by means of a prohibitive export duty, or by some other plan, remarks the Hamilton Spectator. Among those who have contributed to The Globe's interesting story is Sir William Van Horne, who handles the whole question in a manner which makes it quite evident that he has given the subject much and careful study. We here reproduce a portion of Sir William's statement:

To make clear what we have to gain, I may say that at present prices a cord of pulpwood, exported as such, yields to Canada and all Canadian interests for cutting, handling, stumping, transportation, etc., something less than $6 at the output. This same cord of pulpwood converted into pulp would yield at the output $19. The same cord converted into sulphite fiber would yield $24, and the same cord converted into paper would yield $37.80; in other words, Canada would get more than six times as much out of her resources in spruce wood by converting it into paper at home, instead of letting it go to foreign paper mills. But Canada is letting her spruce wood go abroad without hindrance, and day by day one of her most valuable assets is being depleted, leaving little more than tree stumps to show it.

The paper production of Canada largely exceeds the home consumption. The Laurentide Paper Co. at Grand Mere alone produces nearly twice as much newspaper as is consumed in the entire Dominion, but this is not the case with the Laurentide Paper Co. at Grand Mere, there are many other extensive Canadian mills which are less dependent upon foreign markets, and since our paper is excluded from the United States by heavy duties, the only markets open to the Canadian paper makers are those of Great Britain, Australia and South Africa. These are, likewise, open to the mills of the United States, which, although finding an enormous and usually sufficient market at home, have occasionally every few years to dump a large surplus into our only available markets.

The United States get pulpwood in Canada as cheaply as we can. Their only disadvantage is in the difference in the freight they have to pay on this pulpwood from Canada to their mills, but they have advantages which more than offset this. They have a large advantage in the cost of coal, in the supply of skilled labor, in a usually adequate home market for their products, in lower ocean rates and lower marine insurance on their exports, and in many other things. They have, moreover, an advantage in the first cost of their machinery, in the cost of repairs and maintenance of machinery, and in the cost of their mill supplies, for nearly all of these things we are obliged to import from the United States and pay a heavy duty on them.

THE BAND'S NEW UNIFORMS

Council Made a Grant Of $200 Additional Saturday Night.

Limited time had our town fathers at the Saturday evening session for profound pondering and lengthy discussion of the question on hand—that of granting the Sylvester Band a supplementary sum of $200 for new uniforms,—making $500 in all this year. Every argument was cut short, and speeches were few and brief. The deputation present to press the Band's claim carried the vote by acclamation, so to speak, and the Council voted the necessary sum within a few minutes' talk.

The cause of the unusual haste is easily explained. The Mayor and several of the aldermen wanted to spend Sunday in quiet at Lindsay's delightful summer resort, Sturgeon Point.

There were present when the Council met at 7.30 Mayor Vrooman, Reeve Beggs, and Aldermen Weiden, Eyres, McLean and W. Jordan; later Ald. Devitt came in. A deputation of citizens, comprising Messrs. Wm. Wm. Flavells, J. Boxall and J. Carey was present to urge the making of the grant. Bandmaster Roenigk was also present.

THE DEPUTATION HEARD.

Mr. W. Flavell was first heard. He presented the proposition endorsed by leading citizens and Mr. Sylvester—that a supplementary grant of $200 be made to the Band for new uniforms.

CANADA'S FISHERIES.

The Hon. Walter Scott, premier of the Province of Saskatchewan, in a speech last month, made some surprising statements regarding the enormous possibilities of Canadian fisheries. He said: "Fisheries experts say 'that the waters of Canada, by proper care, can be made to yield a yearly output in value of 'excess of our total possible agricultural output.' If there really are such wonderful possibilities in our Canadian fisheries which only require 'proper care' in order to make them available, it would seem to be the part of wisdom in Canadians to see that the proper care was given them, for although our fisheries have been developed for centuries, yet the value of their annual output does not now equal that of our cheese factories, which are but the growth of one-quarter of a century. Although nearly four million dollars have, during the past twenty-five years, been paid in the form of bounties to Canadian fishermen doing 'business on the eastern coasts of the Dominion, yet the value of the salt water fish, including oysters and lobsters, caught annually, has shown but a trifling increase during that time, and the fishermen belonging to the province of Quebec have a greatly diminished output to show now compared with what they had twenty-five years ago. Owing to the operations of fish hatcheries, the fresh water fisheries of Ontario have been increasing their annual output considerably of late, yet there seems to be room for a manifold greater increase in that quarter. The older inhabitants can still remember the time when Atlantic salmon were to be found in abundance in the little rivers and streams emptying into Lake Ontario, and there seemed to be no limit to the supplies of whitefish and salmon trout in that lake. What is the condition of things at present? The Atlantic salmon have long since forsaken Ontario waters, and the whitefish and the salmon trout have become few and far between in Lake Ontario. The numerous American and Canadian fish hatcheries situated on the shores of the upper lakes are now sending hundreds of millions of fry yearly into these waters, which has already greatly improved the fishing there, yet so long as the sawdust nuisance is permitted to pollute the streams the products of the Canadian fisheries will continue to be of small account in comparison with Canadian agricultural products. The total value of all the fish caught—not including lobsters and oysters—during the year 1900, in the four provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island, was $11,411,388. The value of the lobsters secured was $3,055,350, and of the oysters the value was $155,6080. The value of the fish caught in the waters of Ontario in the year 1900 was $1,333,294; in Manitoba and the Territories the value of fish caught was $718,159, and in British Columbia the value of the fish and seals caught was $4,878,830. The expenditure by the government in connection with the fisheries during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901, was $401,569, the chief items of expenditure being $158,802 paid in bounties to the fishermen, while the fisheries protection service cost $121,211. The government also levies licenses, license fees, and so forth, derived from the fisheries in the year was $88,145.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is now announced that the Government will not appoint an Inspector of Public School Inspectors.

The returns of the Dufferin election contain a very strong hint to Mr. Foy and his department. Canadians are a justice-loving people.

Dr. Saunders, Director of Experimental Farms, who has just returned from the Northwest, expects that country to yield a three-quarter crop. The greatest danger to be apprehended is that which might be caused by early frost.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER

FORGET ME NOT.

Oh, thou pale, blue wandering flower,
Child of the forest's mighty gloom,
Tell me your name, that I may know Thee,
Breathe of your sweetness, love
Your bloom,
Living alone in hidden splendor,
Kissed by sunlight in your cot,
Whisper your name, oh, dainty blossom—
Hush! For it speaks; "Forget-me-not."

Nothing has changed amid the forest,
Even though the years have come And gone;
Still live alone the pale blue flower,
On flows the streamlet, ever on.
Know ye the name, O ancient wanderer?
Know ye that flower? Hast forgot?
No, for the lofty pines forever Whisper in awe, "Forget-me-not!"
—E. Des Roy Koch.

OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE.

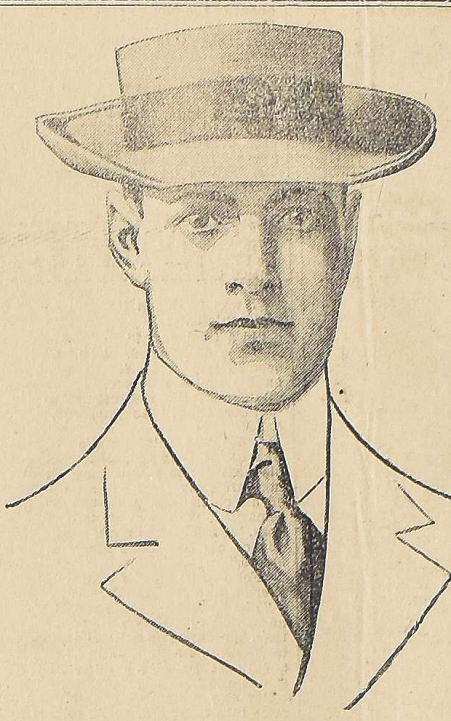

There are no days like the good old days,
The days when we were youthful
When humankind were pure of mind,
And speech and truth were truthful
Before a love of sordid gold Became man's ruling passion.
And before each dame and maid became Slave to the tyrant fashion!

There is no love like the good old love,
Against the world I'd stake 'em!
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em!
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
And plenty all supportin';
They could bake and brew, and had taught school, too
And they made such likely courtin'!

There are no boys like the good old boys,
When we were boys together!
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet (That dimpled the laughing heat-er;
When the power sang to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the billowy clover, Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed its night song over.

There is no love like the good old love—
(The love that mother gave us!)
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For the precious grace—God save us!

So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of heaven away off yonder.

EXPERIENCES OF THE TOGOS.

THE SHADOWS ON BURNT RIVER AND A TRIP TO COBOCONK.

Mosquitoes Circumvented at Last—Arrivals at Moy Villa.

Evening Post of July 25.

More pleasures, more sorrows, for the Togos, but the pleasures were like Bryans' silver bill—16 to 1.

Tuesday morning we took in the Burnt River trip, and they and I were taken by storm, not knowing that such beauty spots were hidden all over this Canada of ours. A den all over this Canada of ours. As they exclaimed, "The Lakes of Killarney ain't in it with this!" The morning was very calm and the reflection unusually fine. Fishing! Nothing doing—we are more of a tourist party just now, as our guests leave for Pittsburg on Friday night, and we wish them to cover as much ground and water as possible. In the afternoon we took the Cobocok route, and it was there we ran into a bunch of wet. It was a beautiful day—everything lovely until we hit Delamora's Island, where a cloud no bigger than your hat appeared in the west and immediately got busy. It poured down upon us until we fled up at Cobocok. When we landed we picked to the Pattie house and hugged the big range in the kitchen and steamed up right away. We dropped in to see Albert Welsh—nothing doing—and had a pool tournament lasting 11 minutes. The sail home was a beauty—so good that we forgot the soak on the trip up. "Pinky," the only fisherman on the job, has just landed four fine bass. We were to have visited Glenora and Kirkfield to-day (Wednesday), but at this writing the weather is not "wild" as last night was the only sleep we have had up to date as the skippers had us beat, but we beat them to a finish last night, and everything is hunky-dorey.

A pair of eggs left under the table was roughly handled by 32 cows anxious to get at the brain, the eggs were packed in, but the Chief reports only 13 eggs short. The boys' appetite and drinkable are fine, and they all say they are having a good time—and they look it. Vincent Hank is having good luck with the rod, and has got the Indian tap on him all right.

Mr. Percy Doughty, of Peterboro, landed here yesterday for a two weeks' stay with his uncle, Mr. Wm. McIntosh of Moy Villa. The Villa is filled to overflowing, Mrs. McIntosh having to refuse requests every day.

Mrs. Ankerwright gave a delightful "hop" and birthday party last night in honor of her boy and girl, whose birthdays come pretty close together.

Mrs. James M. Hamilton and her charming daughter, Vera, of Toronto, are as guests at the delightful cottage, "Hyin-he-he," Mr. Jimmy and Miss Lizzie will arrive August 1st.

SYMPATHY BLOCKS JUSTICE. BUSY AT McCRAE'S FOUNDRY.

Interesting Paper Read Before a Convention of Police Chiefs.

According to the Mail and Empire, the following paper was read at yesterday's session of the Chief Constables' Association, now meeting in Montreal:

Inspector Stark, of Toronto, read an interesting paper on "Trial by the People," in which he enumerated the difficulties which undue interference by the public causes the police authorities in their efforts to suppress crime.

"Moral suasion and punishment," said he, "are the two methods of dealing with criminals. Educationists and philanthropists must deal with the first method, while the police authorities have to use the second. The difficulties thrown in the way of punishing criminals by means of public sentiment, aroused by capable criminal lawyers, have always proved a serious stumbling block to the efforts of the police. A criminal is arrested and a criminal lawyer is secured to defend him. If the criminal has a friend at all, that friend seeks the influence of political people, whether municipal, provincial or federal. An effort is made to obtain bail privately. If the judge and clerk of the Court see what is known as a "dead case" a cash bail is put up out of the fruits of the crime, and the criminal disappears, never to be seen again in that neighborhood.

CRIMINAL GETS OFF.

If, however, the magistrate is experienced, the application for bail is renewed in open court, with the usual grand stand play, denunciation of police methods, and an appeal to the public uttered all the time with a judicious eye on the press stand. Then the public gets in, the criminal at last believes himself to be a victim, a martyr, railroaded to conviction by perjured police officers, aided by a prejudiced judge and jury. Even if a conviction is secured a petition is circulated. Politicians of a high and low degree, ministers of religion and other reputable citizens injudiciously sign these petitions, and a terrible pressure, supported often by sensational papers, is brought to bear on the Ministers of the Crown and frequently a criminal is let loose.

The trouble with these petitions is that, being prepared in private, they set up facts that are altogether incorrect, and suppress others that are most pertinent. Political pressure is brought to bear from all sides, and it is a strong man indeed who can resist the combination."

They Couldn't Understand.

Camington Glenner, Lindsay has always been a money making town. We never had any idea how it was done until the detectives commenced operations.

Entertained the Nurses.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. W. Scott, Sussex-st., south last week, when the nurses of the Ross Hospital were entertained. The time passed delightfully with music and cards. Later refreshments were partaken of and a social time enjoyed.

Many Pilgrims at St. Anne's.

Many citizens from Lindsay and vicinity are at present at the shrine of St. Anne de Beupre. In view of this the following figures as to the number who have gone on pilgrimages, so far this year will be of interest. The visitors have been greater than ever before recorded, and the shrine grows in popularity every year.

The Grand Trunk claims as increase of thirty per cent. in the number carried. Last year the number of pilgrims to the village shrine on the banks of the St. Lawrence numbered nearly 200,000. It is believed that the total this year will approach a quarter of a million.

The Canadian Pacific gives as the full number carried over their system to the shrine, 14,000. Between 5,000 and 6,000 were from the City of Montreal. It is expected that before the close of the season that total will aggregate 22,000.

ON THE HIDDEN TRAIL

It is night upon the mountain, and my camp fire slowly dying,
Sets a host of phantom shadows dancing eerily round;
Far upon the distant crag a Spanish whip-poor-will is crying,
And the sleepy camp dog grumbles at the melancholy sound.

From the dark and silent mesa, like a soul in agony waiting,
Comes the broken cackling of the lone coyote's howl;
High upon your broken cedar, where the moonlight fast is falling,
Hoots his sullen dark philosophy, the solitary owl.

This is as Jehovah made it. Breathes the forest full of sweetness, Breath of balsam and of cedar and the burden of the night;
This is the wondrous nature, in its glorious completeness—
For the killer's fire and steel not yet have found the hidden way.

Sings the mountain brook below me, through the brake and alder stealing,
Fed by living springs of water from the fastness on high;
Singing as Jehovah taught it, of the open and the hidden things,
But the killer soon may come and wither all the fountains dry.

Hoots the owl upon the cedar, "Soon will come the killer wending through the hidden treasure-chamber, marching pitiless and dread,
Leaving blackened desolation and the smoke of death ascending;
O'er the ashes of the mighty and the corpses of the dead!"

"Soon will come the fiery boson sweeping all the smiling mountain, Leaving charred black arms up-lifted to the smoke-cashroaded sky;
Gone the mountain brooks of water and the ever-springing fountains,
For whither the killer passes every living thing must die!"

It is night upon the mountain. Soft the gentle moonlight falling across the canyon back;
Low around me myriad voices, forest voices ever calling,
"Keep our beauty from the killer—Mother Nature, turn him back!"

"Turn him back, O Mother Nature! Lift your walls of rock before him;
Let him droop your plant branches o'er the glade, oh, giant pine! Let the angry wild bee threaten and the thorn bush hold and scold him.
And across the trail forever mat the clinging forest vine!"
—Lowell Otus Raes, in Lindsay Weekly.

WHEN DAD KEEPS HOUSE.

(By F. T. B.)

When Mamma has to go away,
And Dad keeps house,
The little children romp all day,
No lessons interfere with play,
And things begin to come their way.
When Dad keeps house.

We have the nicest things to eat,
When Dad keeps house;
He buys us cakes and cookies sweet,
And every day a special treat;
And doesn't try to keep us neat
When he keeps house.

We needn't stop to put things right,
When Dad keeps house,
The nursery is a perfect sight,
Our Daddy doesn't care a mite—
But oh! how lovely 'tis at night,
When Dad keeps house!

A lame horse is a dead loss.

It costs as much to keep a lame horse, as it does a horse in harness—and the cripple brings nothing in. You can't afford to support idle stock. That's why you can't afford to be without.

MONARCH OF ALL HE SURVEYS.

Now let us gaze with fascinated joy
Upon that graceful bird, the Office Boy.

Oh the Office Boy is a perfect plam.
His nerve is quite sublime.
He chews incessantly pepsin gum
And simply dotes on crime.
He reads the tale of the Pirate bold
Till his eyes bung out and his back gets cold.
And he dreams all day of hidden gold
And a cask of Jamaica rum.

He goes on a message just half a mile.
No bicycle he rides.
You want him back in a little while.
Your wishes he derides.
He starts out merrily all alive,
But wanders off for a swim and dive,
And doesn't get back until half-past five.
And laughs to split his sides.

'Cause an office boy is so hard to find.
To these failings you submit.
He knows the scarcity. He's not blind.
Not the slightest bit.
So he causes at once to dust your room.
Forgets the use of the office broom,
And you wish he was laid in the silent tomb.
Or deep in a gravel pit.

He simply dotes on a cigarette,
And smokes the living day.
He buys the cheapest ones he can get,
And drives your friends away.
And if you kick, he says: "Ah go on."
And whistles aloud the song, "Poor John."
And smokes in your office when you are gone
In a most offensive way.

JAMES LOW, NEWTON SMALE, Manager, Assistant.Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

Those of us who travel to and fro, either on boat or train, cannot but have come across what might be termed the "travelling hog"—if we are not one of them ourselves—the genus is never very far away. On a boat, he or she, (for, sad to relate, they are not confined to one sex), pick out the best chair and the best position, and not content with that, they want a chair for their feet, no matter how man are standing. On the train they want two full seats, and without the slightest regard fill up one with their trunk, and sprawl all over the other. These seem to be very little, if any, of the milk of human kindness in them, for they will sit there with an unconcerned look on them as if there were stacks of room and see people pass them, looking longingly at the vacant seats and never stir a move to let them have one, until some one with more nerve than the rest, takes it almost by force. The look they get, however, is sometimes intended to squelch them, but it does not faze on those people who know enough to get their own. It does not seem to us to be right that any one should have to ask if he or she can have this or that seat. It would be time enough to take a full seat if they are vacant when the train moves out, and not when the people are crowding in at a large station. We have always thought it a bright and shining example of the way some parts of the earth have been exploited by those who came first. It would almost look, at times, as if these first comers would keep all four seats if they could, but they can't.

The first comers to a coal mine, or a farm lot, or a natural monopoly, hang on like grim death, and with all have the law on their side, although all that makes their concessions have any value, is the people who come after. If they never come, it is no use. We would soon give up and move on themselves, but if the people come and stay, they immediately give the concessions value, and the more that come and stay, the greater the value given them, and it is thus that we have those who neither let nor sell, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not a patch to some of them, either in the height of their splendor or the depth of their folly. This hoggeness displayed in travelling is just an evidence of bad breeding and shows a lack of the grace of usefulness, which is a trait that requires very careful nurturing in most of us. It is akin to the atrocious brutality we display in a crowd trying to get on a crowded excursion train or boat if we fear we will be left, when we trample and shove aside in defenceless women and children in order to get a good place for ourselves. One who can act the gentleman, under such circumstances, is pretty well trained, and it is the desideratum we all should aim at and train our children accordingly.

It is refreshing to run across people, occasionally, who are really unselfish, although one wonders how it works out to their benefit. We remember being on a crowded transcontinental train some years ago when the medical fraternity were taking a trip to the Coast. One very eminent doctor of Toronto was being pined and commended, and having a sort of medical aid about him, because the forward has opportunities of getting his meals on the dining car in order that the ladies might have a chance. We heard the other doctors saying it was a shame, but we do not recollect to have heard any say they were going to give up their place to him at the next meal. We only travelled with them a day, and did not see what happened next day, but this we know, that his unselfishness did not do him any harm. That was twenty years ago, and to-day he easily tops us as a professional in Toronto and is by no means an old man yet—just an instance of good home training, natural gentleness, and a thorough control of his own inner man.

Not long ago we had the pleasure of reading the life of Booker Washington. If there are any of our readers who have not read this biography, we can assure them there is a great treat in store for them. It is a book that is really a great treat. It is a book that would seriously advise anyone who reads it to read it. Those of our readers who have read the book will remember the lessons in "thoroughness" he got from the Yankee "marina" he was fortunate enough to have over him when a boy, so that when he went to apply for entrance to a school for "niggers" it stood him in good stead. This was a very good thing that when he arrived at the school it was full, and he offered to do any kind of work, only that they would give him an education. The principal told him to go and dust a certain room, which he immediately proceeded to do. He went into every corner and crevice, and the mistress was so long cleaning back that she had gone over the work three times when she did arrive. She rubbed her hand over the ledges, and her trained eye showed her that she had no ordinary boy to deal with. As we all know, Booker Washington is one of the foremost citizens of the U. S. to-day, and although many would like to consign him to history, or some other place where they do not want to see him, he is a person gratified with Roosevelt, Carnegie, Rockefeller and other representative Americans. At Tuskegee he has schools and colleges, technical and otherwise, by the dozen, where he is turning out an educated negro that is no disgrace to the country in which he has to live.

We would like to see some of the methods in "thoroughness" that made Booker Washington what he is, adopted by both our parents and teachers right in this town of Lindsay. We don't know which is more to blame in the matter, presumably the parents, out whichever it is, our children are growing up with habits of carelessness about them that will be hard to shake off when they want to do so. It has been our lot to have two boys a year for the past two years, start in as boys and pass on up. We do not think we are exaggerating when we state that only one out of the lot swept a floor up such as we would call clean and continued to do so without constant pressure. We have seen a third year Collegiate boy sweep, and it looked as if, instead of trying to gather the dirt, he was trying to lose it on its way to the door. It would have made Booker's Yankee "marina" weep to see it after he was done. Of course all these boys that have gone through our hands may have taken their cue from those teachers who sometimes let on to all such work around a factory, as so much wasted time—a very unnecessary like way to look at it.

It has always appeared to us that a man's office, or warehouse, or factory, ought to be as cleanly kept as his house. His office, especially, ought to be as comfortable and bright and cozy a room as his home. How many offices in this town approach that ideal? Probably Mr. John Carow is the only one, and it is warped, having a doorway. Why should a man who has to spend two-thirds of his waking moments there, be contented with cobwebs and dirt overhead and around, and all kinds of "underfoot"? Is it possible to make one's underlying "thoroughness" in anything, when they have their master's idea always in their mind? Like master, like man, and when the man becomes master, either in workshop or home, he is apt to lack "thoroughness."

The experimental grounds at Acton Grange, near Warrington, cover 450 acres. Outside the Washington Bureau of plant industry they are the largest in the world. Botanists from all parts of the globe agree that Acton Grange represents the model of scientific methods.

The government of the United States holds the assistance of the farmer to be one of its first functions. The British agricultural department has not got to that level yet. It has refused an offer to transfer Acton Grange experiments to government, because the offer was without a precedent! How could it have a precedent?

MADE AUTHORITIES.

To begin with Mr. Garton exploded the notion, which all the writers on botany had accepted as gospel, that cereals, grasses, clovers, etc., are naturally cross-fertilized by the pollen of one plant being blown on the ripened ovules of another. He wanted to improve the wheat crops of England, which suffered from rust and were weak in the straw. He relied upon natural cross-fertilization to get new combinations. Nothing happened. Setting about to bottom the causes of failure, his microscope showed him that the reproductive organs of every plant are enclosed together in a sealed cell. By following the authorities he had been operating on plants already fertilized.

So he threw authorities to the winds, and became an authority for himself. In fact from his first discovery it was easy to conclude that if natural cross-fertilization existed there would be a seed and a production of "sports" and hybrids that agriculture would be impossible. Self-fertilization is nature's way of preserving established types.

But self-fertilization means inbreeding and therefore degeneracy, and though selection and treatment in ordinary agriculture to some extent checks the process, the tendency is still there. In plant life as in animal life variety, within its limits, is vigor.

Mr. Garton therefore tried artificial cross-fertilization. The work called for delicacy and dexterity. It was to be done by growing plants with the help of the microscope. A few minutes was the longest interval during which at the original juncture the ripened pollen from one plant could be transferred to the ripened ovules of another, and many careful observations of the process of growth taken with the microscope were necessary before the investigation could get even this far.

The results, however, were astonishing. From the cross-fertilized seeds Mr. Garton raised crops of wheat which gave yields up to 50 per cent. and were much higher and stronger than the parent plants. On the other hand no two seeds thus dealt with produced plants quite alike. Nature was making her own experiments. Taking three of the finest plants out of every hundred raised from the seed of the new hybrids in the second season, Mr. Garton again crossed them artificially. In this way he made his discovery of the power to blend selected qualities. He also found that in proportion to the tendency to "sport" exhausted itself the new type became fixed.

IMPROVEMENT OF SEEDS.

From wheat he went on to experimenting and observing for twenty-seven years. The results are just as great. The number of seasons needed to ensure fifty varies with different plants. Having assured himself of that point, the discoverer began to distribute his new breeds among farmers.

Then from all parts of the world he imported, regardless of cost, over 500 wild and cultivated varieties of food plants and crossed them with the kindred types grown in Great Britain. The experiments ran into thousands. It was then found that should a new breed fail in the first year, ordinary cultivation owing to inbreeding, it can be stimulated and kept up to the first standard by fresh recrossings. Abundance therefore is no longer a matter of chance and locality. This ranks among the world's greatest discoveries.

Take some of the outstanding achievements. The British and other European breeds of wheat hold the grain tightly in the chaff the farmer, where the area to be harvested is large, suffers a serious loss of his best grain by "shedding". On the other hand, spelt wheat, native to southern China, holds the grain so tenaciously that it cannot be threshed out. By crossing a blend of the best European types with the spelt grain Garton produced a variety which will stand for weeks after it is ripe without shedding a grain, though it can be easily threshed out by an ordinary threshing machine.

Again, by crossing the delicate British cultivated oat with the native wild oat, which will stand any amount of cold, Mr. Garton produced a type which not only yields an additional 20 bushels to the acre, but will defy nearly the worst season. Within a few years after he had placed his new "Abundance" oat on the market two-thirds of the British oat crop was being raised from this breed.

Native to China is a miniature oat grass which has the peculiarity of bearing a huskless seed. This Mr. Garton imported, crossing it with the native regenerated oat and fixed a variety in which the seed is readily separable from the chaff by the process of threshing. In preparing this new oat for the table it did not need to be cooked in the case of ordinary varieties partially to cook it on the skin in order to remove the objectionable hairy husk. To say nothing of its expense, the kiln treatment seriously reduces the food value of the grain. The new oat, too, retains the flavor of its Chinese parent in beating from 15 to 19 seeds on each spikelet instead of the usual three or four.

A later crossing, however, of this fine type with a beardless barley, native to Nepal, India, has given a beardless six-row type, looser in the ear than the common varieties, quality absolutely uniform. Being harder than the ordinary variety it can be sown earlier.

Dealing with clover Mr. Garton found another important discovery—a plant originally perennial becomes under cultivation a seed-bearing, but that in proportion as it develops, the seed-bearing habit it tends to become annual. This is the explanation of "clover sickness". A perennial has to maintain life under conditions in which no seed could germinate. Relieved from this adversity under cultivation, the plant while changing from root production loses the thick, bushy growth of its wild state. But its growers will appreciate the value of a cross, which, giving a plant as large and succulent as the old cultivated stock in as bushy as the parent wild stock. The new plant, besides, remains strictly perennial. Not only does it yield a heavy crop at midsummer, but it provides in the fall a second growth which affords abundant succenance for live stock. At Acton Grange the growth is as vigorous in the sixth season after sowing as it was in the first.

COMMUNICATIONS

PUNISHMENT SHOULD FOLLOW.

(To the Editor of The Post.)
Dear Sir,—If you will permit me to take up a small bit of space in your paper, I would like to enter a protest against such scenes as took place in this fair village on Saturday evening, the 20th inst. Two "immigrant" women who live with their husbands at a nearby place, came to the village in the afternoon, each with a small child, and accompanied by the husband of one of the women. During the afternoon and evening the people loitered around one of the so-called hotels of the place and were sold liquor until they became so intoxicated that the women were unable to take care of their babies and finally neglected them entirely and entered into a regular drunken fight, using language unfit for decent people to listen to, and tearing each other's clothes almost off their backs.

Now, I understood there is a law to prevent hotelmen selling liquor to people who are already drunk. If this is so, it is time something was done here to have this law enforced. So far as I am able to learn, it is the custom here to fine the man who gets drunk, and let the hotelkeeper do as he pleases, but when a hotelman becomes so regardless of social decency as to dish out his accursed stuff to women—especially to women and children in their care—until they are unable to stand up, it is surely time for the respectable citizens of the place to take a hand and see what can be done to stop it. Some people may say that the women did not have to buy the liquor, which is quite true, but in my opinion people who are addicted to such a habit are to be pitied, and are deserving of sympathy rather than censure. The hotelkeeper, however, who is in the business for the dollars he makes out of it, can surely be made to keep a decent house and adhere to the law, if the law is as I have been informed—Yours, etc., A CITIZEN.

THE DOMINION WHEEL CO.

New Industry to Be Operated in Lindsay by a Local Concern.
Evening Post of July 26

A Post reporter called at the premises of the Dominion Wheel Co. last evening, now undergoing formation, whose factory will be located in the shops formerly occupied by the Hamilton Carriage Works. The place is undergoing extensive repairs. Three large kilns have been built and three carload of felloes and two spindles ordered. A meeting of the board of the company will be held today or to-morrow. The capital is $40,000, and many of our leading citizens are interested.

Hot Weather Wisdom.

If people are not careful there is always danger of sunstroke or heat prostration in oppressively hot and humid weather. If given a chance, the healthy body regulates its own heat. The principal means to such an end is skin evaporation. It we perspire freely we take the first step. To keep the skin clear, clean, transparent and alertly responsive to changes is of prime importance. Light outer garments, cool bathing, fanning breezes, shady streets, cold, bland drinks and light foods all help to maintain the equilibrium between the inside and outside body. These seem simple enough on general principles, but how few think of applying them properly, remarks the N. Y. Herald. The thoughtless one will let his internal furnace with the same fuel he uses in the coldest weather and open his flaps the wider, that it may burn the more fiercely. What he should do is to directly hinder. With overloaded stomach, necessary embarrassed digestion, weakened heart, brain overstimulated with alcohol and with the general debility that follows in the train, he is in the worst possible condition to resist high temperature in any way. When men and women learn to take pains to assist the body in accommodating itself to extreme heat there will be fewer sufferers from its effects.

The Wild Call.

Most of our song birds have three notes, expressive of love, alarm and fellowship. The latter call seems to keep them in touch with one another. I might perhaps add to this list the scream of distress which most birds utter when caught by a cat or a hawk—the voice of uncontrolled terror and pain which is nearly the same in all species—dissonant and piercing. The other notes and calls are characteristic, but this last is the simple scream of common terrified nature—Country life.

Friendly relations between Japan and the United States are emphasized.

The Rev. Dr. Ritchett, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Australia, addressing the conference in London recently, said the adherent of every religion has something distinctive in its appearance, adding:

"If I dropped from a balloon into a gathering of Baptists I could tell their sect by the way their hair is cut. If I fell into an Anglican synod I could tell by their collars. If I dropped into an assemblage of Methodists from any sky I would not regard either their hair or collars, but would know their religion by their faces, which have a type displaying intelligence and kindness."

The present Archbishop of York, England, is 81 years old, has been a bishop 30 years, and with one exception—the archbishop of Armagh—is the senior of all the diocesan leaders in the United Kingdom.

The Pilgrim Congregational Church near London, founded in 1616, is the oldest of the denomination in the Empire, and it was from it that the London contingent of the men of the Mayflower were recruited.

A CRY IN THE MARKET PLACE. I cry, O God, for refuge and for rest I cannot pray; there is no time to kneel.

Can the spoke stop the whizzing of the wheel? Can the east cool in the red fange of the sun?

I cry, by my dead fathers of the West, Who, in their dire travail, yet could feel

The wild, clean pulse of Nature to the peal Of storm upon the lordly mountain-

I cry, by night of my ungetten song, For respite, for some slaking of the pace,

Some quiet in this rage of life that stuns The soul for slaughter in the Market Place.

I cry, in pity for the little ones, Whose shriveled shoulders must bear on the Race.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST.

Sermons Delivered From the Different Pulpits Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Younger, of Reabore, filled the Baptist church pulpit last evening, and delivered a striking sermon on the text, "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and be always ready to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear." The word "Hope," contained in the text, was the subject of his remarks. This word is one of the most precious in the English language. It is a balm for many a wound, and a solace for grief. An incident in the career of King Bruce of Scotland furnishes a striking example for the inspiration of hope. A hopeful soul is a brave soul, even in discouragement. If our hopes are anchored in God, we will be enabled to endure the storms. There should, however, be a reason for such a hope. King Bruce relied in the bravery and loyalty of his subjects, and he was not disappointed. Jesus Christ will give us power to overcome all trials if we place our trust in him.

Peter expected that these men should have the question contained in the text put to them. How were they to answer it? "The man who sold me my horse in Haliburton," said the minister, "told me just what kind of a deal it was, and he was not a professing Christian. Many who profess Christianity would secretly be as honest."

The Christian laboring man who works well when he is not watched answers this question. The Christian merchant, who deals out 16 ounces to the pound, is answering the question. Christians who are inconsistent bring only ridicule upon themselves. "If I were a merchant, and could not be honest, I would get out of the business. Those who are unconverted do not base their trust in God will be undermined by the storm of God's wrath; those who trust in him will forever endure."

STURGEON POINT JOINTINGS. Happenings of Note at Lindsay's Popular Summer Resort.

Evening Post of July 27

Very few lunge have been caught during the past week owing to the boisterous and unsettled weather.

The Rev. C. H. Marsh will conduct divine service in the Union church, Sturgeon Point, to-morrow, (Sunday) at 3.15 p.m.

Dr. Ryerson has recently purchased a McDowell cottage adjoining his own, and facing the upper wharf. It has just been painted inside and out, and presents a fine appearance. It will be occupied in the near future by a Toronto family.

The worshippers at the Union church have cause to feel grateful to Mr. James Hamilton, who recently settled the seating problem for some time to come, by presenting a half-dozen fine benches, with comfortable backs, for the use of the congregation.

Everybody is talking about the coming regatta and the likely winners of the various races and contests. There will be lots of competitors, as a large attendance from all Kawartha Lakes' points is assured, and in addition the busy secretary, Mr. F. Holmes Hopkins, has letters from Glawa, Kingston, Toronto, Peterboro, Oshawa and Barrie, sports, in which they promise to send strong delegations to Sturgeon Point on Aug. 8th.

Stop it, then. And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease, and your doctor will tell you the remedy. He knows that Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, quickly stops falling hair, cures dandruff, and makes the hair grow. Just ask him. We publish the formula of all our preparations.

The Melbourne-st. extension is to cost more than was anticipated owing to high wages, bad weather, and the fact that the extension would be longer than expected. The Wellington-st. extension was left at the secretary's discretion.

Wooden pipe, the Commissioners decided would be impracticable for Lindsay owing to the fact that to prevent rotting the pipe has to be completely immersed in water. The meeting then adjourned.

TROUBLE AT THE LOCKS

Supt. McClelland, of the Trent Canal, in the Thick of It.

Evening Post of July 25.

The sad inadequacy of Lindsay lock basin to accommodate the traffic centering here was no doubt made fully apparent to Mr. J. C. McClelland, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, between 8 and 8.30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. McClelland soon after 8 boarded the government steamer Sovereign to go up to Penelon way, just as the tugboat blockades of navigation occurred. The Str. Beaver had passed through the lock, leaving four or five deeply laden cribs in the basin. Then the hoarse whistle of the Esturgeon, which leaves Sturgeon Point at 10.30 a.m., was swung.

The big steamer got half-way through before the tail end of the last crib blocked her progress. Passengers for the C. P. R. train scrambled off and clambered the bridge railing with the skill of circus acrobats, all the while muttering things under their breath. Then the Str. Kathleen, also from Sturgeon Point, pulled up below the bridge with a large party of cottagers on board, and they were forced to flounder over a rough bit of ground and carry bundles and parcels a quarter of a mile farther than usual.

Then Supt. McClelland got busy. Hitching the Sovereign to the heavy cribs, he managed to make room, in the course of half an hour, for the Esturgeon and Manitoba to approach the lock. "That's not going to do me any good," remarked Capt. Fee, "how in thunder am I going to turn 100 feet of boat in 30 feet of space?" The problem was left unanswered as the Manitoba was then about due. The Sovereign shipped away due and for the north, leaving the tugboat untangled.

We are informed that there is no truth in the report that the Sovereign is to be stationed here to help keep the river clean. Sam McGill will have to do it with his little pike pole.

Collapse of Brilliant Musician.

Evening Post of July 25.

Miss Iva Horton, M. L. A., only daughter of Rev. G. Horton, Napance, is quite low. She has not been in very good health for a time, but in June she attended the Jubilee exercises at Albert College, Belleville, from which institution she graduated before she went to attend the Toronto Conservatory of Music with first class honors, and won the Governor-General's medal, awarded for general proficiency, first class honors, highest standing in the Province. Upon her return home, after attending the exercises mentioned, she suddenly collapsed. Several doctors held a consultation, and they secured the opinion of a specialist. Her brothers, Messrs. Mailland and Floyd Horton, Toronto, came home, and her other brother, Mr. B. B. Horton, who went East not long ago, after Medical College closed, to spend the summer at the Coast, is also expected in a couple of days. We hope for her recovery, and that it may be soon.

On Monday, July 22nd, at the parsonage, Charlotte Rebecca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon, of Kilmount, and William Edward Armsden, were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Marsh, pastor of St. Paul's church.

The wedding was a quiet one. Mr. Chas. Collett was the best man, and Miss Ruby McMahon, of Ewan, attended the bride.

After the ceremony the young couple left for the home of the bride's parents. From thence they will take a trip over the Kawartha lakes.

Mr. Armsden is well known in town, being employed in Mr. Chas. Reeves' billiard parlor. The many friends of the young couple proffer their congratulations.

Brown—Watson.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place Wednesday, July 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Watson, Glenelg-st., Lindsay, when their youngest daughter, Miss Pearl, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Arthur Brown. Rev. J. W. Wallace performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives. The floral decorations were carnations and Marguerites. The ceremony was performed under a bell of the latter. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father and was exquisitely gowned in white Persian lawn and garlanded white bride's roses.

After the wedding breakfast the young couple left on the evening train amid a shower of rice and confetti for Toronto and other western points.

The going away gown was of leather silk and wool taffeta accented with pleated skirt, Juniper waist over white embroidered blouse, shoes, gloves and hat en suite.

On their return they will reside in Lindsay, and will be at home to their friends at 15 Glenelg-st. after September 15th.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

After punishing ex-Mayor Schmitz for having accepted bribes from restaurant keepers, San Francisco is restrained to be told that his successor, Dr. Baxton, the temporary mayor, is also a self-confessed boodler, having accepted $5,000 from a telephone company to vote against the granting of a franchise to a rival concern. When will honesty prevail?

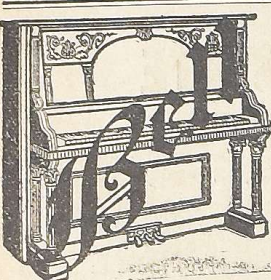

The Empress of Germany, who is noted for her pluck on horseback, apparently is not so courageous while in an automobile. She intended to visit Koenigsberg Saturday, in her touring car, and when within her three miles of her destination, loud thumping and repeated explosions in the motor led her to believe that her life was in danger. Assurances by her chauffeur that there was no danger, and that danger was not to be feared, no other vehicle being available, the Empress proceeded in a waggon to the railway station near by.

FLIES AS DISEASE BEARERS.

The Common House Variety Are a Menace to Health.

The United States Department of Agriculture has started a crusade against the common house fly and its carrying on extensive experiments as to the best way of banishing it from the abodes of man. The fly has been found to be not only a nuisance, but a menace to man's health. Its hairy body carries both disease and death. Many epidemics which sweep over communities in the hot season have been traced to the fly. Having its origin in filth, it brings with it the bacteria which breed in filth. And as it moves about, now crawling over refuse, now over the food on the table, dying from the lips of the sick to the lips of the healthy, it is said to be more dangerous to modern society than were the wild beasts to primitive man.

The high mortality among children in the congested districts of a city, where families are always closely crowded together, where refuse accumulates fast, where food is often kept in living rooms, is due to a large degree, so scientists now say, to the fly. Infant diseases chiefly prevail in the hot season, when the flies abound. Dr. J. T. C. Nash, in the Journal of the Royal Sanitary Institute, giving his experience as an English health officer, says that the fly is responsible for the death of many children because of polluting the milk which they drink.

"It is a matter that has been entirely overlooked," said Dr. C. O. Probst, recently, "but we now know that the common house fly is an agent of importance in carrying the germs of typhoid fever. It was formerly believed that the germs were only carried in water, milk or other liquid food. Flies both breed and feed in places where the germs are to be found, and then, flying into our houses, no doubt often carry the germs and deposit them on our food."

Hope for Him, Too.

He—"Are you a vegetarian?"
She—"Oh, no! I love good beef."
He—"Ah! I wish I were beef."
She—"Well, I like real also."

LIVELY DOINGS LAST NIGHT

Englishman and His Spouse engaged in quarrel Assisted by Dogs.

Evening Post of July 30

Nearing the hour of midnight last night Kent-st. citizens were aroused by a hubbub on the corner of Kent and William-sts. The barking of dogs, a man's curses and a woman's screams, aroused considerable excitement. Passers hurried to the spot, where an Englishman and his wife, residents of the south ward, were engaged in a tussle. The husband was ill-treating the woman, who till lately had been engaged in a local hotel, but is now out of work. The man is said to be an idle fellow. Material assistance was given to the woman, and the man treated to a shaking. The big yellow mongrel which frequents the police court, and is a pet of the constables, then mixed up with another dog, and the excitement was increased. A man who tried to part the beasts was bitten. When the row had subsided it was found that the man and woman were heading down William-st. Night Constable Short followed them for a short distance, but they walked along peacefully. It is said the woman is half-starved and constantly ill-treated.

COLD NEAR KINMOUNT

Discovery Made on The Farm of a Settler 14 Miles from Village

The Post had the pleasure of a call the other day from a distinguished Zulu mining expert—Mr. D. W. Cetywayo, son of ex-King Cetywayo, who was deposed after putting up a stiff fight against the British troops. The son has been in Canada several years, part of which was spent in the Cobalt district, and seems to have acquired a lot of information about good use in our own north country. About two weeks ago he made a discovery of gold on the farm of Mr. A. J. Ford, a farmer living between White and Devil's lakes, about 14 miles from the village of Kinmount. The mine is assayed $35 to the ton. Mr. Cetywayo is in the employ of the Cobalt Mining Development Company.

HAD THEIR BASKETS STOLEN.

Excursionists to Peterboro Bore of Their "Crab."

Peterboro Review: The visitors at Jackson's Park Friday from Lindsay had a rather unpleasant experience. Several baskets containing provisions were put in an apparently safe place until required, but no one was left in charge. When Rev. C. H. Marsh, rector of St. Paul's church and several of his parishioners, young and old, went to get their "crab" it was discovered that it had mysteriously disappeared. Several had boys are alleged to have stolen it, and scattered the plates over a portion of the park. The visitors would have to have gone hungry had not some Peterboro ladies, who were having a picnic there, come to the relief of the famished excursionists, and generously handed over their supplies—an act of kindness, which was greatly appreciated by the visiting Lindsays.

MAY LICENSE GUIDES.

Movement on Foot to Prevent Slaughter of Fish.

The Fenelon Falls Star says: A movement is on foot to license guides to the Kawartha lakes district. It is claimed that at the present time parties of Americans come to this district, and with the assistance of guides make some very large catches of fish, which is contrary to the game laws. These fish are then shipped out in boxes and it makes it very difficult for the overseers to catch the guilty parties. The inspector intends to recommend that the guides keep the fishermen within the limit, and any who permits a larger catch than the law allows, will lose his license. The effect of this should be very beneficial, and will protect the fish from the American slaughterers.

Mr. Fred Waller, late manager of the Sylvester Manufacturing Co., who is leaving shortly for the east, was made the happy recipient of a beautiful gold watch on the part of the employees of the firm during one of the last days of his administration.

The presentation was accompanied by the following address:

Dear Mr. Waller,—We, your employees and associates in the service of the company, while regretting your departure, welcome it as an opportunity of expressing our affection to you and appreciation of the many evidences of kindness which we have experienced at your hands during the time in which we have been in your employ and believe that while we may be separated for a time the same kindly interest will continue.

We feel that the good-will and unanimity that have existed have been due to the interest you have manifested in our personal welfare.

As a token of our esteem we beg you will accept this watch, and as you consult it from time to time trust you will be reminded of the many friends you have in the Northwest branch, who wish you all the good things that life can bring. CAMP TOGO, BALSAM LAKE.

Members Are Having the Time of Their Lives—Yachting Trips.

Evening Post of July 30

Everything is fine and dandy with the Togos on Balsam Lake.

We miss two of our most valued members in Mr. Ike Mills and his son Elwen, who left us on Friday for their home in Pittsburg. They enjoyed the trip immensely, and wonder greatly why so few visit Rosedale and its pretty surroundings.

No trouble to catch fish—Carr-Bert has only to call for a fish dealer and Pinky and his apt his faithful few soon have the required quantity.

Friday and Saturday were very rough days on both Cameron and Balsam Lakes, and very few small boats were seen.

Togo had to go to Fenelon Saturday p.m. to meet Mr. Seldon Meahan and Frank Lee, who came down on the 8 p.m. train and Perry made the trip from Rosedale back to the dock in 40 minutes, which is nearly a record, but it was rolling a "wee bit" you may be sure.

Charlie Bunney makes his regular trips to Cobocok, and we appreciate them very much. Cobocok is not too bad a place to put in a quiet hour to break up the monotony.

Judge Lee (Frank) and Mr. "Huge" Meahan visited our camp over Sunday. Seldon enjoys the fresh, keen air, but prefers the south shore for reasons better known to himself. Ask him.

M. Lee assumed the responsibility of acting as monologue artist, and his services were much appreciated. Come again, Judge, we miss you.

Great excitement was caused by the lowering of the lake. It was due to Frank drinking from a rubber tube on the yacht Togo, while out for a pleasant jaunt.

We expect to make the trip to Kirkfield and through to Beaverton on Wednesday, July 31st.

ROSEDALE NOTES.

Miss Hamilton, daughter of Mr. James Hamilton, joined her mother and daughter Saturday evening, and will be here till Sept 1st. She is just as bright and winsome as ever, and will help keep things moving around pretty Rosedale.

A number will go to Beaverton on Wednesday with the Oddfellows' excursion from Fenelon Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. J. G. Wallace at their pretty cottage just below the bridge.

While driving down Kent-st. Tuesday morning the hind wheel fell off a buggy in which Ald McLean was seated, and the Alderman narrowly escaped serious injury. His spirited horse became frightened and began kicking, injuring the vehicle to some extent.

A Sure, Quick Disposal.

Be wise. Be quick. Be early. We're just on the verge of Store-Remodeling and we can't keep stock in the store while the work of tearing down and pulling up goes on.

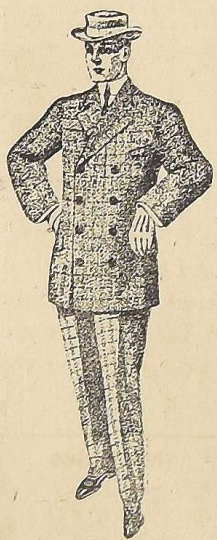

The last days of the Big Sale has sharpened the price cutting. We have no time for "whys" and "wherefores," or for price lists or particulars. Thousands of dollars worth still awaits quick buyers and everything must go, certain. Come in and look through, no matter if you don't buy. Read the skeleton prices in the windows and the abbreviated price tickets all over the store. Lots of things selling at less than the maker's cost. During a brief ocean voyage near the coast of Newfoundland, one of the passengers was so seriously disturbed that he was sure his death was approaching. He was so misanthropic in his firm assurance on the subject that another passenger said to him, half-facetiously:

"Well, have you any wishes relative to him, half-facetiously?"

The sufferer regarded him long and faintly, "I don't believe," he said, faintly, "that there's going to be any remains."

A YOUNG SUPERINTENDENT.

Sixteen Year Old Boy in Charge of Light and Power Plant.

James Davidson, a boy sixteen years of age, son of Mr. John Davidson, of Smith's Falls, is the superintendent of the Millbrook electric lighting plant. The plant has recently been purchased by the father, who is general manager of the Smith's Falls Electric Power Co. In connection with the deal he secured an exclusive franchise from the town for the lighting of the streets at $700 a year, and exemption from taxes. Through probably the youngest superintendent in Canada, the boy is not inexperienced.

The Optimist.

Let beauty be a blazing sun
And truth a candle flame.
My soul shall worship them as one,
And know their light the same.

Let hope be mocking rainbow high,
Or will-o'-wisp less bright.
My soul shall follow with rapt eye
The vision of delight.

Let love be but a joyous play,
Or grief that smart and smart.
My soul shall reverence aye and aye,
The god of burning hearts.

Let life be but the breath of dust,
The stir of things that seem,
My soul forever more shall trust
The shadow of God's dream.

WHY APPLE TREES DIE.

Prof. Hutt on the Trouble in Midland District Orchards.

Apple growers in Durham county and other parts of the Midland district have been alarmed of late at the mysterious dying of large apple trees in a number of orchards. In the orchard of Mr. Charles Axford, of Dorlington township, which was made up of thirty twelve-year-old trees just beginning to bear heavily, the trouble first showed itself last year, when two or three trees died after loading out. The rest of the trees bore an exceptionally heavy crop, but this year two or three dozen trees have died, and nearly half the trees in the orchard show signs of failing. Other orchards nearby are similarly affected.

Many theories have been advanced regarding the cause of the trouble, but as nothing definite could be assigned, the Agricultural College authorities at Guelph were asked to send an expert to investigate the matter. Prof. J. L. Hutt, B.S.A., visited West Durham for this purpose recently, and after examination it is learned from his report that the trouble, in his opinion, was the result of a combination of causes, the prime cause being winter injury during the severe winter of 1903-04. Several of the more tender varieties of apples were that year killed outright in many parts of the Province. Baldwin's suffering the most. In Mr. Axford's orchard the principal failures are among the Baldwins, and the injury may be seen in the dead bark around the collar of the tree, which practically girdles the tree and eventually causes starvation through lack of proper nutrition. That the injured trees have lived so long is due to the fact that the roots were not injured, and sap was carried up to the leaves as usual, but the downward flow of cambium elaborated in the leaves was unable to cross the girdled part and return to the roots, which eventually caused the starvation of the trees.

The unusually heavy crop of fruit last year was the direct result of the girdling, as trees so injured usually make an effort to reproduce themselves by producing seed. The effect of the heavy bearing, however, lowered the vitality of the trees and has hastened their death this year. This winter injury was most severe in orchards that were not on high, well-drained land, and this emphasizes the importance of care in the selection of a site for the orchard. This was particularly noticeable in the orchard of Mr. John Penfold, southwest of Courtice, in South Darlington, where he has a thirty year old orchard twelve or thirteen years old situated on a side hill, where there is excellent drainage to a lower ground. In this orchard even the Baldwins have escaped injury.

The result of Prof. Hutt's investigation has been to assure fruit-growers that the trouble is not caused by some new insect or disease, which is likely to spread and do damage to other orchards. What is now known is really the result of previous injury from severe winters, which could not well have been avoided.

THE VICTORIA CREAMERY.

Present Output is Large—Changes Instituted Recently.

Owing to the late spring, business was poorer and the output lower than last year. Now, however, business has picked up wonderfully, and the present output exceeds that of last year. The local trade this year is increasing, so much, indeed, that less exporting is being done. Tourists and campers take large quantities.

The custom of putting the butter up in pound prints has been instituted, and is less expensive, besides bringing in more money. The plant is being run to its full capacity.

A NEW LINE TO BE BUILT.

GRAIN ROUTE FROM MIDLAND TO PETERBORO VIA LINDSAY.

President of the C. P. R. States It Will Be Completed in Two Years.

In two years the new grain line of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Victoria Harbor, on the Georgian Bay, to Peterboro, will be in operation, says a Montreal despatch. This is the statement made lately by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the C.P.R., on his return from an inspection of the lines in Ontario just completed by him.

He spent considerable time while in that province going over, with his engineers, the route of that line, and he expressed himself as satisfied with the progress made with the surveys and with the line as laid out. Substantial progress, he stated, had already been made, but, since the construction of this line would involve a great deal of difficult engineering and structural work in order to ensure a road with the proper grade, it will be impossible to secure its completion next year. It would, however, be ready for operation in two years.

Speaking generally of the outlook in Ontario, Sir Thomas said that, so far as his company was concerned, it was very bright. The lines, he said, were in excellent condition, and he was well satisfied with the latest additions that had been made to the system—the line from Guelph to Goderich and the Toronto and Huron line which had been completed as far as the centre of Muskoka.

ORCHARD JUDGED PHRENOLOGICAL.

What Science Has to Say About the Man of Many Murders.

Prof. James Dean, of this town, who is a phrenologist of wide reputation, furnishes The Post with the following photograph reading of Harry Orchard. It makes interesting reading, does this phrenological estimate of the self-acknowledged arch criminal. Here it is:

In judging of the mental balance of an individual from photographs, one must take into account every possible condition that will aid in giving a correct estimate of the individual; we must know certain rules regarding the development of the face and head, and must naturally consult the science of phrenology and physiognomy to guide us in our remarks.

In the photographs that are before us of Harry Orchard, several things strike us as indicating an abnormal type of mind. One is that the opening of the ear is low down, indeed, considerably below the level of the eye, giving force to the animal nature, while the top-head is low, showing weakness in the moral brain, hence he did not possess sufficient veneration to check the cravings of his lower nature; another is the fulgus in the lower part of the face, which is a strong indication of depravity.

Another lack of balance of mind is shown in the poor development of the back-head or social brain, indicating that he cares little for humanity, in fact, nothing for the life of his fellow creatures, and to do a cowardly act through using some material as means of injury would more likely appeal to a man of this calibre than to actually commit murder himself. Had he a strong social nature, then he would have had more sensitive personal regard for the opinion of others; then the instrument used for the object of murder would be more likely a revolver.

His photo also shows he possessed good planning ability, hence he worked with well laid plans. The lips are firmly set, and denote resolve, but they are not well shaped features, there is a lack of refinement about them, and even an irregularity, which always shows a lack of care.

The eyes are deeply set and emotionless; they show no feeling, and only a brutal determination of character. Had he a degree of sympathy in his nature, it would have shown in his eyes, but that element seems to have been cut out of him entirely from his organization. He also possessed a love of greed and large destructiveness, giving force and activity, large combativeness, having boldness and defiance, combined with a deep, cunning, crafty disposition; and small benevolence, showing a lack of the elements of sympathy, tenderness and kindness.

Some men are actuated by a love of money rather than for any sense of revenge toward the person who is murdered. Others put the personal element before their eyes as a cause, and commit crime out of pure revenge. These elements appear to be lacking in Harry Orchard as a prime object, while the sensitive element worked in his case, with the success that wrought out the destruction in the killing of Gov. Steunenberg.

The photo of Freeman Wood, presiding judge at the trial of Orchard, indicates a clear-thinking, well-balanced and intellectual mind.

WEIRD DEATH DEED

Terrible Indian Tribal Tragedy in Western Canada.

SQUAW CHOKED TO DEATH

Rope Was Slowly Tightened Around Her Neck While Onlookers Applauded—Perpetrators Sought to Foil Evil Spirit—The Executioners Applauded and Honored—Arrests For the Murder Followed.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Joseph and Jack Fidler, the chief and medicine man of the Sandy Lake Crees, are under arrest at Norway House, about 200 miles from Kenora. They will be tried for the murder of a squaw.

It is a case of a savage tribal custom. The woman became ill last spring and grew delirious. These Indians hold that when a person dies delirious an evil spirit, one Wendigo, escapes from the body to the weeds, frightens away the game, and a famine ensues. The band, according to custom appointed their chief and medicine man to choke the sick squaw, so that the spirit might not escape with the breath, but remain secure in the dead body.

Before the whole band the chief and the medicine man did the deed. A rope about the squaw's neck was tightened by the two leaders of the band until the ravings of the woman were stopped and the evil spirit was imprisoned and the game preserved.

The Fiders asked the officials not to be so severe with them, as they had no idea that they were doing wrong. They were merely doing their duty by the band and followed the custom of their fathers. The execution of this duty was a high honor, and, according to custom, the executioners were handsomely fed by the parents of the victim.

The authorities here are trying to decide whether it will be easier to send a judge to Norway House to try the case, or have the prisoners and witnesses sent to Edmonton for trial.

HEAD WAS BURIED.

Unknown Man Meets With Ghastly End in Bush Beyond North River.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 2.—The body of an unknown man was found in the bush, 20 miles north of Blind River on the Toile road, near Eddy's lumber camp.

Every indication points to foul play, as the head was missing, and it is said the pockets of the clothes worn by the man were turned inside out. The head was later discovered buried near by, but owing to the fact that the body had lain in the bush for considerable time identification is rendered impossible. The hands are also missing, and have not been found.

The body was found by a lumberman while passing through the bush. The coroner and Provincial Constable Graham of Blind River, acting under instructions from Crown Attorney McFadden, have gone to make a thorough investigation.

The body was that of a young man of small size, wearing a dark suit and tan shoes.

FEMALE FIRE FIEND.

Demented Woman Puts Lighted Torch to Welland House and Barns.

Welland, Aug. 2.—Andrew Hoover, whose farm adjoins the Town of Welland, has suffered the loss of his large barn and the season's hay crop, amounting to about fifty tons.

It is thought that the fire was started by his daughter Margaret, a woman of 34 years, who is demented. The men were all in the fields at the time, about 3.30 in the afternoon, and by the time they reached the barn it was impossible to save anything. The contents included a quantity of grain and a bull and all were lost.

While the fire was in progress Miss Hoover attempted also to set fire to the house. The demented woman was placed in custody and will probably be removed to an asylum next week.

Her father lived to be 125.

Gibraltar, Aug. 6.—The British armed cruiser Antrim sailed for Chablanca yesterday to watch over British interests at that port.

NO COAL.

Looks as Though Northwest Would Again Suffer Fuel Famine.

Cleveland, Aug. 3.—The northwest will suffer a more severe coal famine during the coming winter than the record-breaking one last year, which cost so many lives, according to local coal shippers.

It is declared that the inability of the railroads to supply the boats with enough coal and the great demand for ore, occasioned by the closing of the strike of ore handlers, will bring about a far-reaching shortage of fuel at the upper lakes. With good fortune the region out beyond the upper lakes will have from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 tons of coal less than it will require, according to estimates.

Ohio shippers are rushing fuel to the upper lakes ports in every vessel they can charter. Since the opening of navigation shipments to the head of the lakes are considerably greater at this time than a year ago. A prominent mine owner said yesterday:

"There are now 100 big ore carriers up the lakes awaiting cargoes. They cannot get away till the ore reaches the docks, which means a delay of perhaps 10 days. Those huge vessels when they reach Ohio ports with ore are not going to take back coal."

"No vessel owner who is not under contract to carry coal will wait for a coal load, so the northwest probably, even with 12,000,000 tons of coal on the docks by Dec. 1, will experience another fuel famine before next spring."

CROWNED HEADS MEET.

Elaborate Preparations Made to Ensure Safety of Nicholas.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—Emperor William of Germany and Emperor Nicholas of Russia are to meet to-day in the Baltic Sea off Swinemunde.

Emperor William will be on board the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, and the Russian Emperor on his yacht, the Standart.

The German Baltic fleet will be present to give color to the occasion. The German authorities are taking every precaution to ensure the safety of the Russian Emperor. A large number of marine policemen will be sent to-day from Stettin to Swinemunde to do guard duty on shore.

The Norddeutscher Allgemeine Zeitung publishes a welcome to Emperor Nicholas at the head of its columns yesterday evening. It announces that the Russian sovereign is coming for several days of friendly intercourse with Emperor William.

This meeting is pre-eminently personal in character, the paper says, it is dictated by no specific political purpose, and there is therefore no occasion for any one to view it with distrust or suspicion. In conclusion the paper says:

"The German people see in this meeting an expression of the hearty relations existing between the houses of the two rulers and between the two countries, that are bound together by many mutual interests."

PULLS OUT.

Richardson Withdraws From Idaho Case on Account of His Associate.

Denver, Col., Aug. 3.—The News yesterday says that E. F. Richardson of Denver, who was one of W. D. Haywood's counsel at Boise, has withdrawn from any further connection with the defence of officials and others of the Western Federation of Miners.

"The whole sum and substance of the matter is that I cannot endure Darrow's methods," said Richardson. "If I do not sanction Socialism, at least not when it is coupled with trying a legal suit; especially when that case is a murder case and means a man's life."

Money for Mexico.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—It is said that the visit of Eugene C. Creel, Mexican ambassador to the United States, who has gone to Ottawa to discuss with Sir Wilfrid Laurier some developments in connection with the relations of the Dominion and the great Isthmian republic is of great financial significance.

A large amount of Canadian capital has been invested in Mexican enterprises, both electric and mining, and Mr. Creel, who has during the principal part of his life been closely associated with Mexican banks and railways, desires to effect alliances between the banks of which he is the controlling spirit in Mexico, and the principal banking institutions of Canada. The object of this alliance is a free inflow of capital from Canada to Mexico.

Mr. Creel had conferences with the heads of the Bank of Montreal, the Bank of Commerce and other financial institutions.

Pure Food Congress.

Paris, Aug. 3.—When Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry in the United States Agricultural Department, returns to Washington he will recommend that the American Government call an international pure food congress to establish international food standards. He says the French Government is favorable to this scheme.

While in France Mr. Wiley has investigated the use of sulphate of copper in peas and other vegetables exported to America.

Dundas Cadets Win.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—In the cadet series of competitions of the Canadian Military Rifle League, Dundas High School won first place, Guelph Cadet Battalion second, and Ottawa Public School third.

There were twelve entries for this, the first year, of a series for cadets. They shoot on their own ranges.

Province of Ontario Transfers Locks, Dams, Water Rights and Lands—Owners and Lessees of Lumber Rights Protected—Dominion to Keep Works in Repair—An Important Agreement.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—An agreement has been reached between the Dominion Government and the Government of Ontario, by which the province transfers to the Dominion all the locks, dams, rights in waters and flooded lands owned by it along the Trent Valley Canal.

The Dominion agrees to keep the works in repair and good condition, including the lock and three swing bridges at Lindsay, the lock at Balsam Lake and the lock and swing bridge at Young's Point, and pledges itself to pay the province at the rate of 50 cents per acre for any unpatented lands which may be flooded by the construction of reservoirs, and to compensate private owners also, with the provision that in case it is impossible to arrive at a settlement the dispute shall be referred to the Exchequer Court for decision.

It is further provided that all mines and minerals and unpatented lands taken over and flooded in the course of the construction of reservoirs, shall be preserved to the province and that all mines and minerals on patented lands are to remain the property of the province until a proper compensation be granted therefor.

The Dominion also guarantees to the owners and lessees of timber lands all rights previously possessed by them, with the provision that in case any such owner or lessee is dissatisfied with the Government's terms he may appeal to the Exchequer Court.

ALLEGED LIBEL.

Le Nationaliste and La Patrie Sued by Messrs. Turgeon and Gouin.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—Hon. Mr. Turgeon, Minister of Crown Lands for the Province of Quebec, has entered an action for civil damages against Le Nationaliste, the Montreal paper edited by Oliver Asselin.

Hon. Mr. Turgeon claims that about four weeks ago Le Nationaliste accused him of perjury, and has repeated the accusation several times since. Hon. Mr. Turgeon has also decided to sue several other papers who have followed the course of Le Nationaliste by reproducing the articles complained of or accusing him in a like manner.

Hon. Mr. Gouin, Premier of Quebec, has entered an action for civil damages against La Patrie which, in an article published Wednesday night, said that the Prime Minister had something to do with the negotiations which Baron De Lepine pretends to have made with the Government respecting crown lands in Abitibi.

London, Ont., Aug. 2.—To drink a large quantity of hot lard and survive is an unusual experience, but the experience of the 14 months old baby of Mrs. Jolly of Egerton street, this city.

While the mother was engaged baking, the little one drew a jar of lard from a table, and before the mother could interfere had swallowed a large quantity.

Although frightfully burned internally and externally, the doctors say the child will recover.

Liberal's Easy Win.

London, Aug. 2.—The bye-election for a member of Parliament for the northwest division of Staffordshire has resulted in the return of Albert Stanley, Liberal candidate, with the substantial majority of 2,340 over the Unionist candidate.

The result indicates that the Unionists have little prospects of success at the polls except in constituencies where special conditions have caused a split in the Liberal Labor elements.

A King Unseated.

Paris, Aug. 2.—It is officially announced that by the direction of the French Government the French resident of Annam has interned Thakut, King of Annam, in his palace at Hue, and established a regency consisting of the Council of Ministers under the presidency of the Minister of Justice.

The mental condition of the King has been steadily growing worse since last spring.

Electrocuted.

New York, Aug. 3.—George Westener, employed by the New York & New Jersey Telephone Co., was instantly killed by electricity at Mineola. Westener held one end of a measuring tape, made of linen or cotton and coated with a sort of shellac, while his assistant climbed a pole with the other end. There was no metal on the tape. When the man aloft let go the tape it struck a high tension wire.

ITS MERIT IS PROVED

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Montreal Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cured Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Soon after my marriage my health began to decline. My appetite failed me; I was unable to sleep, and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through the abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing-down pains and constant headaches, causing me much misery. The monthly periods became more and more painful, and I became a burden and expense to my family, instead of a help and pleasure. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. Soon after I began using it I felt a change for the better, and at the time of my next period I noticed a great difference, and the pain gradually diminished until I was well. I am stronger and feel better than I did before I was married, and there is great rejoicing in the house over the wonders your medicine worked." Mrs. M. G. LeTellier, 722 Cadieux St., Montreal, Quebec.

If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, distress, faintness, "doubt-care" and "want-to-be-latter" (feeling), excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases it is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WAS IT SUICIDE?

Mysterious Message Received From Missing Man, Native of Erie.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 5.—Through the aid of the postoffice officials of Toronto, Canada, the local police officials have succeeded in clearing up the mystery of the disappearance of a prominent man.

It is now thought that John McCall committed suicide near Toronto, although no clue to his whereabouts was disclosed. McCall, a native of Erie, had received a card from Toronto, which bore these words: "Committed suicide; if you find it, send word to my mother that I am dead—McCall, Erie, Pa."

This note was written on the back of a ticket of a Toronto theatre. The card was found on Toronto Island. McCall disappeared some time ago, and the police notified his parents yesterday of his death, although no foundation as to whether the body was found or not has been received.

Free Farm Land.

Toronto, Aug. 2.—A number of townships in the vicinity of Dryden, in the Lake of the Woods district, have been opened by the Ontario Government as free grant lands.

When Hon. Frank Cochrane and Hon. Dr. Reame visited the district recently, one of the complaints of the settlers was the price of 50 cents an acre put on the land by the Government, while other lands just as desirable from an agricultural standpoint, or more so, have been given to the settlers free. This worked to the disadvantage of the locality, retarding settlement.

Brazil Wants Hotels.

Rio Janeiro, Aug. 3.—A bill granting special privileges to anyone who will put up a hotel in any of the principal towns of Brazil, and then conduct it in accordance with a specified standard, was brought forward in the Chamber of Deputies.

GIRL CRUELLY USED

Mysterious Assailant Still Busy in New York.

OUTRAGES CONTINUE DAILY

Five Hundred More Police to Be Added—Department Has No Clue as Yet—Women and Children In Terror—More Girl Victims—Accused Man Roughly Handled—Parents to Take More Care.

New York, Aug. 5.—The frequency and atrocity of crimes against women and children in New York in the past fortnight have brought about the most drastic measures.

Adding Police Commissioner O'Keefe issued orders Saturday directing every plain clothes officer on the force to lay aside all other work and devote himself entirely to efforts to bring to justice the perpetrators of these crimes. He ordered that house to house visits be made by all officers on regular beats and that parents be advised to keep their children under closer supervision. He also announced that he would ask the board of estimate and appropriation for an appropriation sufficient to add five hundred officers to the force.

The attacks on children recently have struck terror to the hearts of parents all over the city, and scores of cases of supposed attempts at assault have been reported to the police, which have no foundation, except in the fears of parents.

But notwithstanding the cases which have no foundation in fact there have been enough actual cases of assault on children to cause the police as well as parents much worry.

The police arrested four brothers, Thomas, Louis, George and James, all of them being about 15 years of age, believing that they could throw some light on the murder of little Katie Tietzschler, whose mutilated body was found in a cellar on First avenue. Later all but Louis were discharged. Louis, when confronted with evidence that he was seen to emerge from the cellar, admitted that he cut wood there the day Katie disappeared. He also admitted that he knew the child and often spoke to her. Anna Messner, Rippolone, a shoemaker, and Bonfanti, his assistant, are still held by the coroner.

The police are convinced that the murderer of the child is some one who was well-known in the neighborhood, and who knew the little girl. An Italian by name of Maria Sallo was arrested and held on a charge of attempting to kidnap the child. The girl says she was walking down the street Sallo seized her by the arm and tried to drag her into a vacant lot. Her screams brought a crowd, who attacked Sallo and were only prevented from seriously injuring him by a policeman, who drove him back with his revolver.

The body of the young woman found in an arway in East 90th street several days ago is still unidentified at the morgue. Frank Powers, proprietor of a lunch room, was arraigned in Yorkville court and held for further examination. Three young girls testified that he offered them money to walk in Central Park with him.

More Outrages.

New York, Aug. 5.—Another murder assault was added last night to the police record of recent crimes against defenceless women and girls. Last night's victim was Miss Ellen Bulger, a woman of middle age, who was attacked in her apartments in the Bronx, cruelly beaten and left in a helpless state.

There was evidence that the woman had made a courageous fight. From what the police were able to learn from her, she was surprised by a smooth-faced stranger, perhaps 40 years of age. He was coatless and wore an outing shirt and dark trousers. He escaped.

Just before Miss Bulger was assaulted, George Kestner, a Russian, charged with attempted assault upon an 8-year-old girl, was set upon by a crowd of men, and all but killed. The clothes were torn from his body and he was taken to a station house, wrapped in a blanket.

Mohawks' New Chief.

Deseronto, Aug. 5.—The death of Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha having made vacant the post of head chief of the Mohawks on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve, Joseph Hill, Jr., a cousin of the deceased, has been chosen his successor.

The election was held at the Indian council house, with William R. Aylesworth, Government agent for the Bay of Quinte district, as returning officer. The polling was open, and took place between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Sampson Green, for many years a councillor of the Mohawk band, opposed the successful candidate, who is a young man and had previously aspired to a position in the council. There were 225 eligible voters, and 169 votes were actually cast, the kinsman of the late chief receiving 121.

Fatality at Cobalt.

Cobalt, Ont., Aug. 5.—Alexander McLean, a machine man on the Temiskaming & Hudson Bay mine, was killed Saturday morning by falling down a shaft.

He had just come to the top in the bucket with another employee, and it is supposed he slipped when stepping out of the bucket. He dropped 10 feet. When picked up by the foreman he spoke, but expired immediately after.

McLean came from Dartmouth, N.S., where his sister resides. His father and mother are also living, at Halifax. He was about 40 years of age, a widower, and belonged to the Cobalt Miners' Union. His son died last spring in Nova Scotia.

Worry and Suicides.

Woodstock, Aug. 3.—James Smith committed suicide on the farm of his brother William of Glandford Township, near Ratho, by hanging himself in the barn.

Despondency and worry over his physical condition is believed to be the cause. Smith came home from California a couple of years ago, and has since been in very poor health.

MEN-O'-WAR PARADE

King Edward Reviews Two Hundred Battleships.

WAS IMPOSING SPECTACLE

Magnificent Pageant at Opening of Cowes Regatta—Splendid Array of War Vessels—35,000 Officers and Men Present—British Blue-jackets Cheer Their Sovereign—Decorated the Admirals.

Portsmouth, Eng., Aug. 5.—The 200 ships-of-war constituting Great Britain's home fleet paraded before King Edward and Queen Alexandra Saturday on the Solent and incidentally furnished a magnificent pageant for the opening of the annual Cowes regatta week.

Spread out in long lines between the Isle of Wight and the Hampshire shore this splendid array of vessels, great and small, formed a steel city, with a population of 35,000 officers and men. Never before have so many British men-of-war been seen together under the control of a single admiral.

From the battleship Dreadnought down to the smallest submarine every vessel was decked from stem to stern with flags. The crews were assembled on deck and as the King and Queen, on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, passed down the lines, each ship's company gave a rousing cheer. For eleven miles up and down the King and Queen steamed between steel walls.

This gathering of warships forms the recently organized home guard section of the British navy and the Government and the Admiralty are so proud of the assemblage that they departed from the usual rule about visitors and threw the entire fleet open to the critical inspection of the public.

Dotted through the three central lines were no less than six flagships, headed by the pennant of the commander-in-chief, Vice-Admiral Francis B. Bridgeman. The five other flag officers were: Rear-Admirals Harry S. F. Niblett, Frank Pinnis, Robert A. Montgomery, George A. Callaghan and Spencer H. M. Logan.

The splendid naval panorama was completed by scores of pleasure yachts and excursion steamers, crowded with thousands of the general public, each with its band of music playing, helped to enliven an unusually attractive scene.

King Edward after the review decorated all the admirals taking part with the Victorian order, including Admiral George Stanley Bosanquet, who receives the cross.

FLAW IN RAIL THE CAUSE.

Freight Train Wrecked Near Grimsby—Traffic Delayed for Hours.

Grimsby, Aug. 5.—A flaw in one of the rails was the cause of a bad wreck on the G.T.R., about a half a mile west of the station, early yesterday morning.

Thirteen freight cars were derailed and considerably smashed up, completely lying up traffic both ways for the entire day and a good part of the night.

Five laden box cars were completely demolished, and it was found necessary to drag them to the sides of the track and burn them. About half their contents were saved, however, and two cars containing premium prizes, in the shape of fancy furniture and a large consignment of mail orders from the Larkin Soap Co. of Buffalo, bonded through to Maine. One car was filled with watermelons, one with bananas, and one with hams, destined for Toronto. The damage to this stock was about 50 per cent.

The damage to rolling stock was estimated by a Hamilton official at $6,000. The only casualty reported was the loss of two teeth by a brakeman. The wreck occurred at 6:30 a. m. The train was westbound, drawing 39 loaded cars, and running a few minutes behind time. The engine and nine cars got over the break safely, but the rest of the train was either ditched or splintered into a heap.

The auxiliaries from Hamilton and Niagara Falls, and three detached engines worked from 9 a. m. until nearly midnight before the line was again clear for traffic.

Rescues Son From Flames.

Sarnia, Ont., Aug. 5.—Fire at 3 o'clock Saturday morning destroyed the frame building occupied by James Joss, plumber.

P. C. Jones broke in the door, awakened the family and helped them make their escape. After Mr. and Mrs. Joss, Miss Ethel and Ormond got out of the building it was found that Robert, the youngest son, was missing. Mr. Joss went back into the burning building, groped his way through the dense smoke and found the lad in bed. He picked him up and carried him out with difficulty.

The loss is $5,000; insurance $2,400.

5,000 In Free Fight.

New York, Aug. 5.—The fighting element among the whites and blacks in the vicinity of 136th street and Fifth avenue lined up yesterday to settle a baseball dispute, and 50 persons required medical treatment, of whom two will die.

Probably 5,000 persons took part in the fight. Three hundred policemen dispersed the mob.

WILD RAGE OF FIRE

Town of North Bay Falls Victim to the Flames.

FORTY-MILE GALE BLOWING

Footlardy Man and Pickpocket Placed Under Arrest—Business Section Almost Entirely Wiped Out—Loss Heavy and Insurance Light—Fire Laddies Worked Heroically Under Difficulties.

North Bay, Aug. 3.—While a fierce gale of wind was raging yesterday, fire broke out at 10:30 in the tailor shop of T. H. Campbell, the second store of the Gilmour Block, and, spreading with rapidity, was not checked until 1 o'clock, when the Gilmour and Richardson blocks were smoldering heaps of debris.

The fire originated from gasoline used in cleaning garments, and Campbell was seriously burned.

The firemen worked heroically in blinding smoke and blistering heat, and succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to the Purvis Block, adjoining. They were helped by a "water" which checked the attack of the flames.

J. W. Richardson's large brick block, occupied by him entirely as a hardware store, was the first building to go.

Of the Gilmour Block, adjoining, only a few bricks remain of the front. The rapid spread of the flames prevented much salvage, and the stocks in the burned stores are almost a total loss.

One man was arrested for stealing while the fire was in progress, and another intoxicated individual was placed in the lock-up for safe keeping, having been rescued by the firemen for attempting to climb along a narrow ledge on the second story.

The Richardson Block was valued at $6,000, with $4,000 insurance, divided between the Liverpool, London & Globe, Union and North British & Mercantile companies.

Richardson's hardware stock was valued at $25,000; insurance $14,300, divided between Guardian, Canadian, Sun, Commercial Union, Norwich Union, Home, Montreal, Canada, North British & Mercantile and Atlas companies. The stock is a total loss.

The Gilmour Block, owned by J. E. Gilmour, was valued at $8,000; insurance $3,000, in Monarch, London, Mutual and Standard companies; total loss.

T. H. Campbell carried insurance of $700 on household effects. Very little was saved.

J. W. Smith, druggist, carried a stock valued at $3,000; insurance $1,000; part of the stock was saved.

T. H. Mulligan, clothing merchant, had stock valued at $5,000, and insurance of $3,000. Some of the stock was saved.

NAVAL GUN EXPLODED.

Breach Blew Out on French Warship, Killing and Injuring Many.

Toulon, Aug. 3.—Three men were killed and seven others wounded by the explosion of a gun during target practice yesterday on board the French training ship Couronne.

The breach of a 100-millimetre gun was blown off. The recoiling mechanism of the gun failed to work, and the breach was shattered into a thousand pieces.

The chief gunner and two of the gun crew lost their lives. Of the seven men wounded, two are officers.

Minister of Marine Thompson admitted yesterday that some of the large calibre shells used during the recent naval manoeuvres in the Mediterranean had exploded prematurely. He said the reason was that old black powder had been used. The present ammunition will be reloaded with melinite, which explodes only on concussion.

Diver Suffocates.

Windsor, Aug. 3.—Marshall Townsend, a diver, was suffocated by the parting of his air hose while in twenty feet of water near Algonac yesterday.

There was no warning of the accident, which was only discovered after Townsend had failed to respond to signals and had been hauled to the surface.

His features were horribly distorted, and showed that he must have suffered agonies before losing consciousness.

Launch Goes Over Dam.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Aug. 3.—Five persons were drowned Thursday night by the capsizing of a launch in the Des Moines River.

The boat became unmanageable in the strong current, due to the high water, and finally the engine broke down altogether. The boat then drifted over the dam and crashed into the rocks below.

Suicide on Temagami.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Mines, received word yesterday that Wm. H. Moore of Brockport, N.Y., committed suicide a few days ago by shooting himself on island 964 in the Temagami lakes.

He had been ill and accompanied by Dr. W. J. Bott had gone north. The body will be sent home.

Queen's Good Wishes.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 5.—King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and the royal party yesterday inspected the steam barkentine Endurance, which is to bear the exploring expedition commanded by Lt. E. Shackleton to the Antarctic.

Queen Alexandra presented Lt. Shackleton with a Union Jack, with an autograph letter which said: "May this Union Jack, which I entrust to your keeping, lead you safely to the south pole."

May Be a Coal Strike.

Pittsburg, Aug. 1.—A strike of 14,000 miners of the Pittsburg Coal Co. has been sanctioned.

"ALL-RED" ASSURED

Lord Strathcona Reaches Home and Applauds Project.

BRITAIN PREPARING FOR IT

Canada's High Commissioner Talks on the Dominion's Prosperity—The British Government Is Friendly, But Is Not Yet Ready to Adopt the Preference—Favors Halifax Summer and Winter.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—"Naturally I have to keep in daily touch with the Dominion, and I cannot see but what this present prosperity which we are now enjoying all over the country will continue for several years to come. This is, in fact, but a repetition of what took place in the United States after they had recovered from the effects of their civil war," said Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, who reached the city yesterday morning, accompanied by his daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Howard.

Lord Strathcona compared the position of the Liberal party of England under William Ewart Gladstone, who was radically changed policy under Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, and stated that, although they had not advanced so far as to adopt the preference policy, they were distinctly friendly to the colonies, and especially to the Dominion of Canada.

This, he thought, was clearly manifest, when they readily adhered to the idea of meeting the representative men of the colonies every four years for the purpose of discussing questions of importance to both the Motherland and the colonies, and also when they consented to the principle of what has been named the "all-red line."

Speaking at length on this matter, Lord Strathcona declared that there was nothing to indicate any change of attitude on the part of the British Ministry since the day they gave their consent to this great project at the recent conference. The British Government, through the Colonial Secretary and other Ministers, accepted this project, which they no doubt realized would be of the greatest possible benefit to the Empire as a whole, and he believed that this admission would be carried into practical effect in due season.

He said, however, that the project was a very serious one, and one of supreme importance, consequently nothing could be done in haste and without a mature consideration of every phase of the question. While it was quite true that he had the greatest confidence in the project, it was a mistake to say that he had ever pronounced himself in favor of any particular British port. He, however, always favored Halifax as the Canadian terminal port, and when his lordship was asked if this remark meant all the year round his lordship replied, "Yes, all the year round," and then he went on to calculate the time that a fast railway train should take to make the run from Halifax to Montreal, and arrived at the conclusion that when the track and roadbeds of our railways are put in first-class condition, as they, of course, must be, to admit of such a service, the run will be easily made in from 15 to 16 hours.

"Yes," he added, "the trip across the Atlantic will be made in four days, and from Halifax to the commercial capital of the Dominion in two-thirds of another day, making the route pre-eminently the fastest from the old to the new world."

Outlook Unpromising.

London, Aug. 3.—(C.A.F.)—The London Daily Mail says the outlook for the all-red route is unpromising. No definite decision has been reached, but the Mail alleges that all departmental investigations show that economical stability could not be ensured for the scheme. Members of Parliament therefore are beginning to doubt if the scheme can be carried out.

ARBITRATION ACCEPTED.

Proposals of U.S. Adopted at The Hague Conference.

The Hague, Aug. 5.—The American proposition regarding the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration at The Hague was adopted Saturday by the sub-committee.

The vote on the proposition was as follows: In favor of—Germany, Argentina, Brazil, Bulgaria, China, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, Santa Domingo, Ecuador, France, Great Britain, Guatemala, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Montenegro, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Holland, Peru, Portugal, Russia, Sweden, Venezuela, and the United States.

The following abstained from voting, some of them because they were without instructions: Austria, Belgium, Spain, Greece, Roumania, Servia, Siam, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay, Luxembourg and Salvador.

It is quite probable that Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and the United States will agree to present to a special committee on Tuesday, a combined scheme for constituting a working permanent court of arbitration.

Besides the details already known, a section regarding the expenditures will doubtless be arranged like that of the universal postal union at Bern, the various countries being divided into different classes, according to their population and bearing a proportionate share of the costs.

Japs Watched Yankee Gun Drill.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 5.—Upon the return of Battery A from its annual target practice at Camp Eels, Capt. Blasius asserted that the work of his men and guns was closely observed by two Japanese who were routed by the officers.

The Japanese watched the work of the guns from a distance, partly hidden by trees.

Battery A is one of the few organizations equipped with the latest field pieces.

$100,000 Fire.

St. Therese, Que., Aug. 5.—A large factory belonging to the Dominion Furniture Co. and the Junction Hotel at St. Therese Junction, were destroyed by fire on Saturday, entailing a loss of over $100,000.

FORTY-ONE DROWNED

Train Plunges Over Bridge Fifty Feet Into River.

STONE RAILING GAVE WAY

Railway Disaster at Angers—Locomotive Jumped Track Dragging Cars With It—Conductor and Firemen Escape—Passengers Had No Chance For Their Lives—Were Caught as In a Trap.

Angers, France, Aug. 5.—Forty passengers in a third-class railroad car and the engineer of the train were drowned yesterday afternoon in a railroad accident, three miles southeast of this town.

The locomotive of a crowded local train jumped the track when entering the bridge over the River Loire at Des Penes-de-Ce. The stone railing gave way, and the engine plunged into the river, 50 feet below, dragging down with it its tender and the baggage and third-class car.

Fortunately no other cars went into the water, as the coupling between the second and third cars broke.

The conductor and fireman were the only persons whose lives were saved. They escaped by swimming.

The third-class car was filled with passengers, but, although part of the roof was blown off by the coned air as it sank, not a single passenger extricated himself, and all were drowned like rats in a trap.

The engineer perished beneath the locomotive.

WINNIPEG MAN ARRESTED.

Absconded But Captured on Steamer by English Sleuths.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—James Robertson, who is wanted here for alleged fraud, was arrested at Queenstown, Ireland, on board the Lucania, by Scotland Yard detectives. He left Winnipeg on July 3, with $1,000 belonging to Barry Cummings, one of his partners, and with another $1,000, the property of George Edwards.

It is also said that he carried on his business in the Ashdown Block here in an irregular manner, and may have to meet a number of cheques when he is returned to this city for trial.

BASEBALL

ORIENTALS 3, WIDEAWAKES 2

The Orientals had to work overtime to win their game last week. However, they did the trick, and trounced the Wideawakes. A triple play in the last innings when three Wideawakes were on bases finished the game.

Hard and furious was the game played between these two rivals. Stinging over the loss of the last two games with the Orientals, and elated by their defeat of the Sylvesters the previous night, the Butler ball-clubbers did their prettiest to win—but all to no avail. The leaders were a little too good, and the former "champs" are now in the "cellar" position in the T. B. L.

Hopkins was on the plateau for the Wideawakes, and while he pitched good ball, he lost his own game by slinging the ball far to left in an attempt to catch a man on third. A splendid opportunity was afforded the men in grey and red to score in the fifth. Carew, Williams and Soanes were on bases, with none out. Nesbitt popped up an infield fly. Suggitt caught it and threw to Sinclair, catching Soanes off first. Sinclair slapped the leather to Anderson, and the bitter tale was told.

The Wideawakes notched one in the first stanza, Hopkins doing the necessary. Soanes got another in the second on an overthrow, which went through Sinclair's legs nearly to the track. The Orientals, by fast base-running and opportune hitting, brought in Greene in the second, and in the fourth Hopkins made the difference towards the Ross Hospital, which cost the game, Burgess and Sinclair scoring. It was a sorrowful moment for the Wideawakes and their supporters. The score was close, however, and the red and blues were run hard.

The decision of Field Umpire McDonald in the last innings raised a small riot. The crowd came on the diamond, and all kinds of hot air was "shot off." Umpire McDonald had troubles of his own, and the two base-hunters epithets at him of every description. The crowd present, which was on large proportions, had a lot to say, and said it all. The excitement was intense for a while, but the Orientals had the game, and it was all over.

A clinch in the Orientals' aspirations for leadership, and it will take a lot to dislodge them. The team have played consistent ball this year, and have had a few streaks of good luck to assist them.

The constant changes made in the Wideawakes' line-up have weakened the team considerably. The lack of organization was distinctly noticeable.

EXPRESS NINE 10, Y.M.C.A. 4

The Express Nine showed their class last week by downing the unfortunate Y. M. C. A.'s by the score 10-4. The Association youngsters have not won a game in the Junior League yet and were outclassed last night.

The Express Nine demonstrated their ability to play ball, and will be a factor in deciding the leadership and the possession of the Henley silver trophy. The batteries were: Express Nine—Hickinbotham and Rats Barry; Y. M. C. A.—Hanniball, Paton and Henley.

TOWN LEAGUE AFFAIRS

While not attempting to forecast, the Orientals look to have a sure thing of it on the topmost rung. They were an unnoticed quantity during the league opening, but they got going from the start, and have now 6 wins and 1 loss.

They have been playing almost the entire season, and have a more organized system of play than the other teams.

Still, with the C. L. S. Sylvesters and Wideawakes hanging at their flanks, they yet have a long road to go. Sylvesters were the first and only team to take a fall out of the leaders.

C. L. S. SYLVESTERS 1

The Sylvesters went down and out before the C.L.S. braves last week in a one-sided game. The score correctly gives as idea of the ball played by each team last night.

The C. L. S. have strengthened 100 per cent since the commencement of the season. O'Neil, Cain and Killen make a good infield, and an idea of the support Duff got can be gleaned from the fact that but three Sylvesters men were struck out during the game.

The C.L.S. men were struck out five by Gray and five by Hollingsworth. The support was extremely poor, however, and the ball was badly handled. The winners hit in bunches, while the losers never could hit when hits meant runs. The Sylvesters became disheartened towards the close, and played the game in a lackadaisical manner.

The men in green started in a business-like way. L. Cotey, Cain, and Killen, the first three men up, all scored. Hollingsworth dropped a couple of easy ones, and this materially assisted their opponents. Two more tallies in the second and four in the fifth completed the tale, while the Sylvesters made a lonely one in the second. The score is the largest that has been made in the T. B. L. this season.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Another win for the C. L. S.

Won four and lost three.

The greens and the blues will have to fight it out.

A change from last year, isn't it, Tim Burke umpired impartially.

O'Neil is a clever fielder, even though he does execute a little jig when he comes to bat.

Pete Beteau looks as though he can play ball, and he doesn't blow a trumpet about it, either.

Field Umpire Ackert gave a cross-belt decision when he called O'Leary safe. J. Gray had him with yards to spare.

Joe Killen won't hit the ball unless he has sto. He works an umpire for all he can get.

The Wideawakes and Sylvesters cling close together. They are again tied for last place.

A good crowd witnessed the game and contributed $325, collected by the genial Jack Hutchinson.

THE UMPIRE'S TROUBLES

The most serious trouble which the umpire is compelled to face is that of all the players and spectators are his friends, but are ashamed to show it in company.

All Umpires are bad, and worse when they give close decisions against the home team. The honesty of their intent may not be questioned, but the manner of expressing it has been known to boom the local lemon market.

All umpires are bad, and worse and the crowd follows the umpire—especially at this time is conspicuous when the home team has lost of a close play.

The umpire whose judgment may err on a strike or ball which has fooled both the catcher and batter is doubly a "dub." If he were conceded to be doubly right, any self-respecting umpire would resign his position on the spot and engage his talent for the millennium.

It is impossible always to be immediately over a decision at second base when the umpire is behind home plate, but the job makes no provision for impossibilities. All spectators understand this and equip themselves, accordingly, with such adjectives as most quickly arise to fit the occasion.

Bulletins to the umpire's family at the end of each game, announcing that he is physically intact, are not absolutely insisted upon by the league presidents, but they are very comforting to the folks at home.

ABOUT THE SPIT BALL.

Manager Jones, of the Chicago White Sox, is down on the spit ball. He says:

"In my opinion the 'spit' ball is doing a great injury to the game. In the first place, it is not natural. Lots of people do not like to go out to the park and watch a pitcher slopping all over the ball. Thirdly, the use of the 'spit' ball lengthens the game, as pitchers who use the 'spit' ball consume so much time applying the moisture. Another thing is that when a 'spit' ball pitcher has good control of his 'spit' ball the opposing team can consider itself lucky if it gets a hit. I do not care what some others may say, but a hit off a spit ball is nothing but luck. The fans went crazy over last Wednesday's game, in which all hit the ball hard and the fielders had a chance to make some fine stops and catches. (That's baseball. The rooters like to see the ball hit or a fine piece of fielding."

FOR THE FANS

Peterboro played Cobourg in the lake town in a Midland League match on Saturday.

The old enemies, the Typos and the Drygoods, will meet on the diamond in the near future.

St. Paul's recruit, Tim Flood, is now leading the batsmen in the league, with over 400.

Toronto and Buffalo are tied for the top rung of the Eastern League ladder with 51 wins and 32 losses each.

Hugh Jennings' Detroit Tigers are now leading the National League. They won a double header from Washington Friday.

When the Japs of the Togo camp get tired of eating fish, and Bert Menzies is on the job at shortstop for the Wideawakes, the Jonah will for-erke them. Till then, adieu to the laurels of victory.

Orilia has a good four-team town league.

Detroit's giant pitcher. The chances of landing the player are slim.

"Biddy" Burgess, another "Terror" has become a peaceful denizen of Lindsay, also.

The Port Perry baseball team were defeated by Uxbridge in a recent game 20 to 10.

Outfielder Phelan, released by Montreal, has been playing good ball for Providence.

Clark Griffith says that his offer of $10,000 for Pitcher Mullen, of Detroit, still holds good.

Peterboro will have to travel if they intend securing the Midland League championship.

"Pete" Beteau, of Fencelon Falls, whom every Lindsayite knows, will strengthen up the Iron Men to-night.

Manager Bean, of Jersey City, visited Hugh Jennings in New York, and gave a bid for "Farmer" Willett.

In only one league out of eighteen has the leading team a percentage of over 700. That one club is Chicago, in the National.

Toronto are seven points ahead in the Eastern League pennant chase, Buffalo having dropped a game to the Royals on Sunday.

An American Judge classes ball-players with hood-carriers. This will certainly not make a "hit" with the gentlemen of the diamond.

The quick delivery ball is a valuable acquisition to a pitcher—provided he uses it with precision. "Curry" McLaughlin had it down fine.

Hopkins, the Wideawakes' elongated twirler, is to leave on Monday for western Canada. "Melly" Moynes will probably pitch for the nine.

"Pete" is the same old sport as he was when the "Terrors of the North" were wont to drop in on the "Cannon Ball" and take a fall out of the Lindsay hockey team. But that was in the days that were.

In the line of double plays Newark leads the Eastern League by a big margin. The Colts have made sixty-five double killings, Providence and Buffalo fifty-three, Jersey City and Toronto forty-five, Baltimore forty-two, Montreal thirty-nine, and Rochester thirty-six.

"Josiah" said Mrs. Chugwater, wiping her spectacles, "baseball must be an awful cruel game. This paper says a man named Smith was pounded all over the lot. And I guess it must have been true, for it says that in the next inning he died on second base."—Chicago Tribune.

Baseball is slowly but surely catching on in the Old Country. At the present time the game seems to have entered itself in and around London, but doubtless as the sport-loving Englishman gets wise and on to the game, it will spread with rapidity over the British Isles.

It is reported on good authority that the Toronto baseball club have secured the services of "Dad" Mason, of the Cincinnati club. Mason was last year with Baltimore. He pitched 929, batting 231. He won 26 lost 9, tied 0, gave 83 bases on balls struck out 162 batters. 2 wild pitches; he allowed 206 hits, 99 runs, and pitched 324 innings.

THE TURF.

The Valley Farm stables, Denham, won the Buffalo stakes at Fort Erie, running a mile in 1:38 4-5, the fastest on record for a horse bred in Canada.

Bad News, heavily played at 3 to 1, easily won the Nautlius stakes, one mile and a sixteenth, at Brighton Beach, New York, recently. He ran the distance in 1:44 4-5, which is within one-fifth of a second of the track record.

RUNNING.

Tom Longboat, the Indian long-distance runner, beat the Canadian five-mile record at Ottawa Monday afternoon by one minute and one second. He was paced by Hilton Green, Tom Coley and Lou Marsh, all of Toronto. The old figures were 26 minutes 56 seconds, which Longboat reduced to 25 minutes 55 seconds. The new figures may not stand, however, owing to the fact that pacemakers were used.

Tom Shipman, the Montreal Gordon Harrier long-distance runner, seems to have lost the best luck of any long-distance man. He was unable to complete in the Boston Marathon owing to his running shoes having been forgotten. Besides other incidents, he lost his way in the Ottawa Marathon thus being put out of the race.

CRICKET.

Dr. W. G. Grace, the grand old man of cricket, celebrated his 59th birthday at Chesham, Buckinghamshire, on July 17, by scoring 63 runs in 90 minutes in a cricket match against an eleven captained by Mr. W. F. Lowndes. The doctor showed surprising nimbleness, and so well did his side bat that Mr. Lowndes' eleven were kept in the field the whole day. Dr. Grace's team ran up the innings score of 421, of which 163 was made by Mr. T. G. Robinson, a South African.

DANGER NOT YET OVER

Letter written from one of the visiting English journalists to his paper in England: "We are getting into the wild country now. There was a battle, I am told, between a herd of Indians called the Tesomahs, and a small force from Montreal on Saturday, the tribesmen retreating in disorder. Country is declared peaceable between here and Winnipeg."—Montreal Herald.

"Many things done that should not have been done, and many things left undone that should have been done" is the way the recent executive meeting of the C. L. A. has been summed up by the city press. They're not in fact, of having C. L. A. president picked from "the country" in 1192 town.

The 5-3 score that Melbourne beat the touring Australian team was not nearly as bad as the dose administered by some of the western teams.

Ten thousand people saw the Teumseh-Shamrock lacrosse match in Toronto. Twenty thousand Australians saw their pets beat the Ali-Canadians.

In Saturday's contests in the N. L. U. the Teumsehs, of Toronto, defeated the Ottawa Caps 6-3. In the Shamrocks defeated Montreal 8-1. The Irishmen still lead the league.

The Newmarket and Beaverton teams have agreed upon Ed Baker as referee. An excursion train will be run from Beaverton, when a host of admirers of the team is expected to accompany them.

The Beaverton Checkers were beaten in Newmarket Friday afternoon in one of the fastest games ever played in Newmarket. The final score, 4-1, is an indication of the play, which was fast and furious all the way. Referee "Eddie" Baker gave entire satisfaction, and kept the game clean all the way.

The Young Toronto - Beaverton game was ordered to be played over again. They will meet next Thursday at Newmarket, each team to pay their own expenses and divide the gate receipts equally, after necessary expenses in connection with the game are paid.

BOWLING

The International Bowling tournament has been concluded at Newcastle, Ireland beating Wales, 95 to 65, in the morning of the final day's play, and Scotland defeating England 105 to 67 later in the day. In the tournament, Scotland won three matches, Ireland two, Eng and one, and Wales none, the aggregate score being: Scotland 273, Ireland 253, England 221, Wales 188.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD

Tom Reese, the English billiard player, in a recent match with Chapman, at London, made a break which is the highest ever made in the history of billiards.

The match was 500,000 points for game, and Reese made the remarkable break of 499,135 unfinished. This break included 248,135 anchor cannons. At the conclusion Reese was presented a check for $500,000, a gold watch and a suit of clothes. The time taken to accomplish this remarkable feat was 85 hours and 49 minutes.

The indomitable Irishman, Sir Thomas Lipton, is again to try for the America cup, said a despatch to a New York paper, provided the New York Yacht Club will accept a challenge under the present American measurement rules.

The Amateur Athletic Federation and the Canadian Athletic Amateur Union are having a great tussle for the control of amateur athletics in Canada.

Three ex-presidents of the C. L. A. are now members of the Ontario Legislature; J. J. Craig, Herb. Leno and Charlie McKown.

JAILING TRUST OFFENDERS.

(Winnipeg Free Press.)

Judge Landis, of Chicago, is considering what the fine he shall impose upon the Standard Oil Company in punishment of the offences—numbering some 1,400 in all—against the Interstate Commerce Law, of which it has been convicted in its court, after a trial by jury. He may, under the law, impose fines aggregating $29,000,000. He may also instruct the United States District Attorney to proceed against the individual officials of the Standard Oil Company, causing their arrest and prosecution under the criminal clause of the Sherman (Anti-Trust) Law. The feeling that imprisonment of the head men of trusts and corporations convicted of violation of the law would have a salutary effect is rapidly increasing in the United States.

It has, in fact, already begun to do so. In the case of the Toledo, Ohio, the other day, twenty-one members of a local association of lumber dealers, two agents of bridge builders, and nine members of a brick dealers' association pleaded guilty to indictments charging them with violating the Ohio (Anti-Trust) Law. Judge Lindley W. Morgan fined the bricklayers $1,000 each (their plea having related to an offence for which there is no prison penalty), but sent the twenty-one lumber merchants and the two bridge agents to jail for six months. The men thus sentenced to be imprisoned are prominent in the business and social life of the city. Their combined worth is said to exceed $20,000,000 and several of them are, like Mr. John D. Rockefeller, prominent church members. There was proof that they had combined to exact higher prices than prevailed in neighboring cities. Imposing sentence, Judge Morris said that fine were not felt by men amply able to pay.

The same remark was made recently by the judge at Asheville, North Carolina, who sentenced James H. Wood, district passenger agent, and O. C. Wilson, ticket agent, of the Southern Railway, to thirty days' imprisonment on the "chain gang" for selling passenger tickets in violation of the new rate law. Both in these cases and in the Toledo cases, needless to say, able counsel are resorting to legal expedients to stare off the carrying out of the sentences imposed, with the result remains to be seen. The fact, however, has been pronounced is a decidedly instinctive sign of the times in the United States.

C. T. R. Roundhouse Man Injured.

While employed on the shifting gear at the roundhouse, James Nicholls received a very painful injury. His hand became caught in the mechanism in some way, and he received a compound fracture of one finger, besides having his hand badly jammed.

SUNDAY AT THE CHURCHES

WHAT IS HAPPENING IN CHURCH CIRCLES GENERALLY.

Sermons Delivered From the Different Pulpits Sunday.

Evening Post of August 5.
A meeting of the Presbytery of Lindsay will be held at Sunderland to-morrow, for the induction of T. M. Wesley, B. A., as a minister of the Sunderland church.

The Rev. Mr. Phelan, of Lindsay, preached at the pavilion at Sturgeon Point yesterday to a large congregation. The sermon was most timely and helpful. The musical part of the service was assisted by Miss Savage, of Guelph, who gave a solo in a sweet voice, which was much enjoyed.

Kinmount cor. to Bobcaygeon Independent. The marriage of the Rev. Mr. Waddell, Baptist missionary, to Nigeria and Miss Gregory, Tilsonburg took place at the parsonage on Saturday, July 27th, Rev. T. C. Francis officiating. Dr. White and Mrs. White and Miss Graham were present at the ceremony. Rev. and Mrs. Waddell expect to leave for Nigeria in September.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Rev. Jas. Wallace preached the morning sermon at St. Andrew's church yesterday from the text, "And Joseph took an oath of the children of Israel, saying, God will surely visit you, and ye shall carry my bones up from hence"—Genesis, 50th chapter, 25th verse. A fair-sized congregation was in attendance, and the choir rendered excellent music.

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST.

Mr. C. E. Applegarth, of Hamilton, a student for the ministry, preacher at the Cambridge-St. Methodist church yesterday. Mr. Applegarth well-known to many Lindsay citizens, and was listened to with pleasure and profit.

The text for the evening's discourse was, "Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I shall come in to him, and sup with him, and he with me."—Revelations, 3rd chapter, 20th verse. To illustrate his remarks the speaker described Hunt's famous picture, "Knocking at the Door," in a Montreal art gallery. Its appealing force, and the infinite tenderness of the waiting Master, was well depicted by Mr. Applegarth, and Meth church.

God comes to us offering the gift of life and eternal fellowship with him. Our acceptance of this lies solely with ourselves. It is for us to open the door. In eastern lands the threshold of a tent is held inviolable. God takes the same attitude to us in our life; he more offers us the privileges with its subsequent blessings and responsibilities. Our lives in their attitude to God are like three doors, one inside the other. The outer door of fact, intellect, as a general rule, accepts Him. The second door of the emotions (principally that of love), seldom refuses God. The third door of the will is the most difficult of ingress, and God himself, omnipotent though he be, never forces the door. Taking it for granted that God has passed through two doors, He still stands at the door of the will.

To fully make a success of our lives God has to enter this door. The Father has a definite position in life for us all and we should follow our Maker's plans.

Miss Graham, soloist in the First Methodist church, of St. Thomas, sang Dudley Buck's "Fear me not, O Israel," at the evening service. Miss Graham has a well cultivated soprano voice and sings with perfect ease and expressiveness. All hope to hear her again before she returns home.

A BURNING RAILROAD BRIDGE

Passenger Train Passed Over - Three Coaches Burned.

North Bay: As Engineer McAdams, of the C. P. R., was approaching the Rideout River at a great speed with a trainload of Chinamen, he noticed that the bridge was a mass of flames. He threw on the emergency brakes and along with the fireman jumped to safety.

On turning round he saw some of the coaches in the middle of the burning bridge. He sprang into the train and running through the bridge, he opened the throttle and ran part of the train across the bridge. Part of the train remained and another train was expected in the rear. Brakeman Wilson rose to the occasion and swam across to the burning bridge, and flagged the approaching train. The engine was soon encircled and three of the cars were pulled away to safety. Three others were totally consumed by the flames, but the passengers escaped. Ten sections of the bridge were also destroyed, and all traffic was tied up for over seventeen hours.

America's Boasted Civilization.

British newspapers comment rather bitterly upon the conditions disclosed by the trial of Haywood at Boise, Idaho, in the United States. The London Chronicle says that the state of society revealed by the trial is more terrible than any civil war, because it is more treacherous, and likely to be more lasting. From the beginning to the end it reveals a state of brutal capacity, confronted with savage, despairing violence, a condition which gives America's boasted civilization a very dubious look. The conditions certainly disclose rather more than suspicions of a smouldering class war, and do much to justify the comment of the Daily News, which states that "the whole movement, both in the revelations of the trial and its accompanying, in public excitement, has illustrated the insecurity of authority in America, and profound scepticism concerning the identity of law and justice."

HOW IS IT WITH YOUR CHILD?

Willfulness Indulged Frequently Sows Seeds of Criminality.

At the recent convention of Chief Constables of Canada, held in Montreal, several excellent papers were read by various officers on crime, the treatment of criminals, and the duties of police officers. One by Mr. Archibald, Dominion parole officer, was of more than ordinary public interest, from the fact that it dealt with what he called the "germ of confirmed criminality." "Children," he said, "that are controlled by candy and coaxing are subject to these early germs. It is of first importance that parents should realize that the most potent factor in the character and destiny of their children is the lesson of self-control and obedience." And he did not say this without reason, for, he says, "Time and again I have heard from the lips of prisoners the pathetic confession of a wayward and disobedient childhood, of passions indulged, and of habits formed, without efficient guidance or restraint, hence the moral wreck." "These are words which every parent of young children should ponder over," remarks a writer in an exchange. "How is it with their children? Are they sowing the seeds of criminality in their children by willfulness? Does the child say to its father or mother, 'No, I won't!' when it is asked to do anything? And does the parent allow it to talk and act thus disobediently? If such is the case with your child, Mr. Archibald tells you parents that you are your child's worst enemy, that you are planting in it seeds of disobedience, of self-will, that will in future years lead its steps toward the penitentiary to become a jail-bird and outcast from society. How do you like the picture? The child whom you would gladly defend, and for whom you love and cherish, if need be, being trained to a life of criminality by your own foolish weakness. Heaven help you, if that is the case, and pray that it may, not yet be too late to undo the great wrong being done to your child.

Mother's Anxiety.

The summer months are a time of anxiety for mothers because they are the most dangerous months in the year for babies and young children. Stomach and bowel troubles come quickly during the hot weather and almost before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally because they keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter. And the tablets will cure these troubles if they come suddenly. The wise mother should keep these Tablets always at hand and give them occasionally to her children. The Tablets can be given with equal success to the newborn babe or the well grown child. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm, and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or harmful drug. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

—A BREACH OF THE BY-LAW.
Building Will be Altered to Conform With Regulations.

Evening Post of Aug. 6.
Acting upon the decision of Council last night, Chief Vincent (this morning visited the building owned by the Dominion Wheel Co. which is being built irregularly with the fire by-law, and ordered that the work on it be stopped and that it be torn down. Pending the arrival of the Company's solicitor, active measures will not be taken.

—To a recent visitor Mr. Hamilton, of the Dominion Wheel Co., said the building was going to be changed so as to conform with the by-law. Previously it had just been a roof, and recently it had been sheathed with lumber. It is on the spot where a conflagration began a few years ago. Mr. Hamilton said the sheathing would be taken down and be replaced with iron. It will be used for the storage of felloes for wheels.

FOUND A HUMAN SKELETON.

Excavators Unearth Remains of a Man—May Be a Murderer.

Port Perry is all excitement at present over the recent finding of a skeleton of a man who disappeared some thirty years ago. The skull of the skeleton was badly crushed. Men were excavating around the foundations of the former Grand Hotel when they came upon the ghastly remains.

As the story is told by an old resident, the skeleton is supposed to be that of a rich Jew who resided in the neighborhood. One day this individual was missed; his horse and rig were found at a distance from the spot. No trace of his whereabouts could be found, and the incident remained shrouded in mystery. Suspicion was rife at the time but no one was implicated.

The skeleton may or may not be that of the supposed murderer, but the find is creating a good deal of interest in that little hamlet.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Now that the Trenton voters' list case has been brought to the knowledge of the Attorney-General's department, will it be investigated? Or will it be glossed over?

The Attorney-General's department rules that a medical health officer has the power to place any person attacked by scarlet fever under isolation, if not too ill. In isolating or removing a patient to be isolated, due regard to his safety must be had.

Two important Young People's Conferences have been meeting on the Pacific slope. The Baptist Union People's Union gathered in Spokane and the International Y. P. S. C. E. held its biennial meeting in Seattle. General Secretary Shaw reported that the Society now numbers 3,456,500 members in 69,138 societies, a gain of 2,366 societies in two years.

The Standard, a leading Baptist weekly, published in Chicago, hopes to gather in some "copy" during the holiday season by instituting an enquiry as to how much churches spend for music and how much they ought to spend. A partial enquiry made in Chicago showed that, on an average, about 14 per cent. of the total annual expenses of the churches went for music.

Hamilton Times: When the Tory press gets done with the work of helping Laurier to fill vacancies in his cabinet, perhaps it will find time to tell the people what sort of timber Borden would use were he called upon to form a ministry. Of course, the utter improbability of such a contingency has kept them from discussing the subject, but it would be interesting to know what his selections would be.

Stratford Beacon: The Toronto World hints that the brains of the Lindsay counterfeiting gang, alleged to be a Toronto man, is being shielded. It thinks it strange that the plates and presses used in making the bills were not recovered by the detectives. It would be a great miscarriage of justice to permit the escape of the ringleader whilst the dupes of farmers are being punished.

A writer to the Stratford Beacon says:

The Beacon has had its annual excursion to Niagara, and the Herald has had one to Detroit. Do the proprietors of these journals fully realize the good they are doing? In an inland city we do not know very much about the work being done along our great waterways. What an eye-opener Niagara is, and a sail from Sarnia to Detroit is delightful. It is a loss to us that we are so far from the many pleasant resorts to be found in Ontario, where the Government has spent and is spending vast sums in improving these places. Next year the Beacon might give us a chance to see the great lift-lock at Peterboro and the Herald might take us down through the Thousand Islands or up to Lake Simcoe or the Georgian Bay. To know our country well is an education in itself, and knowledge gained by travel is of lasting benefit to everyone.

Mr. Archibald, Parole Officer, says the criminal class is mostly recruited from the ranks of the spoiled, self-willed children of homes in which parental teaching and discipline are wanting. And he is right. Often the mothers and fathers ought to get the punishment the law inflicts on the young offender.

The United States army and navy departments now cost the people of the republic over $200,000,000 a year, or about 40 per cent. of the national expenditure, and at least $150,000,000 of that is worse than wasted. And the sinful and criminal burdening of the people goes on, while those who profit by it seek to provoke bloody wars to keep up the expenditure.

Hamilton Times: The sentences imposed on the Lindsay counterfeiters, three years, two years, and one month respectively, cannot be said to be excessive for the nature of the crime committed, and the acquittal of Gastlin and Miller seems to have met with general approval. Now it remains to be seen whether, following recent custom, wirepulling and petitioning for the release of the convicted will become active a few weeks hence.

The Presbyterian Dr. Francis E. Clark, writing in the "Interior," about Presbyterianism in South America, says: "Nowhere are the evils of sectarianism and of the divisions and subdivisions of the Protestant church more evident than in some parts of South America. 'Your Protestant doctrines are right,' said a Brazilian military officer to a friend of mine, 'but you will never win because you are always fighting among yourselves.' Though this is an overstatement, there is too much truth in it for the credit of Protestantism."

The charge against the news agent on a G. T. R. train for selling his wares at Guelph on a Lord's Day in April, has ended after long delay in the magistrate convicting the defendant. No appeal has been or is likely to be taken. Mr. Jas. Haverston, K. C., had charge of the defence, and Crown Attorney Paterson of the prosecution. The conviction was for selling newspapers. But the news agents have no right under the Lord's Day Act to sell anything whatever, to travellers or to others, on or off the trains, or to be on the trains at all for business purposes.

There seems to be a strong resemblance between the people of Texas, as represented in the Legislature, and our own Doukhobors. The former have passed an anti-trust law, and as a consequence they neither dare to buy nor to sell anything that has not been fabricated before their own eyes. For clothes they are being reduced to rag leavers, for there is nothing wrought or woven in the United States that any man dares wear is not the product of a trust. For food they are safe only on the cargoes of their own back gardens. And outside the state the big octopuses which are devising a score of ways of getting around this enactment, are roaring with laughter at the effectual way in which it kills all local effort on the part of Texans to combine against them.

The Washington Post says that if the United States should go to war to-day there would not be half enough officers and men to handle the ships of the navy. "Within a year ten fine large ships will go into commission, carrying crews aggregating 7,000 men. They can only be manned by laying up vessels now in service, some of them very efficient craft, which should be kept in commission. The discrepancy between material and personnel in the navy is daily growing greater." It is a good sign. Every one of those 7,000 men would be better supporting himself than consuming the labor of others. And there is really no need for their services or for those ships; the United States would be just as safe if the ships had never been built and the men had never been withdrawn from useful employment.

THE TOGOS LEAVE CAMP.

CLOSE OF A DELIGHTFUL TWO WEEKS UNDER CANVAS

Rosedale the Most Charming Spot on the Kewartheas.

Friday, Aug. 2nd.
The Togos are on the go—they have dwindled down to five under canvas and two under the shingled roof, and negroes are many that two weeks only contain 14 days. The hours (at this, the best of all spots on the Kewartheas) should be one hundred minutes each. But all are very thankful that two weeks are allotted for rest and recreation out of the 52.

The life-saving and wrecking crew of the Togos done good service yesterday—a prominent gentleman of Lindsay, while making his way from Cobocook to this bungalow in his gasoline launch, lost his wheel when out in mid-lake. The Manitoba brought the news to Percy, and he motored away to the stranded yacht, landed it at the stationary boom at Rosedale, jacked it up, and in less than 30 minutes had the repairer yacht on its way to Lindsay. Barren O'Neil, on the end of a monkey wrench, was the candy boy in the right spot.

Mr. Ames landed a dandy lunge just before breakfast this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey and young daughter, of Toronto; Mrs. Fisher and Melville and baby Mary; and Mrs. Robinson, of Lindsay, will occupy the canvas vacated by the Togos, going into camp Monday.

SOME NOTES.

The Rosedale post office has been removed from the Reynolds property to Moy Villa, a neat and substantial building being erected for the purpose. Miss Viola McIntosh is postmistress, and is always pleasing and accommodating.

It is not necessary to bring a lot of vegetables to Rosedale as Mr. Tom Reynolds has almost every kind of green goods (barring the Lindsay make) that grows, and you get them from the dirt as you need them.

Mr. Jos Carroll, wife and company, came up on the Manitoba on Thursday and lunched at Rosedale, awaiting the return of the boat from Cobocook. Joe carries a fine brand of smokes when out for an outing—we know, because we saw a pile of four of them.

Mr. McCraw, of the G.T.R., Lindsay, and family, and Mrs. Billingsley and family, were visitors at the Dale Thursday, and had a run in the Togo around the lake.

Mr. Frank Scott and wife, Lindsay, were guests at Camp Togo on Thursday, and made a lucky patch of three bass while waiting for the return of the boat.

Three cheers for the finals of the best outing the Togos have had as yet. Next season they contemplate doubling the size of the camp and having a first-class chef. do the catering—yes, and possibly have a new Togo No. 3 off larger size than Togo No. 2.

There was bitter irony in the request made by a Chinese delegate, Colonel Ting, at The Hague Conference, while the matter of a formal declaration of war was being discussed. Master Willie Parkin, who is stopping with his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Parkin, is a promising young fisherman. Tuesday morning he caught a magnificent goodly dimensions, but it disappeared from under his very nose as he was holding it up to the admiring gaze of his grandfather, who was rowing the boat. It was a truly disconcerting exhibition of fishy athletics, but things evened up next day, when another piece one was landed and found its way into the frying pan and due season.

The cottagers are divided in opinion as to the relative beauties of the two handsome hostesses created this season by Mr. J. W. Flavell, of Toronto, and Dr. Robt. Allan, of California. The former is of the pavilion type, and its shingled pillars, wide verandahs, and rustic tint combine to produce a truly splendid effect. Dr. Allan's building is a dainty creation, the color scheme a dark green with white trimmings, and it looks so inviting that passers-by involuntarily exclaim, "Wouldn't it be nice to live there?" That's just what Dr. Binley, doing the upper flat being designed with that object in view. He will move in shortly.

PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD

CHEESE DID NOT REACH ELEVEN CENTS AT RECENT SALE

10 13-16 Cents was Best Price Offered—Registration was 4,595 Boxes.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

Peterboro Review: Both the amount of cheese registered and the price paid at Wednesday's meeting of the Peterboro Cheese Board were below those at the last meeting two weeks ago. Eleven buyers were on hand, however, and they seemed to be keen after cheese, but the best they would pay was 10 13-16, with 10 3-4 as the second figure. The total registration was 4,595 boxes, as compared with an even 5,000 two weeks ago, when 11 5-16 was the ruling price. Cheese has been going down the slide, however, since the last meeting of the board, and it was not expected that over 11c would be paid to-day. It is likely that the registration of two weeks ago, 5,000 boxes, will be the highest for the season, as the flow of milk is now decreasing. June is the factory man's big month. The board will meet again in two weeks.

THE BIDDING.

The bidding opened with an offer of 10c from Mr. Wrighton. This was raised to 10 1-16 by Mr. Whitton and then Mr. Wrighton offered 10 1-4c. Mr. Squires raised the bid to 10 5-16, and two or three intermediate bids were made until Mr. Gillespie offered 10 11-16. This was raised to 10 3-4c by Mr. Cook, Mr. Whitton made it 10 13-16, and had the first call, taking the following: Cavanville, Ormiston, Killarney, Norwood, Brickley and Lantz.

Westwood and Keene refused this offer.

The next call went to Mr. Gillespie at 10 13-16, and the following sold: Buckhorn, Westwood, Vintels, and Otonabee Union.

Mr. Clark offered 10 13-16, for the next lot and the following sold: Bensford, Shearer, Trevern, Pine Grove, Lakefield, Myrtle, Fraserdale, Crown, entrail Smith, Selwyn, Westmaster and Warsaw.

Mr. Weir also offered 10 13-16, and the following factories sold: Ondaale, Keene, Indian River, and Young's Point. Mr. Weir offered 10 3-4c, for further, but Mr. Squires offered 10 3-4c for the board and the latter bid took precedence. The following sold: Cedarvale, Mount Pleasant, Oak Leaf, South Burleigh, and Hope.

Maple Leaf, North Dunsmuir, East Emily, and Fleetwood refused this offer and also the same figure from Mr. Weir. They were the only factories that did not sell.

A total of 35 factories boarded 4,595 boxes. The following buyers were present: Messrs. Wrighton, Cook, Squires, Gillespie, Grant, Weir, Whitton, Brentnell, Jones and Cienas.

Entertained Her Friends.

The home of Miss Mabel Bryans, north ward, was the scene of a jolly gathering of young people last week, when about twenty or more of her friends were entertained on the lawn. The grounds were prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and bunting. Rain, however, interfered and the party adjourned to the house, where cake and ice cream was served, after which games and music were indulged in.

After thank for the popular young hostess for the pleasant evening spent, the happy crowd dispersed to their homes in the wee small hours of the morning.

CAMP TUGO, BALSAM LAKE.

Members Are Having the Time of Their Lives—Yachting Trips

Evening Post of Aug. 1.
We are pretty near the finals to-day (Wednesday), and we believe we will win out as having beaten all previous attempts at a good time. Weather, o.k., but a trifle windy—think we will have a kite-flying contest, as it is no trouble getting a breeze at any time.

Bert, Harry, Percy, and Stafford O'Neill left at 6:30 this a.m. for Kirkfield, and will look through with the Manita, which is going to Beaverton with the Oddfellows' excursion from the Falls, passing Rosedale at 8 a.m. Mrs. R. J. M. and Nellie Blye will catch the boat and will make their first trip to Beaverton.

Arlie Wardrobe and his companion, Leo Koyl, from Kingston, have been delightfully entertaining the Tugos with a high-class musical on his elegant phonograph, and has given us lots of variety, having 600 records to choose from.

Pinky and Norman are putting in a good time—most of it spent in the company of the young girls of the burg.

Mrs. and R. J. M., Harry and the Irish comedian, Barney O'Neill, had a fine trip to Cobocoon on Tuesday night on the Kawartha, guests of the accommodating captain, Cass Dunsyane. (The sail was a bit rough on the trip, but after a splendid supper at the Patisserie, the return trip was untroubled.)

We made the Barot River trip on Tuesday morning, brought our traps and heaped them up with the red and black jelly rasps, but they are scarce as yet and very small. It is just like fishing—stay with it and you get them.

May Villa, where Mrs. McIntosh puts up such appetizing meals, is fast getting to overflowing, applications being refused every mail.

The government are now building a lighthouse on the wharf that, when finished, will be elevated and placed at the red buoy, just west of the bridge. Six men are on the job, and the foundation of the lighthouse is now being laid.

Mr. and Mrs. Ames, Miss Ames, and Miss Bowman, of Buffalo, are guests with Mrs. Arkwright. Mr. Ames is deep after the denizens of the deep.

Mr. and Mrs. Metzger and family, of Pittsburg, are doing the lakes in their well equipped yacht, the Elise M., and it is a beauty, costing $900 at Peterboro two months ago.

Mr. and Miss Geary, of Hamilton, passed through Rosedale Tuesday on a canoeing trip to Lakefield, Sparrow Lake, and toulous at Orillia and Barrie.

The Terry-Stinson-Hamilton party passed up to Lake Simcoe on the yacht formerly owned by Mr. Hogg. They apparently were out for a good time.

MORE ANON.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, the members were sporting themselves in the lake and kicking up daisies; 3 a.m., 37,000 logs (belonging to the lumber king, J. Carew, of Lindsay, were making their way through the bridge all the lumber jacks hustling. They were assisted by Percy and Pink, who are running the logs like old-time river drivers. It is like making our way through the crotch of timber, will sit with Mr. Alex. Jamieson, Hill View farm, Glenora, for dinner.

Mrs. R. J. and Nellie Blye had a fine trip to Beaverton Wednesday, and are thoroughly enjoying themselves and putting on flesh. Mr. Metzger and family break camp to-day, and will put up again at Beaverton for vicinity for a short stay. They will tour the lakes until Oct. 1st—then home to Pittsburg.

erey, Barney and Harry went to the Falls last night and caught the late train for Lindsay, and Harry, no doubt, is at his desk at the G.T.R. offices this morning.

The Oddfellows' excursion from Fenelon Falls to Beaverton yesterday was a large one, the Manita being loaded to her full capacity. She landed her passengers at the Falls at 9 p.m.

Burt, Barney, Percy and Harry, made Kirkfield on Wednesday in two hours and were hospitably entertained by Mr. Jack Walker, manager of the Standard Bank and were back in the beauty spot, Rosedale, at 4:30 p.m.

Dozens of rigs passed through the burg this morning, all heading for the heavy patches on Chemung Island, two miles from Cobocoon. They say the riggers are very fine, and lots of them in that district.

Mr. Bert Downey, of Fenelon Falls, passed through this morning on a business trip to Cobocoon and Norland.

THE RUSSO-JAPAN ENTENTE.

An Amicable Arrangement Between the Two Great Powers.

While the continental press has been assuming negotiations between Great Britain and Russia for the settlement of all questions, especially those of Asiatic boundaries and spheres of influence, events have been quietly maturing in another direction. The signing at St. Petersburg of a treaty settling all outstanding differences between Russia and Japan is an event of the utmost importance. From the hints given in the despatch, Japan would seem to have scored some very satisfactory advantages. Very important among these is that the yellow pigmies, as Prince Ukhtomsky called them just before the late unpleasantness, are to enjoy on Russian territory, as are Russian subjects in Japan, equality before the law and equal commercial opportunity. What gives importance to this is the fact that the United States and Australia, not having gone beyond the yellow pigmy stage of intelligence with regard to them, are busy devising, possibly to their own hurt, all sorts of disabilities against men of Asiatic race. At all events, if the story of the treaty is truly told, Russia, which was the hindmost of nations in all matters of modernity and fraternity, has, under pressure of circumstances, stepped to the front in this frank acceptance of the principle of human equality. It will now be for the rest of the world to win in the development of eastern Asia. It will be a notable race. Russia will bond what energies she has toward developing her empire in the valley of the Amur, while, on the other hand, Japanese enterprise will swarm all over the coast. If the Russians have the greater energy and commercial ability, the meeting of these two human currents will be chiefly to their advantage. If the Japanese excel in these qualities, it will be their race that will dominate.

A second important concession that seems to have been gained by Japan is the continued exclusion of the Kwangtung peninsula from all arrangements with regard to Manchuria. Both parties have always in their negotiations treated Manchuria as belonging to China, whose integrity in the matter was to be held sacred by both. As a matter of fact Japan is still at Mukden and Russia is still at Harbin, and there is no saying when either will leave. Japan has definitely possessed herself of the little Kwangtung peninsula, which contains the quondam Russian strongholds of Port Arthur and Dairen, and she certainly, judging from some recent utterances of Japanese magnates, regards southern Manchuria as a sphere of influence, in time to be peopled and dominated by the overflow of the Japanese race. Korea is, of course, recognized as definitely Japanese. The fisheries along the Pacific coast will fall practically to Japan, whose fishermen are the most pushing and most daring in the world. In the British Columbia fisheries the Japanese are, in rough weather, a great deal further out to sea than any white fishermen dare go. The Japanese are under the treaty to be on a par with Russians in Russian waters, they will pay the same license as the Chinese subjects, and they will be free to export their fish without the check of any export duty. The term fisheries covers the taking of all sea animals except the otter. Except at the mouth of the Amur the Japanese may employ Japanese, or in other words they may act altogether as though the coast was their own, except for the policing, which will be in the hands of Russia.

NO CLOSE SEASON.

This is What a Leading Fisherman Believes In.

G. W. Gauthier, one of the most prominent of Canadian fishermen, and one of the foremost authorities on fish, told the Canadian Fish Commission, in session lately, that there should be no close season for any kind of fish. Government hatcheries would rapidly re-establish stock in the great lakes. Salmon trout should not be protected because they eat the eggs of whitefish and do not seem to be decreased in number by the annual catch. Discussing the number of fish caught by Canadians and the American shores, Mr. Gauthier said at this expert's report, the said almost the entire number of fish caught by Canadians received from Canadian fishermen at they were willing to pay the same price. Gauthier outlined a plan to have the government establish canneries along the shores of the northern lakes and supply canned herring to the people at an estimated cost of about six cents a pound.

Jury men who have experienced the misery of trying to secure unanimity in a verdict will appreciate this story. The jury had been locked up for hours. At last the officer of the court was instructed to provide refreshment.

"Shall I order 12 dinners?" he said to the foreman.

"Make it 11 dinners, and a bale of hay," said the foreman.

PHONE CONNECTION NORTH.

Fenelon Falls Citizens Urge Building of Independent Line.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

For some time past a number of the more progressive business men and farmers between here and Kimbrough have been endeavoring to get the Bell Telephone Co. to extend its line from either the Falls or Cobocoon into that section; but as that big company is unable to figure on any business where from fifty to a hundred per cent. profit in advance is not forthcoming, it couldn't see its way clear to put in the line, though all the people who wanted the service would build the line and present it to the big company, the said big company would have much pleasure in operating it at the expense of the builders, plus one of the profits mentioned above. So the north country people, tired of trying to make satisfactory arrangements with the Bell company, have decided that they can build and operate a line of their own, as is being done in many and an ever increasing number of places similarly situated.

STRONG REASONING.

A considerable amount of canvassing has already been done, and the promoters have met with great success that they have decided to make a start at construction in the very near future, running from Burnt River to Bury's Green, in which section the wide-awake farmers have subscribed largely, and from there to the Falls, unless—and here is where our business men must wake up—unless the farmers and business men in the direction of Bobaygeon make a stronger bid for it than do the people in this village and vicinity. A Burnt River man was at the Falls recently in the interests of the enterprise, and said that, while he received considerable encouragement, the people here did not appear to be fully alive to the importance of the situation. Look here, business men of Fenelon Falls, the business of the north country, or a part of it, will follow that telephone line. A telephone line is not an expensive affair like a railway, but it is almost as important to a community. And an independent line is worth two or three Bell lines, for it is run solely for the convenience and profit of its subscribers.

SYSTEM WILL EXTEND.

Another point: This is just the beginning of rural telephony in this section. It is a safe prediction that within ten years or less, there will not be a square mile of the country north, east and west, to which the system will not reach, if it remains independent. Will these lines center in Fenelon Falls or will they not? It is worth ten or twelve dollars a year for a merchant or other business man to be next door to all his customers? It will not do to sit back and say the line will come here anyway. It won't. It will go where the people put it. An organization meeting is to be held in the near future, and the line will likely be in operation before the snow flies. What are you going to do about it?—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

PRESENTATION AT MINDEN.

Rev. Archbold and Bride Welcomed at the Clergy House.

On Tuesday evening last the Clergy House, Minden, was filled to overflowing with a highly delighted crowd representing the congregation of St. Paul's church, Minden, who, with visitors from Hallowell and Lochlin, had assembled to greet Rev. Rural Dean Archbold and his bride, on their home coming. The assembly was headed by the church wardens, who, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. and Mrs. Archbold with a very handsome parlor couch upholstered in rich red plush, recommended by an address of welcome and good wishes, which was read by the clergyman's warden, Mr. H. E. Soward, and the presentation made by Mr. D. J. Harte, people's warden. Rural Dean Archbold replied in most feeling and fitting terms, after which the company enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant time, during which light refreshments were served to the company, and the meeting concluded with hearty personal congratulations from the visitors for the future welfare of the newly married couple.

The following is the address: Mr. and Mrs. Archbold.

On behalf of the members of the congregation of St. Paul's church I am requested by them to perform a very pleasant duty, at this time, in asking Mrs. Archbold and yourself to accept a small token of our esteem and love towards you, of our deep appreciation of your labors on our behalf, and of our sincere wishes for the happiness and felicity, and may God our Heavenly Father, bless you with every good gift through life's journey.—Signed on behalf of the members of St. Paul's.

Some Remarks on

Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

There was an item of news recently that struck us as being rather peculiar. It was the fact that all bars and places where liquor could be procured, were to be closed during the strike at Cobalt. The thought just struck us—why, if this liquor business is a respectable, legitimate business, should such an order be that go out, and why should it be out when there is any appearance of trouble? Surely if it is right and correct to sell liquor at one time, it is right and correct at another time, either that or it is wrong all both times. Should there happen to be a catastrophe, such as a great fire in a place about the first thing the Mayor does is to order the closing of the saloons. When San Francisco was visited last year with its terrible earthquake and fire, the first order that went out was to close every saloon, with the result that crime seemed almost to stop. Now it does seem to be good logic, that if crime would be stopped in one case by the closing of saloons, it would be stopped in the ordinary running of a town by closing them. How would it do for us to try it in Lindsay? San Francisco is generally conceded to be the worst city for the continent. It is the jumping-off place, and the dress of both men and women wind up in it, as they can't get any farther away, but during the time the saloons were closed crime practically ceased.

We very often see the statement made, mostly by Haverston, K.C., that the saloon-keepers are just as anyone to keep the law as anybody. We have knocked around quite a bit, and must confess that our experience is to the contrary. Either through good-heartedness, or love of gain, they will sell drink at any and every time—not all of them, but the great majority of them. Take Cobalt. There is no license in Cobalt, and yet there are probably a dozen places where a man can get a drink.
These people who sell know they are breaking the law, and if they are willing to break one law, how many more will they not break? It is convenient. We often wonder if the railways and express companies, and the wholesale merchants who sell them, think they are innocent of any law-breaking. In this unfortunate case of counterfeiting money, we see that the authorities rope in everybody in any way connected with it—the engraver, the printer, the issuer, and the man who above it. Why should the same rule apply to legal money?
Any wholesale man who gets an order from Cobalt, knows that it has no right to go there, but no doubt argues—especially if the cash accompanies the order—that it is none of his business, and slips it as vinegar or tomato sauce or something else, but what it is, thus delivering lying, as well as breaking the liquor laws. Now act if you will, his traveller probably calls there regularly, so that it is no new thing to him.

Then the express or the railway companies are not by any means guiltless. Of course the stuff they regularly, so that it is no new thing carry is not billed as beer or wine, key. It goes out as vinegar or adder, or raspberry wine, but they know it is not either of them and we suppose that a conscientious agent who undertook to do the straight thing, would get well slapped over the knuckles from his superiors and told to mind his own business. It is wonderful what we will all do, even the best of us, for a few extra cents.
It would not surprise us one bit were there something, after all, in the Soberan's plea that if you once eliminate the profit, you will stop the harm. It is worth thinking over very seriously. There has got to be a cure found.

Victoria Road Hotel Rumpus.
In last week's issue of our weekly appeared a letter from a prominent citizen of Victoria Road, in which he complained bitterly about certain disorderly proceedings at a local hotel the Saturday evening previous. License Inspector Thornbury, of this town, took the matter up, the hotel in question being within his jurisdiction and the affair culminated Friday in Mr. Chirpaw, the hotelman's question, paying our town a visit, and being assessed $15 and costs
by Magistrate Moore.

It is only fair to Mr. Chirpaw—who is known to keep an orderly house—to explain that he was absent from home on the day the rumpus occurred, and that he expressed his disapproval of the disorderly behaviour of the hotelman by promptly discharging the bartender who had encouraged and permitted it.

Just Like Lindsay in the Eighties.
Port Hope Guide: Last evening's Council meeting was the merriest for 1907, and some hard knocks were handed out by the members. It was carried out together too far, and the only movement of the evening which didn't meet with opposition was the resolution to adjourn. It took just three hours and ten minutes to do forty minutes business. There was nothing upon the eighth month of the year, and it is time the City Fathers settled down to business. It might be in the future if the argy-bargy of the members should rise, for the rise of the ship to adjourn the meeting. Nothing is gained in such burlesques.

WOMAN CHASED BY BEAR

WHILE OUT BERRY PICKING NEAR JANETVILLEVillagers Organize a Posse to Hunt the Animal to His Death.

Evening Post of Aug. 3.
The following, taken from yesterday's Peterboro Examiner, reads well, but so far we have been unable to verify the tale:

The village of Janetville was greatly excited yesterday afternoon and evening over the appearance of a big, real live bear in a berry patch about half a mile outside the village.
A woman and two children were in the patch picking raspberries when suddenly the woman heard a peculiar noise a little distance away. She turned around and beheld a big bear approaching. She alarmed the two youngsters, and the three dropped their pails and made a wild run for safety. It was the only thing they could do, as they were unarmed, and no assistance was at hand. They were badly scared and covered the ground at a rapid gait, with the bear close behind. They reached a house not far away, and the animal which is so fond of putting its arms around one, made off again.

Word was sent to the village and like wild fire, spread among the residents. Mr. J. R. Burns, one of the merchants organized a posse, which started out for the berry patch. All were well armed and they formed a circle around the supposed hiding place, but Bruin had departed.

The sight of a bear in the berry patches will put fear into the hearts of women and children, and it will be a hard job getting pickers for the balance of the season.

WESTERN vs. ONTARIO FLOUR.

The Latter is a Favorite in the Maritime Provinces.

Only by wisely adopting new discoveries can the farmers of this Province compete on even terms with the West, whose specialty is wheat.
Western wheat has invaded Ontario, and the decline in the demand for Ontario wheat is to-day a fact only too evident to farmers. Ontario agriculturists, in many instances, buy Western flour, raise little or no wheat, and for what they do raise, are not receiving a price commensurate with their labor—all largely because they will not use the flour made from wheat that they grow themselves, owing to a mistaken opinion that the Western flour is better.

In addition to this loss of market, the cost of feed is too high to enable stockmen and dairymen to realize the profit which, under proper conditions, ought to be assured.

It will be somewhat of a surprise for most farmers, to learn that Ontario flour is a favorite in the Eastern provinces; and that in the face of strong competition, it has for several years been preferred in the Maritime provinces, to the best Western brands. The discovery of flour-blending bids fair to re-open the demand for Ontario wheat; and this ought to attract the attention of Ontario farmers to a question of real importance to the agricultural interests of the Province.

Blended flour is simply the best of Ontario's finely-flavored product to which a small proportion of Western wheat is added to bring up the percentage of gluten or "strength."
Blended flour is the best for baking and for millinery, it means both strength and flavor in the daily loaf.
Viewed economically, it means an increased market for an Ontario-grown product which has won the unprejudiced favor of the East.

Whether this will prove true of Ontario, and whether such a demand will be created that the price of wheat will improve and the cost of bread and shorts become lower, depends upon the individual farmer.
Buying Western flour means a negative answer to the query; if, however, the Ontario farmer is alive to the situation, he cannot financially afford to neglect the latest discovery in practical economics, and will insist on buying only the flour milled in Ontario.

MORAL TONE.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

The outcome of the counterfeiting case at Lindsay is one that indicates a rather peculiar state of public opinion and one that does not bode well for the moral fibre of the community. Briefly it means that a number of men engaged in a dishonest enterprise, appeal so sympathetically, not merely to their personal friends, but to the general public, that they are tried, not for the crime, but for having given the snags away. The crime of counterfeiting bills is a serious one, among a people who place any importance on honesty. It is one that of necessity for the protection of financial security must be treated with the greatest severity in order to prevent unprincipled and unscrupulous men from attempting any dishonest tampering with public confidence. When criminals are caught, it is not those individuals that are to be considered, but the public well and the object of the penalty is not so much punishment to the individual criminal, as a warning to prevent other criminals, disposed persons from attempting the same thing. Of course law is not more than the opinion of the community as a whole, and if the community is ready to approve of counterfeiting bank bills, there will be no legal objection to anyone engaging in the business who wishes.
It is not a healthy state of society when criminals receive public sympathy. It is very evident that the moral tone needs bracing with an iron tonic. It is becoming daily degenerated, partly by indulgence in fictitious contests elections, horse races, cock fighting, and baseball.
There are other places where similar degeneracy prevails, and it is a common thing to find public sympathy in favor of the criminal, rather than for honesty, and good principled conduct.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

Kingston Whig: John R. Webster, a grain merchant, of Chicago, who was visiting in Kingston during this week, was asked by the Whig about the crops in the States. He said that the crop of wheat was not an excessive one, but that the quality, so far, is rather good.

The outlook for good prices for the producers of wheat and the manufacturers of flour during the current harvest year may be regarded as very encouraging.

Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, is making arrangements to install at one or two representative cheese factories septic tanks and any other appliances found necessary for the disposal of sewage. The subject has heretofore received very little attention from a scientific standing, and the necessity for better provision for the disposal of sewage is becoming more and more apparent. In fact, many of the factories will be required to make better provision for keeping the plant and surroundings in a more sanitary condition, and this can only be done by installing suitable equipment. The cost for this will not be great, and it is expected that the Department of Agriculture in conjunction with the Provincial Board of Health will be prepared later in the season to make some definite recommendations as to the most suitable methods for the disposal of factory sewage.

"Is the oats crop in the province of Ontario deteriorating, and to what extent?" asks the Toronto Globe.
These questions have been furnishing followers to the grain market amply fuel for discussion during the past week, and, judging from reports that have been arriving daily, the condition of the crop is becoming very serious. The damage is accentuated by contrast with the uniformly favorable outlook during the few previous weeks, when farmers and grain men in union in predicting a splendid harvest. Now, however, the situation has shown a radical change, and the pessimistic ones are in some cases allowing oats but half a crop.
Whether these gloomy views of conditions are warranted are extremely doubtful, but it will be a waste to wait yet before an estimate of the damage, at all approaching accuracy, can be made. From many parts of York county come reports of the great injury which is being done to the crop by the presence of the "aphis" or out louse, the ravages of which are becoming more and more marked every day. Where a week ago its presence was unknown, or the withered appearance of the crop attributed to other causes, no doubt now remains as to the reasons; and reports from other counties describe conditions similar to those ruling in York. A member of the grain section of the Board of Trade, whose firm has correspondents in all sections of the province, corroborates the above report. "All other grains appear to be growing well," he remarked; "but, judging from the despatches I have had from different points, the outlook for oats is discouraging, and the crop is going backward every day.
Fields here and there seem to have escaped damage, but the general con-

R. H. Little, of Pine Grove cheese factory, Peterboro county, is a prosperous cheese maker, and believes in giving his patrons practical advice.
He keeps only one cow, but she is leader in the Pine Grove Testing Association. She is a grade Holstein, and during May gave 1,112 lbs. of milk, testing 6.1, yielding 67.8 lbs.
of butter fat, while for June she gave 1,330 lbs. of milk, testing 5.5, yielding 73.15 lbs. of butter-fat.

C. Earl Gray, expert in dairy manufactures, of the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, has recently invented an apparatus for determining the water content of butter. The apparatus is simple and so accurate that it is likely to come promptly into general use. This is another important step in the mastery of dairy products.

JESUS WITH ME

I'm walking close to Jesus' side
So close that I can hear
The softest whispers of his love,
In fellowship so dear,
And feel His great, almighty hand
Protects me in this hostile land.
O wondrous bliss! O joy sublime!
I've Jesus with me all the time.

I'm leaning on his loving breast
Along life's weary way;
My path, illumined by his smiles,
Grows brighter day by day.
No foes nor woes my heart can fear
With my Almighty Friend so near.
O wondrous bliss! O joy sublime!
I've Jesus with me all the time.

Rev. L. S. Hughton will preach the morning and evening sermons at the Baptist church to-morrow.

The value of a gift in God's sight depends more on its spirit than on its size, but one who is able to give much can not put into a few cents the spirit of a widow who cast two mites in the treasury.

That wonderful storehouse of buried treasure, Egypt, has yielded up another supply of ancient Christian literature. At Edfu, Nubia, a number of parchments have recently been found, including twenty-five leaves of a Coptic translation of alleged sayings of Christ, as well as portions of the Gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke in Greek.

The Presbyterian relates the following as an example of willingness and imagination of a business man who was ready to attempt a biographical sketch of Paul for a Christian Endeavor Society, of which he had recently become a member. If his resume was wanting in historical accuracy, it was not devoid of all quality. It contained elements both new and old, and ran somewhat as follows:

"Paul, formerly called Saul, was born in Tarsus, and lived a humble pastoral life before he became King of Israel. He was a man remarkable in many respects, and worthy of mention as the first man known to have visited Mars, and his husband on Mars Hill he delivered an oration never to be forgotten by the natives. Having travelled much, he became widely known, not least by the Galicians who now comprise a considerable section of our Canadian population. It is from this place, an epistle, to the Philippians. Here it is thought he spent his last days, here he was shipwrecked, and finally terminated his earthly life as one of the unfortunate who went down with the Maine."

SOUL UNDER FIRST RIE.

"The soul of a man is soft and glistening, small, practically shapeless, and situated beneath the first rib. Below the Adam's apple in a man, and in a woman at the base of her throat, is a spot of little or no resistance. It is from this place, where the soul of death must be taken. It does not pass like a shadow. It is not a flight. The soul must be drawn out by an angel, sent by God to perform this operation. And this seat of life is transferred, warm, pulsating, to a body the counterpart of the one it has left. It is a substance, material, and could be as well caught by the camera as the human face."

It was thus that Henry Price, of Mount Vernon, the retired musician, who is now an inmate of the Mary Fisher Home for the Aged, explained recently his theory of the soul's passage and the possibility of obtaining a photographic reproduction thereof. He has urged the Bellevue authorities to allow him to experiment on the dying in the hospital in the presence of scientific men and others.

THE G.T.R. ROUND HOUSE.

A "HOSPITAL" FOR BROKEN OR DISABLED LOCOMOTIVES.

Engineers Plentiful on the Road but Scarcity of Firemen.

Evening Post of Aug. 3

The G. T. R. roundhouse, with its smoke-blackened rafters, its puffing engines and its ever busy staff of employees, is an interesting place. Through the huge sliding doors—almost the size of the end of the building—engines are constantly coming and going—coming in broken or disabled, to be repaired and sent on their journey again. Here, also, those "iron steeds" are cleaned, and boilers washed free from scale, and the fire boxes thoroughly cleaned out.

A Post reporter paid a brief visit to this building recently. At the time five engines were undergoing an overhauling. Mr. W. Price, the locomotive foreman, in conversation with the reporter, mentioned the lack of firemen on the road. A number of men had recently engaged to fire engines, many of them being English immigrants. To qualify for fireman a man has to be between the ages of 21 and 30 years, and measure at least five feet eight inches tall. Engineers are fairly plentiful.

The supply of coal to be used by the roundhouse is 10,000 tons, and is piled in gigantic heaps along the north side of the roundhouse. The process by which tenders are loaded is an interesting one. An engine is taken up a track on top of the ramp of coal, and small derrick cars are loaded. These are afterwards derrick, the coal running into the tender.

A DANGEROUS PREDICAMENT.

County Councillors and Officials Had a Narrow Escape.

Evening Post of Aug. 3

A party composed of Mr. McNeillie, County Clerk and Treasurer, Mr. Roy, C. E. of the Hamilton Bridge Works, and County Engineer Smith, left town early Friday morning to make a bridge survey at Norland, and on the way, Warden Parkin and County Councillor Callan were picked up.

All went well until a hill about four miles from Norland was reached, in going down which the front axle broke near the right wheel, over which Mr. McNeillie was seated, and Mr. Callan, who was driving, was thrown forward over the dashboard, breaking it down as he went. A fatality appeared inevitable when the promptness of Warden Parkin—who recovered the lines and brought the creaking horses to a standstill—happily saved Messrs. Callan and McNeillie, who for a few moments were in a dangerous position.

Mr. Callan at once secured another carriage, and after the survey, which was completed, Messrs. McNeillie and Smith returned to town, none of the party being any the worse for the accident.

$50,000 GIVEN IN PREMIUMS.

Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto is Great Annual Show.

Great efforts are being put forth by the Executive of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year to attract an extra large number of visitors, although last year the number reached the magnificent total of three-quarters of a million. The expenditure will reach, including building expenses, $400,000; premiums $50,000, special attractions $50,000; running expenses $75,000, close upon $600,000, a sum which far exceeds the expenditure ever made in one year by any annual exhibition on this or any other continent. Both in exhibits and in entertainments the Toronto Exhibition, to be held from August 26th to September 9th, promises to exceed in value and attractiveness anything that has ever been attempted in Canada before. A number of the highest class attractions have been secured and something like $10,000 is being spent upon a spectacular production of the "Seize of Badajos," with fusillade and an army of men. Some idea of the magnitude of the Toronto Exhibition can be gathered when it is stated that $10,000 is given in prizes for horses, $10,000 for cattle, $7,000 for dogs, $3,500 for sheep, $3,500 for swine, and a similar amount for poultry and pet stock. Handsome premiums are also given for ladies and children's work and in other departments, the whole, as has been said, making a magnificent total of $50,000. Entries for all these classes close with the Manager at the City Hall offices, Toronto, on Saturday next.

APLEASANT TIME ENJOYED.

Dance Given in Honor of Visiting Young Ladies.

The home of Mr. Meehan, East Ops, was the scene of an enjoyable evening last week, when a dance was given in honor of Miss Gertrude Enish and Miss Alma Brown, of Rochester, and Miss Fae, of Toronto, who are visiting there. Some forty guests were present and a joyous evening was enjoyed.

To the accompaniment of delightful music, dancing was indulged in. A number of songs contributed to the evening's pleasure. Light refreshments were also served.

The Misses Nellie and Agnes Meehan performed the duties of hostesses very acceptably. The gathering dispersed at a late hour and the guests returned to their homes with pleasant memories of the happy evening.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

AFTER RAIN.

For three whole days across the sky,
In sullen packs that loomed and broke,
With flying fringes dim as smoke:
The columns of the rain went by
At every hour the wind awoke
The darkness passed upon the plain;
The great drops rattle at the pine.

Now piped the wind, or, far aloof,
Fell to a sough remote and dull;
And all night long, with rush and fall,
The rain kept drumming on the roof;
I heard till dawn and sense went full;
The clash or silence of the leaves,
The gurgle in the creaking eaves.

But when the fourth day came—no noon,
The darkness and the rain went by,
The sunward roofs were steaming dry;
And all the world was flicked and strewn.
The daymakers were forth and gone,
And every rillet laughed and shone.

Then, too, on me that loved so well,
The world, despairing in her blight,
Uplifted with her least delight,
On me, as on the earth, there fell
New happiness of mirth and might;
I trod the valleys pied and still,
I climbed upon the breezy hill.

I watched the gray hawk wheel and drop,
Sole shadow on the shining world;
I saw the mountains clothed and curled,
With forest ruffling to the top;
I saw the river's length unfurled,
Pale silver down the fruited plain.
Grown great and stately with the rain.

Through miles of shadow and soft heat,
Where field and fallow, fence and tree,
Were all one world of greenery,
I heard the robin singing sweet,
The sparrow piping slyly,
The thrushes at the forest's hem,
And as I went I sang with them:
—Archibald Lampman.

BETH GELERT.

The spearman heard the bugle sound,
And cheerily smiled the morn;
And many a brach and many a bound Attend Llewellyn's horn.

And still he blew a louder blast,
And gave a louder cheer;
Come, Gelert, why are thou the fast
Llewellyn's horn to hear?

In sooth, he was a peerless hound,
The gift of Royal John;
But now no Gelert could be found,
And all the chase rode on.

And now, as over rocks and dells,
The gallant chidings rise;
All Snowden's craggy chaos yells
With many mingled cries.

That day Llewellyn little loved
The chase of hart and hare,
And small and scant the booty proved,
For Gelert was not there.

Unplaced, Llewellyn homeward bled,
When, near the portal seat,
His truant Gelert he espied,
Bounding his lord to greet.

But when he gained the castle door,
Against the chieftain stood;
The bound was smeared with gout's
Of gore.

Llewellyn gazed with wild surprise,
Unused such looks to meet;
His favorite chieftain's joyful guise,
And crouch'd and lick'd his feet.

Onward in haste Llewellyn pass'd—
And on went Gelert, too,
And still, where'er his eyes were cast,
Frenz blood-gouts shock'd his view!

O'erturned the infant's bed he found!
The blood-stained covert red;
And all around, the walls and ground
With recent blood besprent.

He call'd his child—no voice replied,
He search'd his couch in terror wild,
Blood! blood! he found on every side,
But nowhere found the child!

"Hell-hound! by thee my child's devoured!"
The frantic father cried;
And to the hilt his vengeful sword
He plunged in Gelert's side.

His suppliant, as to earth he fell,
No pity could impart;
But still Gelert's dying yell
Pae'd heavy o'er his heart.

Aroused by Gelert's dying yell,
Some slumberer waken'd nigh;
What words the parent's joy can tell,
To hear his infant cry!

Conceal'd beneath a mangled heap
His hurried search had missed,
All glowing from his rosy sleep,
His cherub-boy he kiss'd!

Nor scratch had he, nor harm, nor dread—
But the same couch beneath Lay, great wolf, all torn and dead—
Tremendous still in death!

Ah! what was then Llewellyn's pain!
For now the truth was clear,
The gallant hound the wolf had slain,
To save Llewellyn's heir.

Wain, wain, was all Llewellyn's woe;
Best of thy kind, adieu!
The frantic deed which laid thee low,
This heart shall ever rue!

And now a gallant tomb they raise
With costly sculpture deck'd;
And marbles storied with his praise,
Poor Gelert's bones protect.

Here never could the spearman pass,
Or forestor, unmoved;
Here oft the tear-besprinkled grass
Llewellyn's sorrow proved.

And here he hung his horn and spear,
And oft as evening fell,
In fancy's piercing sounds would hear Poor Gelert's dying yell.

SAMPLE OF 'PEANUT' POLITICS

The Spoils System Worked on the Lindsay Counterfeiters.

The Kingston Whig, in relating the following, heads it "Peanut politics":

"The officers in charge of the Lindsay counterfeiters marched the prisoners from the station, through the city, to an hotel. The orders communicated to all the counties alike were to hire as cabmen only Messrs. McFadden and Coyle. Neither of these, prized Conservatives was present, and Cabman Boyd was told that he would not do. How proud Attorney-General Foy will be of such a grand exhibition of the spoils system! He should also feel like complimenting the officers in charge upon their impressive humanity—taking the prisoners to a first-class hotel for a meal, but expelling them on the main streets during a long walk."

A Snap for Some Fellow.

A rich farmer in South Dakota advertised for a hired man, saying that in addition to good pay, satisfactory hands would have an opportunity to get acquainted with his four daughters, and may marry into the family. A graduate from an agricultural college installed an irrigation ditch and a fish pond, piped water from an artesian well into the house, and induced the farmer to put in a porcelain bath tub. In addition to this he carried some of the cattle of a sereno disease. He copped out the youngest daughter.

The next applicant installed a small motor at the artesian well, put in an electric generator and supplied current to light the farm house and wind the churning machine and the washing machine. He got the daughter that attended to the dairy work.

As there are two daughters left, it should be easy to get more hired men, the first two applicants having made so many improvements that the work which remains ought to be a snap.

Pointers About Proposing.

The dark is the proper environment for a proposal. Be reasonably certain, however, that you are talking to the right girl. Marriage will prove to you conclusively whether or not it was the right girl.

In proposing to an heiress, use the term, "May I be yours?" The time to propose to an actress is just before she brings out her breach of promise suit. The time to propose to a widow is when you call, and she is out.

Be careful of your words. A girl may refuse you if you say "Do you love me?" who would gladly throw herself into your arms if you ask simply, "Will you marry me?"

A proposal should be accompanied by a kiss, as evidence of good faith. If you are timid, ask a hypothetical question, thus: "Mabel, if a man about my build and prospects should ask you to marry him, what would you say?" Leave the rest to Mabel.

A man who proposes to an old maid is an old fool.

If you propose on your knees, you will stay there the rest of your life. A long engagement means a short marriage. Every cloud has its silver lining.

If the school girl rejects you, go out and place a bet on a 20 to 1 shot. Your luck will not desert you.

If a girl takes your proposal with a gasp of surprise, be grateful; your wife will be a diplomat.

Remember, when a girl signs articles for the marriage bout, she expects the long end of the putse, win or lose.

No gentleman proposes before dinner.

When a girl says "No" she means "No."

When a girl says "N-no," she means "Yes."—Norman Harris

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, breaks local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, cases nerves, excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—asa general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Homestead of Mr. P. Murphy the Prey of Flames.

Evening Post of Aug. 3

Shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon the home of Mr. Patrick Murphy, about three miles from town on the Janetville road, was consumed by fire. The house was of brick and of large proportions. Mr. Murphy, the owner, is a widower and has a grown up family. Little of the furniture was saved.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from a passing locomotive, which lodged on the roof.

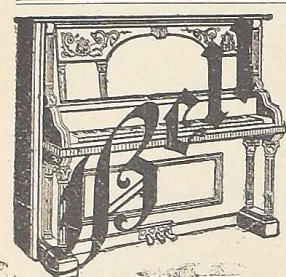

The Pride of Canada.

Say what we may about "Hogtown," and hogs have most valuable uses. Canada has every reason to be proud of the Canadian National Exhibition, held annually at Toronto, and which this year will be held from Aug. 26 to Sept. 9. Not alone is some $100,000 spent yearly in premiums and diversions for the people, but in the last five or six years close upon a million dollars, including $350,000 this year, has been spent upon permanent new buildings and improvements. This surely is keeping abreast of the times and denoting the development of the country as well as the growth of the city.

PROF. HICKS' AUGUST FORECASTS

A Bunch of Storms Predicted to Match July.

As July passes out a storm period is in progress, beginning on the 29th, and extending two days into August. A Mercury period is near its centre at this time and will prolong and intensify storm conditions at this period. Cloudiness with a degree of threatening conditions will remain for several days. A reactionary storm period is central on the 5th, 6th and 7th, on and about which days may be expected a return of storm conditions. The warmth will increase, the barometer will fall, and cloudiness will grow into decided areas of storminess and precipitation. A regular storm period extends from the 10th to the 14th. It is central on the 12th and will come to a crisis, centrally between east and west extremes of the country, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 13th and 14th. If you are far west you will get your storm a day or two earlier; you who are far to the east will read of the storms before they reach you.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 17th, 18th and 19th. As this period begins it will grow much warmer, first in the west the barometer will fall and reactionary storms of rain, wind and thunder will pass eastward across the country, reaching their culminating stage on and touching the 18th and 19th. A regular storm period covers the 20th, 21st and 22nd, and the 23rd. During this period the moon passes in perigee on the 21st, full on the 23rd, and the celestial equator which is central in September, will also affect storm and weather conditions at this period. This period may also be put down as a decided "seismic" period, covering the 23rd and covering the whole period. The telegraph will report seismic shocks widely different parts of our planet. The barometer will also give timely indications of active inland storms between the 22nd and 26th. In case of low barometric conditions in the south, northerly winds and high barometer will follow inland storms from the northwest, making frosts more than a possibility in northern sections during the last week in August.

CAS FROM CORN COBS.

Believed that the Lightning Problem Has Been Solved.

Beatrice, Neb., July 27.—A commercial grade of illuminating gas made from corn stalks, corn cobs, hay and other vegetable matter is being used in Beatrice for fuel and lights, and has superseded the coal gas which was formerly used in this city. The cost of the new gas is $1.10 per thousand, the lowest price at which gas is sold in any city in Nebraska. In quality it is as good as the coal or oil gas. John D. Rockefeller is said to be back of the company, which is furnishing the gas, and the franchise for the plant is in the name of the Rev. Charles Eaton, of Cleveland, Rockefeller's pastor. The company has completed a $160,000 plant here, and makes all its gas from corn stalks, cobs, etc. It is the first plant in the world in which gas is produced in this manner.

Launch Owners, Beware!

The recent disaster in Toronto, when nine young men lost their lives through the upsetting of a gasoline launch, should be a salutary warning to local owners of launches. Carelessness is often very evident in the operation of these crafts. A dangerous feature is the overloading of a yacht. An 18-foot launch will be overloaded if more than six persons are carried, and lives endangered. Pike poles and paddles are also a necessity on board, as no one can tell when the engine is going to stop. If the engine stops in a gale, and no means of locomotion are at hand, the launch is extremely liable to fall into the trough of the waves and upset.

Pithy Phrases.

College boys are apt to coin pithy phrases. One such was quoted by a speaker recently. "When I was at Harvard," he said in concluding a brief address, "the boys had a fine little epigram with which they used to warn speakers not to be too pithy. 'You know, professor,' they would say, 'the longer the spoke, the greater the tire.'"

One Minute Interviews.

(From the Holton Recorder.)
John Shobenay, a well known Pottawatomie Indian, is not as artless as he looks. Recently he was engaged in the risky business of bootlegging in Oklahoma. As a consequence he landed in jail, and had no funds to pay his fine. In his fiery extremity he evolved a plan which he thought would work out his liberation. He sent the following message to his stepfather, Kack, Kack: "I am dead. Send me $10 to bury myself." The appeal was too strong for Kack Kack to resist, and the money was forthcoming.

Mr. Eustace Miles writes: "Much interested in your remarks about your funeral. Why not live on Plasmion and lentils, and postpone it indefinitely?"

Mr. Bernard Shaw wires: "Heartiest congratulations on seeing me so soon after landing."

"Z" (of "Blackwood's Magazine") wires: "Deeply sympathize with you had luck in meeting Shaw at station. Awful thing to happen after a tiring railway journey."

SIMON MARSHALL IN TOWN.

Simon Marshall, the alleged far smuggler, was brought to town on Saturday night and taken before County Magistrate Moore.

Bail in $1000 was furnished, and Marshall was released. The securities were given as follows: $250 by Mr. A. Marshall, $250 by Mr. R. Naylor, $500 by the prisoner.

An Advertising Pointer.

One of the largest soap-making establishments of the United States was started not many years ago with a capital of $1,200, of which nearly $700 was put into newspaper advertising before the income began to exceed the outgo. But when the tide turned it turned with a rush, and at the end of the first year's business it was found that the advertising had paid for itself ten times over. Publicity is sometimes an uphill game, but if it is played intelligently he who has pluck and perseverance cannot lose at it. Intelligent publicity necessarily implies the use of a medium which will make every shot count. There is no other so certain in its aim as the influential home newspaper.

Tall Shooting in West Virginia.

(From the Staunton Spectator.)
There is an old Confederate soldier now visiting some friends in Greenbrier county, W. Va., who was a warrior in battle. He was a shot from 'way back. He came to the reunion at Richmond and stopped off among his feats of marksmanship the following simple exploits. We are told, are performed. He can suspend a bottle, shoot and cut the string, and then break the bottle with another shot before it hits the ground. With a small calibre gun and a large lead pencil he can knock the lead out when the pencil is thrown into the air, and not injure the wood covering. A favorite pastime with him was to start a barrel rolling down hill and put a bullet through the long-hole every time the barrel turns over. We call this good shooting.

Board here is reasonable, and all ordinary students should graduate here within six months. Write or see me for terms. The greatest and most successful managers of to-day have, with rare exception, risen from the ranks of the operators.

Salaries of operators run from $50 to $80 per month, according to the importance of the position. Operators who are Agents, make from $60 to $100 per month, and are always eligible for promotion. Lady operators for commercial work are in great demand.

Qualifications necessary are few but absolutely essential, viz.: a common school education, strict sobriety, honesty, industry and carefulness.

Sir William C. Van Horne, of C.P.R. fame, began his railway career as an operator, so did J. W. Leonard, C. W. Spencer, Geo. C. Jones, and scores of others, all now holding high positions.

OMEMEE

(From Our Own Correspondent) The village is quiet. Many are away on their holidays, whilst many are outside visitors are here.

A Civic holiday is spoken of. We are expecting a trip to Collingwood on August 12th.

The services in the different churches were largely attended on Sabbath last.

Rev. Mr. Tenney, pastor of the Anglican church here, has received a call to one of Toronto's Anglican churches.

Rev. Father Maguire passed through here on Friday last on his way to spend a holiday at Belleville, Picton, and other points.

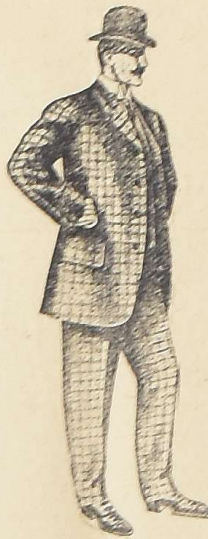

The new Catholic cemetery at Downsville is considered one of the most complete up-to-date places in the country by those who have had the privilege of visiting it. The plots are beautifully and artistically laid out, whilst the iron fences and gates are simply grand.

The wires are now being placed on the electric light poles.

The new pipe organ to be placed in the Methodist church at an early date, will be operated by electric power.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John McCrea, celebrated on Monday, August 5th, was one of the most elaborate of the kind ever held in the county. About 100 of the local old friends and acquaintances, besides a special train party from Toronto, arriving here about 3 p. m., with about 75 guests, including friends of Mrs. J. C. Eaton and J. Eaton. The celebration was followed by a grand concert given in the Methodist church, in which Mrs. H. Elight and husband, Mrs. Walker and Mrs. J. C. Eaton, contributed selections of the very highest order. The church was filled to the doors with a very large and intelligent audience. The special train returned at the concert—about 10 o'clock. Needless to say, the costumes of the ladies and gentlemen were superb at both occasions.

Accessible Station Wanted. Mirror: Omemee has just begun to appreciate the great advantage that a station at Starcourt, 200 yards and a line of steamers to and from her ports would mean to the town. The electric light will also be a great improvement to the place. Omemee has an influential Board of Trade, and a first-class Council who are putting forth every effort for the furthering of the town's interests.

ADVERTISING PROFITABLE.

Advantages of Corporation Publicity.

Columns have been printed of late about enterprising cities and towns whose public-spirited men have raised funds for advertising to extend their manufacturing industries and promote the growth of population.

But very little has been said as to the results. (This is because the co-operative municipal advertising plan is a comparatively recent development, and in many cases has not had time for a fair trial.)

An interesting report, however, has lately been published by Winnipeg papers on the work of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau. Eighteen months ago this organization, whose executive is composed of representatives drawn from ten organized business bodies of the city, started a campaign to extend their manufacturing industries. In this space of time advertising has increased at the rate of 60 actual new residents every day, or in other words, the population in 1905 was 79,978, and to-day is 111,717, and the bank deposits increased in the past year over 35 per cent. The Winnipeg experiment is a marked success, and to a great extent demonstrates that if natural advantages exist within a municipality, judicious advertising, properly placed, is a good investment, and thus convinced the Industrial Bureau is looking to still greater things, as shown in the report referred to that estimates for the coming year have been struck as follows:

Printing $1,800,000
Postage 600,000
Legal 200,000
Entertainment and 100,000
Office maintenance and supplies 1,275,000
Salaries 4,200,000

Advertising:— Newspapers 5,999,999
Magazines 5,000,000
Trade papers 1,800,000
Financial papers 3,000,000
Special advertising 1,825,000

Total estimates, year ending June 30th, 1908 $25,000,000

Though the idea of forming an Industrial Bureau in Winnipeg, when first mooted, was considered by nearly all to be a good and profitable factor in advertising the city, few indeed realized what a public benefit such a plan was destined to prove.

Gen. Ozaki ordered out reinforcements, and the barracks and adjacent buildings were invested. There was continuous sniping and also fire from the Japanese machine guns.

The entrances to the Japanese section of the city have been under a heavy guard of gendarmes since midnight, and troops and machine guns are stationed in all the streets.

Gen. Ozaki believes that he has ample troops to control the situation. The other three Korean garrisons have not mutinied.

The invested quarter is adjacent to the consulate quarter, which is protected by a strong cordon of Japanese troops.

Fierce Fighting Between Japanese and Koreans at Seoul.

Seoul, Aug. 3.—Thursday a battalion of Korea soldiers, resenting disbandment, at a given signal attacked three mounted Japanese officers, who had arrived at Little West Gate Barracks to demand the surrender of their munitions.

Two of the Japanese officers escaped on horseback. The third one fell from his horse and escaped afoot when the firing began, and the Koreans sallied out of Little West Gate into the street, but were forced to retire under a Japanese fire from the tower gate.

THE LONDON TRAGEDY.

Coroner's Jury Say Building Collapsed Owing to Alterations Made.

London, Ont., Aug. 3.—That the said Wm. Thomas Tambling came to his death in the City of London in Brewster's store on the 16th day of July, 1907, by the east wall of what was known as the Crystal Hall building falling eastward on the said Brewster store, and destroying it, thus causing the death of said Wm. T. Tambling.

"And we further find from the evidence that the collapse of the said Crystal Hall building was caused by a portion of the middle wall of the ground floor of the said building giving way as a result of certain alterations that had recently been made in the said wall on the floor above."

The above was the verdict rendered by the jury enquiring into the cause of the recent disaster.

Wm. Murray, the architect who had charge of the changes, was recalled and gave evidence as to the strength and carrying power of the pillars which were placed in the building.

Mr. Murray found that it would have taken a weight of 300 tons to break down the columns. They were ten feet four inches long, five inches in diameter and of three quarter inch cast iron metal. They supported the double girders and were tied where they crossed.

MANVERS FAMILY RE-UNION

The Sons and Daughters of Mrs. M. Sisson Celebrate.

On Monday, August 12th, the home of Mrs. Michael Sisson, near Bethany, in Manvers township, was the scene of great festivities and rejoicing when her sons and daughters, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered to hold a family reunion.

The date was an auspicious one, being the birthday of Mrs. Sisson's great-grandchild. Thirty-seven in all, representing the four generations, were present. A group photograph was taken.

Mrs. Sisson's sons and daughters are G. W., S. W., and John R. Sisson, all prosperous farmers of Manvers. M. H. Sisson, the well-known shoe clerk of town, and Will, residing with his mother on the old homestead. Mrs. Wm. Hannah, Mrs. Fitch and Mrs. Flack, the wives of Manvers farmers, and Annie, with her mother.

Though of advanced age, Mrs. Sisson is remarkably good health and heartily enjoyed the day's proceedings. Her husband has been deceased some time. She was one of twins herself, and twins are numerous in her descendants' families.

The day was spent very pleasantly and its joys will remain long with those who took part in the pleasant affair.

From Messrs. McLaughlin, Peel & Fulton, relative to repairing the road allowance and the bridge at lot 19, con. 5.
From J. W. Hancock, desiring a Court of Revision on the Hancock drain account.

From A. Donald, of the G.T.R. Co., in relation to the agreement re Dunn drain across their lands.
From R. M. Roy, manager Hamilton Bridge Co., agreeing to build the bridge at lot 18, con. 10, instead of at Little Britain.

From Messrs. C. E. Weeks and J. Fowler, re cleaning out outlet for drainage of a lot 15, con. 14.

Mr. Rennie presented a statement showing amounts due the Corporation for payments on several drains in the township.

Mr. Stacey presented a report showing the total cost of the concrete bridge at lot 13, con. 5, to be $165.70, and the concrete abutments at lot 18, con. 10, cost $210.10.

The Council took no action in regard to the communication of Messrs. McLaughlin, Peel and Fulton. The Clerk was asked to advise Messrs. Weeks and Fowler that if the outlet for drainage was not properly attended to, they had full power to mark on the bridge and above the work done. Mr. Hancock was too late in asking for a Court of Revision, as at least half of the persons had paid in their respective shares.

COURT OF REVISION.
The Council went into Court of Revision re the Dunn drain, and an amendment was made to the resolution of July whereby the Corporation assume the assessment assigned to the G.T.R. Co. save and except the actual cost of building the part of the drain across the G.T.R. lands, said work to be done by the G.T.R. Co.
The assessments were confirmed and the Court closed.

Mr. Yarnold's third report re the Brooks drain was read, but the Council, finding the estimates for work $2278.15, and the schedule of assessments to be $2009.84, after his total expenses being charged up to the municipality of Mariposa, the Clerk was asked to return all his reports and have them corrected and condensed into one complete report.

Mr. P. S. Mark was authorized to see the part of the Dundas drain, 20 rods on a lot 20, con. 7, was completed as soon as possible.
Mr. Hardy thought the Council should notify each person digging this ditch that they would be responsible for it, but Mr. Hardy finally concluded to do this himself.

The Reeve was authorized to renew the insurance on the township hall property in the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. for the sum of $3000.

Thomas Tamlin was authorized to look after and keep in good repair the Tamlin branch of the Hancock drain, and Wm. H. Hagg, the north branches of said drain, including outlet basins in each case.

Accounts for some $75 were ordered to be paid, including 12 1-2 days, $25.00, to G. Martindale and 10 days, $32.50, to E. Sloggett for work on Grader.

Commissioners' accounts, aggregating some $585 were ordered paid, including payments for abutments at lot 18, con. 10, and bridge at lot 15, con. 5, for various jobs of travelling, putting in culverts, ditching, etc.

The Council then took up the by-laws for levying the rates for the year 1907. The requisition for public school purposes are some $1400 higher than last year. The township levy will be some $350 more than last year, and the County rate some $330 less than last year.

THE YEAR'S RATES.

By-law 613 was read the usual number of times, authorizing a levy of $5163 on the different school sections for school purposes.
By-law 614 authorizes a levy of $5515.76 for County purposes, $6198 for a general school rate, and the sum of $8000 for township purposes.

By-law 615 authorizes a levy of $100 on the police village of Oakwood for current expenses, and one-half mill on the dollar for library purposes, also a levy of two mills on the dollar for the police village of Little Britain for current expenses.

The Clerk was authorized to levy the sum of $33.60 rateably on the persons interested in the Hill drain, also the sum of $34.25 rateably on the persons interested in the Lowensborough drain, also the sum of $6.05 against these: lot of lot 14, con. 10, and the sum of $2.10 against the lot of lot 13, con. 10, and the sum of $2.41 against the lot of lot 11, con. 8, with interest of 7 per cent, added for the last three named amounts; also the sum of $250 against the lot of lot 13, con. 10, and the sum of $2.41 against the lot of lot 11, con. 8, with interest of 7 per cent, added for the last three named amounts; also the sum of $250 against the lot of lot 13, con. 10, and the sum of $2.41 against the lot of lot 11, con. 8, with interest of 7 per cent, added for the last three named amounts.

STURGEON POINT JOTTINGS.

Happenings of Note at Lindsay's Popular Summer Resort.

Evening Post of Aug. 12.
The miniature English garden at Mrs. Walkey's restaurant, attracts the admiring gaze of every visitor.

Rev. L. S. Hughes, of Windsor Baptist church, formerly of Lindsay, who is spending a vacation at Pleasant Point, conducted his service in the Union church here yesterday most acceptably. There was a large congregation, including a number of Pleasant Point and Thurston.

Mrs. Walkey's restaurant, Oct. 8 and 9. The miniature English garden at Mrs. Walkey's restaurant, attracts the admiring gaze of every visitor. Rev. L. S. Hughes, of Windsor Baptist church, formerly of Lindsay, who is spending a vacation at Pleasant Point, conducted his service in the Union church here yesterday most acceptably. There was a large congregation, including a number of Pleasant Point and Thurston.

The condition of the roadway opposite Mrs. Walkey's restaurant on regatta day no doubt forced itself on the attention of some of the members of the village Council, as it did on the sensibilities of most of the 2500 visitors present. The waste of water from the pump had transformed the pathway into a mud-puddle almost fit to serve as a hog wallow and skirts and shoes of all passers-by suffered. A similar state of things is seen every time a crowd gathers at the Point, and is not at all creditable to the village fathers, when an outlay of $5 or less would carry this waste water under the roadway.

MANY PEOPLE GOING WEST

C.P.R. Will Run Additional Homeseekers' Excursions.

"The Northwest provinces are attracting a big crowd of people this summer," said a visiting C. P. R. official, going on to say that in view of the volume of traffic his management has decided to run cheap round-trip excursions along in October, a decidedly new departure. That is to say, the well-known homeseekers' excursion will leave Toronto (Tuesday, Aug. 27, Sept. 10 and 24, as advertised, and also Tuesdays, Oct. 8 and 22. Second class tickets will be on sale to Winnipeg and other important western towns at remarkably low rates, with a return limit of sixty days.

It should be kept in mind that these tickets are honored to tourist sleeping cars, which are attached to each excursion train, and in which berths can be secured at low rates. On all the excursions this summer space has been at a premium, and to make sure of a berth it is advisable to reserve at least two weeks before one intends leaving. The local C. P. R. ticket agent is well posted, and will be glad to give any further information.

Horse Stolen.

A light bay mare colt, 2 years old, with one white hind foot and a white stripe on face, mane and tail dark, was stolen on July 24th from the residence of Fred Mark, Oakwood. The animal is a splendid driver and a valuable horse. A reward is offered for information leading to the discovery of the whereabouts. Any information should be forwarded to Chief of Police Vincent.

The New Regime

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To a summer resort, kind sir," she said.
"Who's paying for this, my pretty maid?"

P. S.—It was then that a gay, ripe stole over her face. "Oh," she cried, "Father has been persuaded to work overtime at the factory, and mother has rented out the second floor to summer boarders. That is the reason, kind sir," she said.

A Crowd Went to Peterboro.

Evening Post of Aug. 9.
Fully one hundred Lindsayites took advantage of the cheap rates on the railroads to spend the day in Peterboro. Thursday afternoon is a half-holiday among the merchants of that city, and a large contingent came up from Cobourg on an excursion. The hydraulic lift-lock was as usual a prominent attraction, and the junior baseball match, Peterboro vs. Lindsay at the Oval, attracted a few to that pretty pleasure grounds, while the remainder of the crowd scattered over the city. Despite the extreme heat, the day's outing was enjoyed, the temperature being kept down by indulgence in ice cream.

Serious Situation in Canada and United States Is Threatened.

TELEGRAPH STRIKE SPREADS

Associated Press Now Being Affected—Montreal Operators on G. N. W. Leave Work—More to Quit To-Day Declares President Ahern—Reports From Various Telegraphic Centres Are Serious.

Montreal, Aug. 13.—The telegraph operators' strike hit this town yesterday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock, consequently 30 of the Great North-western Telegraph Co. went out. It appears that one of the operators refused to take stuff from a New York strike-breaker, and he was discharged. This was a signal for 25 of his fellow operators to walk out. They are most union men who are out, and the remaining in the office are non-union. So far the C. P. R. men have shown no sign of infection. There is a rumor, however, about the C. P. R. operators would leave at 7.30, so far they are at their posts.

New York, Aug. 13.—Many of the telegraph operators employed through out the country by the Associated Press struck at 8.30 o'clock (eastern time) last night. All of the night operators in the New York office of the Associated Press, with the exception of the chief operator.

At the sound of a whistle blown in the operating room at 1 p. m. yesterday, the day operators in the Western Union office joined the strikers at once. As the men and women marched out of the building, they were cheered by striking comrades who awaited them in the street, but there was no disorder.

The secretary of a local union said the strike was unauthorized and in ordering out of the chief operator men who had refused to strike with strike-breakers and work wires turned for their pay. He said the union would stand by the strikers.

The operators in the main office of the Postal Telegraph Co. left their keys at 2.30 o'clock without order. President Ahern of the local union, in answer to a question as to whether the strike would affect the families of other wires, said: "It is likely all operators will be called out."

Chicago, Aug. 13.—As setting forth very clearly the Postal Co.'s side in the fight, a letter was given out. It has been addressed to striking employees in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and other affected offices in the west by W. I. Capen, general superintendent in Chicago. He says: "There is, and probably always will be, malcontents and strike-makers among our employees, ever ready to find fault with those holding higher positions and making mountains out of mole hills. It is against this class that I want to warn any man with a family, parent or other dependant upon him for support. Agitators with wagging tongues cause men to leave positions, but they fail to provide food and shelter for their families, and times out of ten the agitators hold some union position drawing both salary and expense money out of the fund to which you have contributed a part."

New York, Aug. 13.—Postal operators struck at 2.30 p. m.

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—The postal operators went on strike at 3.40 p. m. Cleveland, Aug. 13.—The operators employed by the Western Union and Postal Companies here struck yesterday.

Buffalo, Aug. 13.—The day force of the Western Union Telegraph walked out at 4.55 p. m. yesterday. The Postal operators have also gone out.

Baltimore, Aug. 13.—The Postal operators of main office struck yesterday afternoon.

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—The union operators in the office of the Western Union here went out yesterday afternoon.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The Postal operators struck here at 5.15 yesterday afternoon.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—At 5.30 last night, one hour after the night force had reported for duty a whistle was blown in the Western Union office here and all members of the union left their keys. Fifteen men had been discharged during the day for refusing to work with cities where the operators had gone out. The Postal operators also went out at 6.30, leaving five men, including the chief operator.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 13.—All Western Union and Postal Telegraphers walked out yesterday afternoon. It affects some sixty Western Union and ten Postal operators.

Washington, Aug. 13.—At 8.30 last night all the Western Union operators walked out. Only the chief operators and a few wire men remained on duty.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 13.—The Western Union operators here, about 30 in number, walked out at 6 o'clock yesterday.

Minneapolis, Aug. 13.—The night force, numbering about 16 operators, employed by the North American Telegraph Co., here, went out yesterday.

Celebrated Violinist Dead.
Berlin, Aug. 12.—Joseph Joachim, the celebrated violinist, is dying at his home in this city. His family have gathered at his bedside expecting the end at any moment.

SEARCHING ENQUIRY

Full Details of the Essex Explosion to Be Made Public.

SEEK TO DETERMINE CAUSE

Michigan Central Railway May Be Prosecuted for the Loss of Life—Crown Attorney Has Taken Up the Investigation—Expert on Explosives Summoned to Give Evidence—Jury Empanelled.

Essex, Aug. 13.—Responsibility for the cause of Saturday's explosion is to be placed, if it possibly can be done. Not only will a coroner's jury make a searching enquiry, assisted by Crown Attorney Robb, but the Dominion Railway Commission will also enquire. Acting on a request made by the mayor, E. C. Lalonde, chief inspector of accidents, for the board, has been detailed to come here.

Coroner Brien subpoenaed Wallace Ritchie of the Ritchie-Lang Co. planning mills, whose place came toppling over on their heads. Mr. Ritchie is expected to say that the car of explosives remained from Friday, at 9 p. m., over night within the town limits, and this is said to be illegal. Mr. Ritchie was looking at the car half an hour before the crash and saw the stuff leaning to the tracks. Leo DeLong, an expert on nitro-glycerine and high explosives generally, will be brought from Leamington to testify.

H. Rodd, of Windsor, county crown attorney, will have charge of the proceedings. Other witnesses who saw the car blown up are J. H. Coulter, C. E. Naylor, Bert Keselstone, Archie Naylor, members of the firm of Dunbar and Sullivan of Detroit, contractors, to whom the explosive was consigned; Michigan Central officials; and others are subpoenaed.

It is said here that several Michigan Central officials acknowledge their liability for damages to at least a limited extent. The coroner found yesterday that the car was labelled "explosives." It bore a placard that it was dangerous and must not be placed within eight cars of engine or caboose. The county attorney wants to examine the firm that sent the dynamite. Both the packing and the sending in the manner done are against the law.

Whether the Michigan Central officials may be proceeded against criminally for loss of life depends on the evidence produced now and later. said County Crown Attorney Rodd yesterday. "There is no prohibition against carrying explosives, but a special law must be used, and the common law says the utmost precaution must be used in handling them. It is very much that the proper law is used, explosives, dangerous—was on the car, because at one end of the car was dynamite and at the other was ammonium nitrate," said Mr. Rodd.

"It looks to me pretty clearly like a case of criminal negligence. The stuff was improperly packed, and not put in a special car, and was allowed to remain in the car for some time. It should be 48 hours near the depot, three-quarters of a mile away."

License "B" J. A. Smythe allowed the doctor to open yesterday morning.

At the Ho Den in Windsor, Dr. Cruickshank yesterday that Stimmer, the station agent, is in the most dangerous condition, but he hopes for his recovery.

CABINET CHANGES.
Britain's Liberal Ministry Loses Lord Sefton Over L. Legislation.

London, Aug. 13.—Sefton, who was appointed Minister of the House when Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman first framed his Ministry, has resigned as a protest against land legislation inaugurated by the Liberals.

In officially announcing his retirement, his lordship says it is due to "not being in accord with the extreme measures of the Government."

This is the first defection from the Campbell-Bannerman Ministry.

ESSEX WAS SHAKEN

Dynamite Explodes With Terrific Force Killing Two Men.

SCORES OF PERSONS INJURED

Station Completely Wrecked — Fifty Buildings Damaged — Nearly Every Window Broken — Property Loss Estimated at $250,000—People Were in Panic — Shock Was Tremendous—Steeple Razed.

Essex, Ont., Aug. 12.—An explosion of dynamite in the Michigan Central Railway yards Saturday morning killed two men, seriously injured several and slightly injured scores of persons, and wrought great damage to property.

The train of which the dynamite formed a part, the depot and the freight sheds were totally wrecked, every house in town was shaken, had its window glass shattered and its chimneys cracked and broken, and the shock of the explosion was felt for 10 to 15 miles around the coast. Saturday night Provincial Detective Constable of Windsor, with 50 picked men, arrived and placed the town under a mild form of martial law. The guards were given orders to give scant shift to any persons acting in a way that would pass without question on ordinary days.

Licence Inspector Smith also took prompt action. As soon as the effects of the explosion were realized he ordered that all the hotels should close until Monday. When his authority was questioned by the liquor men he wired to the licence department at Toronto and received instructions to do as he thought best. This time the hotels obeyed his orders and the sale of liquor to the swarming crowds ceased.

Just what caused the explosion is not known.

The wheels of the locomotive ignited enough of the leaked liquid to send a spark or spurt of flame either upward from the track or from the side of the fatal car as it was moving in the coupling, and this catching the dripping fluid above, let off the dynamite.

Brakemen Torn to Bits.

Brakeman Joseph McNary, Amherstburg, who was about to make the coupling, was torn to pieces. For 50 yards from the side of the car the path his head took could be traced in bloody splinters and shrapnel until finally it burst up with a terrific crash against a toppling lumber pile. The immeasurable force let loose and the wild chase its movements followed could be imagined when it is understood that while the head of the unfortunate brakeman was driven southward, his body was forced northward, and was 100 rods away when flying missiles caught it and reduced it to shreds.

Brakeman Leo Conlon, also of Amherstburg, was near the engine when the coupling was made, and his body was driven like a pointed pile into a pile of coal, death resulting instantly, although his body is badly scored by a fire which set the car behind the wrecked train. The scene of the wreck is lost in the smoke and fire. It is impossible to describe. The rails, little on the spot to see but hole in the ground. When the dynamite and dynamite let go, at that force of it was so great for a mile, time and earth gave depth of space double the length of the car in which the explosion occurred.

Car Utterly Demolished.

The rails were bent off as one would bite a toothpick. The car was simply nowhere to be found. Nothing remained of it but a pile of forward trucks just coupled to the engine at the instant of the explosion. Even a half of that truck of iron 2 inches long from it—a piece long, was found through and 31-2 city blocks away from the yard of C. Hapgood. Mr. Hapgood says he came into his yard as if it had been directly from the sky, and had an appreciable time after the shock.

The Havoc.

The depot was unroofed. It was a pre-fabricated building of field stone, but the pre-fabricated plowed completely through its side walls. Its roof was smashed and twisted and laid on the road. Its ceilings were pulled up. When the telegraph came to tap the wires there was a cleared space within the building large enough for the men to get up their instruments, and so a pile of ruins was set up in the driveway of the depot. The residences all around the depot were destroyed.

An excursion train with a number of Brantford people aboard was due at Essex station at the moment the explosion happened. "If" the train had not been a few minutes late, "if" it had been standing alongside the depot platform awaiting orders, how many lives might have been sacrificed?

The Trumbull residence was damaged to the extent of $2,000; the Murray residence $1,000, the Methodist Church $1,000, the Presbyterian Church $500, the Sovereign Bank of Canada building $1,000, the Aberdeen Hotel $2,000, Barber Departmental Store $5,000, E. L. Park's jewelry store $1,000 (mostly in dented silverware), A. S. Perry's machine shop $500 and sundry other merchants whose losses from $100 to $1,000 each.

The Essex Canning Co.'s plant, where 75 girls are employed, presented a lively scene at the time of the explosion. The girls ran screaming to the street, many of them suffering from violent bleeding at the nose, while tin cans and peeled tomatoes and other fruits rolled from benches out of windows and down stairways. None of the girls were seriously hurt, although all of them suffer what, besides deafness, is the Essex ailment, severe thumping headaches.

The general loss, however, for miles around was that of glass. Not a window within a radius of three miles remained whole. The glass panes were not only broken, but shattered, hardly a jagged edge remaining in the masses.

Dr. Jas. Brian, reeve of the township, was not unconscious for 35 hours previous to the explosion. His house and he were violently jarred by the explosion and he died a few days afterwards. He was 59 years old. The people of Essex appeared to be too dazed to rally to the situation in any adequate way. They simply didn't know what to do. Injured persons were left to shift for themselves until outside help arrived.

Engineer David Coltrane was most terribly injured, and pulled himself by body-wracking efforts from the debris of his engine. Then two citizens gingerly responded to his appeals for aid. They put an arm under the torn and bleeding arm of the man and started to walk him—walk him!—to the centre of the town, full six city blocks away. The gritty engineer stood the ordeal until he reached the end of the station walk when he fainted.

Conductor Burridge staggered to the Aberdeen Hotel, his head cut and his whole body bruised, and lay there in a heap unnoticed, until "Bobby" Davis dragged out a couch, laid him on it, while messengers were sent scurrying for doctors.

The citizens of the place are planning a meeting to take place some time previous to the convening of the jury, next Tuesday, to take concerted action on the matter of collecting damages. Some of them loudly proclaim that they are absolutely ruined and will be unable to re-establish themselves unless some help is given. A conservative estimate by business men Saturday night places the damage to the town at $250,000.

The Municipal Building is badly damaged. The town light system was put out of business completely.

Will Hold Inquest. As soon after the accident as things had calmed down the slightest bit, and people had begun to ask the cause of the terrible explosion that had so completely wrecked the whole town and cost two human lives, a coroner's jury was sworn in by Crown Attorney Rodd, who arrived at the scene in the afternoon. The jury was sworn in by Crown Attorney Rodd, who arrived at the scene in the afternoon. The jury was sworn in by Crown Attorney Rodd, who arrived at the scene in the afternoon.

MADRID EXPRESS RECKED.

Many Persons Injured But No Lives Were Lost.

Madrid, Aug. 12.—The southern express was derailed Saturday near Alcala and later on run into by a freight train.

Both trains afterwards caught fire. Details of the railroad disaster show that the freight train, coming from Otazurte, near the northern railway, was on the line of the Cegana railway, and was running at a speed of 12 miles per hour, reaching the point of collision at the level of the sea 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, and in the which is two miles long. Otazurte, near the northern railway, was on the line of the Cegana railway, and was running at a speed of 12 miles per hour, reaching the point of collision at the level of the sea 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, and in the which is two miles long.

At the subsequent conflagration the freight train, coming from Otazurte, near the northern railway, was on the line of the Cegana railway, and was running at a speed of 12 miles per hour, reaching the point of collision at the level of the sea 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, and in the which is two miles long. There were only nine passengers on board the southern express when it left from San Sebastian.

Careful examination shows that no body was killed but the number of those injured is large.

"STANDARD OIL" AGAIN.

Judge Hazel Receives Another Batch of Indictments.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Judge Hazel in the Federal Court for the western district of New York received from the grand jury yesterday a partial report of the investigations which have been made of the Government's charges against the Standard Oil Co., the Vacuum Oil Co., the New York Central, and the Pennsylvania Railroads of giving and receiving special and illegal concessions on the shipments of oil from Olean to points in Vermont.

The report includes the presentation of two indictments against the Standard Oil Co., two against the Vacuum Oil Co., two against the New York Central and Pennsylvania jointly, and two against each of these railroads separately, a total of ten indictments. Of the two indictments against each corporation, one contains 188 counts, and the other 40 counts.

To dissolve "Standard Oil." St. Louis, Aug. 10.—The first testimony in the Government's St. Louis suit to dissolve the Standard Oil trust will be taken in the postoffice building at New York Sept. 3.

The testimony will mark the actual beginning of the Government's fight to overthrow the Standard and the 70 or more subsidiary corporations allied with it.

At one minute, with a fine of $29,240,000 hanging over its coiffers, the Standard Oil Co., either under that name or under the name of one or another of the dozens of companies owned by it, is under indictment in five federal districts—namely, Western New York, Western District of Missouri, Western District of Tennessee and Northern District of Illinois.

There are only 15 indictments, but inasmuch as each count covers a separate offence, the trust is liable under the counts thus pending to fines amounting to $114,750,000, which is more than the capital stock of the parent corporation.

The indictments brought under state statutes, it is believed, run up into the hundreds.

Collision Near Portland.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—The Portland and San Francisco liner, City of Panama, en route from Portland with a full list of passengers, collided yesterday and sank the steamer Alliance from Co's Bay for Portland, with passengers and freight. The collision occurred in a fog near the mouth of Willamette River. The passengers of the Alliance were brought to Portland.

Merchant Shot In Office.

Rodebaugh, N. Y., Aug. 10.—James H. Rodebaugh, a commission merchant, with an office in the Chamber of Commerce, was killed by a revolver shot in the office of the Niagara Mill and Elevator Co. yesterday afternoon. He was president of the Milling Co. Chase, H. Chase, secretary and treasurer of the Milling company, who was alone in the office with Rodebaugh at the time of the shooting, is in the custody of the police.

Using Bombs In Persia.

Teheran, Aug. 15.—A bomb was exploded yesterday at the residence here of Ala Ed. Daouleh, ex-governor of Fars.

SENECA WINS RACE

First Trial Results in Victory For the Defender.

BEAT ADELE BY 15 MINUTES

Barely Two Minutes Inside Time Allowance — "Seneca" Leads Nearly All the Way—Skipper Jarvis Executes Some Clever Manoeuvres—Light Breeze Was Favorable—The Official Time.

Official time—Start—Seneca, 1.00.31; Adele, 1.00.25. First mark—Seneca, 2.35.30. Second mark—Seneca, 3.34.30; Adele, 3.46. Finish—Seneca, 5.58.22; Adele, 6.13.15.

Charlotte, Aug. 12.—After having been rigged Saturday morning, the Seneca and the first of the series of races for the Canada Cup started in the afternoon, under conditions which were a win to the boat whose first sailing qualities were most pronounced.

After a drifting race, in which the Seneca led nearly all the way, the finish was made barely two minutes inside the time allowance. The first race is therefore a victory for the Herreshoff defender.

The schedule time arranged for the race was 11 o'clock, but at that time preparations had not been made for a start. The Seneca's alterations had not been completed, and the town had not finished the work of measuring and laying off the course; besides, the wind was not strong enough.

Saturday's race was on a triangular course of seven mile sides, the open being near the mouth of the Genesee River. It was arranged that the first leg should be a beat to windward that is N.N.E., so as to make the other two legs a reach and a run before the wind.

When the final preparatory whistle blew, at 12.50, the Adele and Seneca were jockeying about near the judges' boat, and their movements were watched with the closest attention.

At first, Seneca was to windward, but some clever manoeuvres on the part of Skipper Jarvis ousted her from this advantageous position, and the defender was kept to leeward, despite all Skipper Hanan's efforts to win back again.

The two boats reached back and forth across the line until the whistle blew at 1 o'clock, and then they passed each other so closely that the Adele's bowsprit overlapped Seneca's stern, and Skipper Jarvis claimed a foul.

The Seneca crossed the line about 5 seconds ahead, both boats getting away at the whistle.

The Seneca Leads.

In a quarter of an hour the Adele was leading by about 20 lengths, but the Seneca soon began to creep up, and at 2.30 was pointing higher than the Adele and outreaching her. The Seneca then had a lead of 3-4 of a mile, and seemed to be holding her own. Jarvis pointed out into the lake, endeavoring to get more wind.

At 2.50 p. m. the Seneca had increased her lead to about a mile, and had rounded the first stakeboat. It seemed as though the race would be Seneca's by a large margin, if the boats could finish in the time limit.

The Seneca gradually increased her lead during the run toward the windward buoy. Over this part of the course the wind held fairly steady, blowing at about five miles, and the defender passed the buoy 7 minutes and 8 seconds ahead of the Adele. The official time for both boats at this buoy was: Seneca, 2.35.30; Adele, 2.42.30.

Running for the eastern buoy, the wind dropped off and the boats were almost drifting over the course when they rounded the eastern buoy. The Seneca, by this time, had increased her lead to over 11 minutes, having gained 4 minutes on the run. The time at the eastern buoy was: Seneca, 3.34.30; Adele, 3.46.00.

From here to the finish Seneca held her lead and crossed the line at 5.58.22, or just 1 minute and 38 seconds ahead of time. The Adele did not finish. The only part of Saturday's race which can have any significance is that of beating from the sterling line to the windward buoy. It was here that the Seneca gained the lead, and the rest of the course was a mere matter of drift, and the winner got in with the aid of a few trifling breaths of air.

Outing Proves Tragedy.

Detroit, Aug. 12.—Frank Eden, aged 22, went for a ride with Nicholas Brand early Saturday evening, in a naphtha launch, and, according to Brand, without any warning, he leaped from the boat to the river and was drowned.

The launch was some 500 feet out in the river off the foot of Taylor street. Fairview, when the tragedy occurred.

Brand says he poked around in the water for some time, and then, unable to locate the body, put ashore and notified Eden's relatives.

There was more delay and some hours afterward the police were notified. Precinct Detective Repp of the home street station went to Eden's home, but could learn nothing that throws light on the situation.

Riot at Football Match.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—At the Celtic-United football match last night for the city championship a fight between a couple of the players developed into a riot, participated in by a hundred or more players. McDowell, one of the players, was seriously injured, also Sloan, the Uniteds goal tender, who had his arm cut. A woman went into hysterics, and the game had to be called off.

Farmer Suffers By Fire.

Brookville, Aug. 10.—R. R. Graham, a farmer living near South Mountain, suffered severely by fire recently. During a storm his stable was struck by lightning, the valuable horses killed. The barns, together with stables and out-buildings, were consumed; also much machinery, fifteen loads of hay and 100 bushels of oats. The loss is $3,000, with insurance of $600.

JUSTICE FOR THE NATIONS.

Scheme for International Court Drafted at The Hague.

The Hague, Aug. 12.—The new scheme for the international court of justice was drafted on Saturday by Baron Morschell von Bieberstein (Germany), Sir Edward Fry (Great Britain) and Joseph H. Choate (United States).

It provides for the organization as well as the procedure of the court, but not for its composition. It is certain that the court will be started without the adhesion of certain of the minor powers.

While the negotiations urging the proposed automatic periodical meetings are proceeding between the Russian delegates at St. Petersburg, M. Nelidoff (Russian), has declared that he will oppose especially the British proposal that representatives of the powers meet at The Hague two years previous to a meeting of the conference to arrange a program.

M. Nelidoff is of the opinion that such a preliminary meeting would start pacifist agitation throughout the world that would be embarrassing to the various Governments.

One hundred and fifty Russian Hebrew delegates, or one-third of the total represented in the Zion congress which will meet here next week, held a preparatory meeting yesterday, which soon issued an anti-Russian circular. The persecution of the Jews in Russia was denounced.

NOT ALL ROSY.

Gen. Booth's Colony In Canada Hangs Fire.

London, Aug. 10.—According to authoritative persons the Salvation Army commission appointed to enquire into a site for a Salvation Army colony in Canada says: "Not all rosy." The solution of the problem is as far off as several years ago. The situation is unaltered, except that the Canadian Government is now eager while Booth is coy.

Fred Johnson, clerk of the central unemployed body for London, informs the Canadian Associated Press that the emigration committee has selected 5,000 persons out of 15,000 applicants, these being unemployed and unskilled laborers and families. In all cases they were most carefully investigated, and these investigations have been so thorough that in many cases applicants have been much troubled by unavoidable delay before they could be accepted.

The information received after they arrived in Canada is most encouraging, practically every man obtained work immediately on arrival. The chairman of the committee, Walter Hazell, and Rev. J. C. Morris, have sailed on the Empress of Britain, and intend making enquiries as to the best methods of dealing with the question of emigration in 1908.

ATTACKED MINISTER OF WAR.

Crowd Try to Lynch Man Who Assaulted Gen. Picquart.

Rochefort, France, Aug. 12.—Gen. Picquart, Minister of War, was insulted and afterward assaulted in the railroad station here last evening when returning from the dedication of a monument to Edouard Grimaux, who was prominent in the revolution of 1871. The sentence of Capt. Dreyfus, a workman suddenly emerged from the crowd and spat in his face.

Gen. Picquart threw off his assailant. Simultaneously with the outrage the crowd with shouts of anger at the indignity offered the War Minister, surged forward and fell upon his assailant, who was triumphantly and in danger of being killed. He was finally rescued by the police and taken to jail, badly mauled and bruised.

SIX HUNDRED HOMELESS.

Big Fire Sweeps Manila — Many Houses Reduced to Ashes.

Manila, Aug. 12.—Fire in Manila Saturday afternoon destroyed 120 native houses and made 600 persons homeless. The damage is estimated at 68,000 pesos.

The fire originated from an electric wire and swept over a space of 1,000 yards from the burning point, spreading flames from spreading. No one was injured. The homeless are being cared for.

LONDON SUFFERS HEAVY LOSS.

Traction Line Crippled by Bad Fire—Several Motors Destroyed.

London, Ont., Aug. 12.—In a fire, the loss caused by which will amount to between $125,000 and $150,000, the barns and five cars of the Southwestern Traction Co. and 20 valuable motors were destroyed on Saturday.

The cause was crossed wires. The lines were completely run up for several days and it was not known yet as to whether they will be in operation within a week as to the south of the barns the poles are burned and the tracks are badly warped. It was fortunate that four cars were at St. Thomas, or the entire system would have been completely wiped out.

Eight new motors and twelve old ones were in the building, and they are a complete loss. They are valued at between $2,000 and $2,500 apiece, and will be difficult to replace. Manager Mower stated that the barns would be rebuilt as soon as possible.

Forger Is Caught.

Brantford, Aug. 12.—The efficiency of the Brantford police department was again demonstrated yesterday morning, when word was received from Chief Mains of Niagara Falls that Charles Stover had been arrested in that place at the instance of the Brantford force. In July last, Stover is alleged to have secured $200 on a forged note at the Traders' Bank in Norwich. Manager Duck of the bank placed the matter with the local force, and the arrest followed. Stover is well-known in Brantford and formerly worked here. He will be taken to Norwich for trial.

Lumber Going Up.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Lumbermen here are of the opinion that lumber will advance in price. The expense of cutting is getting heavier year by year.

The cut will be about the same as last year.

Big Fire In Garage.

New York, Aug. 10.—Fire in Mack Bros.' big automobile garage, and repair shop in Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, early yesterday, caused a loss of $100,000. Twenty-six automobiles were burned.

DIGS HOLE IN WALL

"Bill" Miner Gets Away From B. C. Penitentiary.

THREE OTHERS ALSO FREE

Notorious Train Robber Eludes Vigilance of Guards—Was at Work in Prison Yard — Excavated Under Jail Wall—Stole Horse and Is Likely Over Border — They Had One Hour's Good Start.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 10.—Bill Miner has escaped from Westminister penitentiary. The most notorious outlaw and train robber in America, the only man who ever held up a train in Canada, is now believed to be heading for the international boundary 15 miles distant from Westminister, if he has not already crossed it on the fastest horse he could steal. His pals, Shorty Dunn, who is serving a life term, and Colquhoun, his Ontario confederate, in Kamloops train robbery in May, 1906, are not with him, not having had old Bill's opportunity to get away.

Three others escaped with Miner, but he will likely drop them, all being juniors in the game Miner plays. They are Clarke of Nanaimo, three years for forgery; W. J. Woods, Victoria, a like term; A. F. McCloskey, Vancouver, seven years, robbery. All had served a year of their term.

With these, Miner, working in the brickyard, had dug a hole under the wall, and had made their escape nearly an hour before it was discovered.

Ottawa, as well as every police centre in British Columbia and Washington State, were immediately wired, and every available officer in Westminister and Vancouver has been pressed into the chase.

Deputy Warden Bourke says the escape was due to negligence of guards. Miner was the best behaved prisoner. Only a few weeks ago he joked about his home life to a mounted police officer, who had assisted in his memorable capture.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL.

Toronto Youth Runs Away From Turnkey and Evades Recapture.

Cobourg, Aug. 10.—Norman J. G. Frame, the Toronto youth who was convicted of forgery and sentenced to four months' imprisonment for passing bogus cheques in Port Hope, escaped from the county jail here yesterday morning while in charge of the turnkey. Although the sheriff's officers and county constables are looking for him, he has so far evaded recapture.

The escaped prisoner is 18 years of age, height about 5 feet 8 inches, complexion dark, eyes blue, face smooth, and form slim. He had been "doing the races" at the Woodbine, and resorting to devices to raise money for "sporty" purposes when he was arrested at Port Hope.

A warrant has been issued and a reward offered for his re-arrest.

STOLE LIVERY RIG.

Harold Scott Is Sent For Trial at Cobourg.

Bowmanville, Aug. 10.—Harold Scott, the young man from Newmanark who was arrested by Chief Jarvis Wednesday night on suspicion of having in his possession and offering the same for sale a driving mare, top buggy and complete driving outfit, appeared before William M. Horsey, police magistrate, yesterday.

After hearing the evidence of Thos. Mahoney of Bellhaven, who identified the property taken from Scott as his own, and that of other witnesses, Scott was sent to the county jail at Cobourg for trial on two charges. Scott gave his age as 15, but he is nearly 20 years of age, and took his committal with the nonchalance of an old offender. This is the seventh time that Chief Jarvis has returned to owners since he came to this town.

Toronto Travel Taken.

Brantford, Aug. 10.—The man arrested Thursday evening as S. W. Smythe was tried in the Police Court yesterday. He pleaded guilty on two charges, obtaining money from Burns, a dry goods clerk, and at the Bank of Hamilton. The money received from both those places was found on him.

The prisoner represented himself as a traveler for S. F. McKinnon & Co. of Toronto, and through this means he obtained the money. He is not employed by that firm now. His case is remanded till next week that investigation may be made.

Counterfeit Bills at Rossland.

Rossland, B. C., Aug. 10.—For some time past a gang has been passing bad bills in this city. They are counterfeit, it is thought, of the bills issued many years since by the Merchants' Bankers' Bank of Georgia. About six weeks ago the gang passed two $20 bills, one in a hotel and another in the store of a merchant. At that time they made good their escape.

British Steamer Wrecked.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 12.—A report reaches here of the wrecking of the British mail steamer Colombia of the Pacific Steam Navigation Co. of Liverpool, bound for Panama to Valparaiso. This wreck is reported to have occurred at Eten, a port in the Province of Chiclayo. No details are obtainable.

Two Lost In Wreck.

Punta Arenas, Aug. 10.—The British bark Glenclair, Capt. Nichol, from Rochester, England, for Seattle, has been wrecked off Cape San Paolo. With the exception of two men all the crew were saved.

Two Southern Hangings.

Greenville, Ky., Aug. 10.—Harrison Alexander, a negro, who assaulted Mrs. Florence Whitehouse, a half-white woman, was hanged here yesterday.

New Orleans, Aug. 10.—Lazar Mehojovich was hanged here yesterday for assaulting a small girl.

Arsenic Found in Porridge at Regina Restaurant.

RIVAL CHINAMAN ARRESTED

Borrowed Oatmeal From Proprietor—Alleged That Poison Was Placed In Quantity Returned as Payment—Boards Seized With Violent Pains After Eating Meal—Three Men May Die.

Regina, Aug. 9.—A sensation was caused in the city yesterday by the news that a number of boarders at Steele's restaurant on Lorne street had been poisoned by a solution of arsenic in the porridge partaken of by them at breakfast. It appears that the proprietors of the restaurant lent a quantity of oatmeal on Thursday to the Chinese proprietor of the adjacent eating house. The oatmeal was duly returned and Steele used some of it to cook the morning meal. Mrs. Steele and eight or nine guests ate of the porridge and almost immediately afterwards were seized with severe internal pains accompanied by vomiting. Doctors Thompson and Meek were summoned and by natural means and stomach pumps a great part of the food was ejected. Three of the sufferers, Harry Stewart, Cyrus Winters and John Fortune, were conveyed to Victoria Hospital, where their condition aroused grave anxiety. There is, however, some ground for hoping that all those attacked will recover.

Arsenic In the Meal. The unused oatmeal was confiscated and a portion of it submitted to Dr. Charlton, Provincial Bacteriologist, who certified to the presence of arsenic. The Chinaman who returned the oatmeal, and generally known here as Mac, has been arrested. According to present arrangements he will be brought before Magistrate McCausland. A fact which, unless disproved, appears to weigh against him is that an invoice shows that he purchased two weeks ago a quantity of oatmeal, all of which had not been used. What valid reason he had to borrow oatmeal with a stock already in his possession remains a mystery.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in the Town and District, and Sporting Circles Generally.

BASEBALL

SYLVESTER'S 3, ORIENTALS 2

After all the Orientals are but henson, and as much liable to defeat as the other collections of sports that compose the Town League. They bunched into their Jonah last week, and took their defeat gracefully.

The Sylvester team—so disorganized and listless in the preceding game—were reanimated by the reappearance of their drooping spirits by getting into the box and playing havoc with the Oddsfellows' batting averages. They all went after his high inshoots with vigor, much to their discomfort.

In the cool and dusky last innings they commenced their usual heavy, breaking garrison finish. The leather was swatted hard, and a couple of errors besides Louie Calder's, were committed. The batting was better, but the fielding was not. The heart of the leaders, and the green and reds had the kibosh on them. But that the "innings" was the heart-breaking moment? One hardly dare breathe while the two teams struggled for the laurels so dear to all. That lovely drive of Calder's and Anderson's tally raised the hopes of the Oddsfellows, but only to dash them to the earth again when "Pete" Beaton came along and casually cut Thompson out a two-bagger by a neat catch of a high fly. The rest was easy.

The Iron Men started in early and burped hard in the first innings. The full team had a crack at him, and three runs were scored. This was just enough to take the heart out of the leaders, and the green and reds had the kibosh on them. But that the "innings" was the heart-breaking moment? One hardly dare breathe while the two teams struggled for the laurels so dear to all. That lovely drive of Calder's and Anderson's tally raised the hopes of the Oddsfellows, but only to dash them to the earth again when "Pete" Beaton came along and casually cut Thompson out a two-bagger by a neat catch of a high fly. The rest was easy.

PETERBORO JUNIORS WON

The Maybes, of the Lindsay Junior League suffered a bad defeat in Peterboro Thursday at the hands of the Lillies, of the Peterboro intermediate league. The game was played on the Oval, a beautiful athletic grounds on the outskirts of the city. The diamond is very grassy, but the play was fast. The score was 15-7. The visitors appeared to have stage fright and badly mishandled the ball on occasions. The Peterboro team was composed of husky youngsters, evidently the pick of the intermediates. They played fair ball and got away to a good start, easily retaining their lead throughout the game. "Dooley" Starr, for Lindsay, was easily the pick of the pitchers, although "Curly" Bellingham pitched a good game.

A BASERUNNING FEAT

Hendon tells of a case of baserunning by McGraw and Keiser in the old Oriole days which must have been a wonder. With McGraw on first, Keiser hit a liner to left, which went to the fielder on the mound. McGraw never stopped at second, keeping right on to third, full tilt. Not until he got to third, Bill Joyce was playing that bag, and by the time he had dug the ball out of the dirt and swung around for McGraw, the latter was on his way home. He reached the plate when the ball did, knocked the ball out of McGraw's net, and before McGraw could recover it, Keiser, too, was over the plate.

FROM PETERBORO'S SIDE

Regarding the recent Lillie-Maybe game in Peterboro the Examiner has the following to say. The home team was strengthened by Bellegem of the Oddsfellows, and Curtis, Kandy and Wilson of the Strathcons. They deserved their victory. Starr, who pitched for the Maybes, put up some fast ones and had five strike-outs to his credit, while Bellegem made six of the Maybes to hit nothing but air. The Lindsay catcher, played a steady game throughout, but the battery's support on bases was not up to the standard. Fee, on the initial sock, was one of the best of the visitors.

BLOOMFIELD BEATEN

Picton Times. On Thursday last Wellington trimmed Bloomfield on the latter's by the score of 3-2 in a league game. The contest was fast from start to finish, and very exciting all through. The two pitchers were in good form and mixed up their offerings. Quilley was steady when Hickey and Curtis, Kandy and Wilson of the Strathcons. They deserved their victory. Starr, who pitched for the Maybes, put up some fast ones and had five strike-outs to his credit, while Bellegem made six of the Maybes to hit nothing but air. The Lindsay catcher, played a steady game throughout, but the battery's support on bases was not up to the standard. Fee, on the initial sock, was one of the best of the visitors.

FOR THE FANS

The Barris baseball team have written for a game here. Young "Bantam" Anderson and "Dooley" Starr compose a clever battery.

Big Cy Young, of the Boston Americans, has won more games than any pitcher of his club.

"Corney" Burns heads the batting list among the Peterboro players. "Corney" hits at a .390 clip.

Harold Anderson, Norman Starr, J. Fee, W. Gray, S. Touchburn, Clement Cunningham, Ed. Hopkins, T. Fleury and O. Stewart comprised the baseball team that journeyed to Peterboro Thursday. "Peggy" Murphy and "Happy" Roke were the m.c.s., and kept everybody cheery. The latter did several buck and wing dances, to the amusement of the crowd.

The Wilawakes have secured a new man, in the person of W. Langdon, who formerly played with Mount Pleasant. He gives promise of being a corner.

In a junior league game the Maybes trounced the Quakers 14-7 on Wednesday night. Batting: Maybes—S. Starr and Anderson; Quakers—McMahon and Connell.

The Galt baseball enthusiasts were treated to a sample of Eastern League ball on Wednesday when Toronto and Buffalo played in that town. The Leafs winning by the score 3-5, and delighting the hearts of the Canucks.

Peterboro Examiner: The Toronto papers, with a holier than thou air, are making merry over the story throwing and hoodlums in Quebec. Yet a Rochester ball team, which was wallowed to the tune of a duck egg to a dozen, did not escape being mobbed and stoned by a gang of hoodlums, the natural product of what a Toronto citizen declares, are the worst children in creation.

LACROSSE.

MILLER'S TEAM WON

At Adelaide on Aug. 3rd All Canada defeated the All Australian team 6-3 before 9,000 people. The tour has been shortened to allow All Canadians to leave Australia by Sept. 2, in order that students may reach the university. Captain Bill Hanley complains of the size of Australian grounds, and asks that they be reduced from 150 yards to 115 yards.

It's nice to be president of the C. L. A. and live outside of Toronto—awfully, says Harry Cameron.

The All-Canadians have won another game in Australia. South Australia were the victims this time, and the score was 7-2.

The famous Tecumsehs, Toronto's star lacrosse team, play a game with the Checkers in Beaverton Wednesday of next week.

The Tecumsehs will in all probability go on a tour to the Pacific Coast and take part in the lacrosse tournament at the Provincial Exhibition Sept. 28 to Oct. 5.

Toronto News: From all appearances the actions of President Harry Cameron will lead to some pretty warm scraps between certain teams, and before long the public will have a pretty sure line on the players receiving the big chunks of coin for their daily labors digging sugar out of a barrel in all the country villages.

THE TURF.

Owing to the filing of a protest it is possible that the $10,000 Empire State purse won by Sonoma Girl at the Kenilworth track on Tuesday last, will be tied up until the meeting of the board of review of the National Trotting Association in December.

Peterboro Examiner: Mr. Jas Collins, of the Norwood Road, has purchased the two-year-old stallion, King Keswick, one of the great Keswick family, for breeding purposes. The sum paid, it is understood, was $1,100. King Keswick is a very handsome stallion and he inherits great speed from both dam and sire, and he has style, as well.

Buffalo, N. Y., August 7.—The fastest mile paced this year was made recently by Angus Pointer in the race for all at Kenilworth Park. The track was lightning fast and Angus Pointer covered the oval in 2:08 1-4. Angus Pointer was much favorite, only three horses facing the wire. Baron Grattan, went to a break at the quarter, and after regaining his feet broke again and was distanced.

RUNNING.

An effort is being made to match Shrub, the English long-distance professional runner, and Loughboat, the Canadian champion, at the annual games of the New York Caledonia Club, at Mespeth, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday, September 2nd. Shrub will enter in the one, two and five mile races, and Loughboat will be offered to the Indian runner to compete against the Englishman.

Alfred Shrub, the famous English distance runner, stride too long and distance runners stride too long, and expand their energy on form. Shrub is in a position to know what he is talking about, because he is the supreme distance runner of the time, and, for that matter, is the best man from one to twelve miles that ever wore a spiked shoe.

He holds all the amateur and professional records from one to twelve miles, and to-day, after eight years of competition, can give any competitor a start and beat him handsily. Shrub points out that America has no long-distance runners, because American runners believe a long stride is the best means of getting over the ground rapidly.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

AND THAT'S GOING SOME. Fargo, N. D., July 30.—Barney Oldfield at the Fargo Inter-State Fair Monday, broke two world's automobile records on a half-mile track, going the first mile of a three-mile race in 1:15 1-2, and the three miles in 2:51. His mile record beat that made by himself at Winnipeg ten days ago by four and a half seconds, and his three-mile record was 18 seconds faster than that of his Winnipeg record.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

DON'T FORGET TO SMILE.

"I'm a preachin' of a doctrine," the old shoemaker said, "A doctrine of religion good for livin', not for dead, 'A doctrine I've lived up to for many many years; It is smiling, smiling, smiling, with no time for tears."

"Trouble comes to everybody somewhere on the weary way, An' it's my experience there's the time for you to pray; When you've done yer job o' prayin', there is nothing else to say. Just rise up an' smile quite freely, watch yer troubles slip away."

"Oh, it's smiling, smiling, smiling, that will lift the weary load, Smooth out all the roughened places, Take all pebbles off yer road; You kin travel on in comfort, ev'rything will seem worth while. If you'll only keep a grin, friend, and don't forget to smile."

"I've gazed away at this old bench for fifty year, an' more, An' I've never yet found out the use o' broodin' trouble o'er; All this broodin', broodin', broodin', soon yer soul an' turns things black, An' just as like as not'll settle in the backward track."

"You can't afford to be a cynic, wearin' that Saurin grin, Good Saint Peter will disown you, will not let you enter in; There's no room in heav'n for cynics nor for those who howl and frown. It's the one who smile like sunshine that will wear the golden crown."

Trouble hits my wagon often, but I just keep grin' on—A-smilin', smilin', smilin' an' a singin' of a song, An' I know just where I'm goin', knowed it for this good long while. You kin go there, too, my dear one, if you don't forget to smile."—Anonymous.

FISHING.

Do you know the charm of fishing on the lake, With a rod that's lithe and limber, In the shadow of tall timber, And the pools of gloom that sitting suns forsake?

Do you know the hush of trolling for the pike, Through the waters softly gliding And in peace and hope abiding—The tinge that foregoeth with a strike?

Do you know the fret of feeling for big trout In deep caverns dark and hollow, Till you feel the sudden wallow Of the monster as he strikes and goes about?

Do you know the pride of landing twenty pounds—The moments tense with feeling As you slowly keep on reeling, And the mind forgoes the story that astounds?

Do you know the wistful waiting for a bite, Till the sun grows low and mellow, And at last, above the yellow, You perceive a limpid lantern of the night?

Do you know the spell that fishing really weaves Is the pause it gives to thinking, And the way it takes of linking The soul of man to water, clouds and leaves?

Have you heard the shore-born breezes as they break Into lispings soft and winning, Like far distant mandolins, Drifting down the rippling reaches of the lake?

Has the thought of crowded cities crossed your mind, Where the tired ones are panting, While the sunset gleams are slanting Down behind you solemn hills so cool and kind?

Then thank God for Izaak Walton and his book—For to him first came the vision In this vale of indecision, How to solve this life's equation with a hook.

IT WAS A MISTAKE.

Town Bell Rang at 11 O'clock Friday Instead of 12—The Reason.

Evening Post, of Aug. 9. Clang! Clang! Clang! tolled out the market bell this morning about 11 o'clock, and at once everyone within hearing distance, thinking it was a fire alarm, gathered to see the blaze. The firemen, coats off and arms bare, as they left work hurriedly, came up on the run to catch the fire alarm. At the hall, however, everything was peace and quietness, and no signs of an alarm was evident. The explanation of the occurrence is that Caretaker Wilson's chronometer took a crazy fit—heat, probably and was fully an hour fast. Glancing at the incorrect timepiece which told him it was twelve o'clock, he hurried to ring the bell, with the above results. A jeweller is now diagnosing the trouble.

BOARD OF HEALTH TALKED BUSINESS.

Cost of Smallpox Outbreak—M.H.O. Thinks Town Should Foot All Bills—Sanitary Inspector Douglas Taken to Task—Rumors of Kent-St. Plumbing Belief Defective—Other Matters.

Evening Post of Aug. 7. The recent outbreak of smallpox, and the subsequent long list of expenses, was the important feature of the Board of Health meeting last evening in the Council chamber. The communication from the town Council, complaining of Sanitary Inspector Douglas' unsatisfactory work, and the analytical reports of samples of a couple of town wells, also received the Board's attention. There were present Mr. A. Horn, chairman, Mayor Vrooman, and Messrs. J. Keith and Gop. Mills—barely a quorum. Health Officer Dr. McAlpine and Sanitary Inspector Douglas were also present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COUNCIL COMPLAINS. Clerk Knowlson read a communication from the town Council, complaining of the condition of the lanes and yards behind Kent-st. stores. Mayor Vrooman explained the Council's attitude, and the probability of fire from such a source.

Sanitary Inspector Douglas said that paper and inflammable material did not come under his jurisdiction. The Fire Warden had to deal with such accumulations.

"At the same time," said the Mayor, "many yards were in an unsanitary condition in the spring."

"Were all the wells cleaned out before July 1st, as the by-law provides?" broke in Mr. Keith.

Mr. Douglas said he had put out notices twice, and was now going to prosecute those who had failed to comply with the regulations. Mr. Mills advanced the theory that scavengers should make regular calls and garbage barrels be located at certain points.

WILL INSPECT PLUMBING.

"Do you inspect the plumbing, Mr. Douglas?" quired Mayor Vrooman. Mr. Douglas said all plumbing was inspected when it was being put in, but not after.

The Mayor said he had heard rumors of Kent-st. closets being in a disgraceful condition. He then moved, seconded by Mr. Keith, that the Sanitary Inspector be instructed to visit all stores and places of business where employees worked, and inspect the closets.—Carried.

A CURIOUS CASE.

The case of Mrs. Jackson, the east ward woman who had been keeping a dead cow in her cellar, was next brought up. She had not been sent to the House of Refuge as ordered by the Board.

"The most curious case I ever met," said Dr. Vrooman, "She actually thrives on dirt." The Mayor went on to explain that the old woman had been sent to the Ross Hospital, but the change in the conditions of life, and the pure air and food nearly proved fatal to her. She was taken back home and is now thriving in both and perfectly happy. She will be left alone in future.

A communication from Inspector Douglas, relative to paying of Miss Davey, one of the smallpox patients, $5 for reinforcement for quilts, pillows, etc., used, aroused considerable discussion as to whether the town should pay for such things or not. Mayor Vrooman said the town was not forced to pay for any expenses incurred in this way. Only charity cases should be financially assisted. (The town had been "robbed" in times past on this plea, merely because cases had been isolated. It seems truly absurd, added the Mayor, that we should have to pay everything, even to the doctor's bills.)

Dr. McAlpine favored the payment of all expenses in such cases by the town. It was for the town's benefit, he said, and we should go farther and pay the patients' salaries. A motion was put to pay the account, but no second could be got, so the matter will stand.

CHEMICAL POLLUTION.

Samples of water from wells belonging to Mr. Gunigle and Mr. Westcott had been sent to the Provincial Board of Health analysts, Toronto. Their report was far from satisfactory. The analyst says on his report that both samples show considerable "chemical pollution." They are infected with bacteria of intestinal origin, and the water should be previously boiled before using. These wells had been cleaned out since the samples were submitted, and later samples had been sent in.

Moved by Mayor Vrooman, seconded by Mr. Keith, that in the event of the water again proving unsatisfactory, that the wells be closed.—Carried.

INSPECTOR DOUGLAS' REPORT.

The report of Sanitary Inspector Douglas was then read. One case of diphtheria and three of smallpox had taken place within the last two months. All the patients were better now, and the isolation tents had been pulled down and fumigated. The notices for the cleaning out of wells had been put up. A ditch at the corner of Williams and Pottinger-st. was in bad condition and should be repaired. In the south ward a ditch along Durham and Albert-sts. was in an unsanitary condition. This has since been remedied. The house of one Pietro, on Wellington-st., behind Skitch's wagon works had been examined and found to be uninhabitable. The report was taken up clause by clause.

Moved by Mr. Keith, seconded by Mr. Mills, that the attention of the Council be drawn to the condition of the ditch at the corner of Williams and Pottinger-sts.—Carried.

The condition of the man Pietro's residence was said to be disgraceful. It was unsanitary and altogether unfit for human residence. Moved by Mayor Vrooman, seconded by Mr. Keith, that this Board condemn the house for habitation.—Carried.

A BATCH OF ACCOUNTS.

A big batch of accounts were then read, principally connected with the recent smallpox case. An account from H. Pugh, one of the patients, for coat, vest and other clothes, $10.85, was not entertained: J. Kerr, carting $ 2.75 McGahey, carting 1.25 H. McDonald, carting50 J. C. Edwards, wire 2.38 Victoria Meat Market 2.08 W. Copp, rent for tent 3.00 J. Meenan, carting50 W. R. Keys 4.26 B. Gunigle, buggy 1.00 W. E. Stewart, milk 3.10 W. J. Tompkins, work done 3.25 Mrs. W. J. Tompkins, milk 3.52 Dr. W. C. Jeffers 47.50 Geo. Foster 95.00 A. Hestonham 37.00 McLaughlin & Co. 4.81 F. Armstrong 2.25 J. Carew 15.05 W. M. Robson 36.12

These accounts, with a few exceptions which were not certified, were passed. Chairman Horn was then, on motion, re-imbursed for $3.00 difference in the purchasing of tents. The Board then adjourned.

The Old Log Cabin.

"Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Forget not the days when our fathers were ringing Their chorus of axes, through woods rich and rare; Remember the cabins where others were singing, With hope in their hearts and their hands full of care.

Like incense, the voices of sons and daughters Arose with the smoke, from the clearing to Him, Whose Garden of Maples, beneath the sweet waters, He gave us, and blessed our cup to the brim.

The dearest of homes was a cot in the wild wood; No palace nor castle in Eland or Franco Could ever compare with the beauty of childhood— Now its shadow recedes like an exquisite trance.

At "dawn," or at "sundown," they met their good neighbors; They talked of old lands on a trembling voice; And they gallantly shared with their oxen the labors, Of hewing out homes in the land of their choice.

A shot from the door, brought a buck to the table. A spear thrust in water, "dug" to the fire; Wild pheasants in millions of o'ad were no fable, And Nimrods found here a heart's richest desire.

Say, Memory, where are thy Johnny-cakes' riches? Give back the molasses and apples distilled; With pancake of buckwheat and such divine dishes, That kings, to obtain them, houses would build!

What tongue has the power of telling of their sorrows? What pen has recorded their woes gone before? Their father to-day, and the seeking to-morrow? And joys in that sacred heritage of yore?

The noble old stock in their graves now lie thicker, And children forget where their grandparents die; The forest and cabins fade farther and quicker— Oh, let not their virtues in us ever die.

Young Canada sports his white knits and high collars, But grandmother spun all his father had worn; Remember, you boys, set with diamonds and dollars, That in the dear old log cabins our nation was born.

O, forest-bred children, wild Nature's buxomness Gave you the hard bone, and the brown, and the brain; Her sun-dewy's most secret recesses Were found to Log Temple by God's golden chain.

—William H. Taylor.

NEW DOCKS ON TRENT CANAL

Improvements of Benefit to the City—Traffic is Increasing.

Peterboro Review: The dredge Emmons has completed, or nearly so, the work at Gore's Landing. Both outside and inside the dock, the channel has been dredged to a depth of nine feet, making this one of the best docks on the Trent Canal. Boats can go in behind the dock and load with grain and hogs, no matter how severe a storm may be raging, and there is a great quantity of grain and large numbers of hogs shipped from Northumberland county to Peterboro. The dredge will next come up the river to Smithson dock and dredge a small harbor, making it better for the boats to land. The material taken out will be thrown on the bank for the purpose of widening the approach to the dock, so that farmers can bring down their grain without any trouble. As soon as this work is done the dredge will return to Dandelfield, where it has been cutting a new channel for the purpose of straightening out the river and making navigation easier and safer.

The new dock at Hall's Landing, the end of the Bensford road, will be finished early next week. It is fifty feet long and the farmers of South Monaghan will soon be using it for shipping grain and hogs to the city market. The new dock at Hale's bridge, started last week, will be ready for use early next week.

The new dock at Indian Village on Cheneau lake has been finished. All these new docks are of benefit to the city of Peterboro. The better the shipping facilities are on the Trent Canal the more produce will be sent here instead of being sold to outside buyers and shipped to other centers. Every year the Trent Canal is of greater benefit to this city and the amount of traffic upon it is rapidly increasing. This fall promises to be a record breaker.

The Post has no desire to be impertunate, but we would suggest that at new wharf at Sturgeon Channel, at which steamers could land in all weathers without danger, would be greatly appreciated. Then, to revert to an old grievance, we would like to see some effort made to remove the sunken logs from the river channel, and we may be permitted to suggest that if we might have the use of the dredge—it doesn't seem to be badly needed down below—we might have a few corners cut off the bands of the tortuous Scugog, and so add to the comfort and safety of a huge traffic. Of course, if these demands interfere with the arrangements for the carriage of products to Peterboro market, we'll wait a few years longer.

TO CRUISE THE KAWARTHAS.

Evening Post of Aug. 12. Mr. Fred Robson, of Toronto, son of Mr. Wm. Robson, town, spent yesterday under the parental roof, having with him Mr. Ralph W. Ashcroft, of New York, a well known literature, and a bosom friend of Mr. Gwain, the great humorist. The latter was invited by a party of Buffalo literary gentlemen to join them in a two weeks' tour of the Kawartha Lakes on a houseboat, yet important business engagements interfering, he asked and received permission to send Mr. Ashcroft as his deputy. The other members of the party arrived in town this morning, and a couple of hours later all went on board a Stony Lake houseboat, rented from Mr. R. B. Rogers, former superintendent of the Trent Canal and left for Cobocook in tow of a yacht.

Cranes as Well as Lift Looks Needed.

Weekly Sun, Toronto: Almost coincident with the report of the opening of the Trent Valley canal to Lake Simcoe, there comes the statement that a portion of the waterway, long since opened, is no longer safe for navigation even by the smallest boats. Not only has there been filling in by sand, but sunken logs from which the knots have not been removed are threatening danger to the hulls of the ships that pass either by day or by night. The recently opened Kirkfield lift lock is all very well in its way, but what appears to be called for is a succession of cranes, placed at convenient points, to lift canal steamers over the obstructions that have been created—that is, at least, when the dew fall is not heavy enough to raise the canal level to high water mark.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 16th.

BANK LOANS ABROAD.

Complaints have been pretty general in Ontario of the restrictions put upon business loans by the Canadian banks as a result of the tightening of the money markets, but they have been nowhere so pronounced as in Manitoba and other North-western provinces, though the East has for several years been steadily bled for money to develop the West. The disposition has been to blame the banks for investing largely deposits in foreign loans, hence the following from a recent issue of the Winnipeg Free Press dealing with the foreign loans of the banks will be of interest.

It is quite natural that many people should just now show a disposition to criticize the banks for the policy they pursue. Those who have been disappointed in their expectations of getting the credits they need for carrying on their business in the manner they wish, and those who want to see this Western country provided with the funds it requires to effect the maximum of development, both find the stringency exceedingly irksome. It is plain that there is considerable element which is not convinced that the banks are doing what they can to relieve the situation. Those forming this party cannot rid themselves of the idea that the present trouble is due, in part at least, to the desire of the "big banking interests in the east" to regulate or check the enthusiasm of the West in so far as its expresses itself in schemes requiring money. One circumstance having much to do with the prevalence of this idea is the showing of the bank statement in regard to loans outside Canada. On June 30 last, total and current loans elsewhere than in Canada amounted to $78,687,122. And, considering these items by themselves without thinking of the other items of the foreign business, or of the purpose the foreign loans have got to serve, one might easily conclude that, if the banks were sincere in their protestations that they are doing what they can to take care of Canadian commerce and industry, they might bring home some of this money loaned in New York, Chicago, etc., and lend it to Canadian borrowers.

It is thus worth while to investigate the whole matter of the foreign position of the banks. A clear view of how they stand and what they have been doing can never be obtained by merely looking at one or two items. To get at the real position, seven headings in the bank statement have got to be considered. Four of them represent investments abroad, three represent liabilities, and the two last mentioned and the difference found will show the net investment abroad.

By way of illustration the foreign position of the banks, as at September 30, 1906, was as follows:

Foreign Investments.
Balance due by banks in U. S.	$10,956,722
Balance due by banks elsewhere	18,304,524
Call loans elsewhere	63,771,628
Current loans elsewhere	35,776,470

Foreign Liabilities.
Balance due to banks in U.S.	$7,532,724
Balance due to banks elsewhere	1,968,536
Deposits elsewhere	55,287,913
	64,788,273

Net investment abroad $63,115,971. Among the securities also are some foreign bonds, but as there is no way of arriving at the amount they cannot be taken in.

Next taking the figures in this way for each month since September, the following result is obtained:

Net Investment Abroad.
September 30, 1906	$63,115,971
October 31, 1906	58,862,460
November 30, 1906	55,042,701
December 31, 1906	44,674,841
January 31, 1907	38,145,719
February 28, 1907	34,758,804
March 31, 1907	22,562,225
April 30, 1907	18,417,253
May 31, 1907	23,321,434
June 30, 1907	26,189,955

These figures show pretty conclusively that the banks have been doing their best to care for Canadian trade. In the seven months up to April 30, they had reduced their net foreign investment by $45,000,000, chiefly because of the strong demand for credits at home. It is well known that Winnipeg and the West got their share of this money. As a matter of fact some anxiety was caused by the fall of the foreign exchange to such low levels. This has been partly relieved by the moderate gain shown in May and June. A remarkable feature of these balances was shown at the time of the Ontario bank collapse. The bankers did not know then what was going to happen with their depositors. Runners were thought likely. They strengthened themselves by calling home three millions of so in gold from New York. At that time they had a net sum of sixty millions abroad. It furnished a pretty satisfactory guarantee to Canadian borrowers that they would not be called on summarily to repay their bank advances because of an upset in the financial centres.—Stratford Beacon.

FOUR DEATHS A DAY.

In the Province of Ontario during last June there was 143 deaths from tuberculosis. If the disease were a smallpox the people would be in a state of panic says the Toronto News. Yet consumption is a contagious disease like smallpox. It is generally just as dangerous. But because it is slower in development and because it has been an ever-present ill, public attention is not directed towards its ravages. Yet if the disease can be recognized and fought in its incipient stages, many persons can be saved to their friends and to the State. In all the countries, sanatoria were erected where patients could be isolated and where they could follow the hygienic rules laid down by medical science for observance in the treatment of the disease, the death record could be materially reduced. The only obstacle is the cost, and it is time people ceased wondering whether or not it is wise to spend money in order to save life. A forward step may possibly be taken by the Education Department in arranging for medical inspection of pupils in all the primary and secondary schools. By this means young persons who have unknowingly contracted consumption, or whose physical condition is at a low level, could be warned of their danger, and possibly might be saved from untimely graves. The pitiful toll of over four lives a day is mainly due to ignorance and public indifference.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

C. Hanson and A. Belier, the two whiskey "spotters" of the Ontario Government, who have been making trouble for hotelmen at Ottawa, Almonte and other places, are under bail to appear before Police Magistrate Beckett, of Beckett's Landing, on Aug. 29, on charges of being drunk and disorderly.

In 1895-97 it cost the Conservative Government $591,320 to collect a revenue of $8,040,401. In 1906 it cost the Liberal Government $387,138 to collect a revenue of $16,052,907. The revenue under the Liberals more than doubled, and the expenses increased only about 42 per cent.

For the half year ending June 30, the British total imports amounted to $328,365,000 as against $300,549,552 for the corresponding period of last year, then the record year, while the total exports for the first half of this year showed an enormous increase of $32,854,327, the totals being $257,866,729 against $225,012,398. The immense increase in the importation of raw materials from the chief feature of these latest returns, amounting to $131,966,654, as compared with $105,237,607 in 1906—an increase of close on $27,000,000, or nearly $135,000,000. Here we find the experimental evidence that refutes the doctrine of the Chamberlains.

Stratford Beacon: Few houses by the hundred are going up in Stratford again this year, but the great majority are of the larger and more expensive class. Is this wise building? Is not the supply of $20 to $25 per month rental houses getting a little in excess of the demand, and would it not be better for builders to get down to lower priced grade? Small cottages, or houses, with modern conveniences, carrying a rental of $12 to $15 per month, are in urgent demand by workmen. Why not supply this want? The man who can afford to pay $23 to $25 per month can afford to build his own habitation. Not so the average workman. He is always a sure tenant, and as the city needs him, it should be good business as well as good policy to have his needs supplied.

Victoria Road Hotel Affairs.

The Victoria Road hotel, recently owned by W. McNaney, who lost his liquor selling license, is now being operated by Mr. A. Raymond, formerly of Woodville. Raymond's license was taken from him at Woodville because the population of that village was not large enough to legally allow two hotels. Mr. Raymond is now secured a 20-day license for selling liquor at Victoria Road pending a meeting of the License Commissioners.

THE FUR SMUGGLING ENQUIRY

The Trial of Simon Marshall before Magistrate Moore Tuesday.

Evening Post of Aug. 13. The enquiry into the recent alleged case of beaver skin smuggling from Algonquin Park was commenced this morning before County Magistrate Moore. Simon Marshall, being charged with the offence, Mr. G. H. Hopkins defended the prisoner, and Mr. A. P. Devlin acted for the prosecution. The witnesses for the Crown are Theodore McIlhenny, John Jones, John O'Keefe, Joe Dwyer, R. Yarnold and Jas. Mitchell.

This morning's proceedings were attended by a full court room. McIlhenny, O'Keefe and Mitchell were examined, and the Magistrate was far from satisfied with the evidence given by McIlhenny and Mitchell. He asked numerous questions, and Mr. Hopkins objected, saying that Mr. (Moore) should not conduct the prosecution. Magistrate Moore said he was determined to find out the whole truth.

McIlhenny was the first witness. He said he was express messenger on the Hamilton to Lindsay train. On or about June 20th this bale of wool was expressed from Kilmount by someone whom he did not know. He thought the assistant, Balch, put it in the car. It was addressed as a bale of wool to Horn Bros., Lindsay. He took it to be wool and gave it to Barnett, the Lindsay express wagon driver, who left it in Express room. No one but Barnett had a right to use the room. He (the witness) did not know whether it was looked up or not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hopkins, witness said, "No, it was not Marshall who put in the bale at Kilmount—it was Belch."

Magistrate Moore was annoyed at the witness' manner of answering queries, and said he was not telling all he knew.

John O'Keefe, the G.T.R. baggage-man, testified that Mr. Jones, on or about June 20th, had told him to keep the bale safely in the baggage room. He agreed and went to do some work. Later he noticed the pack missing, and saw Jones, Mitchell and Marshall in conversation over the bale on the north platform of the north platform of the station. Jones had told him he was a constable; he asked him (O'Keefe) why he did not look it up. Then O'Keefe and Mitchell carried it over and put it in the baggage room. Marshall came along and asked him if it was going to be examined there and O'Keefe answered that he didn't know. The bale was not torn. Later O'Keefe found out it was expressed and turned it over to the Express Co's keeping. Barnett looking the bale up in the express room and Jas. Mitchell keeping the key for safety because O'Keefe had told him the boy Barnett might get into trouble. It was looked up about 9.30. About 11 o'clock Barnett came and told him the door was open and the bale gone. In the meantime he had been away from the station for 10 or 15 minutes and he had seen Marshall yell after Mitchell and climb in the rig. The express room door was probably pried open, the lock was it had been looked. He explained to Jones next morning.

Mr. Mitchell said he remembered the date and helped to put the bale in the baggage room. He didn't know Marshall then, but later the prisoner ran after him and asked him for the key of the express room. Mitchell said "No." I handed the key to McIlhenny about 11 o'clock. He told Mr. Widdess or Mr. Waite he had it. It was in his possession for nearly an hour. He didn't know whether Barnett looked the door or not and did not know what the trouble was. He couldn't account for the door being open. "Did you receive money in connection with the affair?" asked Crown Attorney Devlin. "No, sir," said the witness. The case was then adjourned until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

More Evidence Taken Tuesday—Adjourned until August 23rd.

Evening Post of Aug. 14. Further evidence was taken yesterday afternoon in the supposed fur smuggling affair; the case was then adjourned until Friday, Aug. 23rd, the Crown having more witnesses to subpoena.

Robert Yarnold and Jas. Dwyer, call boys at the G.T.R. station and roundhouse, gave evidence. Yarnold said he remembered the time when the bale was brought in. He knew Simon Marshall, and saw him that morning standing between the express and baggage room at about nine or ten o'clock. Marshall had a key on his shoulder. Dwyer was the only other person he had noticed around. He had told the story to the Chief of Police.

Joe Dwyer was the next witness. He recalled seeing Marshall on a certain occasion. He was walking from the east of the station to the west, and spoke to a man on the tracks. He said, "I've got it, but it cost me a dollar." Mitchell, Dwyer said he did not recognize the man who had been spoken to, but he was sure Marshall said the above words.

To Mr. Devlin, Dwyer said the day the Chief of Police was talking to him was the same day on which he had seen Marshall.

The Crown Attorney then asked for a two weeks' adjournment, and after some objection by the prosecution lawyer, the case was adjourned until August 23rd.

Tried the Experiment.

"Willie, said the boy's mother, who was preparing to go out. You must eat that cake in the pantry while I am gone. It will make you sick." Three hours later when she returned to Willie said, "You didn't know what you were talking about, mamma. That cake didn't make me sick a bit."

LINDSAY CITIZENS VISIT COLLINGWOOD.

The Woodmen of the World and Sylvester Band Excursion Well Patronized—Band and Baseball Team Victorious—Notes on Trip.

The Sylvester Band, of Lindsay, won the band tournament by 54 points.

The Lindsay baseball team defeated the Collingwood nine 7-2.

Evening Post of Aug. 13. Joy, pure and unconfined, reigned supreme in Lindsay last night, and the great old town was at its gayest. Its citizens turned out en masse, to welcome their victorious boys home from Collingwood, where they had swept everything in line. A torchlight procession was formed, and the band were escorted to their rooms amid the loud cheers and hurrahs of the admiring crowd.

THE CELEBRATION.

With its mammoth steel ship yards employing hundreds of workmen, its dry docks and manufacturing establishments, with the picturesque Blue Mountains, the ever enchanting caves, and a delightful stretch of Georgian Bay water close by, the pretty little town of Collingwood is an ideal spot for an excursion.

The Collingwood Woodmen of the World lodge is an enterprising one, and yesterday (Collingwood's Civic holiday) was chosen as the date on which to hold a celebration. The success of the day reflects considerably credit on the lodge. The excursions from outside points, however, were a great aid in completing the success of the celebration. Meaford, Niagara Falls, Barrie, Lindsay and other places each contributed contingents to swell the crowds, and everywhere the W. O. W. emblem was noticeable.

THE EXCURSION.

Fully 350 citizens were on board the train when it pulled out of the G.T.R. station here. The Sylvester band and the Lindsay ball team were present to compete for honors in the Georgian Bay town. At 7.55 the train pulled out and the trip commenced. The journey was a long one, but good time was made, the jovial conductor, Tommy Ringland, getting his train through with all possible despatch. Driver Hutchinson got all that was possible out of his engine. The train took the excursionists through Beaverton, skirted the blue-green waters of Lake Simcoe, through Orillia and Barrie, and through to Collingwood on Nottawasaga bay.

The train was due in Collingwood at 12.05, but was delayed a little by a freight car that was off the track, and reached its destination about 20 minutes late. The number on the train was greatly augmented at towns en route, and 500 visitors landed in the town. The majority of the Lindsay crowd repaired to the Globe hotel, where Mine Host John F. Scholes had a bountiful spread in readiness, and diners were taken of.

THE PARADE.

When the wants of the "inner man" had been met, the parade to the Town Park was begun. In front rode the marshal, then the Meaford band, then the crack Niagara degree team, the Sylvester band and the Lindsay baseball team. Crowds thronged the spacious main street, Hurontario, which is exactly the same width as Kent-st. (100 feet wide) and witnessed the progress of the parade. The parade was an athletic sports commenced and were witnessed by a huge crowd. Secretary E. J. Bellman of the Collingwood W. O. W. had a splendid program arranged, and all went off smoothly save in minor details.

THE ATHLETICS.

The lacrosse match Collingwood vs. Barrie, came off first, the latter winning the game 4-0. The grounds was a poor one for the game, and the crowds could not be kept back. Scraps were frequent and the spectators mixed it up merrily with themselves and the players. "Connie" Meaford, of hockey fame, played for Barrie and took heaps of abuse. After an hour of monotonous lacrosse the score stood as above and the game was over. The Barriettes were the cleverer team. The 5-mile bicycle race for a $10 camera was interesting. Most of the boys won it easily. Stoutenburg's chain slipping off. The one mile race was also between these two, and Stoutenburg, of Collingwood, showed his class by easily trimming Meike. Lindsayites enjoyed this race immensely.

THE WOODMEN.

The Niagara Falls degree team were the feature of the Woodmen parade. The team was composed of stalwart young men, and their drill was perfect. In full regalia they marched to the park, and also gave a public initiation in the evening. Mr. C. C. Hodgins, M. P. for North Middlesex, Head Consul Commander, and Mr. D. Cinnamon, of Lindsay, were among the W. O. W. officers present. Lindsay Court was well represented.

LINDSAY 7-COLLINGWOOD 2.

Then came the long-expected ball game, and everybody gathered to watch its progress. The Lindsayites in grey and red, looked a good deal more youthful than the Georgian Bay boys, but were "there with the goods" and showed superior ability. Dick Butler, the crack Lindsay umpire, was on duty, and had his troubles. Both teams were perfectly satisfied with the deal they got, out of some of the crowd were unruly and created trouble. They lined the diamond and began with abusive epithets. They were all stout, bulky chaps, and evidently wanted a fight. At last one of them interfered with Butler and they got what they wanted and "heap plenty" of it. The local boys went there to play ball and the game would have been clean but for the interference of these "Indians." As it was, three of them went for Umpire Butler, but they failed to reckon on Tony and the others, besides sundry rooters. The game ended in the fifth innings in a melee that would have done credit to a Donnybrook fair. The policemen were around, somewhere, but were useless. The score was then 7-2.

The Lindsayites were all good stickers and fielders and Dick Gray got going in the box. "Tony" Workman on second was a tower of strength. Ross, the Collingwood catcher, was the best man on his team and played a pretty game.

Lindsay	Collingwood
Gray	Catcher
McIlhenny	Pitcher
Scowens	1st base
Workman	2nd base
Killam	3rd base
Crin	S. F.
Perkins	Right field
House	Centre field
Nesbitt	Left field
Umpire	Butler

House had his hand badly damaged, and had to secure a doctor's attendance.

THE RETURN HOME.

The return trip was far from uneventful. First, the boys were given a rousing send-off. Happy as kings, they cheered every station at which the train stopped. A delay occurred near Orillia owing to a conflagration at Athlery which burned a freight shed and six cars of lumber. The journey was continued by another truck, and all went well.

As the hours progressed weariness was evident, and the majority curled themselves up in their seats and fell asleep, but when Lindsay G. T. R. station was reached everybody was wide awake. A burst of cheers greeted the incoming train, and a "Rube" band contributed selections. A torchlight procession followed the Sylvester band playing the "Cock of the North" while being escorted down the streets.

When the last light went out, the last tinkle of a cowbell heard, and the instruments stored away, the wearied ones sought the refreshment of a sound sleep, and dreamt of the pleasures of the day that had passed.

THE BAND TOURNAMENT.

There were two entries in the tournament, Lindsay and Meaford. Evidently the surrounding towns were too well aware of the excellence of the Lindsay aggregation of musicians under the skilled leader, W. H. Roenigk, and did not care to risk an encounter. However, the Meaford band with its twenty members were no mean opponents. These latter played first and then the Sylvester band played the following pieces:

- "Danube Waves," a waltz.
 - "Maritana," a selection.
 - "Tintern Abbey," a march.
- The rendering was spirited and the music took well with the crowd. The judge was a well known Waterloo musician and gave the score as 233 points for Lindsay and 179 for Meaford out of a total of 300. He made some flattering comments on the skill of the locals. Needless to say, the result was greeted with applause.

EXCURSION NOTES.

Victory is ours.

Both band and ball team.

A grand celebration for the W. O. W.

The Sylvester foundry was shut down yesterday.

The "rube band" which welcomed the boys home was a triumph of invention.

Two victories for the band. They have yet to be defeated.

Three excursionists were left behind at Orillia. They arrived home safely this morning.

The balloon ascension and parachute by Prof. Casselle was a drawing card.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Landridge-McFarland

The home of Mr. Geo. McFarland, at Glendown, south of Cobourg, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday, Aug. 7th at high noon, when his daughter, Jennie, was united in marriage to Mr. George Landridge, of Toronto.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. John McFarland, and was becomingly gowned in a travelling suit of blue Panama cloth with blouse of point d'esprit over taffeta. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nettie, who wore a pretty champagne jumper dress. Mr. Bert Parker, of Toronto, supported the groom. Rev. J. Ross, of the Kilmount Presbyterian church, officiated, and after the ceremony a sumptuous dejeuner was served.

At 3 o'clock the bridal party was met at Cobourg by the steamer Kilmount, and after a delightful day down the lakes to Fenelon Falls, they took the evening train to Toronto amid showers of rice. Mr. and Mrs. Landridge will reside in the city.

The Auto Saved a Life.

Mr. Ross Landgate, formerly of this town, found R. Hedger, a young man of Clarksburg, lying unconscious on the road, and in a dying condition. Mr. Landgate put the man in his automobile and rushed to Port Credit.

No doctor could be found there, and Landgate pointed his machine to Clarksburg, where he found a doctor and gear and smashed all the speed laws in the neighborhood. It was a record trip, but the injured young man probably owes his life to the automobile. Mark down one for the dust-maker.

TOO MUCH FIREWATER DISAGREED WITH THE RED MEN.

Indians Created a Riot on Board Str. Esturion Returning From the Stony Lake Regatta—Charges of Assault and Disorderly Conduct Against the Indians—Where Did They Secure Liquor?

Eight or nine Indians filled with firewater created the greatest excitement on board the Esturion on the way from the Stony Lake regatta that has been experienced for many years, and it will be a long time before any of the passengers forget it. The Chomong Cottagers' Association and the Chomong Yacht Club ran an excursion to the Stony Lake regatta, going down in the morning. A number of Indians were taken on at Indian Village and went around with the excursion. On the return the bunch got off at Burlington, and when they returned to the boat they were in fine fettle and set out to thrash everyone in sight. It is stated by an eye witness that the Indians began first to quarrel with themselves, and then some of the fresh kids started to tease them when the red men became wild. Then nothing would stop them. They slashed and pounded everything in sight and undertook to clean out the boat. They were partially successful so far as the lower deck was concerned, but when they attempted to go upstairs they met with an obstacle which tended to quiet at least a few of them. As soon as the Indians rushed for the stairway several well known residents put up a stiff fight and prevented the mad men running amuck of the women and children. One prominent young fellow threw several of the Indians bodily down the stairs. The fight kept up all the way from Burlington to Buckhorn, where three of the redskins were put off. The others then quieted down and the rest of the trip was made without incident.

During the battle the war whoops and the shouting was terrific. Many men who had never before seen red men under the influence of liquor, say they never went through such an experience before. The ladies and children were badly scared, and it will be a long time before they will care to go on another excursion. It is reported on the best of authority that the Indians were seen drinking at the bar by several prominent Peterboro people. One man stated this morning that if such conduct is permitted in the north country, it is time the commissioners made a thorough investigation and force more respect for the laws of the country. Information has been laid against the Indians, and an effort will be made to prove a case against the hotel or hotels where the fellows got their liquor.—Peterboro Examiner, Tuesday.

WHERE IS FORDIE KENNY?

South Ward Lad Missing Since Tuesday, Not Yet Located.

Evening Post of Aug. 14. Tall for his nine years, fair hair, blueish gray eyes, blue blouse, black trousers with a blue peaked cap, describes Fordie Kenny, the southward boy who has been missing since Tuesday morning of last week. When last seen on the Ops bridge by Mr. Jas. Robertson, he was about eight o'clock, and may have gone to some friends of the family in the country. As yet a trace of him can be found. Keep a sharp lookout for a lad answering to the above description.

Tough Faro.

In a New Zealand town one of the municipal candidates, a pronounced Scotsman, had received a present of a huge Scotch thistle, which at the moment happened to be lying on the table of his committee room. A friend, entering, withdrew suddenly, with the remark: "I beg your pardon. I didn't know you were at lunch!"

A BAD RUNAWAY.

Adams Bros. Horse Badly Wrecks Delivery Rig and Harness.

A spiral column of dust whirling along the road spared Adams Bros. delivery horse while it was standing in front of Mr. Jas. Peel's at the west end of Kent-st. Tuesday, when the driver, Angus Campbell, was in the house. The animal bolted down Kent-st. at a lively gait and dashed into Colvin's yard, near Robey's store. There it was captured unhurt. The rig was badly smashed and the harness needed a few repairs.

May Change Hands.

A deal is now under way, but not yet completed, whereby a change in the management of the Toronto Club will be brought about. Hitherto the company has consisted of the following gentlemen: J. J. McCaffrey, president; Lawrence Solomon, Pop. Burger, Jess Applebury, J. J. Seitz, Wm. Baxter, Wm. Brick. The stock owned by Messrs. THEY BROKE INTO STORE

Sneak Thieves Robbed Local Hardware Store Monday Night.

Evening Post of Aug. 14

The hardware store of McEwen & Co., we are informed, was broken into last night by sneak thieves, who got away with considerable booty.

The thieves effected an entrance through a window opening towards the back yard. After this the rest was easy, and goods of various kinds were stolen.

Merchants should take warning and be careful to see that all the windows and doors in the store are properly secured.

It is a pity that the statement made by the police sergeant, who is known to be a reliable man, that one-half of the stores on Kent-st. could be entered in five minutes by any enterprising burglar.

FOUND DROWNED.

Body of Unknown Man in Water Near Cameron.

PROBABLY TAKEN WITH CRAMPS WHILE BATHING.

Coroner Deemed Inquest Unnecessary—Has Looked of Victim.

Evening Post of Aug. 13

A pile of clothing on the lakeshore, and the absence of the owner thereof, led a fisherman to suspect an accident yesterday. A brief search of the water in the vicinity enabled him to locate the body of a man in about 12 feet of water, and he at once set off to give the alarm.

Mr. Taylor Parkin, Warden of Victoria County, who lives near Cameron, was one of the first to be apprized of the occurrence, and he sent a messenger to town for Dr. Wood, one of the coroners for the County.

The Dr. drove out last evening, and under his directions the body was recovered from the water. The arms were bent and the fingers twisted, going to show that the unfortunate had been taken with cramps while enjoying a cold plunge.

Mr. Hopkin Andegson, a farmer who lives near the scene, informed Dr. Wood that he had met the stranger Sunday evening on his way to the lake at a point where the government dredge had filled in a road across the marsh, and heard him say he was going to enjoy a swim.

He was walking a long way, and that he had worked at Mr. Jamieson's, near Glenora.

Dr. Wood decided that an inquest was unnecessary, and gave an order for burial. (The remains were interred at Eden cemetery to-day.)

The deceased was apparently of English birth, and about 25 years of age. The clothing contained nothing by which he could be identified.

A locket, with the picture of a young person, is in the possession of the Coroner, and may yet lead to the identification of the unfortunate's victim.

The Canoe Floating Death Trap.

(Toronto Telegram.)

The proportion of fatalities in the use or misuse of canoes, as compared with the proportion of fatalities in the use or misuse of row boats, must be about thirty or forty to one.

The canoe is graceful, its smooth motion is alluring, and it is about as easy for a beginner to sit safely in a canoe as for an amateur to walk a tight rope.

But the canoe will continue its flirtatious. It empties homes and fills graves every summer. It is a more poetic craft than the steady-going row boat, and will go right on taking its toll of lives from young people who insist that they are as sure in a canoe as they would be in a streetcar.

Men's Suits

Price Savings

Coats are made with fitted backs—that is, the fitted effect is present, but they have that loose, stylish hang that most every man likes. Broad, good-looking lapels that set sure and flat. The collar grips the neck band with a firm, always there to hold—not the least sign of a "yawn." Straight or slightly rounded coat fronts hand padded, which makes them keep their shape as long as the coats have life.

Nice length vests of a decided mannish cut.

Trousers are as shapely and good looking as the coats, which is high praise for them, indeed.

Now isn't that the kind of a new suit you have been looking for? We are showing them in some exceptionally nice, stylish Tweeds and very durable and fashionable Worsteds. Handsome suits indeed and worth having a look at them to-day—at Sutcliffe's.

It isn't what you make counts most—it's what you save that swells the total achievements at the year's end. It's your duty to save and it's the duty of your store to help you save by offering dependable merchandise at lowest possible prices. But during August we do more than this—we are closing out all odd line throughout the store and the price reductions are extreme indeed.

Better just come each day and spend an hour or so in looking around—note the price tickets and you will see how great is our claim and how justly we are entitled to it when we say we sell "Trustworthy Goods at uniformly low prices" all the year around—yet we offer still greater reductions and savings for you to take advantage of during the next few days.

We close at Five O'clock daily, except Saturday, during August.

THE DEPARTMENTAL EXAMS

Names of Successful Victoria and Haliburton Students.

Below we give the results of the recent junior teachers' examination. This is the examination which qualifies for entrance to the model or normal school, and is the academic test of fitness to take up the work of the public school teacher. The requirements are 40 per cent. on each paper and 60 per cent. of the total number of marks. This higher standard has, of course, caused a larger number of failures than there used to be in the days of 50 per cent., but the results as a whole are satisfactory. As in the junior matriculation, no one paper or group of papers can be said to have caused a special failure in any one subject.

The certificates of successful students and the marks of those who failed will be sent to the principals of high schools, to the inspectors, and to those officials application for results should be made:

VICTORIA—E. M. Burke, M. G. Conn, J. T. Dewar, R. C. Gray, L. F. Johnston, honors; N. M. Kingsley, T. W. Lowery, B. McEachern, M. McGill, R. M. McMullen, honors; N. S. Nichols, T. M. Peel, E. A. Pickard, P. Seymour, F. M. Smith, D. McE. Miss L. T. Johnston, who obtained honors, is but 15 years. Her showing is a credit to the Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

VACATION TIME.

'Almost every self-supporting girl,' writes Mrs. Anna Steese Richards, in the August number of the Woman's Home Companion, 'when asked what her idea of a vacation is, will reply, 'A time when I can do just as I please, when I can sleep in the morning, when there are no hours for me to observe, no rules for me to follow.' And when you figure with the average woman wage-earner on fifty weeks of work and two of vacation, you can hardly pronounce her definition narrow or selfish. In reality, however, her vacation means much more than this, and in the end she is not satisfied with these privileges alone. The habit of law is strong and after the first reaction, which comes with release from daily toil, she finds that the right to do just as she pleases pulls upon her. So the girl accustomed to a daily routine of office, store or factory duty, finds that the condition of having nothing to do becomes irksome. She is cloyed with the sweetness of relaxation. Ninety girls out of every hundred, returning to business after a vacation, honestly admit that they are glad to get back in harness. Once rested, they miss the regular routine. They could not settle down to doing nothing gracefully. Within bounds, this is a normal, healthy sign, but when the worker frets every minute she is away from her post it means that her nerves are so strained, and she is unfit for business. If you do not feel rested at the end of a fortnight's vacation, if you feel that business is hateful to you, and all buoyancy has left you, then something is wrong. Either you need more rest, more relaxation to recuperate your nerves, or you are just meant to be a business girl. The real, dried-in-the-wood business girl, however, years to minister to the physical welfare of her family.

THE BOURASSA INCIDENT.

The unexpected reception meted out to Mr. Henri Bourassa by some hot-heads on the occasion of his attempt to address a meeting in St. Roch, Que., (part of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's constituency), has aroused some criticism, and some of the type papers seek to convey the impression that the Premier was in some way responsible for the harsh treatment met with by the Government critic. Such insinuations deserve only to be ignored. Friend Bourassa must have realized the risk he ran in invading the constituency of Sir Wilfrid with words of censure on his lips before the excitement caused by the Premier's triumphant and patriotic homecoming had died away. He probably got just what he had figured on—the opportunity to pose as an injured hero.

The following remarks of the Toronto Star are undoubtedly representative of the views of all Liberals with respect to the incident:

No one would attempt to defend the conduct of the mob in breaking up the Bourassa meeting and stoning the speakers. But it is not enough to condemn the violence of the mob. It is necessary, in this country to emphasize the advantages of free speech and full discussion on all occasions. If Mr. Bourassa is right he ought to be heard. If he is wrong he ought to be heard. It is by patiently hearing and considering opinions of all kinds that the people can exercise the rights which they nominally possess under our free institutions. An elector who casts his vote without knowing all that is to be said on the questions of the day is not a free man. He is no better off than his ancestors were under Downing street rule.

Under the best of conditions there is too little of that sort of discussion which informs and broadens the mind. (There are short periods of excitement in politics and long periods of apathy, and one is as unfavorable as the other to the right understanding of political questions. If the people are really to govern themselves they must have the great questions of the day steadily and constantly before them; and they must hear both sides and all sides. Politicians complain that the newspapers pay less attention to politics than they formerly did. How many politicians, members of Parliament, candidates and others, do their own duty in keeping the elections, informed on the questions of the day, and presenting them with the materials for forming judgment?

In taking the elections into his confidence, Mr. Bourassa deserves credit. He does not insult them, as his opponents said in Quebec; he pays a compliment to them as intelligent men. It is alleged that his motives are selfish, and that he is trying to get into the limelight. If that is true, the best way to meet him is to follow his example. It ought not to be a singular thing for a member of Parliament to address the electors, it ought to be the regular practice, it ought to be followed whether an election is at hand or not. Violence is the natural outcome of repression, and of neglect of the duty of educating the people.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Australia grants Britain a tariff preference of 5 per cent. But she may do better by and by.

The evicted Irish tenants' bill passed its second reading in the House of Lords, denounced only by Lord Clonricarde, the most hated landlord in Ireland.

That this is Canada's century is no longer questioned. From one end of the land to the other reports come of ripening crops, increased bank returns, expanding commerce, rapid railway construction, and best of all, genuine contentment. With bad administration all this would have been impossible, with good Government all things tending to material good are possible.

The London Free Press severely condemns the practice of "making terms with criminals," which it seems to think is a too common in the Ontario administration of justice. It is not in the interest of society that the offender should bargain as to his punishment, and Hon. Mr. Foy will do well to put a stop to the abuse and restore the dignity of the courts.

Chicago Weekly American: The haut ton of Newport is evidently determined to qualify for affiliation with the ancient order of anathoroids. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont last week had a chimpanzee as guest of honor at a dinner to her friends. It seems quite certain that if the ape genus shall ever evolve into the human class it will be by a natural transition through the medium of Newport society.

Hamilton Times. Canadians need more discipline and self-control. People who felt public speakers like Bourassa, felt baseball umpires, felt street cars when there are strikes, felt calf-wrestlers when they fail to satisfy, and in so many ways violate good order an attempt to avenge what they regard as wrongs, in an illegal or extra-legal manner, are in danger of straying from the tested and sound principles of the Government of free peoples.

MANY COWS KEPT AT A LOSS

REPORT OF BOBCACEON COW-TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

Furnishes Food for Thought on Part of Farmers Interested.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)
The first test for the Bobcaygeon Cow Association was made on July 25th, by Mr. D. E. MacKenzie, of Beaverton, who has charge of this district, and he kindly furnishes the following results and pointed remarks:

At your Cow Testing Association I found the highest milk yield to be 1120 lbs. with a test of 3.7 per cent butter fat or equaling in butter 41.4 lbs. The highest test was 4.3 p. c. Thus we see that the cow giving the largest flow of milk does not as a rule have the milk testing highest in butter fat.

The lowest milk yield was 280 lbs. with a test of 2.9 or equaling in butter fat only 8.1 lbs.

Note the difference in the amount of butter fat these two cows produced, 41.4 and 8.1, a difference of 33.3 lbs., or valuing butter fat at 20c a lb., $6.66 difference in return to the owner for the thirty days ending July 24th. The lowest test was 2.5. Here again we see that lowest amount of milk and lowest test do not go necessarily together. Do not these results from our own district appeal to every thoughtful dairyman? In this one testing association a difference in amount produced to a dairy farmer of over $6 in one month. Does this not show the great necessity for the work? From a business point of view each dairy cow may be regarded as a separate department of an undertaking, and it is a principle of sound business to find out that each department pays, that is, that each individual cow gives a return large enough to pay for food, labor, etc., and leave a margin for profit. Guessing at the total yield will not avail. Memory is too treacherous. The total production of the milking period must be calculated so as to strike a balance with the cost of the cow, the twelve months feed and to ascertain the margin, if any.

The records of the Cow-testing Associations are showing that many cows on our dairy farms are not even paying for their keep. Every dairy farmer should find out three things regarding his cows: 1. How much milk does she give. 2. How much fat does it contain. 3. How does it cost to produce. Such questions are readily answered if some simple record system is adopted. The members of the Cow Testing Association, which are being organized, agree to weigh the milk night and morning every ten days through the milking period, at the same time taking a sample for testing. The time occupied is not more than three minutes per cow per month. The composite sample is tested free by the department every month, and the farmer receives report of milk produced, test of same and amount butter fat, and thus knows every month just what each cow is doing for him.

Milk is dear and sold at a loss if produced in too small a quantity by the cow. It is not always the cow that starts off in the season and gives a large flow that is the heaviest producer. The fact that she gave a couple of pails at a milking through June does not say that she gave 5000 lbs. in the year. She may decrease in flow much more rapidly than the cow in the next stall, whose shrinkage of flow is gradual. Let every cow stand on the record of her merit. Up to the present we have been too content with taking the average of our herd. Averages are too comprehensive. They shield the poor cows and do not give fair play to the good. It will be seen that the value of a record is indispensable. They are easily kept, cost but a trifle and their value increases as they are continuous and must appeal to all thoughtful dairymen as being of immense and immediate benefit.

WISE PARENTS

Guard Their Children's Health by Giving Them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The health of the growing boy or girl should be carefully guarded. During the growing time there is a danger of the blood becoming poisoned and the health seriously impaired. The blood should be kept pure and the child will grow strong, healthy and active. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an ideal tonic for the young. They never fail to bring color to the pale cheeks and strength to the growing body. To a reporter of L'Avonir du Nord, Mr. John Provost, of St. Canute, Que., tells how these pills saved his daughter Marie from a life of misery. He says: "A year ago my daughter, a girl of thirteen, was very weak. She was so ill that I feared she was going into consumption. Though I tried remedies at first, she remained in this weak state for several months and I began to think she never would get better. I read of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had been in a case of anemia, so got some for her. Soon she began to improve; her appetite returned; she grew strong, color came into her cheeks and to-day she is as healthy as any young girl could be. I firmly believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally successful in bringing those of mature age back to health as they are in building up the young. They wake up the red blood—that is, they cure anemia, rheumatism, St. Vitus dance, heart palpitation, indigestion and the secret ills of girlhood and womanhood. But you must get the genuine bearing the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. All other so-called Pink Pills are imitations. If your medicine dealer does not keep the genuine pills they will be sent at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ONTARIO WINTER WHEAT

When Used With a Little Western Flour is Unvalued.

For years the farmers on Ontario have heard of the phenomenal production of the Western wheat fields, and have resignedly accepted the much advertised superiority of Western flour as a conclusive fact. All over Ontario the demand for Ontario wheat has fallen off, with a consequent lowering of the price paid to the farmer for his grain. In addition, bran and shorts have become so expensive as to seriously reduce the margin of profit for the dairyman and stockman.

Now, the most practical discovery of the last decade, the one most far-reaching in its results to Ontario farmers, is that known as "flour blending." Western flour has been popular in Ontario on account of its large percentage of gluten or "strength," which chemists call protein, although the western product lacks both flavor and color. Flour made from Ontario winter wheat is not so "strong" but has a peculiarly attractive flavor. When a little western wheat is added to the Ontario product, the percentage of gluten is increased, and all the flavor retained. The practical results of this discovery are certainly noteworthy. Ontario farmers who have made a specialty of the new flour have directed out western flour from the Maritime Provinces. They have been compelled in some instances to double their already extensive plantings, and have created such a demand in Toronto that the most popular loaf sold to-day in this city is made of Ontario wheat.

What is true of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick where an unprejudiced public have decided in favor of the blended flour of Old Ontario, ought to appeal to Ontario farmers. Financial folly, when the purchase of the Ontario product gives better bread, and helps to create a demand for Ontario wheat. When people all over Ontario realize this fact, the farmers of Ontario will not only be the gainers of several millions of dollars, but will find that the cost of bran and shorts will drop to the normal figures of ten to fifteen dollars a ton. And, surely, the Ontario farmers should be the first to set the good example by buying only the flour made largely from Ontario wheat.

Bad Fire of Uxbridge.

The Uxbridge Organ & Piano Company met with a serious loss by fire, on Saturday evening. At about 10.50 the frame building, in which were nearly all the machines, was burned to the ground, while the engine house, storeroom and lumber yard were also a prey to the flames. The adjoining brick building was damaged on the roof only, owing to the excellent work of the local fire brigade. The fire started in the engine room. The loss will be $25,000, on which there is 13,000 insurance.

"Oh, no, Madame," she cried as to a queen—"not your woman but the crystal and yourself."

The other threw up her head incredulously. "If you reveal," she said sharply, "that I have visited you—"

"I never reveal what," she always revealed herself. She sat down indolently, but there was almost insolent provocation in the simple grace of the movement.

Madame d'Etioles turned away. "And your pay?" she demanded sharply. "As Madame pleases," came the indifferent answer from the sofa.

The visitor placed five pieces on the table, replaced her veil, and walked towards the door. "Adieu!" she said over her shoulder, but Andre could see she stepped as one intoxicated by a sublime vision.

"And will Madame remember the wise woman," the sorceress pleaded in her soft voice, "if the crystal be found to speak the truth?"

"Yes," she had wheeled sharply, a merciless freezing vengeance glinted in her eyes and stealed her voice. "I will have you burned for an insolent witch. I promise not to forget."

"My thanks, Madame," she rang the hand-bell, and Madame was unceremoniously ushered out. The sorceress sat reflecting and then placed the crystal in her bosom and took away the screen.

"It is the turn of Monsieur le Vicomte," she remarked pleasantly. "It is a pity I did not ask the lady to stay and hear."

"No, I thank you," Andre answered. "I am satisfied, and so was she."

"Monsieur is not as Madame," the sorceress said, fixing a penetrating gaze on him, "he fears his fate."

"Oh, no," was the quick reply. "My fate lies in my sword and my head. I am ready to face it without fear or reproach when and as it comes. But I will not know beforehand, not even for a crown reversed."

For a brief second her eyes rested on him with approval, and indeed she looked very handsome and noble at that moment.

"But Monsieur will permit me," she said gently, and before he could refuse she had taken his hand, "I will not speak unless he wishes."

While she studied it he studied her. What a subtle pathos seemed to lie in those blue eyes, those smiling lips, that dainty head almost touching his, a pathos like her perfume ascending into the brain. And how enchanting was that diamond cross rising and falling on that dazzling breast.

"What is it?" he asked, for she had dropped his hand with a faint sigh, and sat staring mysteriously at something far away.

"I am forbidden to speak," she answered, averting her eyes, and she picked up her cat, and walked away. "You shall tell me," Andre said impetuously.

But she only laughed over the cat's body, stroking it softly with her chin. "All this purr echoed through the room."

"Confess, confess," he said, "I will know."

"The hand of Monsieur le Vicomte," she answered, smiling mischievously, "is full of interesting revelations, dreams which come and go—but there is one dream that is always there—the dream of love. Women," she added, "women, women everywhere in Monsieur's life; as in the years that were past, so in the years to come. Let the Vicomte de Nerac be on his guard against all women—and against one woman in particular."

Andre failed to suppress an exclamation. Had this beautiful witch divined that secret too?

"Her name," she paused to bury her face in the cat's fur, "is—Yvonne—Yvonne," she repeated, "of the Spot-Bess Ankle."

"Yvonne!" he laughed heartily.

"Yes, Yvonne. Sometimes there is more in a peasant girl to tempt and ruin than in a Comtesse des Forges, or a marquise—" it was her turn to laugh. "Ah! the Vicomte is a gallant and reckless lover. He thinks as the noblest think, that women are necessary to him. But it is not so. It is he who is necessary to them."

"And your fee for the advice, mistress?"

to court she would not stay a week.

"A week!" Madame threw up her no-bis hand. "Not twenty-four hours."

But Andre, who had heard the crystal's story, had his good reasons. Already fertile schemes were fermenting in his brain; his ambition, too, was daily soaring upwards, and he dimly guessed that this strange chattering fortune-teller's wheel the opportunity for which he thirsted would at last come. And so like the rest of the gay world he went that night to the grand ball given by the municipality of Paris at the Hotel-de-Ville in honor of the marriage of the Dauphin; for the King had promised to be present, and it was to be one of those rare occasions when the nobles had consented to rub shoulders with the middle class in doing honor to the royal bride and bridegroom. Coming events were in the air. Andre felt, though why he could not say, that tonight would somehow prove a decisive turning-point in the history of himself and of France.

For one purpose or of dancing, the court of the Hotel-de-Ville had been converted into a ballroom, superbly festooned and illuminated, and the crowd that had gathered was immense. Nobles of the realm, great ladies, peers, peeresses, and the Court here jostled in the wildest confusion with the gentlemen of the robe, with aldermen, shopkeepers, and even flower-girls and the danseuses of the royal ballet. The company was supposed to be masked, but many had already discarded the flimsy covering; and for all who still wore it the disguise was the merest affectation. Most of the ladies of the middle class had donned fancy attire, but the noblesse for the most part showed their quality by refusing to imitate the canaille. Andre of course was content with his uniform of the Chevaliers de la Garde, that beautiful and famous livery of scarlet with white facings, silver buttons, spurs of gold, and hat with white plumes which in itself conferred an enviable distinction, and about his neck, more proudly still, he carried that croix de St. Louis, whose possession sufficed to make any soldier happy.

For a few minutes he stood gazing at the brilliant spectacle presented by the moving throng,—one vast arena of human beings in which the uniforms, the stars and ribbons, the jewels, the bright eyes, and the fair shoulders were blended into a magic and inspiring panorama, over which floated the tender music of harp, violin, and flute.

And as he moved slowly forward kissing noble hands, receiving gentle congratulations, or looking into eyes to which in past days he had whispered devotion in the Oeil de Boeuf or beneath the balmy fragrance of a fete champetre at Rambouillet his ambition soared still higher. But dance he would not; he had come to watch, to teach, and to learn. The Chevalier's joy was not here; he had been dispatched, Andre discovered with grim satisfaction, on special business of the King. But yonder was Denise, holding a miniature court. As Andre edged his way towards her, her glance fell on the familiar uniform, and it plainly said: "Here at least let us forget the past—I have forgiven you—come let us be friends as we were before." And Andre replied to her graceful reverence with his stiffest bow, as he had deliberately come to do, and then moved slowly off, but not before he had marked with a lover's joy the painful surprise in Denise's eyes, the angry flush that colored her cheek. But the lesson must be completed. A partner must be found and at once. He paused—looked about him—started.

"You, Madame!" he ejaculated, checking his astonishment, for Denise was watching him.

"I, Monsieur le Vicomte," was the serene reply. "This is more fun than spelling the truth from a crystal," and she laughed wickedly.

Yes, it was indeed the wise woman from "The Cock with the Spurs of Gold," wearing her diamond cross and dressed in adorably pale blue satin, just such a color as her eyes covered by the pale blue mask. Stranger of all, Andre felt at that moment there was no woman in all this throng who carried herself with more of the true air of the noblesse than did this young sorceress, who piled a charlatan's trade for hire.

"The Vicomte looks to-night as the Vicomte de Nerac should," she remarked quietly. "It is his presence here—now it is here. That is all!"

"What?" He stopped in sheer amazement. "You are that—that woman?"

"Certainly. The same, only a trifle disguised. In London I was dark, in Paris I am fair, because," she shrugged her shoulders, "I love change and I hate being recognized unless I choose. You will not betray my secret, will you?"

"No. But why are you in Paris?"

"Women like myself," she answered cynically, "are always dying of ennui, and I was born a Parisienne. Can a Parisienne live without Paris? Well, I cannot. London, mon Dieu! Those suffocating English! They make love as they eat beef and drink beer. Their women are prudish, their men heavy as a bull-dog made of lead. London is a ville de province—no wit, no ideas, no life. Here," she pointed with her fan, "it is far different. Where will you find the like of that for gaiety of heart, and sparkle of the soul? It is the city of breeding, of philosophers, of poets, of chivalry, and of lovers. Why, that gentleman over there, that noble spirit, is an Englishman of genius. And when even the lovers who make love with ardour and in couplets that sing of themselves become annoying I go elsewhere."

Andre listened with a puzzled delight. It was not the perfume—it was the mystery that enveloped her which kept him silent. Something in her voice, her manner, reminded him in the most tantalizing way of somebody else and for the life of him he could not think who that somebody was.

"No," she replied to his invitation, "I will not disgrace you by dancing—you the Vicomte de Nerac and I!" she smiled. "Besides you have seen me dance in the only kind of dancing that I care about. But see," she added, dropping her voice, "do you not recognize a friend, perhaps a partner? Is she not charming—conquering and to conquer?"

"Name of a dog!" he ejaculated. Away at the other end of the ballroom was a raised dais on which was gathered a bevy of the fairest of the bourgeoisie. One of them, escorted by three or four gentlemen, was descending the stairs into the throng—a woman, a young girl, clad in the fairest, gauziest, purest white, with a silver bow in her hand and a quiver on her shoulder and a jeweled half-moon in her powdered hair. It was—yes, it was—the fair huntress of the woods of Versailles, to-night a matchless spectacle of majestic beauty which rippled over into the gayest, most provocative coquetry imaginable—Juno and Venus and Diana in one and defying you to say which was the more divine. And that cunningly arranged robe, glittering white, with its artful jewels to suggest every curve and line, was just what witchery would have chosen to be the foil to the laughter of her eyes and the subtle sheen of her skin. What other woman could have worn it? But for the one who dared, it was the homage of a woman's pride to the triumph of nature's womanhood.

Andre watched her with absorbing interest. Fate had ordained that this woman's ambitions should be bound up with his. But how? how?

"She has a mind," his companion was saying, "as well as incomparable beauty. That Abbe at her elbow is Monsieur de Bernis, a poverty-stricken poet who writes her love-letters for her, who she will make great some day, perhaps, and who, and who, Voltaire cared as much for balls as for the muses, he, too, would be snarling his honeyed venom in her ear. She can act and dance and sing. She will not always be Madame d'Etioles."

The plans of years were sweeping through Andre's brain. What if the crystal—the thought was cut short by a stately flourish of trumpets and the loud hum of applause.

"See," the sorceress whispered, "the King has arrived."

Men and women pressed to the entrance and then fell back—on all sides the lowliest reverences. The King, the master of France, had entered and was facing the crowd. And a truly royal figure he made in his splendid dress, for Louis XV. knew how to present himself as a worthy grandson of the Sun King who had overthrown Versailles and made monarchy in Europe sublime: the pose of his handsome head, the dignity of his carriage, the matchless air of command that conveyed an air of majesty such as could only be long to one whose wish since boyhood was law, whose words were orders, whose will was the inspiration of a nation. And when you marked that faint mysterious smile, those blue eyes delicately dull, was he not just like his grandfather, indefinable and impene-reable? Well, was the real man concealed behind that royal presence? What were the real thoughts masked by that gaze, slightly bored yet caressing and sweet?

"You do not like the King?" Andre asked quickly, for he had caught behind the pale blue mask a swift glance which sent a shiver down his spine.

"I love him," she answered, "as all women do. But I was thinking of the day when I am to be burnt for a witch."

It was not the truth and Andre knew it. A woman's jealousy, he thought—but that, too, he knew it was not.

"My friend," she said, "go you and salute Madame d'Etioles. Perhaps you will see something later on to amuse you," and as if to assist him she glided from him and was lost in the crowd.

She had given him a hint again. To speak with the fair huntress was the resolve that had mastered him. And to his satisfaction Madame no sooner recognized him than she beckoned with her fan, smiling a shy and intoxicating welcome.

Andre kissed her hand, looking into her eyes, imperial eyes in which slumbered imperial ambitions, such wonderful eyes, now blue, now grey, now softly dark as the violet, now glittering with the lightest mockery. "En morceau de roi," he muttered. "Yes, by God! a morceau de roi!"

"Conduct me to yonder pillar," she said presently, "we can talk better there."

But that was not her reason, for to reach the pillar they must pass near the King. Clearly Madame d'Etioles was bent on playing to-night the same one woods at elder quarters. Andre as he escorted her now felt that all eyes, including Denise's, were on him, but he enjoyed it, walking slowly on the giddy tiptoes of bravado. In front of Louis, he paused to make his reverence. Madame paused too, and as she unslinging her quiver to curtsy with more graceful ease Andre could feel her tremble. The King's roaming gaze rested on them both. Andre's salute he acknowledged with a smile, a word or two of kind greeting, but it was on the jewels on the breast of the huntress that his bored eyes lingered.

"Fair archeresses," she said, "surely the shafts you loose are mortal."

Madame d'Etioles flushed with pleasure, curtsied again, and promptly passed on, without attempting to reply.

"Mon Dieu! what a figure! Who the devil is she?" Andre heard one of the gentlemen of the Chamber mutter.

Andre did the to perfection, his partner whispered by the pillar. "You are a man who understands women, and they are so rare. And now we will dance if you please."

The sorceress was right. Madame d'Etioles danced divinely. She had been taught by the best masters, but it was only art that she owed to their science. The rest was her own.

"Will you please do what I tell you?" she whispered as the violins tripped out a stately minuet. "And trust me."

"Rely on me, Madame," he answered. Imperceptibly Madame d'Etioles in her minuet drew nearer and nearer to the King, who began to observe them closely. A gleam of animation crept into his eyes, and the courtiers gave a little to permit His Majesty a better view of this dainty dancer. Covert whispers, knowing looks, commenced to run through the group. Yes, the King was distinctly interested. But the fair Diana paid no heed. She had only eyes for the superb officer in the scarlet and white of the Chevaliers de la Garde, who was dancing as he had never danced before.

"Throw your handkerchief," came the soft command.

Completely puzzled Andre obeyed as in a dream. His partner caught the handkerchief dexterously on her fan and was rewarded by a ripple of delighted laughter from the spectators.

"A forfeit, Vicomte," she said loud enough for all to hear, "I give you till five o'clock, and she pressed her own to her lips, and tossed it back to him.

But it was not intended to reach him. The huntress had calculated carefully and the handkerchief lightly hit the King.

A flush shot into Louis's face; Madame colored over neck and shoulders, she dropped her eyes, after one swift glance at His Majesty. Silence, save for the dying lullaby of the music. Andre's heart beat not so fast surely as was beating that ambitious heart of the huntress prisoned in its jewels and white satin.

What would the King do? Would he resent or accept the challenge? Gentlemen and ladies, nobles and bourgeois alike, drew a deep breath. Ah! the King had picked up the handkerchief—a second's pause, the pause in which a nation's destiny may be decided—and then the King smilingly threw the handkerchief back, fair and true, at the audacious dancer.

A pent-up cry arose, hands were clapped. "The King has thrown the handkerchief," the King has thrown the handkerchief," was the ringing sentence on the lips of all.

Madame caught the royal gift and melted into an enchanting reverence. One alluring side-glance under demure eyelashes, a glance of challenge and of submission, and she had taken Andre's arm and glided swiftly back to the dais.

The King has thrown the handkerchief still rang round the crowded room. But where was the dancer? She was gone—yes, actually gone without waiting to follow up her victory. And of the expectant, excited throng Andre alone recognized how unerring was her tact. The huntress had accomplished her object. Henceforward it would not be she who must hunt, for defiance to royal hunters can be more triumphant than obedience.

Andre was over to Madame des Forges and St. Benoit. "You have lost again," he said, "and you will confess it now."

"It is infamous," replied the Comtesse, with fierce indignation. "Infamous! But that grisette has not won yet; the road from the Hotel-de-Ville to Versailles is long and difficult!"

"Ah, no," Andre answered; "not when you can travel in a royal carriage. You will see what you will see when the campaign is over. The bourgeoisie before long will have the heel of her slipper on all our necks."

"And you believe," said the Comtesse, "that we will permit her to be forced on us. You are as mad as she is."

She promptly took St. Benoit's arm to mark her anger at the part Andre had played. But he only shrugged his shoulders in infinite amusement. A one woods at elder quarters. Andre as he escorted her now felt that all eyes, including Denise's, were on him, but he enjoyed it, walking slowly on the giddy tiptoes of bravado. In front of Louis, he paused to make his reverence. Madame paused too, and as she unslinging her quiver to curtsy with more graceful ease Andre could feel her tremble. The King's roaming gaze rested on them both. Andre's salute he acknowledged with a smile, a word or two of kind greeting, but it was on the jewels on the breast of the huntress that his bored eyes lingered.

"Fair archeresses," she said, "surely the shafts you loose are mortal."

Madame d'Etioles flushed with pleasure, curtsied again, and promptly passed on, without attempting to reply.

"Mon Dieu! what a figure! Who the devil is she?" Andre heard one of the gentlemen of the Chamber mutter.

Andre did the to perfection, his partner whispered by the pillar. "You are a man who understands women, and they are so rare. And now we will dance if you please."

The sorceress was right. Madame d'Etioles danced divinely. She had been taught by the best masters, but it was only art that she owed to their science. The rest was her own.

"Will you please do what I tell you?" she whispered as the violins tripped out a stately minuet. "And trust me."

"Rely on me, Madame," he answered. Imperceptibly Madame d'Etioles in her minuet drew nearer and nearer to the King, who began to observe them closely. A gleam of animation crept into his eyes, and the courtiers gave a little to permit His Majesty a better view of this dainty dancer. Covert whispers, knowing looks, commenced to run through the group. Yes, the King was distinctly interested. But the fair Diana paid no heed. She had only eyes for the superb officer in the scarlet and white of the Chevaliers de la Garde, who was dancing as he had never danced before.

"Throw your handkerchief," came the soft command.

Completely puzzled Andre obeyed as in a dream. His partner caught the handkerchief dexterously on her fan and was rewarded by a ripple of delighted laughter from the spectators.

"A forfeit, Vicomte," she said loud enough for all to hear, "I give you till five o'clock, and she pressed her own to her lips, and tossed it back to him.

But it was not intended to reach him. The huntress had calculated carefully and the handkerchief lightly hit the King.

A flush shot into Louis's face; Madame colored over neck and shoulders, she dropped her eyes, after one swift glance at His Majesty. Silence, save for the dying lullaby of the music. Andre's heart beat not so fast surely as was beating that ambitious heart of the huntress prisoned in its jewels and white satin.

What would the King do? Would he resent or accept the challenge? Gentlemen and ladies, nobles and bourgeois alike, drew a deep breath. Ah! the King had picked up the handkerchief—a second's pause, the pause in which a nation's destiny may be decided—and then the King smilingly threw the handkerchief back, fair and true, at the audacious dancer.

A pent-up cry arose, hands were clapped. "The King has thrown the handkerchief," the King has thrown the handkerchief," was the ringing sentence on the lips of all.

Madame caught the royal gift and melted into an enchanting reverence. One alluring side-glance under demure eyelashes, a glance of challenge and of submission, and she had taken Andre's arm and glided swiftly back to the dais.

The King has thrown the handkerchief still rang round the crowded room. But where was the dancer? She was gone—yes, actually gone without waiting to follow up her victory. And of the expectant, excited throng Andre alone recognized how unerring was her tact. The huntress had accomplished her object. Henceforward it would not be she who must hunt, for defiance to royal hunters can be more triumphant than obedience.

Andre was over to Madame des Forges and St. Benoit. "You have lost again," he said, "and you will confess it now."

"It is infamous," replied the Comtesse, with fierce indignation. "Infamous! But that grisette has not won yet; the road from the Hotel-de-Ville to Versailles is long and difficult!"

"Ah, no," Andre answered; "not when you can travel in a royal carriage. You will see what you will see when the campaign is over. The bourgeoisie before long will have the heel of her slipper on all our necks."

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

STURGEON POINT REGATTA

Most Successful Aquatic Event Ever Held Under the Auspices of Cottagers' Association.

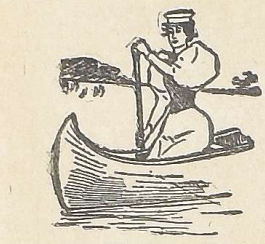

WEATHER CONDITIONS WERE PERFECT.

Events Witnessed by Fully 2500 Visitors from Lindsay and all Points on the Kawartha Lakes.

EVERY RACE WELL CONTESTED

Great Assemblage of Pleasure Launches—Chemong and Stony Lake Associations Well Represented.

Evening Post of Aug. 9
The sense of satisfaction induced by the knowledge of duty well and faithfully performed is today the heritage of every member of the executive who had in charge the management of the annual Sturgeon Point Regatta, held yesterday. True, the success of the affair was greatly aided by the magnificent weather conditions, the day being perhaps the finest of the summer. The heat in the mid-afternoon was somewhat oppressive, and was felt especially by spectators gathered in unsheltered spots in the vicinity of the judges stand—the finishing point for all the races.

The accessibility of Sturgeon Point, and the suitability of beautiful Sturgeon Lake for aquatic events, must have been well impressed on the mind of every visitor who viewed for a first time the grand sheet of water, with its background of charming shore line, majestic oaks, towering pines, and picturesque summer cottages and boat-houses, and even the semi-resident cottagers, who spend part of three months at the Point every season, were able to discover new beauties yesterday under the spell of the radiant sunlight shimmering on the placid waters and new Kathleen—arrived with a full load from Lindsay, and was followed at about 11 o'clock by the Estancia, the flagship of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., with about 350 on board. Both boats made a second trip, and returned with their full legal complement. In the interval the Ogemah of the F. V. N. Co., arrived from Chemong with 200 people on board—members of Chemong Cottagers' Association, and leading citizens of Peterboro, and the Mantia of the same line, pulled in from Bobcaygeon with a party of 125. Half-a-dozen steam yachts, one having on board a delegation representing the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association—in fact every parish to swell the throng of pleasure seekers, the Kawartha bringing about fifty from Fenelon Falls.

VISITORS WELCOMED.
Cottagers took advantage of the opportunity to extend the right hand of fellowship to friends and acquaintances, and many noted a welcome and bounteous fare in the one hundred or so homes of Point dwellers. The majority of the visitors, however, came provided with well-filled hamper, the contents of which were sampled under the grateful shade of the greenwood trees. Bachelors and other "lonelies" were provided for at Dickson's boarding house and Mrs. Walkey's restaurant, where meals and lunches were served to hundreds of hungry callers.

In connection with this "feeling of the multitude," the officers of the Association have it in their power to effect an improvement next season that will be hugely appreciated by Constable Graham's heavy hand. In one instance, at least, the thieves made away with a large basket containing, in addition to eatables for a party of half-a-dozen, silver knives, forks and spoons of a pattern highly prized by the owner.

AN ANIMATED SCENE.
As the hour for commencing the program drew near, the visitors and cottagers congregated along the shore line, where a number of comfortable seats had been placed. The water was fairly alive with canoes, rowboats, gasoline and steam yachts, the larger craft being liberally decked with flags and banners. The scene presented was truly one worth witnessing, and those who had not been present at other regattas pronounced the scene one of the most entrancing they have ever witnessed.

THE RACES AND WINNERS

Contests were interesting and in the Main Well Contested.
The first race put on was one for gasoline power boats, which included all classes. There were four entries—J. Dickson's handsome covered launch, Jesse Perrin's new 30 ft. launch, which made its maiden run; Mr. J. W. Flavell's Swannoo; and the Wilson boys' "It". This race was very closely contested, the Wilson's boat leading to the first buoy, but owing to an unfortunate accident it was disabled and was not able to finish the race. Mr. Dickson's launch rounded the home buoy first, with Perrin's launch a close second. The six horse power and under handicapped gasoline launch race had four entries—Wilson boys' "It", Perrin's new launch, Clarry's launch, Cinnamon's "Amble", Wilson's "It" crossed the line first and Perrin's launch 2nd.

The three-horse power and under launch race had eight entries and was a pretty event. Chas. Squire's "Prairie", Needler's launch, Taylor's "Nymph", Wm. Flavell's launch, Davidson's "Tomboy", Hopkins' "Viking", Rogers' launch, Squire's "Prairie" was first to cross the line, and was the smallest on the course. It played the part of the dark horse—it was its maiden trip, and it developed remarkable speed for its size. The Hopkins' launch came in a good second.

The open sailing had six entries—Harris, Curry, G. Beall, R.A. Shaw, and Hopkins brothers. Harris, a visitor, crossed the line first, and Hopkins second.

The canoe obstacle race had three entries. The first place was taken by E. Perrin, 2nd R. Allan. Bruce Hopkins was the third entry. The upset race was an amusing event. Bruce Hopkins took 1st, V. Gladman was the other contestant. The tilting tournament was a most interesting and ludicrous spectacle, and excited much merriment. There were three teams contesting—B. Hopkins and B. Gladman and G. Warner, C. Warner and W. Knowlson. The first team were the victors, and the last the 2nd prize winners.

Mixed tandem canoe race—1st, Miss Grace Knowlson and W. Knowlson; 2nd Miss Jean Flavell and Gerald Warner. The other contestants were Miss Laura Ryerson and B. Hopkins, Miss Carol Beal and C. Montizambert.

Three in a canoe—1st Eastwood, Wray and Mims; 2nd Perrin brothers and Wood. The other contestants were J. and C. Warner and W. Knowlson, C. and V. Gladman and A. Simpson.

Crab race—1st B. Hopkins. The other contestants were Wilfred Knowlson, Merritt Knowlson, Hu-McLaughlin, Carlton Warner and R. Allan.

Single canoe—1st Sam Nott, 2nd Jas. Conway, E. Perrin was the other contestant.

Girls' tandem—1st Misses Ryerson and Armstrong; 2nd Misses Denne Mims.

Boys' tandem—1st Carlton Warner and W. Knowlson; 2nd M. Knowlson and Ellsworth Flavell. The other contestants were A. Perrin and R. Woods.

Swimming race—1st W. E. V. Shaw; 2nd E. Perrin. The other contestants were A. Perrin and Ray Woods.

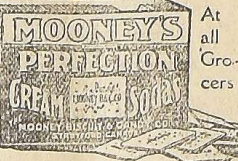

TIMED OWNERS "FLUNKED."
The steam launch race did not turn out as well as anticipated. Only Mr. J. W. Flavell's "Rotta" and Simpson's "May" passed the starting point, and the race was a comfortable walkover for the "Rotta". The steam yacht owners are evidently afraid of the "Rotta". While several

THE OFFICIALS.
Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the executive for their excellent management of the races. The time was lost in getting them started or during their progress. The gentlemen in charge were: Official starters, Dr. R. Allan, J. D. Flavell, J. M. Knowlson; official timer, J. Scheld; judges, Messrs. Jones, Grace, Wood; measurer, Mr. L. Wood; measurer, Mr. R. Miller.

THE HOME GOING.
The races finished at about 5:30 o'clock, but it was after 8 o'clock when the last boat load of tired but satisfied excursionists left the Point.

MISFORTUNE BROUGHT LUCK.

When in Trouble Remember this Peculiar Incident.

New York, July 24.—The man who fell in a sewer and came out immaculate, carrying a bouquet of roses, will have to take a back seat to Frank H. Moorehead, of Fairfield, N.J.

Moorehead went fishing recently in his canoe. About noon he accidentally caught his foot under the canoe seat and fell heavily, spraining his ankle and upsetting the canoe. He lost all the fish he had caught and, handicapped by his sprained ankle, was almost drowned. Crawling ashore half dead Moorehead painfully hobbled towards his home, taking a short cut. This brought him to a cottage, which burned four years ago. Stopping there to rest his aching ankle, he fell into the cellar, tearing his clothes and getting painfully cut and bruised.

While Moorehead lay in a heap of wreckage, saying "the unkind thing about fishing trips and how I could think of, in the harvest and most forceful language at his command, he saw a silver sugar bowl nearby. Moorehead forgot his aches and pains and looked further. His search disclosed more silver, including big and little pieces, and in a device near by was a black box. It contained watches and a number of rings, some of them set with diamonds.

The goods found are valued at from $2,500 to $3,000, and are supposed to have been hidden by some thieves.

Although present arrangements provide for only two trains daily stopping there, the people feel that in a very short time the Company will realize that it will be to their advantage to have all trains stop there. Many visitors will arrive and depart from that station, in addition to local traffic.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

IMPROVING THE SMALLER GRAINS

The Work as Conducted by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

Extract from the last annual report of the secretary of the Association: During the past year the work in improving the smaller grains has made a steady and very material advance. Not only has the number of operators increased, but, what is of perhaps greater importance, there has been a very decided advancement in the intelligent interest taken in the work, and much has been added to our knowledge as a result. It is gratifying to note the degree in which many of the growers have caught the spirit of the work and have become sensible of the fundamental principles involved. With the increased interest in the improvement of strains there has come a greater tendency on the part of the growers to conduct trials with a few leading varieties of the crop or crops under consideration, and as a result many unsuitable varieties have had to give way to others more desirable as foundation stock. The improvement and maintenance of these superior varieties and strains seems to offer great advantages. The degree to which many of our best varieties have become mixed with other less desirable sorts is noteworthy. This intermixture is largely due to carelessness on the part of the grower and to the use of improperly cleaned itinerant threshing machines. Some of these unwelcome kinds mature earlier than does the regular crop, and as a result they multiply with great rapidity. As an example of this we find the vagrant variety of wheat known as the Assiniboia Red, which contaminates many of the wheat fields of the West, maturing somewhat earlier and shelling more freely than does its host, and hence establishing itself more firmly as time passes.

Then again we find the different diseases to which these smaller grains are heir, very difficult to keep under control in large areas. As a result of these things it is almost impossible to secure with certainty strong, healthy, pure and uniform seed of high quality in the ordinary manner. This fact explains the growing popularity of the special seed plot of limited area as a place where high class seed may be produced. The use of only the best obtainable seed, on clean and well-prepared soil, allowing the crop to thoroughly ripen, making it possible to select seed by hand from standing plants of desirable types and in sufficient quantities to perpetuate the same, and threshing and storing separately from other kinds are the main claims that this system has established in agricultural practice.

While the ultimate aim of the grower is to establish a strain which will yield more bushels of good quality per acre under his conditions than did the original, yet the factors in the breeding are overshadowed by the question of resistance. In Canada, as in all other countries, there are numerous adverse conditions such as rust, smut, weakness of straw, drought, impoverished soil, etc., which go to influence the yield and must be carefully considered in selection work. The selecting of plants which have outstripped their neighbors enjoying equal opportunities has proven the utility of the system within the past year.

While every crop of any considerable consequence is receiving attention, yet the work that is being done in Canada with wheat and other cereals is of importance that which is being carried on with all others as might be expected. The difficulties which are naturally associated with an extensive system of farming are met with most in the great wheat-growing districts of the West. Here the successful fertility of the land, the congenial climate, and the intensity of the scale upon which farming operations are carried on are potent factors in promoting the growth and spread of noxious weeds, insects, pests, and fungous diseases. This fact and what it means is already well known to the western grower, and the seriousness with which it is being looked upon is evidenced by the increasing number who are welcoming a system which will enable them to keep these things under control.

Many varieties and strains of oats and barley are also being worked upon, and excellent results are being achieved, while such crops as beans, peas, clover and millet are also receiving the advantage from the lessons taught by the response of our leading crops to selections therefrom of seed from the most coveted plants of our seed purveyors. The advantages of this system of maintaining a high standard in crop raising should appeal to every grower.

FENELON FALLS' CIVIC HOLIDAY

Good Time Enjoyed by All Visitors at the Cataract Village.

Evening Post of Aug. 10

Yesterday was Fenelon Falls' Civic holiday, and reports say the day was very successful. Large crowds from the surrounding villages were present, and a large programme of athletic sports run off.

The baseball tournament was a great drawing card, and resulted as follows: (First Round)

Bobcaygeon 4, Hartley 3. Batteries: Bobcaygeon—Cameron and Hayles; Hartley—McKerrell and McKerrell. Cobocook 9, Glenora 10. Batteries: Cobocook—Cook and Hall; Glenora—Murchison and McLeod.

In the play-off Bobcaygeon defeated Glenora in three innings by the score 18-1. "Yabbie" Cameron, in the box for the "Bobbies," is well-known to Lindsayites. Dick Butler, our own town league umpire, made a hit with the villagers.

Reduction Which Now Applies to the Various Readers.
Mr. C. W. James, acting deputy minister of education, has given out the following statement to the press: "Owing to the report of the textbook commission having been only recently received, and the fact that several text-books on one subject are on the authorized list, the difficulties consequently connected with agreements and copyrights, and the necessity for giving due notice to the trade, the department has not yet been able to secure what it would consider sufficiently adequate reductions in the prices of the books now authorized for the high schools and public schools, except, as has been announced, in the case of the Ontario readers. These are now obtainable at the new prices, as follows: For the first reader, part I, 11 cents; for the first reader, part II, 10 cents; for the second reader, 10 cents; for the third reader, 10 cents; for the fourth reader, 10 cents.

"The publisher selling to any purchaser for use in Ontario shall allow the following discounts: (a) On one or more copies of any book, 25 per cent. off the prescribed retail price. (b) On quantities of the value of $350 and upwards at retail prices, the said purchases being made of any quantity of any or all of the said books and in any proportion the purchaser may desire, 25 per cent. off the prescribed retail price, and an extra ten per cent. thereafter.

"Early in October next the contents and prices of the list of books now in use in the schools will be revised and arrangements made for the publication of such text-books as may be required."

Sluth From the Fishery and Came Dept. After Fur Smugglers.

Evening Post of Aug. 7.
A detective from the department of Game and Fisheries of Canada is engaged on the alleged fur smuggling case, and the affair will be sifted to the bottom.

Ugly rumors were flying last fall concerning certain gamekeepers in Algonquin Park, and these will be looked into. It is the opinion of many, however, that the rumors of animals that a wholesale butchery of animals is supposed to be protected, and the smuggling of their furs, has been going on.

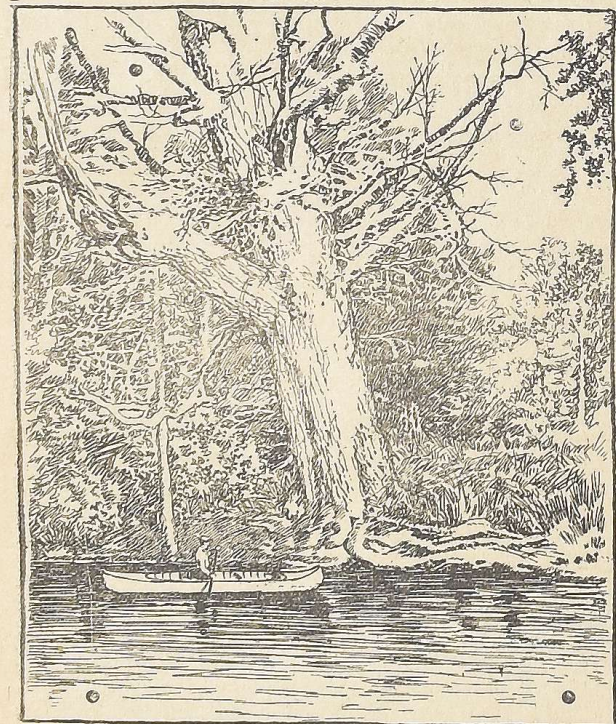

At present the place where Mr. Shall was arrested is being kept secret, as is the name of the Government officer on the trail, but it is admitted that the place was some seventy miles from town.

color tones visible on every hand. Although the first race was announced for 1:30 p.m., people from the country roundabout began to gather in at an early hour—before many of the cottagers had gazed at their porridge. Early astir on the farms, they probably rushed the morning's work in order to enjoy a long and pleasant day by the lakeside.

Next the campers along the shores made their appearance, along with athletic young men who had made an early start and paddled, or rowed from Lindsay or Fenelon Falls. About 9 o'clock gasoline and steam launches, with joyous parties on board, began to amplex the echoes and proclaim to all and sundry that if they were not the speediest of their kind they could at least make as much noise as the best of 'em.

At 10 o'clock the first steamer—the regatta visitors who came provided with baskets. What is needed is a place wherein to deposit the household dainties when the owners leave the steamers, and this can easily be arranged by hiring a person to check and care for baskets and parcels at the wharf shelter. A full lunch-basket or dinner mail is a comforting thing to have by one's side when the gangs of hunger are beginning to manifest themselves, but up until the symptoms are well defined no one cares for the job of lugging the adiosal hamper about, and the hot sun and the resultant shaking does not always tend to improve the contents. On the other hand the member of the family who is left to look after a basket under a tree is apt to imagine that he or she is missing all the fun, the result being that pilferers find many baskets unguarded. Yesterday quite a lot of petty stealing was done by young fellows who should have left the weight of

BURNED TO DEATH AT FENELON FALLS.

Shocking Fatality This Morning in the Northern Village.

Residence of Mr. Lane, Bricklayer, Consumed—His Bed-ridden Mother-in-law the Victim—Two Persons Injured.

Evening Post of Aug. 13

The village of Fenelon Falls was again visited by fire this morning, and, sad to relate, an aged bed-ridden woman lost her life in the flames.

Shortly after 1 o'clock a. m. the frame dwelling of Mr. Lane, bricklayer, situated about one hundred yards north of the Grand Trunk station, was discovered to be on fire. Mr. Lane was away from home, and Mrs. Lane barely had time to arouse her family of five or six children. One daughter who had to leap from an upstairs window sustained painful injuries. When she had gathered her children at a neighbor's she enquired as to the whereabouts of her mother, Mrs. McGinnis, an aged lady who had occupied a room on the ground floor. No one had seen her, and the huge crowd then present felt they were on the verge of a tragedy. By this time the dwelling was on fire in every part, yet this fact did not deter a young man named Warren from making a determined although unsuccessful attempt to penetrate to the room pointed out. A few minutes later the roof fell in, carrying down the floor below, and a shudder inspired by horror passed over the crowd at thought of the dreadful fate of the aged inmate of the home.

In the meantime the flames spread to the brick house adjoining, occupied by Mr. Fred Scott, who had had time to remove the contents. The building was destroyed, but the energetic work of the crowd prevented the further spread of the flames.

Dr. Aldous, son of Hotelkeeper Aldous, while protecting the roof of a nearby grain warehouse by means of wet blankets, missed his footing and fell a distance of 15 or 20 feet, alighting on the railroad track. He was badly injured. Miss Jane, who leaped from an upper window, had her ankle broken or badly strained.

This morning the charred remains of the victim were found in the ruins. It is supposed she was suffocated by the smoke before the alarm was given.

Railway Notes.

The Grand Trunk Railway is building at Durand, the junction of the Grand Trunk Western and the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee divisions, the second largest roundhouse on the system. It will accommodate forty engines, and will be built of concrete. The only larger one is at Montreal, and has room for forty-eight engines.

Mr. Bryans took a more northerly route to Edmonton and has not returned as yet.

Greenhorns in a Canoe.

Two Englishmen, "well jagged," to use a slang expression, and a canoe, figured in an exciting mix-up on Saturday evening last, near the Wellington-st. bridge. Neither man had the faintest knowledge of the method of handling a canoe, and their unbridled condition made matters worse. The result was to be expected—the canoe "turned turtle," leaving its occupants struggling in the water, and spilling their supply of "grab" liquors and extra clothing. Fortunately the water was shallow, and the incident created more amusement among the onlookers than anything else. If the water had been deeper the occurrence might have had a more serious ending.

LINDSAY, - - - - - ONTARIO.

JOHN MCCLARY IS A GREAT CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY.

Formerly Owner of a Small Tinshop, Now Head of the Largest Stove and Tinware Concern Under the British Flag.

To very few men is the privilege given of witnessing such a celebration as that of which Mr. John McClary, of London, was the centre during the week that ended on July 15. For during the week a series of splendid jubiliations marked what was the sixtieth anniversary of the McClary Manufacturing Company. To only a few men is it given to see their business grow to such immense success as that achieved by Mr. McClary, but fewer still are granted the happiness of enjoying, with undimmed keenness of intellect, the celebration of his sixtieth birthday. This was Mr. McClary's pleasant experience, and in his enjoyment of it he has had the felicitations of his great army of employees and of friends from ocean to ocean.

The sixtieth anniversary is noteworthy, not only because it relates to the largest concern of its kind under the British flag, but because it has thrust before the attention of the people of Canada a man whose achievements make him one of the very greatest captains of industry this country has yet produced. John McClary is a Napoleon, but unlike the destructive leader of France whose career brought but desolation, he is a Napoleon of the arts of peace, who has made homes grow and brought prosperity and comfort to thousands of people.

To John McClary the past sixty years has meant a change from the control of a small tinshop to the possession of the largest establishment of its kind in Canada. The Company's plant in London now covers two enormous blocks of land, while there are also important establishments in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Hamilton and St. John. Over 1,300 employees are on the company's pay rolls, of whom over seven hundred are married men, supporting homes. More than $600,000 is paid in wages annually. There are a few figures which will give

OBITUARY

Col. James Deacon, Lindsay.

News of the death of Lieut. Col. James Deacon, which occurred at an early hour Sunday morning, was received by all classes of citizens with expressions of profound regret, the feeling being accentuated by the knowledge that, whilst the deceased had been ailing for some months, the end had been hastened by an untoward occurrence.

The Colonel had recovered sufficiently to be able to walk about the house occasionally, and on Saturday evening, while out on the balcony of his bedroom for a few minutes, essayed to light his pipe without assistance. The breeze blew the flame against his dressing-gown, and before he could reach him and smother the flames the Colonel had received severe yet not necessarily fatal burns. In his impaired state of health, however, the shock proved too much, and the old veteran passed peacefully away at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Col. Deacon was a retired captain in the British army, being attached to the 1st Royal Rifles, and served in the Crimean war at the battles of Alma, Balaklava, Inkerman and Sebastopol. He also served for many years in India. He came to Lindsay in the early sixties, and about 1868 became Lieut. Colonel in the 45th Battalion, and at once became a prominent figure in organizing his several companies to a commendable state of efficiency. At the time of the Reil rebellion his soldierly qualities stood him in good stead, and his services were appreciated by the Government.

The Colonel held many medals for distinguished services rendered. Besides his career as a soldier he, also, had qualities that made him a valuable citizen, and he served the town of Lindsay in many positions, having been a member of the School Board for years, and also Reeve and Mayor for successive terms. He was also Police Magistrate for the county of Victoria until recently failing health compelled him to relinquish the responsibilities of the office.

The town flag was flying at half-mast as a deserved token of respect

New Coats for Women,

Misses and Girls.

A WHISPER OF FALL.

THE tide is running strongly to-ward Fall Merchandise, and already the first-comers in the world of new coats have made their appearance. From the best makes at home we've gathered the new coats, each full of style and snap.

Fashion says, to be in style, your new coat must be from 45 to 50 inches long; loose backs mostly, although some high class garments are shown in tight or semi-tight backs. The materials are of numerous and smart, dark Tweed patterns, or plain cloths with black in the lead.

We've bought liberally of these and as usual will show a really remarkable collection. Styles that are exclusive and hard to compare with the production of others—simply because we know they're unique, not to be found elsewhere in town.

Of course we add new lines as the season advances but there's wisdom in choosing early for we show now many exclusive styles that almost any woman of good taste will be glad to own.

Prices range from $7.50 to $25.00, with others between to suit any purse, and each price representing value unbeatable.

THIS YEAR'S CENTRAL FAIR.

Will be the 25th Under the Auspices of the Association

One short month and the Lindsay Central Fair, will be in full swing. This year the officers and directors will celebrate a notable anniversary—that of a quarter century of progress—and the Fair will be the worthy of the occasion.

Victoria County being rich, fertile and well populated, might reasonably be expected to have a good annual fair, but it is an acknowledged fact that Lindsay Central in the past has been better than any other County Fair in the Province, if not in the Dominion, taking all the departments into the reckoning.

This year being the twenty-fifth birthday of the Fair, nothing will be left undone to have the big Fair break all records, both in point of attendance, excellence, great variety of exhibits, and novelty and interest of the special attractions. The measure of success that will reward the efforts of those in charge of the Fair depends upon the support given by the citizens of the town and county. This has never been known to fail, and in view of the special efforts being put forth, and the importance of the event, we may with confidence look forward to a great Fair in Lindsay on Sept. 19, 20 and 21.

ACCIDENT TO G.T.R. FLYER

Engine Struck Two Cows Near Markham, Killing Both.

Passengers on the G. T. R. Flyer, due here at 9.20, received a scare on Tuesday night. As the train was speeding along near Agincourt, a slight jar was felt and the train then stopped.

On investigation it was found that the engine had struck two cows, one of which was tossed high in the air, and thrown a distance of 25 feet. The other being ground to pulp beneath the wheels and jammed in the front trucks of the second car. The peculiar part of the accident was that the train was not derailed, and proceeded after only a brief delay. Among the passengers on board were Messrs. W. H. and George Simpson, town.

The train was running fast at the time, and all on board felt they had had a providential escape.

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED

Was English Immigrant—Had Been Minister and Lawyer.

Coroner Wood informs us that the man recently found drowned near Cameron village, has been identified as John Maw, an English immigrant from Yorkshire. He had been laboring on farms around Little Britain and Valencia, previous to the tragedy, and was identified by a Valentinian farmer, J. H. Stokes, by means of a locket the victim had received when working at his place. The poor fellow was well educated, being a minister and later a lawyer in England. He was about 35 years old.

KINDNESS LED TO TROUBLE

Fever in Vermilion District Causes Death of Lindsay Lady.

Winnipeg Free Press: A week ago Mrs. A. E. Pickie, of Vermilion, Alberta, was brought into the hospital suffering from typhoid. This morning her brother-in-law, C. H. Pickie, came in by the C. N. R. express, and was removed to the same hospital. The disease was contracted by the Pickie family in a somewhat unusual way. The family of a neighbor was stricken with fever, and Mrs. Pickie compassionately took one child to her home to nurse it, believing that if she took every precaution her own household would not contract the disease. The child is now well, but the fever has obtained a serious hold upon the Pickie family. Mr. and Mrs. Pickie moved to Vermilion a few months ago from Lindsay, Ont.

As we go to press this (Thursday) morning we learn that Dr. F. A. Walters is in receipt of a message conveying information of the death of his sister, Mrs. A. E. Pickie, in Edmonton hospital. The news will be learned with deep sorrow by many.

ALLEGED COAL COMBINE.

Movement on Foot to Indict Dealers at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—A movement has been engineered to have the coal merchants of Ottawa indicted before the grand jury at the Fall Assizes. Coal has risen during the last two weeks from $7.25 to $7.75 per ton, and a "coal combine" is alleged. The matter is now in legal hands and advice is awaited as to whether the advance made unanimously by the dealers comes within the scope of the classes of the criminal code prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade.

If the legal opinion is that the law covers the case an indictment will be laid, but if there is any doubt on the matter it is proposed that a movement shall be inaugurated for the signing of a mammoth petition to Chief Justice Falconbridge, who will preside at the Fall Assizes, to ask him to mention, in his address to the grand jury, the undue increase in the price of a necessity of life in this latitude. It is understood by those who are "engineering" the movement that the traffic managers of the railways are ready to testify that there has been no increase in freight rates; in fact, the opposite is the case.

INSPECTOR BLOWN UP.

Herman Webber Shot Ten Feet Into Air at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 20.—At 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Robert Little, superintendent of the water-works, and Herman Webber, sewer and plumbing inspector, with an Italian laborer went into a manhole of the trunk sewer at the corner of Simcoe street and Victoria avenue to make an examination.

When at the bottom of the manhole, one of the trio lighted a match and an explosion from gas occurred, blowing Webber out through the manhole and 10 feet into the air. He was badly injured, one arm being broken and face and hands scorched. Mr. Little escaped with a few scratches, and the Italian was badly burned and bruised. The presence of gas in the sewer was unexpected, and not supposed to be regular sewer gas but had filled into the sewers from natural gas leakages.

KILLED THE SLANDERER.

Chicago Woman Shot Man Who Destroyed Her Home Life.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Because she believes he had caused her husband to leave her and broken up her home by circulating malicious stories, Mrs. Beatrice Anselmi shot and killed Felipe Ferreo Sunday in an alley in the rear of her home.

Mrs. Anselmi escaped and has not been arrested. According to the stories told by neighbors, the woman acted in defence of her reputation, and it is their belief that she will not be punished.

CAPT. CALDER'S RAID.

Is Now Confirmed In Despatch to the Government.

London, Aug. 20.—The Foreign Office yesterday received confirmation of the raid made by Capt. Calder, at the head of a small frontier force, from British Gambia, into Venezuelan territory, and the seizure of a small quantity of balata (gum), alleged to have been collected in British territory. The action is attributed to the overzealousness of the frontier officers, and the Government will take steps to settle the matter diplomatically.

Haywood a "Comrade."

Stuttgart, Aug. 20.—Herr Babil, during the course of his references, at the opening of the International Socialist Congress here Sunday, to the Haywood murder trial in Boise, Idaho, which he stated "ended with the brilliant acquittal of our comrade," said:

"This trial has shown all the world that in the United States liberty, law and justice exist only on paper. It is to be hoped that these incidents will stir up the American working-men so that, like the English comrades, they will soon have a good number of representatives to Washington."

A series of immense mass meetings held Sunday afternoon were attended by 40,000 to 50,000 persons.

Praises Rockefeller.

New York, Aug. 20.—According to a despatch to The Tribune, from Cleveland, John D. Rockefeller was invited to contribute $1,000,000 to the cause of evangelism on Sunday. Shortly after hearing the invitation made by the pulpit of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church by the Rev. Courland Myers of New York, Mr. Rockefeller gripped the preacher's hand cordially and invited him to Forest Hill to dinner.

Mr. Myers, in his sermon, attacked newspapers, charging them with responsibility for the impression that present day conditions, economic as well as sociological, are rapidly nearing a crisis which might cause revolution.

Incidentally he praised Mr. Rockefeller's recent utterance, which he pleaded for "fair play" for big corporations. Mr. Myers added his own appeal for a square deal, and predicted that "the present attitude of misrepresentation, misunderstanding and criticism cannot long be endured."

Tablet Unveiled.

Salisbury, Eng., Aug. 20.—In the ancient and beautiful Salisbury Cathedral Ambassador Whitelaw Reid yesterday afternoon unveiled a handsome tablet in memory of those killed in the terrible accident a year ago when, by the derailing of the American Line boat, 28 persons, mostly Americans, lost their lives.

Fortune Lost in Mails. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 21.—Three registered mail sacks, containing about a quarter of a million dollars, disappeared from the Burlington train between Denver and Oxford, Neb., Sunday night.

GREAT SLAUGHTER OF ARABS

Machine Guns Mowed Them Down by Hundreds — Kabyles Preparing to Attack Casablanca — Sultan Appoints Delegation to Obviate Holy War — Sultan's Brother Proclaimed—Morocco Excited.

Tangier, Aug. 21.—Five hundred shepherds and troops, the best of the Sultan's army which usually are under the command of Gen. Sir Harry MacLean have arrived here. It was originally the intention to send them to Casablanca to co-operate with the French-Spanish forces, but Marine Minister Gabbas now talks of sending them to Mazagan.

Abdel-Krim Ben Sliman, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a letter to the French chargé d'affaires, has reiterated the Moroccan Government's condolences as a result of the assassinations at Casablanca, and added an expression of the hope that the relations between Morocco and France would remain friendly.

The Spanish charge d'affaires is reported to be much disturbed by the attitude of Gen. Ollala during Sunday's fighting at Casablanca, when the Spanish commander, acting under a misunderstanding of his instructions, only used his troops in defending Casablanca, not taking part in the fighting outside the walls.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The correspondent of The Main at Casablanca speaks in loud praise of the 75-millimetre gun, fourteen rounds of which he says, put 1,500 Arabs to flight. In attacking the centre of the camp on the right, the Arab horsemen galloped to within four hundred yards of the French positions, where two rapid-fire guns had been mounted on the roof of a farm building. These guns opened each with 500 shots per minute, swept the ground with a rain of lead and covered it with the dead and dying.

The spahis, the correspondent continues, were a brave sight as they rode back into camp. Men and horses were covered with blood. The faces of the men were blackened with powder.

The attacking tribes Sunday were the Zenata and Ziada, who are newcomers and were fighting for the first time.

Still Planning. It is announced that a number of Kabyles are marching from Mazagan to Casablanca with the intention of delivering a formidable attack shortly.

The Tangier correspondent of The Main telegraphs that, with the object of getting rid of the fanatical members of the Ulema, who favor a holy war, the Sultan has appointed them to a delegation that is to come to Tangier to discuss measures of pacification.

The French Government has received confirmation from Fez of the report that the Sultan has declared his intention to send a deputation of notable Moroccans to Tangier, but neither the object of their mission nor date of departure is known. The announcement is regarded as a "bluff" on the part of the Sultan to appease the anti-foreign sentiment of the fanatics. It was made during the excitement caused by the ceremonies commemorating the birth of the prophet, and even if the deputation comes to Tangier, it is considered doubtful whether it will be received by the diplomatic corps.

The Government has also been advised that the members of the French colony at Fez, fearing an explosion of fanaticism, especially against the French, are leaving for Tangier to-day. It is presumed that the French consul and the French military mission will not accompany them. The Moroccan Government has agreed to furnish an escort to the French, and the sheikhs have agreed to assist in protecting them, but, nevertheless, the five-day trip to the coast is considered dangerous. The Government has received confirmation of the report that Mulai Hafid, the Sultan's brother, has been proclaimed Sultan. The news is creating excitement, especially in the neighborhood of Morocco City.

Old Walls Fall. Kingston, Aug. 20.—The walls of the old stone mill at Kingston Mills, over a century old, fell on Saturday. A year ago a crack appeared, and grew wider as the months went by, and the wall fell with a final crash on Saturday. Half the building is gone.

The mill was used by the Government for the accommodation of the U. E. Loyalties. The mill in those days was used by farmers who drove one hundred miles.

Run to Death by Bloodhounds. Youngstown, O., Aug. 20.—A tramp who assaulted Alma Whitehead, the 19-year-old daughter of Rev. J. M. ROAST BANK SYSTEM

Canadian Life Underwriters Hold Annual Convention.

INSURANCE BILL CRITICISED

W. J. Bell of Guelph Draws Startling Contrast — Banking System Needs Amendment — President Handles Draft Measure Rather Roughly — Life Insurance Business Has Increased — 700 Present.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—About 700 delegates assembled at convention hall yesterday afternoon at the first annual convention of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada. Many delegates and guests, all prominent insurance men, were present from the United States.

The annual address was delivered by President G. H. Allen of Montreal, who spoke in part as follows: "I am impelled to say something to you as to the investigation by royal commission, which has had the one happy result of bringing us so close together."

"The details of the report of the commission and the draft bill have been so fully canvassed in the insurance press that I will not allude to them. Suffice it to say that, in spite of the thinly-disguised and even open hostility of the daily press, you, gentlemen, went undaunted into the fight for your companies, and the right, with the result that over 200,000 additional people in this country were, through your efforts, convinced of the inestimable benefits of life insurance in 1906. That, gentlemen, is our answer to the royal commission."

Mr. Allen proceeded to deal with the insurance bill, clause by clause, severely criticizing some of them. "It would be disloyal to the common sense of the Canadian electorate to imagine for one moment that such a clause could become law," he said, in reference to that prohibiting rebate.

B. Hal Brown, general manager of the London and Lancashire Life, spoke on motives and ideals. They must be high and good or the insurance man could not succeed.

A. S. McGregor of London defended the dignity of life insurance, and A. H. Vipond defended the man in the field. He denounced "switching" policies. Let the agent get new insurance. The agents were thought too persistent, but more than once a widow had complained to an agent after her husband's death.

"You should have been more persistent and my husband would not have died without insurance and left his family unprotected."

W. J. Bell of Guelph created a mild sensation by contrasting the banks and the insurance companies. He felt that the Banking Act stood in need of amendment far more than did the Insurance Act. Twelve banks, or 25 per cent., had failed since 1880, some of them as the result of criminality. No insurance company had failed in the meantime, and no insurance manager had gone to the penitentiary. The banks could invest where they pleased, and they were not inspected, but the insurance companies were compelled by the Government to invest in certain securities, and the Insurance Department saw to it that the assets were always on hand to protect the policyholder.

FLEAS SPREAD DISEASE.

Bubonic Plague Germ Traced to Parasites Infesting Rats.

Simla, Aug. 20.—The Indian Government announces that the plague commission, which has just finished the first stage of its enquiry, decided that the bubonic plague is spread by rats, that the vehicle of the contagion is the rat flea, and that the life of the plague germ on the soil, floors and walls is of short duration.

The Government recommends the destruction of rats, the improvement of the construction of houses and the reduction of the food supplies of rats by the protection of grain stores.

FIRE ON CONSTABLES

Tussle With Indians on the Golden Lake Reserve.

POLICE HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Man Who Assaulted Woman Resistant — Arrest — Barricaded Himself in a House With Companions—Greeted Constables With Fusillade of Bullets—Heavily Armed Force Sent to Bring in the Party.

Pembroke, Aug. 21.—In attempting to arrest an Indian on the Golden Lake Reserve, two Pembroke constables were fired upon by a party of Indians, with the result that the constables had narrow escapes. Both were slightly wounded.

A special force of constables was despatched from here on the noon train yesterday to effect the arrest of the hostile Indians.

The constables are heavily armed. There are 100 Indians on the Golden Lake Reserve, and they have always been considered industrious and peaceable.

The quiet of the reserve was disturbed on Friday last, when an Indian named Serazan, arrived on a visit. He carried too long at the time and the firewater on Saturday, and this roused his savage nature to such a pitch that he made a violent assault on one of the Indian women, a Mrs. Seymour, lacerating her face and beating her badly.

Word was sent to Pembroke, and Constables Young and Dixon were sent out to arrest the Indian. When the constables arrived at the house, Dixon called out to the inmates to open the door. They replied they would not, but would shoot any person who attempted to get in.

While Young was endeavoring to break open the door, Dixon tried to gain an entrance through the window. Almost immediately there was a fusillade of bullets, one of which tore Dixon's chest. Dixon fell to the ground.

When Young came to Dixon's assistance the firing started again and one bullet pierced the constable's hat, grazing his forehead.

As the house was occupied by a number of armed parties and Constable Dixon was wounded, the constables decided to return to Pembroke for assistance.

NO WOMEN M. P.'S WANTED.

New Zealand Council Turns Down Bill—Women Not Eligible.

Wellington, N. Z., Aug. 21.—The women politicians whose cause was championed by the House of Representatives of New Zealand received scant consideration from the Legislative Council, which yesterday, without a division, rejected the bill providing for the election of an Upper House by the House of Representatives. According to one of the clauses women electors were to be eligible as members of the Upper House.

The Legislative Council of New Zealand, or Upper House of the General Assembly, now consists of forty-four appointed members, some of whom are life members. The House of Representatives or Lower House is composed of eighty members, elected by the people for terms of three years.

Considerable money and jewels were found concealed on them.

Methodist church, recently, during the course of his sermon. "I prefer to take the word of Jesus Christ Himself, who says that sinners shall be cast out into everlasting fire, where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, in preference to anything anybody else says or anyone else may tell me," said Mr. Moir. (Montreal Herald.) The boy stood on the burning deck With twenty other men, Nor did he for a moment reel, Nor did he for a moment fear. A brave boy, aged ten. His father called, he would not go. And his answer was as follows: "Father, I feel that the present is one of those occasions where you and I are called to differ. I am in the political race as well as the next man, and though with the disadvantage of immaturity, I think that the Ottawa party would come to me as soon as to any political brother. No, I prefer to be in the front line when the commander-in-chief chooses an aide."

WRECK AT NIAGARA

Four Cars Loaded With Meat
Plunge Into the Gorge.

ALL THE TRAINMEN ESCAPE

Second Accident Within the Month—
Freight Train Left Rails on Steel Arch Bridge—Some of the Cars Smashed to Pieces—Others Sunk In the River—The Cause of the Accident Is Not Known.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A Grand Trunk freight train was wrecked early yesterday on the lower steel arch bridge over the Niagara Gorge.
The bridge was damaged and four cars dropped into the Whirlpool Rapids.

Traffic over the bridge was blocked until 11 a. m.
A heavy train of 35 loaded refrigerators was going from the G. T. R. yards on the Canadian side to the Lehigh Valley yards on the American side. There was an engine at each end of the train, as there is an upgrade from the bridge to the Lehigh Valley yards. About the middle of the train a car mounted the rails at the switch near the Canadian side.

The heavily loaded cars tore along over the ties for a short distance, cutting them badly, and, in fact, probably 25 yards breaking them through between the two tracks. Four cars rolled to the north side of the bridge, and, leaving the tracks, shot into the chasm below. Three struck the water and disappeared instantly, the fourth struck on the rocks near the western end and was smashed into kindling wood. The cars were all Swift's, loaded with fresh meat.

The front engine pulled away from the wreck with 13 cars attached, but left one disabled at the American side of the bridge. The local and the crew was at once called out, and the wreck was being worked on.

It seems a very peculiar thing that these wrecks have occurred on this bridge within a few months, when it is remembered that the first that ever occurred was this spring. Only on Wednesday of this week was a new building put up to replace the sections carried away in the last wreck.

TO PRESERVE THE BUFFALO.

Rangers May Be Appointed to Protect Them From Poachers.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Inspector A. M.
Jarvis, who was sent north in June into the Mackenzie River country, reports that the destruction of buffalo is done by poachers, who have headquarters at Smith Landing, about 400 miles north of Athabasca Landing, and recommends that the whole Mackenzie River district be patrolled in order to prevent this slaughter.

Col. Fred White is of opinion that the best method would be to set aside a reserve and employ trained rangers to gradually drive the buffalo from the north down into this reserve, where they could be easily protected.
The total number of buffalo in the district is estimated at 300. They are of the long-haired kind, known as wood buffalo, and their skins are very valuable, while a buffalo head is now worth upwards of $250.

PRESENT FOR THE KING.

General Botha Proposes to Purchase
Big Diamond as Gift.

Pretoria, Aug. 17.—Premier Botha yesterday announced that he would introduce a resolution in Parliament providing for the purchase by the Government of the Transvaal of the $1,- 000,000 Cullinan diamond, the largest

Edward in token of the loyalty and affection of the people of the Transvaal of the bestowal of a congratulation on the colony.

Wall Street Hit Hard.

New York, Aug. 16.—The loudest rumbling over the service furnished by the telegraph companies was heard in the financial district.

Produce Exchange operators, whose dealings are mostly with the west, and much difficulty in getting telegrams through. Few work on the floor of the exchange and two of the Postal series were mangled. Grain quotations from the floor of the Chicago Exchange were about the only dispatches which came through on time.

There were several impromptu strikes of messenger boys in various parts of the city. A dozen little strikers from Harlem offices' headquarters marched to the telegraphers' headquarters and apply for funds, although they had been "on strike" less than an hour. They made so much noise about it that they were dispersed by the police.

Don't Fear Spread.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Five cases of Spanish influenza, four of which have resulted in death, have been reported to the health department within the last week. The patients with one exception were of the poorer class of foreigners dwelling in the neighborhood of Chinatown.

The exception was a foreign sailor on a coastwise steamer. Prompt preventive measures were taken by city, state and federal officers, and a spread of the disease is not feared.

The infected steamer was ordered into quarantine with her passengers, and will remain secluded until released by the health department. The two shacks inhabited by the other patients were fumigated, locked up and sealed. The bodies of two Mexicans, an Italian and a Russian Pole, who succumbed, were destroyed in quick time.

DYNAMITE IN FIRE

Serious Explosion During Blaze
at Kingston, N. Y.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $200,000

Thousands of Lives Endangered—Fortunately Nobody Was Hurt — The Freight Office, Sheds and Forty Cars Destroyed—The Shock Was Felt From One End of the City to the Other.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The explosion of a car of dynamite endangered the lives of thousands of persons who were watching a fire here Saturday night, which destroyed the West Shore Railroad freight office, sheds and forty cars, causing a loss of over $200,000.

The shock of the explosion was felt from one end of the town to the other and windows were shattered within a radius of several blocks. The dynamite was enclosed in cases, most of which exploded separately, and to this is largely due, the firemen say, the escape of the spectators from serious injury.

So far as known, beyond a few bruises, no one was hurt.
Many of the cars contained oil, which together with the frame sheds and the inflammable nature of the freight cars, made the fire unusually stubborn. It was four hours before the entire fire fighting force of Kingston, 15 companies, could subdue the blaze. During this time, all passenger and freight traffic was held up.

CONVICT'S PATHETIC APPEAL.

Hon. J. Bureau Promises to See What Can Be Done.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—"You are Minister of Justice. I know you are. You can do anything you want for me.
Just fix a limit to my imprisonment,
so that I can look forward to its end and know that I can die in liberty."

This pathetic appeal was made to Hon. Jacques Bureau, Solicitor-General, while he was making an official inspection of the cells of St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary.

The man who spoke the words was ex-convict Cowes of Quebec, who was condemned to imprisonment for life for having killed his wife during the winter of 1903.

The Solicitor-General was evidently touched by the appeal, for he turned to Warden Beauchamp and enquired as to the manner in which the convict had conducted himself since his arrival in the prison. The answer was to the effect that the prisoner's conduct had been ideal.

"We will see then," said the Solicitor-General, turning to the convict,
"if something can be done for you."

SCHOONER MAY BE LOST.

"Fleetwing" of Belleville Missing For Some Time.

Belleville, Aug. 19.—It is believed here that the schooner Fleetwing, which is owned in this city, has met with some mishap on Lake Ontario.
Three of her crew are Belleville men, namely, Captain Clark Taylor, William Babcock and John Gibson.

The Fleetwing left Charlotte Aug.
6, laden with coal for South Bay, and has not been heard of since, though it is rumored that on Aug. 13 she was seen on the lower part of the lake under full canvas. There was a very heavy blow that night, and it is feared that, during the storm, the schooner either went ashore or foundered.

The Fleetwing is an old boat. Mrs.
Clark Taylor, wife of the captain, is making every effort to find the whereabouts of the vessel, but so far without success.

Committed for Bigamy.

Guelph, Aug. 19.—In the Police Court Saturday David Cook, the alleged bigamist of Drayton, appeared before Magistrate Saunders on a charge of perjury preferred by Crown Attorney Peterson.

Cook was first arrested on a charge of bigamy, but this is being held over in the hope of hearing of his first wife, who he says, is dead, but who is believed to be living in Indiana.
Cook also appeared on this charge
Saturday morning before Magistrate Woodman of Drayton, but was remanded until to-day.

The charge of perjury arises out of the falsely sworn marriage license, which was issued in Elora and upon which he was married to a 17-year-old Barnardo Home girl. The statement by Cook was that he was 25 years of age, while he was really 38, and the girl was also younger than he swore. After the examination of some other witnesses Cook was committed for trial on the charge.

published announcement, Capt. Hon.
John Reginald Lopes, Mayor-Buller, her of Lord Churston, is married to Miss Denise Orme, an actress, prominent as a singer in light opera. The marriage is said to have taken place on April 24 last.

Little Girl Killed.

Fort William, Aug. 19.—A little girl, 13 years old, named Mazzoni, was instantly killed by a Canadian Northern switch engine in Westfort. She was playing on the tracks when the engine rounded a curve and struck her.
The curve at this point is very sharp and has no protection of any kind of signal. A coroner's jury is making an investigation.

Child Painfully Hurt.

Kingston, Aug. 19.—Robert Shaw, the 18 months old son of Chas. Shaw of King street, while playing with a small stick fell, the stick penetrating the roof of his mouth. The sick made a very nasty wound, the cut in the roof of his mouth being nearly half an inch deep and very jagged.

Sharper Given Sentence.

Belleville, Aug. 19.—William H.
Wilson, who was arrested in Toronto, charged with obtaining, by false pretences, $30 from an immigrant named Abild, in this city, was tried Saturday by Magistrate Mason and given 12 months in the Central Prison.

Telegraph Operators on the Roads Will Not Strike.

DID NOT RESPOND TO CALL

Union Now Accepts Services of Board of Arbitrators—Commissioner Neil Goes to New York—English Papers Call Charges Extortionate
—The Government Controls
Wires in the Old Country.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The union of the Telegraphers' Union late yesterday changed front on the proposition to arbitrate and announced that they would accept the offices of the general board of arbitrators of the American Federation of Labor in settling the differences. This board consists of John Mitchell of the Mine Workers, Daniel J. Keen of the Longshoremen, and Samuel Gompers. It was Mr.
Gompers who made the above announcement.

U. S. Labor Commissioner Neil left for Washington. Just before leaving his train, he said that the telegraphers' strike could not be settled in Chicago, and that the only place where an adjustment could be reached was in New York.

At the conference held here Thursday night between President Small and Secretary Russell of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and several other labor leaders, it was decided definitely that there should be no strike of the 47,000 railroad telegraphers of the United States. The operators will be called upon shortly to contribute a strike fund of $60,000.
Two of their general officers attended the conference.

Interest in England.

London, Aug. 17.—The strike of the American telegraphers dominates public interest in England, especially in the midlands, where it delays market reports. Englishmen find it difficult to understand why private corporations in America are permitted to own such vital public utilities as the telegraph and telephone systems, and to charge extortionate rates.

Here the Government owns the telegraph system and charges a moderate rate. It pays its operators good wages and pensions them when superannuated.
In Great Britain there is a flat rate of a cent a word, no matter what distance. This applies even on messages from Penance to Dundee, a distance of 1100 miles. The newspapers pay 24 cents a hundred on press messages no matter what distance.

Telegrams by Mail.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 17.—The effects of the telegraph operators' strike is felt very keenly in Northern Ontario by business men and other persons who rely on the telegraph for communication. The G. N. W. wires have been refused to transmit any messages handled by operators taking the places of G. N. W. telegraph business goes over the Cobalt telegraph business goes over the G. N. W. wires the situation is embarrassing. The C. P. R. Telegraph Co. is taking messages for points reached by the G. N. W., subject to indefinite delay. Messages from G. N. W. points for delivery west of North Bay, formerly transferred to the C. P. R. company, are held up now, as the operators will not send a word of G. N. W. business.

Sudbury and other points west report C. P. R. operators as absolutely refusing to handle any G. N. W. business, and the company is not inviting trouble by insisting on the business being handled.
The North Bay office of the G. N. W. is sending Cobalt dispatches by mail.

Refuse to Go Out.
Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Delegates from the Telegraphers' Union from Montreal were in Ottawa yesterday to endeavor to bring about a strike of local operators, but they met with a very cold reception. They were informed that there was absolutely no chance of such occurring here; that there were no grievances to adjust; and as the only reason for a strike would be "sympathy," the experience of the older hands in the strike of 1893 precluded all possibility of one now.

The Ottawa men struck in 1893 out of sympathy with United States operators; they were promised substantial remuneration all the time they were out, but did not receive a cent, and worse than that, were not even informed of the end of the strike when it had been declared over, with the result that the operators were working across the border for over a week while here they were still out.
To add to the discomfort, the Ottawa operators had agreed to bear the expense of the female operators, and this they had to do out of their own pockets.

So little interest was taken in the visit of the delegates yesterday that their names and credentials were not even asked.

Inquest on Dr. Gibbins.

London, Aug. 16.—(C. A. P.)—An open verdict was returned at the inquest on Dr. Gibbins' body. The railway officials stated that all carriage doors were shut, but marks of blood, feathers and hair were found in the carriage of the train whereon the deceased apparently traveled. The doctor's father, said the son, had bad health and had been utterly disappointed in his work at Lennoxville, but was unworried financially and quite cheerful.

Two Forts Threatened.

Toulon, Aug. 19.—Great forest fires are blazing on all sides of this place and two forts are threatened. Troops are making desperate efforts to control the fire, but thus far with little result owing to a high wind.

Plague in Manchuria.

Harbin, Manchuria, Aug. 19.—The bubonic plague has broken out in South Manchuria and 16 deaths have been reported. Travelers proceeding into North Manchuria are being medically examined at Kiangchinging.

Earthquake Noticed.

San Juan, Aug. 19.—A perceptible earthquake was noticed here Saturday night. No damage, however, has been reported from any part of Porto Rico.

FOOLED TREASURY OFFICIALS

Secured Order For 66,655 Roubles—Got Money From Bank — 'Phoned
For Convey of Privates—Made Off With the Larger Part of the Cash While the Soldiers Guarded the Silver.

New York, Aug. 19.—The Sun correspondent at St. Petersburg sends the following cable despatch: The fame of the cobbler of Koepenick seems to have penetrated as far away as Harbin, Manchuria. A few days ago a man in an officer's uniform presented himself armed with power of attorney, at the treasury of the Trans-Amur division and demanded 66,655 roubles, the estimated expenditure of the First Brigade for the month.

The papers were in perfect order and the supposed officer received a check on the Russo-Chinese Bank for the amount, which was duly paid. Part of the money was carried out in silver coin, which seemed to annoy the officer, but as the bank had a legal right to make part of its payments in silver he consented grudgingly to take the heavy stuff, but telephoned for a convey of three privates, who escorted him to the railway station.

There the supposed officer ordered the men to stand guard over the bags of silver and left, carrying off the rest of the money himself. The guard kept watch for 24 hours without any relief coming and would probably still be there had not the garrison commander made inquiries from the staff of the First Brigade, where nothing was known about the officer, his mission or the money.

DRUNKARD'S DARING STUNT.

Pranced on Cornice of Hospital Building Three Storeys High.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 19.—An intoxicated man named George E. Wood pranced about on the cornice of the Miserordia Hospital, three storeys from the ground, while in a state of drunken frenzy. Wood has been under treatment in the hospital for quinsy, and having sufficiently recovered to go down town, was permitted to do so. While out of the hospital he imbibed too freely of intoxicants and returned to the infirmary the worse of liquor. He retired to bed peacefully enough, but soon started for air and freedom, going out on the cornice he paraded in brief costume like a sentinel on watch until he finally decided to orate to an imaginary crowd below from the vantage position of the tower on the corner of the building.

All attempts to induce him to return to the hospital from his perilous position were vain till a bottle of whiskey was procured. When this was exhibited to his view he immediately retraced his steps, and when once inside was confined to the building till his senses were restored. The occurrence is remarkable, because it would be difficult for an experienced acrobat to make the same trip when sober that Wood did when under the influence of booze.

PAID OUT TOO MUCH.

Bank Teller's Mistake Leads to Arrest of an Italian.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—The teller of the Bank of Montreal here paid out $500 too much one day last week, and as a result, Sim. Patrakos, a Greek, is under arrest, charged with having obtained the money. Patrakos presented a check for six hundred and fifty dollars, signed by M. J. Neville, local druggist. On discovery that the cash was five hundred short, Teller W. J. Rapsey claims that he positively remembered that he gave Patrakos ten one hundred dollar bills and thirty fives, thinking of hundreds. Patrakos denied that he had the extra money, and the bank placed him under arrest. Saturday in court Patrakos pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for eight days.

Suicide at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Aug. 19.—When Edward Brennan and Frank Thom were walking along the river in Prospect Park, opposite the foot of Falls street they saw a man sitting on the rocks close to the edge of the water. When they spoke to him he jumped up, glanced around and then plunged into the rapids and was swept over the falls. Peter Landgrain of No. 470 Falls street, a forman in the Niagara Felling Box Co.'s factory, is missing, and it is believed the suicide was he.

Child's Escape From Death.

London, Aug. 19.—Losing her balance, as she leaned over a screen in the window of the third story of Mr.
Gilmour's house on Adelaide street,
Grace M. Ewen, seven years old, plunged head downwards and fell a distance of forty feet to the cement sidewalk below. She sustained a fractured leg and badly injured back.
Her escape from instant death was due to a miracle. Dr. John Wilson says she will recover.

Colored Youth Drowns.

Brockville, Aug. 17.—While bathing off the dock at Alexandria Bay, George Tompkins, a colored waiter at the T. I. House, aged 18, was drowned. Tompkins was the sole support of his parents. His father was formerly a slave on a southern plantation.

G. B. Shaw Has Close Call.

London, Aug. 17.—(C. A. P.)—According to The Daily Mail, George Bernard Shaw has had a narrow escape from drowning off Llanborth, Merionethshire, with a friend, when the current carried them away and prevented them from returning to the shore.

After a long time they were landed on a distant sand bank, whence they were rescued.
Mr. Shaw was utterly exhausted, and had given up hope of returning to the mainland alive.
He says he only kept swimming to postpone the unpleasantness of drowning as long as possible.

REBATES TO LARGE FIRMS.

Freight Manager Denies Preference
Before Beef Commission.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—On Saturday afternoon the Beef Commission met for the purpose of hearing Mr. Moncrieff's decision with regard to divulg-ing the name of the anonymous writer of a letter in The Tribune newspaper.

A. J. Andrews, B. L., by whom Mr.
Moncrieff had been consulted, stated that he had not had time to advise his client whether to answer the question or not, and asked for an adjournment until Tuesday. He also wished to address the commissioners.
On advice of their counsel, Mr. Hag-gart, the commissioners denied counsel had any locus standi and should not be heard. Mr. Moncrieff then stated that he could not answer until his lawyer had advised him, and he was given until Tuesday morning to finally decide.

F. W. Peters, assistant freight manager of the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave evidence as to the charges made to shippers and to the charges made to shippers by his company. He denied most emphatically there was any over what shown to large shippers, and he denied that there were any rebates allowed by his company. He said there were the same facilities for small as for large consignments. Stock was never delayed in transit where it could possibly be avoided.

AUTOMOBILE AND TRAIN.

Collision Cost Three Lives — Whole Family Nearly Wiped Out.

Great Barrington, Mass., Aug. 19.—
A large automobile containing a party of five persons from Bristol, Conn., collided with the New York-Pittsfield express at Ashley Falls crossing, six miles south of this village, yesterday, with the result that three of the motoring party are dead and the other two are suffering from injuries which may prove fatal.

The Dead.
Charles J. Root, an automobile manufacturer of Bristol, instantly killed.

Mrs. Root, his mother, who died from her injuries while being removed to Pittsfield by train.

Miss Roberta, sister of Mrs. Root, instantly killed.

The Injured.
Miss Mary Root, daughter of Chas.
J. Root, removed by train to the ho-pital at Pittsfield, where her condition was reported as critical.

Miss Katherine Root, aged 14, niece of Mrs. Root, brought to Great Barrington in an unconscious condition, with severe bruises and cuts about her face and body, and internal injuries of an uncertain nature.

FIRE ON STEAMER "UTICA."

Russian Sailor Burned to Death—
Others Badly Injured.

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—Five men were trapped in the forward hold of the steamer Utica Saturday evening and tragically burned. The fire started from an explosion.

John Roman, a Russian, was taken out of the hold dead.

Others burned were:
Michael Reilly, foreman, fatally burned.

Ignaz Wozniak, fatally burned.

Thomas Mahary, face and hands terribly burned.

Following a puff of flame which shot through a hatchway Mahary came scrambling up from below. His clothing was a mass of flames. He jumped into the harbor and was fished out by the freight handlers. The other four men were too far from the hatchway and could not get out at the first alarm. The freight hoisting tackle was lowered into the hold, and the crew men to get hold of it. Reilly and Krieger succeeded in doing so and were hauled on deck.

Wozniak and Roman were taken out after the compartment had been flooded with water.

Fire Spoils Game.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 19.—Fire swept the amusement grounds at Steeplechase Island yesterday, causing $60,000 damage and creating something of a panic upon the 20,000 visiting. No one was seriously injured.
Six structures were burned, including the grandstand and bleachers on the baseball diamond, where 8,000 persons had gathered for the Chicago-Bridgeport game. The greater part of the loss falls upon George C. Eliou, proprietor of the amusement grounds, whose steeplechase park at Coney Island was burned a few weeks ago.

Another Monster Fire.

New York, Aug. 19.—The Sun has received the following cable despatch from its correspondent at Willemstad, Curacao: A despatch from Caracas, Venezuela, says that in the case of the Government against the New York & Bormedex Co., which is charged with assisting the Matos revolution, the Court of the defendant pay $4,178,638 dollars, about $5,000,000, in reimbursement of the expenses incurred by the Government in quelling the revolution, and also upward of 9,000,000 bollivars for other losses to the country from the revolution. The defendant will appeal.

Fight Among Sailors.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—There was a row yesterday morning amongst some of the crew belonging to the S. S. Empress of Britain, and one of the men, named Thomas Finerty, was so badly beaten that he was removed in an ambulance to the Hotel Dieu Hospital.
The authorities are waiting for the ante-mortem deposition of the victim.

UP-TO-DATE METHODS AND RURAL SCHOOLS.

In the report of the Department of Education for last year, part II, Mr.
A. H. Leake, Provincial Inspector of Technical Education, discusses the position of rural schools with respect to the subjects of domestic science and manual training. He says:

"If the subjects of manual training and household science are to be important as all educationists and people must now think they are, it is not a lamentable fact that the children receiving education in the rural schools are not reaping any of the advantages they are capable of conferring. Nearly 58 per cent. of our total population is being educated in the rural school, and it is neither christian nor politics that 58 children out of every hundred should be deprived of the advantages of newer methods and modern practice which scientific research in the department of pedagogy have brought about. An impression is held by teachers and trustees that these subjects cannot be introduced without the installation of an expensive equipment costing from $400 to $500. This impression is founded on a wrong idea. The State superintendent of education of the State of Illinois in an address delivered before the National Educational Association, spoke as follows: 'A young woman man teaching in the country for the excellent reason that she had been crowded out of town in the course of two school years, both short-enforced somehow to have the eyes lit up, quite a workshop in an unadorned stable of a neoprene stable. There was nothing said about the introduction of manual training on the project might have failed. They wanted to make a sled for the boys to draw the girls on, so in the beginning it was merely part of their play. The tools and the lumber were brought from the farm, and after the sled followed some shelves for books, wherever it occurred to the head boy one noon that a cabinet with a glass door for their specimens would be about the right thing. Nature study had not been introduced. The directors would hardly stand for that. But some of the geography class had gathered a few fossils from the quarry and some different kinds of wood that grew along the river, and one of the boys had caught a pretty good sized greengoby, and just to see if they could get replies, they had written letters to schools in other parts of the country, mentioning their stock in trade.
Exchanges had accumulated and were with coming, so they needed a cabinet, and without a thought of manual training set to and made it. There were some pictures, they would look better in frames, so they framed them. They wanted to see how long it took different seeds to germinate and grow up and get ripe, and so they experimented with them. Nothing was said about the school garden, nor was it expected that there would be anything to sell, but the proceeds bought a book. The flowers were planted, just to make the park look prettier. Something had been said about watering with a rake, which somebody did not see live, so they set to work to prove it. Thus manual training and nature study broke into one school."

The adoption of these studies by small communities has been unintentionally hindered by the expense of the equipment, but Mr. Leake points out that expense need not stand in the way. For example, he gives the details of a domestic science outfit for a rural school at $22, and says the cost might be reduced to $12. As for manual training he presents the experience of one teacher, as follows:

"The Woman's Club of Morgan Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, recently last summer to organize and conduct a vacation school in manual training at its small an expense as possible. Two classes of twelve students each were organized. The students of both sexes ranged from five to fifteen years of age. Each child purchased a kit of tools costing retail $3.18, consisting of one 12-inch Dixson's back saw, one coping saw with one dozen extra blades, one half-inch firmer chisel, one marking gauge, one two-foot rule and one six inch try square. From my own tool chest I loaned a few tools for general use. The board of school trustees permitted a room in one of the school buildings to be used by the classes and made a contribution of $25 to provide work benches, the board to keep the benches after the close of the vacation school. The benches shown in the accompanying illustration, a four-pupil bench, was the type used. Three benches accommodating twelve pupils cost $13 complete as you see them. Upon the top of the bench you have a wooden wedge which was used to hold the material while the child was at work.
It is a practical bench, although a little bit inconvenient. To make it more convenient, a iron vice costing $3.25 was later on attached to each four-pupil bench, the pupils changing position as required. The total cost of the three benches was $22.75. A grindstone cost $5.00. About $10.00 was expended for material. The term was of six weeks' duration, 30 lessons of twenty minutes each. The total expenditure was $210.07, including children's tools, salary of teacher, and incidental expenses. These Margan Park children received 100 lessons, which is equivalent to three-quarters of a year of forty weeks with one lesson per week. If such a school could be conducted for six weeks at such small expense it could be continued for a longer period of time if necessary. Those who need aid in order to purchase tools could be taught to cut a pane of glass, to letter small signs for shop windows, to make buttons for houses, to care cans or something which they could earn money enough to pay the tools."

This is not only lessening the cost of the manual training equipment, but it also inspires the pupil to have confidence in his own ability to provide for his needs and it secures the moral support of the community. With moral support secured, the trustees will see the way clear for the extension of the work."

With consolidated rural schools, the problem of giving such schools
the benefit of up-to-date methods, including manual training and domestic science, is easily solved, because then the expense is spread over a number of school sections and does not bear with severity on any one of them. But even in the case of an isolated school Mr. Leake shows that with intelligence and ingenuity on the part of the teacher and the cooperation of the scholars, much can be done at merely nominal expense.
In short, if the will is present the way is easily found.

A HAPPIER IRELAND.

There are many incidents that the Irish Land Purchase Act is working a beneficial revolution in the Green Isle, says the Hamilton Times, and it is pleasant to find that the effect is such as to strike one who revisits the country after many years. Mr.
James P. Ryan, an expatriated Irishman who is revisiting Limerick, writes in his home paper in the United States, giving his impressions, and dealing almost entirely with the land question. The Montreal Witness remarks that his reports of conversations with people of all classes show that there are their chief concern.

Mr. Ryan recounts many facts to give an idea of the great and benefi-cent change that is taking place through the operation of the Land Purchase Act. He also quotes from the most popular songs—a good index of public sentiment—to show how the thoughts of the people are tending. Unlike the mournful duties of former days, these are joyous and full of the landwork. All estates so far purchased by the Government and divided into farm lots have been promptly bought by the tenants for the sum of twenty to twenty-four years' rental on easy payments and interest of two and a half per cent. This in most cases amounts to about half what was paid to the landlords. In many instances the owners are glad to sell as the tenants aim to buy. The former receive a sum equivalent to the rent for a long term of years in advance, besides a substantial bonus.
This relieves them of paying expense for collection of rents and enables agents to save for estates.
They are sure of getting their money, and are not obliged to take chances of non-payment. They are repaid all expenses of redemption for their past oppressions, and may invest the purchase money in other and more profitable enterprises than that of Irish land-holding.

Mr. Ryan, as our contemporary points out, shows that the tenant has thus been given the certainty of owning the land he cultivates, and the home to which he and his family are passionately attached is overwhelmingly delightful. The tenants rejoice that at last they are coming to their own and can enjoy the fruits of their industry, without having to divide with strangers who do not even live in Ireland and have no interest in the country or its people except to get all they can out of them. They make improvements now with the certainty that they will not have their rent raised for having increased its value by their labor. The fixity of tenure has established, production largely increased and comfort and contentment made to prevail when all before was poverty and discontent. Under landlordism the tenants were practically deprived of hunting and fishing rights, and were heavily fined if they caught a fish, or shot a rabbit or a quail. Farmers who have purchased their lots now enjoy these rights, for any man of good character can get a gun license on payment of a small fee. This alone shows how radical is the change, for it is not very long ago when it was only for an Irish peasant to be found in possession of a firearm of any kind. The sale of estates is not compulsory, but many unpopular landlords are taking advantage of the Act and selling, for it seems the people have ways of making them uncomfortable, and they fear that a compulsory Act may be passed, less favorable to them than the existing Act, which allows some consideration for voluntary relinquishment. As regards industrial affairs, Mr. Ryan notes improvements in methods of agriculture, the substitution of cooperative creameries generally for cottage butter-making, and increasing diversity of tillage. But he deplores the absence of capital and enterprise which, he thinks, would more than anything else keep the young people from emigrating.

These are the opinions of an Irishman on the Act and what it has achieved. Evidently there are better days in store for the Irish people.

Five Thousand Facts About Canada, the Young Nation.

ONTARIO

Ontario has 10,254,834 poultry.
Ontario is the breeding ground of thoroughbred stock for the American continent.

At Chicago Fair, 1893, Ontario breeders won 932 live stock awards;
all of U. S. 1494.

At St. Louis Fair, 1904, one-half of total awards in cattle and horses were won by Ontario stock.

Ontario has 1,129,047 dairy cows, worth over 30 millions.

In six years, from 1896 to 1902, the production of beef increased by nearly 100 per cent.

For the same period the increase in bacon production was just over that rate.

The corresponding rate of increase was 70 per cent.

This increase was not due to an increase in production, but to a greater productivity of the same farms.

The production of butter has increased at an even greater rate for the last seven years, since an adequate system of cold storage transportation has been in operation.

Though the fruit industry is only in its infancy, there are over ten million apple trees in the province.

The production of apples increased from 1891 to 1901 by nearly 300 per cent. That of pears and plums by over 1,000 per cent.

The production of small fruits and vegetables is relatively as important and no less successful.

Ontario's apple crop, 1906, 35 million bushels, from 6,598,810 trees.

Ontario had, 1906, 352,300 acres in orchards and gardens and 12,785 acres in fruit trees.

Ontario has 20,000 members of Farmers' Institutes and 8,500 members of 208 Women's Institutes.

Ontario sold, or slaughtered, 1906,
741,476 cattle; 64,761 horses; 574,
416 sheep; 2,222,758 swine.

Ontario has 75 millions' worth of honey.

BIG BLAZE AT DOWNEYVILLE

Forty-Five Tons of Hay Burned—
Pat. Meahan's Lost His Barn.

Evening Post of Aug. 20.

On Saturday night last a destructive fire occurred two miles north of Downeyville, when the splendid barn and outbuildings of Mr. Pat Meahan were destroyed by fire. Forty-five tons of hay, five or six hogs, valuable agricultural implements, furniture, etc., and a windmill were also burned. Although the loss is partly covered by insurance, it will be a severe setback for Mr. Meahan.

The fire may have been of infernal origin. Billows of fire shot up in the sky, casting a bright reflection for miles. The roaring of the windmill broke loose and it swung into the breeze and whirled around at a rapid pace, fanning the flames. Four or five hundred people gathered from miles around, but nothing could be done owing to the start the fire had. The dwelling was saved with the utmost difficulty.
The loss to Mr. Meahan will be a serious one, his total hay crop, being destroyed and no building being available for storing the harvest yet to be made.

Mr. Pat Meahan, wine clerk at the King Edward hotel, town, was present at the fire and told a Post reporter this morning that it was one of the worst seen in Victoria county for years. "The barn," he said, "was 4580 feet in dimensions, and was a splendid structure—one of the finest in the county, in fact."

THE VEGETABLE CROP

Secretary of Vegetable Growers Association Hands Out Statement.

Mr. H. B. Cowan, secretary of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, has issued the following summary of the vegetable crop reports sent in by members.

"The vegetable crop in Ontario is late, but is looking well. Frost in the southwestern part of the province did some damage.

"The potato crop of the province promises to be only fair. Tubers, including turnips, parsnips, carrots and beets are doing well, and will be plentiful. The celery crop looks bright. It is probable that there will be a large crop of celery.
The onion crop will be quite late but it is expected that the yield will be fair to good. Corn will be medium, delicious promise to yield an average."

week ago, true enough, he had scorned to lend himself to such tactics, but tonight he was insensible to the reproach that his noble blood should have felt. For he, too, was under the spell of fate and of a witchery far more potent than the drug of any magician. It was not in mortal man to resist the sorcery of that fair hystress who played on human and royal passion as a musician on a stringed instrument. But there was more than mere passion in that dainty wimple of cambric and lace: "La Petite d'Etioles" was gambling for a great stake. What if she were to be his ally in his great game? Before Andre there unfolded a wonderful vision of the future. He was necessary to these women. Bientôt they should be necessary to him, and bitter as was the contempt in Denise's pure eyes it only steeled his determination remorselessly to tread the path he had planned towards his goal—Denise.

The King had lost his interest and left the ball. He had entered it a free man; he left it in thralldom. And all Paris knew now that for good or evil the reversed crown of the Duchesse de Chateauroux lay in the lap of another. How long would she be permitted to wear it?

As Andre hastened to leave, a touch was laid on his arm. "Do you believe in the crystal now?" asked a gently derisive voice.

"Ah! the sorceress! he had forgotten her. 'You are a true witch,' he said, 'you will certainly be burnt. But I thank you.'"

"I understand," she replied and she took the arm he offered. They walked in silence in search of her carriage.

"Why do you hate politics?" Andre demanded suddenly.

"Because," she answered slowly, "it is the women to whom politics are a passion who rule kingdoms." The vehemence of the reply was as surprising as its nature. "Women," she added, "governed the great Louis Quatorze, they corrupted the Regent, they will bring our sovereign and his kingdom to be the scorn of the world. Better a hundred witches, a hundred wantons, than one woman whose passion it is to govern a kingdom through its King. That is the woman who should be burnt."

It was a new idea to Andre: It would have been a new idea to the salons of the Faubourg St. Germain, to the galleries of Versailles.

"Yes," she continued, "when a woman is not content to be a wife and another she deserves to be treated only as the idol of an hour, the pastime of a fleeting passion."

"O Madame!"

"O Monsieur!" she retorted. "Believe me, it is pleasanter for the women in the end and better for the men that such women should be denied everything except that for which they live—pleasure."

They had reached the carriage. "Do you remember the pay for which you asked?" he questioned, taking her hand.

"Yes, I can never forget it."

"Then—"

She stepped serenely into the carriage. "Then," she whispered, "I shall get it, I suppose, when I really want it," and she swiftly shut the door in his face. "Drive to the hotel of the Duc de Pontchartrain," was her order.

Andre swore softly. The Duke was his friend and in perhaps the greatest libertine in Paris. She should not escape him. In a quarter of an hour he was supping with the Duke and his merry crew; women there were in plenty, but this sorceress, the daughter of a Paris flower girl, had neither been invited nor had so much as exchanged a word with his grace. And when Andre, weary of languorous, ribald songs, and copious wine, slunk to bed with the rising sun he was strangely glad that she had tricked him. But if she was not what she so cynically professed to be what did it mean? And why in her presence did he always have that irritating feeling that somewhere and somehow he had met her before?

CHAPTER VIII.

The sun of spring had set on May 10, 1776, the eve of day memorable in the military annals of the British and French nations. Behind a camouflaged

the entrenchments of Fontenoy Andre warmed himself, one of the many campfires which flared into the dusk on that plain which for two centuries has been the cockpit of Europe; and as he stared out absently into the swiftly falling night, an answering gleam scarcely a mile and a half away told him that there lay the headquarters of the allied forces of the foe, English, Dutch, and Austrians, commanded by an English prince of the blood royal, the Duke of Cumberland.

There had been some warm skirmishing to-day. The British and the Austrians by sheer weight of numbers had trampled out of the enclosures and copes the Pandours and Grassins thrown out as irregular outposts from the French army; and since then Andre and St. Benoit with many others had watched the allied generals and their staff reconnoitring at a safe distance the masterly position drawn along the slopes of Fontenoy by Monsieur le Maréchal de Saxe. A hard nut to crack, gentlemen, these lines study them through your spyglasses as you will. Nor will you find it easy to detect the place to push through. Yes; you may attack any time now night or day, for Tournay to our rear is hard pressed and unless relieved will fall into the hands of our master, Louis XV. Well and good; what better could a Chevalier de la Garde desire than that the not-bellied Dutch traders, the Austrian hounds, and the British dogs should dash themselves to pieces on our lines. Mark you how the trenches run from the forest of Barry covering our left away in the north, winding in a gentle semicircle along the rim of the curving slope two miles and more down to the spot where the Chateau of Anthon guards the passage of the sluggish Scheldt. And man while we lie here snug and safe behind our redoubts bristling with guns, with logs cut from the forest piled breast-high to aid the advantage our general has given us, let the flower of the French army crouch and ready to roll you up when you come. See how open the plain in front is, sloping gradually away from us; we can hammer you in the most murderous fashion from under cover if you are mad enough to dream that any troops can drive from its lair a French army that remembers Dettingen and will have Tournay or perish.

Our Maréchal de Saxe, who knows something of the art of war, has pronounced it impossible, and God have mercy on your silly, reckless souls if you try, for the French guards are here and the Maison du Roi, and our King's eye is on us to see that we do our duty!

Yes, His Majesty is here and with him Monsieur le Dauphin, and not a few ladies greatly daring, and the royal household, chamberlains and equerries, serving men and servants, and the bluest blood of France, and the wench of the commissariat, and the actors and actresses of the Theatre Français. Was there ever such a medley—soldiers, courtiers, and sutlers, thieves, marauders, sluts and wantons, and the gilded coaches and footmen of the beauty and birth that have the right to throng the Staircase des Ambassadeurs at Versailles and have the entrée to the Grand Levée of the King of France?

The camp-fires smoke into the chill dusk; the lights twinkle in the packed villages where battalions of foot bivouac with squadrons of horse. In front smoulders and glares the hamlet of Bourgoen fired by our Grassins and they were driven out this morning. Everywhere the confused turmoil of a great camp, the blare of drums, a feverish shot from yonder where skirmishing is still going on, the neighing of horses, the rumble of wagons. Hard by Andre here the men are taking their evening meal, chattering, laughing, singing, dancing. Such women as can live in camps are drinking too, and when they cannot thrive, there are wounded, or bearded, or robbed; throats there are bearded to be won from the fallen. Make love while you can. To-morrow's eve may never come. Have your season of pleasure, Mesdemoiselles; to-morrow the wench whom you kiss to-night will strip you in the dusk of the victory and leave you to the mercy of the dogs, the spring frosts, and of God—the God of battles.

Yes, to-morrow the wench will surely be a great battle. "To-morrow no performance! The day after to-morrow a play in honor of the victory of Monsieur le Maréchal de Saxe!" And before long there will be a Te Deum in the glorious aisles of the captured cathedral of Tournay.

Andre on his straw heap curled in his cloak dreamed of Denise, of the pleasant Loire, and of the Chateau de Beau Sejour when it should be his. Pest on the canaille and their trulls singing that lampoon at his elbow:

"Une petite bourgeoise,
Elevee a la grivoise
Mesurant tout a la toise,
Fait de la cour un taudis, dis, dis."

They were singing of no less a lady than the fair hystress and the King, the heroine of the crystal and the King's handkerchief, "La Petite d'Etioles," who was now the heroine and Jove of the streets of Paris.

distance so strange. And he too, had played his part in the drama of royal love:

"Louis, malgre son scrupule,
Froidement pour elle brule,

His friend! And he would find her at Versailles no doubt when the campaign was over. How long would she stay there, this ambitious bourgeoisie?

"Monsieur le Lieutenant is sad! Some one had touched his arm. Ah! only a little vivandiere whom he did not recognize. 'Monsieur le Vicomte has left his mistress behind and he is sad,' she protested, kneeling beside and peering with bright eyes into his ruffled visage.

"Run away, my dear," Andre replied sleepily. "I am poor, tired, and in a sad temper."

"And I am poor, fresh, and in a charming temper," she retorted. "If Monsieur le Vicomte has left his mistress behind there are still many women in the world. Here is one!" She began to hum the refrain of the song with the archest drollery: "I fait rire tout Paris, ris, ris."

Andre sat up. An appetizing little vivandiere, this name of a dog! Plump and most bravely tricked out in a military coat and short skirt which revealed what would have made two dancers' fortunes.

"If I give you a kiss will you go?" he said good-humoredly.

"Oh, no. The kisses of Monsieur le Vicomte are no better than those of most men, I suppose."

"Then stay without them." He closed his eyes and lay down again.

"My thanks," she nodded, gaily throwing back her short cloak so as to reveal that her blue coat was open at the throat and suggested a chemise strangely fine for a vivandiere. Then she turned to the south-east at Maubray told him that there lay the headquarters of the allied forces of the foe, English, Dutch, and Austrians, commanded by an English prince of the blood royal, the Duke of Cumberland.

There had been some warm skirmishing to-day. seigneurie marchale t alone have discovered this, and I am come to you, for I, too, have a plan.

The blood swirled for a minute in his temples. Hal when Denise heard how he, Andre de Nerac, alone had saved France, the army, and the King, would she not be proud? Perhaps they would give him the Cordons Bleus.

"What am I to do?" he asked quietly. "I am ready."

She described at length where the charcoal-burner's hut lay and how it could be reached. "When you are there, rap twice on the door," she proceeded, "and then say in English to whoever comes, 'I am from 'No. 101' to 'No. 101.'"

"What does that mean?" "The Vicomte knows what a cipher is? That is the traitor's cipher—and the traitor's name. It is all we have discovered."

"A man, this traitor?" "No one knows, I swear it. But it must be a man, so say those words in English, speak in English, always—always. Remember you are an officer of the First Foot Guards of the English King; you have come for the papers because 'No. 101' has hidden you. You will get them if you are clever and God wills. Then fly—fly for your life, and France is saved."

"I will not fly till I have killed that traitor."

"I will kill him if you can, but it is the papers you must have or we are all ruined. The papers," she repeated in a dull agony.

Andre meditated. Then he took the vivandiere by both arms. "Will you swear by the name of the Holy Virgin that this is no trap?" he asked solemnly.

She turned her hooded face up to his and took his Croix de St. Louis. "Be for God and on this cross," she answered very slowly, "it is no trap. It is the truth."

Conviction rang in her low tones and she was trembling with emotion. "Very well, I am ready. But my uniform!" he asked sharply. "I shall be recognized."

"I have thought of that," she said. "See, my room is in the village, a stone's throw hence. A cloak, a hat, and boots of the English Guard are there, stripped from a dead officer. They will cover your uniform. But you must keep the cloak buttoned, for frock and tunic I have not got, alas! I have, too, my actress's box of colors. I will disguise you perfectly. Come at once, there is no time to waste."

And by two flickering candles her deft fingers transformed him swiftly into the image of a ruddy, beefed English officer of the English Guard, and when her work was done she accompanied him to the edge of the lines, where they paused.

"For God's sake be careful," she urged. "The Pandours, the Grassins, the marauders, are prowling everywhere. Maybe, too, 'No. 101' may have varlets on the look-out. I would not frighten you, but you should know that the man or woman who has hunted 'No. 101'—and several have tried—has so far met with death."

But Andre only smiled grimly. "Yes," she repeated, "all who have seen that traitor face to face have died. It is horrible, but the truth. Get the papers, that is all we need. Pity no farther, I beseech you. Ah, sir, a woman, even an actress, would not have on her soul the blood of a gallant gentleman who at her bidding risked all for France."

"Death can come but once," he answered, "and in no nobler way than in the service of France and the King." "That is true, but you must live. For the King will be grateful, and I—I, too, will not forget."

Andre smilingly put his hand on her shoulder. "And is that all?" he asked lightly, "all my reward, Mademoiselle?"

"Oh, no," she said, "I will come back and you will see whether it is all. Meanwhile, adieu and an revoir."

She had slipped from his grasp and vanished as mysteriously as she had come. Who was she? Bah! it did not matter now. The night and its work lay before him. But to-morrow—to-morrow!

He mounted, gave the password, and rode into the night.

Behind him lay the sleeping camp ignorant of its peril. In front the strangest, weirdest, most dangerous task he had ever embarked on; yet Andre felt no fear. His only thought as he trotted down the slope was a vivid reminiscence of the words of the crystal-gazer. Women everywhere in his life—always women at every turn—the princess in London—Yvonne—"La Petite d'Etioles"—the crystal-gazer, and now the charming little vivandiere. It was all so many instruments to help him to win the fairest of them all—Denise. It was clear as noonday now. His task was to master the strand of the web in which these women, by design or accident, enveloped him, and to make them serve his purpose while he seemed to serve theirs. It was an idea which grew in power and fascination every day. When he appealed to him by nature, before the charm of mind and body in women he was defenceless, but it was his love for Denise that had inspired the conception of yoking the pleasure of life to the attainment of a glorious ambition. To-night was a matchless opportunity—and others would follow.

But his mind while it revolved was fully alert. He belied in himself and his sword. His faith in his star grew stronger each day. But fate and God helped those who would best help themselves. To-night he must not fail on this difficult task because he neglected anything that caution could suggest.

From time to time he halted. The night was dark, that was good, and a raw mist steamed out of the sudden earth. He had taken the precaution to bind his horse's hoofs in soft cloth, and she, a powerful English thoroughbred, his favorite mare, knew her master's will by instinct. The road, too, was easy to find. No one crossed his path. And here at last was the little wood of which he had been told. Half a mile was gleaming in the distance, a light, a gleam, a flash, a fire, a camp in the raw chill of this infernal high-plate of treachery. Let him lie. And now forward again. Pah! another corpse! A woman, and young, too, that was a companion no doubt, and stripped as he was. He bent over her. There had been a quarrel, the robbers had killed her and her mate, and to save time had simply chopped off her fingers to get the booty she had gripped so tightly. Let her lie beside him there and forward again, for such is war.

Half! Here is the charcoal-burner's cabin. He could just make out its black outlines in a clearing of the trees. Andre muffled his mare's head and tied her to a branch, and then with naked sword crawled forward on hand and knees. Round the hut like a sleuth he hound he warmed his way, learning the ground, making absolutely sure no one lurked in this damp stillness. Positively not a soul, not a whisper. But the horror of the dead man and woman and this awful stillness had mastered him, and ten yards from the door he lay for some minutes watching, thinking. But he showed no signs of life. What if "No. 101" were not there? What if the English officers had forestalled him and the papers were already gone? What if an ambushade were concealed in that ramshackle cabin?

Still he lay thinking, shivering, to start swiftly. The shutter in the cabin wall was being slowly pushed open. There was no glass in the window; a gleam of red light; some one was stealthily looking out into the night. Andre crawled on his stomach across the clearing and lay flat down with a sharp gasp.

By the living God, it was a woman!

Two drops of icy sweat dripped from her forehead on to the damp ground. A woman! Yes, she could see the silhouette of her hooded head and bust etched against the dull red light behind the window, and she was thinking too, resting her elbow placidly on the sill. A woman! It was terrible, for she was a traitor and he must kill her, here in this cursed cabin, in this damned wood. She moved her head and listened intently. Yes, she was expecting some one. Ha! He was not too late.

The shutter was stealthily closed, but crouching beneath it Andre heard the faint sigh as of a weary heart. He sprang up, rapped twice on the door.

Steps within, the bolts were being drawn back. At last a masked woman with a lantern in her hand stood in the doorway, and he and she faced each other in silence.

"Who is that?" she asked in a clear voice.

"I am from 'No. 101' to 'No. 101,'" Andre answered firmly, but inwardly he trembled and his sword was ready to leap out.

She raised the lantern quietly and let the light travel from his hat to his boots.

"Good," she said. "Enter, sir."

Andre paused. Could he dare? No—yes—no? For two slow minutes the thought battled within him, as he strove to penetrate the secret of that mask and the hood covering her head. She was young—quite young. That faint sigh as of a weary heart seemed to echo through the misty silence of the wood.

Then he stepped inside, and she quietly closed the door.

CHAPTER IX.

The woman led the way into the kitchen which opened off the tiny passage and Andre followed her. The two looked each other in silence. Presently she placed the lantern on the rough table in the centre of the room and once again looked at him thoughtfully through her mask. The only other light there was came from the dying embers of a fire, whose murky shadows flickered on the walls and on the low roof.

Andre with his fingers on his sword-hilt returned her studied gaze. He could make out that her hair under her hood was fair, her voice, her step, were those of a girl, and what he could see of her figure shrouded in its long cloak hid well to be shapely. Yes, she was young, this woman, but a pest on that mask!

"You are not the officer I expected," she remarked at last.

"He was wounded; he could not come, so they sent me in his place," Andre answered at once.

"I understand," she replied with a quiet nod, "but they said two would be sent."

"My companion is outside guarding the horses." Whereupon she lifted the lantern and inspected him closely. Andre, ready for anything, stood quite still. "If you doubt my word," he added carelessly, "I will take you to him now."

"No," she answered, replacing the lantern on the table, "your word is enough; the word of an English officer," and she turned to cross the kitchen.

Andre's face was calmness itself, but his blood was tingling with fear, curiosity, revenge. Never in his adventurous life had he been so thrilled as at this cold-blooded traitress in a mask. But, mastered as he was by an overmaster-

It will be to learn that the leading medical officers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their results, as bronchitis, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholin of Jefferson Medical College; Prof. Hare of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley of Springfield, M. COURSE OF NEW AGRICULTURAL CLASSES

Regulations Governing the New Studies to be Taken Up at Lindsay and other Collegiate Institutes and High School.

A draft copy of the regulations and courses of study arranged for the agricultural departments of the High School at Essex, and the Collegiate Institutes at Galt, Collingwood, Lindsay, Perth and Morrisburg, was submitted to the Ontario Council at a Council meeting held the other day. The regulations will no doubt prove interesting reading to many in town and country. Lindsay Collegiate Institute being one of those selected by the Ontario government for the initiation of the new course of study. The admission requirements are:

1. Pupils who take the regular two years' special course in Agriculture or a partial course therein in a High School, shall be admitted in accordance with the regulations that govern the admission of other High School pupils. For 1937 to 1938, however, other pupils shall be admitted who, in the opinion of the Principal of the school and the Public School Inspector, are competent to take up the work. All such pupils shall be regarded as regularly enrolled.

2. To the course held throughout the county, such pupils may be admitted as, in the judgment of the Principal of the school, are competent for the work, whether, for example, farmers or farmers' sons or daughters, or pupils of Public School or of other High Schools. A list thereof, and their reported attendance shall be kept by the Principal of the school; but they shall not be enrolled as regular High School pupils unless they have been admitted to a High School as provided above.

The teacher shall hold a B. S. A. from Toronto University, or a certificate of qualification from the Ontario Agricultural College. Such teachers may also take part in the science work of the school, provided such work does not in any way interfere with their special work as teachers of Agriculture.

The teacher's duties are:

(a) He shall visit from time to time the various parts of the country and report upon their special requirements.

(b) He shall take charge of an office situated in the High School district, where he may meet the farmers, giving them aid and advice, supplying them with the outlines of the Department of Agriculture and such other farm literature as may be useful, and discussing with them the latest experimental results of the work of the Ontario Agricultural College.

(c) He shall keep in touch with local agricultural associations, farmers' institutes, etc., and shall act in concert with the staff of lecturers, demonstrators, and professors of the Ontario Agricultural College.

(d) Where practicable, he will arrange for excursions for students and others to the Agricultural College and other places in the month of June, and shall take special charge during such visits of those who have been in attendance on his classes.

(e) He shall attend the Winter Fair and annual meeting of the Agricultural Union, held yearly at Guelph, for one week in December. Accommodation and equipment must include a suitable laboratory and equipment necessary in carrying out work outlined under chemistry, physics and zoology.

An officer of the O. A. C. shall inspect high schools or collegiate at least once a year.

3. The regular Special Course in Agriculture in a High School shall be the two years' one. Partial courses may also be provided in the High School for regular High School pupils or for such occasional pupils as may desire them.

4. Regular High School pupils taking the special course in agriculture shall take in addition to the subjects which are obligatory upon all High School pupils, namely, geography, arithmetic and mensuration, English grammar, writing, reading, English composition, English literature and history, with such suitable modifications of this course, and with such additional subjects, as may be deemed expedient by the principal and the parent or guardian of the pupil.

5. The two years' special course shall comprise field husbandry, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, poultry, botany, entomology, agricultural physics, and agricultural chemistry.

One explanatory says:

It is not intended that all the work outlined in the course shall be covered in two years. The outline is suggestive rather than obligatory, and the amount of work to be taken up shall be determined by the needs of the community and the nature of the special subjects selected. In some districts, horticultural subjects, for example, will receive special emphasis, in others, dairying, and in others again, stock raising, and so on.

YACHT VERSUS A MACHINE.

Seneca is a Racing Machine and Can't be Beaten.

Toronto News: From Commodore Macdonald down everyone concedes the cup to Seneca, which has again demonstrated the fact that the Canadians will have to reconcile themselves to a departure from the hearty style of boat they put their hopes upon in the past, go after the Yankees at their own game, and resort to the frank style of naval architecture before they can hope to win the cup.

When the new universal rating rules were adopted two years ago, it was felt that the yachtmen had at last evolved something that the designers could not beat. It was hailed with delight, particularly on the Canadian side of the line, where the death of freak types of yachts was regarded as inevitable. "We will now have a healthy type of boat, something showing power and stability; the day of the racing machine is over," said everybody in yachting circles, where it was generally expected that all vulnerable points of the rules would be eliminated.

But they had reckoned without the great Herreshoff, who, as a matter of fact, was one of the first to be consulted when the yachtmen of the Sound, who had evaded the rules for years of experience and costly experiment, first drafted the new racing conditions. With characteristic Yankee shrewdness, the "Big Wizard," as soon as he passed his opinion upon the rules, suggesting changes here and there, and apparently doing everything possible to neutralize the tricks of his own trade, went to work to beat the rules he himself had helped to construct. How he has succeeded is best shown by the Seneca and her freak characteristics.

This is the first Canadian cup race under the new rules, and the Canadians have produced a type of boat whose usefulness will not depart when the race is over, while the Rochester syndicate, when the series is completed, will have on their hands a beautiful ornament, a monument to the skill of Herreshoff, who, they will have to dispose of for the price of the lead in her keel. She is no good for practical purposes, but as a racing machine, she is one of the most perfect pieces of workmanship ever produced by an American designer, who has succeeded merely in frustrating the rules, and doing nothing to perpetuate and encourage the construction of the healthy useful craft that the new regulations set at. He has beaten the rules, others will be encouraged to try, their hand at the same game.

This is what the Canadian yachtmen are saying, and the inference is that the R.C.Y.C. will try the experiment themselves when they next try for the cup, if, indeed, the lessons of the present contest, furnished by Mr. Herreshoff, do not in the meantime result in further revision of the rules.

The recent race was not a battle of skippers, it was not even a contest between the boats, but merely resolved itself after the first few minutes to a struggle between Addison G. Hannan and the Seneca on one hand, and Father Time on the other. Jarvis and Hannan merely tested their relative skill once, and the Canadian came out with flying colors, outgeneralling her famous rival in a way that gladdened the hearts of the Canadians, giving them the only consolation afforded during the day.

GOLDEN WEDDING AT KEW BEACH

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Battisby Married 50 Years—All the Children Present.

The following from last week's Toronto Star will interest many Lindsay friends:

Kew Beach, Aug. 15.—The residence of Mrs. Carl, 1989 Queen east, was in gala attire last evening in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Battisby. The lawn and house were profusely decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns for the occasion, and dinner was served on the lawn by a caterer. The gathering was unique in its way. Mr. and Mrs. Battisby having the pleasure of the company of all their children, five daughters and two sons, with their husbands and wives, and several grandchildren as well as many friends from the city and outside points.

The guests enjoyed a dance later in the evening, in which Mr. and Mrs. Battisby, sr., took part with as much vigor as some of the younger braves of the family.

Mr. Battisby was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, 74 years ago, but came to this country at an early age, taking up his residence at Port Hope.

Mrs. Battisby is a Canadian by birth, having been born in Port Hope as also were all her children. Mr. and Mrs. Battisby were married in Port Hope, and resided in that place for thirty-eight years, when they removed to Peterborough, where they lived for ten years, and for the past two years have been living in Toronto. There has been only one death in the entire family of three generations, one grandchild being dead.

Congratulations were received yesterday by wire from Montreal, Chicago, Port Hope, Peterborough, Muskoka, Brockport, North Madison, Iowa and Grand Rapids.

Among the members of the family present were: Mrs. M. A. Carr, Mr. J. J. Battisby, Mrs. R. A. Gladhill, Toronto; Mrs. A. G. Shaw, Mr. W. A. Battisby, of Chicago; Mrs. S. B. Lill-law, Lindsay; and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Peterborough.

Departmental Examinations.

Inspector J. H. Knight, town, furnished The Post with the following: Of the two examinations, Junior Metriculation and Junior Teachers', at which a few wrote on both examinations, but no one passed in both. Bobaygeon passed 3 out of 5, Oranice passed 6 out of 14, and Lindsay passed 19 out of 70.

CHEMONG PARK REGATTA.

Sturgeon Point Contestants Won Many Prizes

Evening Post of Aug. 16

Ideal weather favored the annual regatta under the auspices of Chemong Yacht Club, on Chemong Lake yesterday, and as a result the attendance was large. The races were well managed and keenly contested.

The Str. Esturion, carrying close on 200 people from Lindsay, Pleasant Point, Sturgeon Point and Bobaygeon, reached Chemong at 2 o'clock, just as the races were commencing.

Representatives of Sturgeon Point Cottagers' Association made a fine showing in the several events, winning the following:

No. 3—Canoe Paddling, Ladies' Team—Miss Jean Flavell, Miss Grace Knowlson, Sturgeon Point, 2nd, Misses Hall, Stony Lake.

4—Canoe Paddling, boys 16 and under—Miss Wilfred Knowlson, Sturgeon Point.

10—Canoe Paddling, Ladies' Single—Miss Jean Flavell, Sturgeon Point, 2nd Miss Knowlson, Sturgeon Point.

12—Canoe paddling, four men—Miss A. Simpson, R. Fort, G. Ryerson, W. Knowlson, Sturgeon Point; 2nd Bruce Hopkins, G. Warner, Bruce Wilson and A. Bell, Sturgeon Point.

13—Gasoline launches, 3 hp. and under—Miss Hopkins' Viking, Sturgeon Point, 2nd, Wilson's Roy II., Sturgeon Point.

The dinghy race for the championship of the Kawartha Lakes and the Challenge Cup was won by Holdings, 2nd Hamilton. The open sailing race was won by Shaw, 2nd Knappman.

The ladies' tandem was worth watching. When Miss Flavell and Miss Knowlson, who were behind, got on a grand spurt and gained the lead, the Lindsay contingent stood on their tip toes and yelled themselves hoarse. (The Misses Hall hitherto have been invisible, but they took their defeat in fine spirit and were the first to congratulate the winners.)

The Esturion reached the Point on the return trip at about 9 o'clock, and tied up at Lindsay at 10:30.

Railway Notes.

—Excess baggage rates have been issued by western lines in all states having a passenger rate of two cents a mile.

—William F. Hawkins, assistant attorney-general of Texas, holds that a stockholder in a railroad cannot accept free passes on the line under the anti-free pass law.

—H. J. Dean, of Prospect street, Mendville, has patented a new metal adjustable engine pilot which he hopes to have adopted by the railroads of the United States.

—W. S. G. Harris, a locomotive engineer on the Southern Pacific, has invented an automatic safety device for boilers, which will serve as a warning to the engineer when the water is getting low.

—Western lines will abolish the party rates between Chicago and the Pacific coast as soon as it can be legally effected. They have withdrawn clerical permits and charity rates in territory where the passenger rate is two cents a mile.

—The Grand Trunk announces that it will have ready in September or fall traffic $7,000,000 worth of rolling stock, which has been under construction for some time. So far $4,500 freight cars, out of $200, have been delivered, which at $850 makes $3,825,000. Of the sixty passenger coaches, thirty have been delivered, a total of $720,000, and of 100 engines, sixty have been received, amounting to $1,500,000.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

DAIRY BRIEFS

Feeding milk too cold or too much at one time will cause scours.

A half cupful of wheat flour and a raw egg in the milk given to a calf with scours will often prove effective.

Cows will vary considerably in the amount of solids in their milk and especially in the amount of butter fats.

The kitchen has a lot of odors which will not improve the milk.

Every dairy utensil should be thoroughly rinsed and well sealed with boiling water. If, in addition, they can have a good sun bath in a sweet, airy place, so much the better.

Select a dairy breed and stick by it. Be sure it is a dairy breed.

Weeding out the poor animals and keeping the good ones will soon build up a herd.

It is better to wash the milk out of the butter in the churn than to work it out on the worker.

It is important to ascertain how much food it requires to keep the cow in good, thrifty condition, how much food and this is converted into milk and at what point she begins to lay on flesh.

Keep the calves clean and dry. Calves never do well in dirty, damp quarters.

It is easier to keep cows from getting out by fixing the fences good beforehand than it is to break them out of the bad habit after they once get it.

Cottonseed meal produces the largest yield and the richest cream of any food that can be used, but care must be taken not to give in large quantities, as it is very likely to cause scours.

You always need a dairy thermometer, but especially at this time of the year. There is nothing better to tell you when the milk is cool.

Training and feeding may be made a valuable means of developing the capabilities of cows and a preliminary step to their improvement by breeding.

A little grain will help even on good pasture.

A good cow usually bears the marks of her excellence with her.

Leaving butter fat in the milk is throwing money to the pigs.

By kneading and rubbing the udder of young heifers and drawing the teats a good form may be given to this organ, and the milk secretion may be considerably increased.

THE MAN BEHIND THE COW

If "the man behind the cow" would do his part, no unprofitable cow would masquerade under the fictitious appellation of "milk cow."

F. D. Coburn, of Kansas, who would either be sent to the butcher's block or be made to return a profit by more intelligent care and management. It passes understanding why theft in a cow should be tolerated more than theft by a human being.

In effect the loss to the consumer is, in either case, the same. Our government has found it wisdom to study and establish far reaching methods for the detection and suppression of crime by the human family, and by the same token why should our farmers and dairymen be less vigilant in regard to this possible proclivity in their cows—beasts described as dumb, yet outwitting their owners?

So long as cows of this class are permitted in the dairy herd just so long will there be dissatisfaction and failure. Improvement is the route to success, whether by breeding or better management and intelligence in our cow owners is the power that will force development in the right direction.

HORSE FACTS

Have his harness fit. He'll last very much longer.

Above all, don't overtax his strength.

Give him a little water very often.

Don't give him a big drink directly after a meal.

Don't allow him to eat too fast. Even scatter his grain on a clean floor.

Don't beat a stupid horse—that only proves the driver's stupidity.

Stay with him while he is shoeing. The shoe may hit him over the head, ruining him.

A few days' rest, with earth to stand on, unshod, will do him more good than veterinary treatment in many cases.

STANDARD IN PHYSICS PAPER

It is said That Students Wrote on Questions Not Taught.

It is apparent from the general talk among the authorities of Education Department, that the regulations authorizing the lowering of the standard on certain examination papers will be put into force this year with reference to the senior physics paper. While it is not admitted that the paper as set was too difficult, it is said that the questions asked were not exactly along the lines of work taught the pupils throughout the Province. None of the authorities would take the responsibility of stating that the standard would be lowered on any one paper.

"Due allowance will be made where papers were altogether too difficult for students," said Registrar Houston when questioned.

Dr. Seath, Superintendent of Education, characterized as absurd any reports to the effect that any stated percentage of pupils had failed to pass their examinations. He further stated that it was altogether too premature to make any forecasts in this direction.

PANDORA RANGE

Large Broiler Door

Open the broiler or toasting door of the Pandora and you'll find an opening much more generous than on ordinary ranges.

It's both wide and deep, so that you can easily place a big steak right over and almost touching the red hot coals, where it will broil quickly.

And it's only by rapid broiling that a steak will retain its natural flavor and rich, juicy tenderness.

Pandora is the range that cooks things right. This broiler door can also be used for feeding the fire without disturbing the pots, etc., on the top.

Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

Some time ago, in reading over some Socialistic rubbish, we noticed one or two assertions that nearly seemed to fit up to the standard.
One was that "people are too busy to lead pure, wise and honest lives," that is, under present conditions. We disagree in toto from that. We don't think a Christian Socialist—and there are such—would make such an assertion. The trouble is that the majority of Socialists, the leaders especially, can hardly be classed as thorough believers in Christianity, although they quote the Bible and the sayings of Christ by the yard, the great trouble being that they do not live out in their own lives the life of Christ.
This is to be wondered at, too, because the majority of them are seemingly honest in their convictions, but when they work on the principle that the whole of man is his body, or his bodily and mental wants, they lose sight of the principal thing about man, which is his soul.

There is no doubt but that, if work were divided evenly in this world, and done on the square, we would none of us have to work more than four hours a day, but when Socialists make the assertion that men would rather work four hours than two, they show that they do not understand human nature. There are some of our fraternity who would prefer not to work at all, and no doubt there are some who would be satisfied with four hours' work, but we rather imagine that the great body of healthy, able-bodied men would prefer at least eight hours work, which to our mind is a happy medium. Then there are those who prefer work to anything else, as long as they are awake, and to whom enforced idleness or relaxation would be purgatory—what is going to be done with them? We think we would find it hard to lead. What is the use of saying that "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do," and we are afraid that under this phase of Socialistic life there would be lots of mischief brewing. Robinson Crusoe had an ideally Socialistic time, and yet we know he was far from being happy.

Another fallacy that the Socialists harbor is that people would rather live in the country than in the city.
Not on your life they wouldn't. The trend citywards is not altogether for money. There are people who would prefer city life and scrape a living, rather than a country life with affluence. We think ourselves it is foolish, but there it is—how can you change it? We have a higher opinion of our race than to think it pure life cannot be lived out under present conditions. A man of course has got to be right inwardly, before he can attempt to do so. Given that condition, how would he endure his business presuming he was a boss? We may safely conclude that he would not be in any business whereby his fellows would be hurt either morally or physically. He would work his employees no more than was right, and eight hours a day would not be far off. He would see that they got a holiday once a year as well as himself, and he would conduct everything about his place that his neighbors, who would be principally workmen, would see that he had more to live for than mere money grubbing.

The great province of British Columbia has more grievances than one.
One ever to the fore is the one of Asiatic immigration, which we imagine will always be present with them, owing to their proximity to Asia.
Twenty years ago it was the Chinese, to-day it is the Japanese. For years the Western, or supposedly "civilized" nations, have done about as they pleased with the Chinese, in both in their own countries and in China, but the Japanese are an entirely different proposition. The U.
S. and Canada have placed a tax on the Chinese. With us it was $50, but that not seeming big enough to keep them out, it was raised to $200, and then they stopped coming. Last year not one Chinese came in. This year they have started coming in again, the $500 evidently not being a bar. As B. C. gets one-half of the tax, it comes in very handy, and will this year add considerably to the revenue. It has always been a debatable question as to whether the importation of Chinese was a bane or a blessing to that country.

It altogether depended on to whom you were talking when seeking information out at the Coast. The answer you got to your query. The employer of labor, almost without exception, would prefer the Chinese, especially for unskilled work. If he were running a saw mill and wanted a hundred hands, he would contract with a Chinese jobber, and they would be there six days of the week, from the time the morning whistle blew until the evening whistle blew.
They may not have been the same hands all through the week, but he did not need to bother—he always had the number he bargained for. On the other hand, were he trying to run it with white men, he was continually in hot water. At times some of his men would be short-handed, and his men would work or not, as they pleased. Most of their money went for whiskey, and at the end of the week it is doubtful if his men could raise $100.00 among them. The Chinese, on the other hand, banked their money. Suppose it was to take them back to China, did we get value for it? and was that not preferable to investing it in liquor?
It was the same story at the conceries. For household duties the Chinese were the only available supply, and as for wages, demanded just as much as the whites wanted and got it, as they were preferable workmen.

On the other hand, the labor people argued that these people came here with no intentions of staying, and lived more cheaply than they.
The whites, could afford to live, and have views that would soon bring our country to ruin, and besides, being of a different race of people, unmixable, to say the least, and mixing with citizens. With the exception of the unmannerly and crowded way in which they live, and which we think is more the fault of the white authorities for allowing it, and the little opium smoking they do, we really must admit that, as far as we have exposed, the vices of the Chinese are not a patch on those of the whites—that is, of the same grade. You can go all over the continent and you will never see a drunken Chinaman, or for that matter, a disorderly one.

They do like to gamble, but no worse than the whites. Some of them like to drink, as I am sure we all do. But they are criminally irresponsible—we forced it on them at the can-cans mouth. As for spending money, we believe they like to, and do so as liberally as the whites.
They like just as nice things. We imagine what they have over and above the whites is simply what the latter lack—drink both in time and money. We want to say something about the Japs, but space will take another paragraph.

There is a good deal being said just now about the apparent laxity in the administration of the law, notably in the Orangerville murder case, and recently in our own case of the counterfeiter. The Toronto World has spoken in meetings and discussed the matter, especially our own case, very fairly, and we think, admirably. Ver-gity-Chief Stark, of Toronto, than whom there is no better authority on this continent, recently read a paper at the annual meeting of Chiefs on the interference of a magistrate in cases of law-breaking, and warning the people of the evil effects that are sure to follow.

(The question has been frequently asked by any paper that has commented on the subject at all, what "pull" has there been, or who is being screened in this case of counterfeiting? We read a very laudatory article in a contemporary on the character of the gentleman sent down by the Ontario Government to conduct the case. No doubt it is a good word that was said, as to the gentlemanliness in conducting it, but as the World has well pointed out, why was a clerk in the Attorney-General's department, and a lawyer of no particular ability, sent down instead of a man like DuVernet or Shepley or Johnston? Would the inference not be, that the department were not anxious to have the case tried too deeply?

When the department want good, deep work done, you will notice that a first-class man is put on the job, and certainly that was not done in this case, and everyone is asking, why? The press is also asking why the case was tried before the local magistrates, instead of a higher tribunal, and some almost insinuate that the magistrates were naturally biased in the case and did not give any justice. We don't take much stock in that argument, although the shortness of the sentences did give us a jar. From what we know of both magistrates, we fully believe that anyone coming before them would get full justice, no more—no less. If there has been a failure of justice in any particular, the one to blame is the prosecutor. The defendant, go behind him and cannot make him bring along any more evidence than he chooses to bring.

There is one feature of the business, not this case in particular, but any case of law-breaking that comes before any court, that we do not like to see or hear about, and that is the "pull" or influence that is said to be brought to bear in favor of any particular offender. Why should any "approach" a Judge, or even a Crown Attorney, before a case is tried? Is a citizen doing the square thing in doing so? Is he doing the part of a good citizen in doing so?
Is he doing honestly in doing so?
Why should the ends of justice be thwarted by interference of this kind from supposedly prominent citizens?
Is it not on the face of an imperiousness? It would seem to us that the proper way would be to let the properly let the chips fall where they will, and after the sentences given, use their endeavors to ease it, if thought wise, although this, again, is where Mr. Stark says the maudlin sentiment of the community does harm.

An item appeared in the news recorder some little time back, giving a description of the burial of Kitchener —not our friend Herbert, of Egyptian fame, but a dog of the blue blood of that modern Babylon, New York City. Still later, was an item describing how a lady (?) got off a boat with two maids, and a man leading a monkey by a silver chain.
They all went to a leading hotel, where the clerk, good sensible boy that he was, said he would be blowed if he would have a monkey as a guest. As they were going away, the proprietor appeared on the scene, and an arrangement was made whereby the monkey was put into the same room as his mistress, on condition that she paid full rate for it. Only last week the divorced wife of a Vanderbilt, now living with a man named Belmont, gave a swell party at Newport, at which the guest of honor was a chimpanzee.

The question that serious people will naturally ask is where is this sort of thing going to end? We are not of those who deny the love of animals. We enjoy a dog's companionship more than we would sometimes but the dog must go alive, and the moment he is dead the question is, how to dispose of the cor-pet and cheaper he is, the better the arrangement. We desire, even, to know the spot. Monkeys we like to see at a circus, and enjoy their antics as much as we ever did in our youth. Here are three instances given to us that happened in as many months, where thousands of dollars have been thrown away, while thousands of humans, not to mention monkeys, were lacking a square meal. Is it any wonder we have such a rotten condition of society as we have in the upper (?) ten. Is it any wonder that we have Socialism, and even anarchism, in its very worst form, preached from the housetops? Suppose a man with a strong will and a good heart, and a fund of Kitchener and sawed at the funeral casket and all the tomfoolery connected with the burial, who could blame him for appropriating anything that was handy for the benefit of his family?

Here are certainly signs of disaster, beside which smallpox is clean. It carries us back to the days when Rome began its decline, so ably pictured by Gibbon, where the people got so rich and voluptuous that their continual cry was for something new in the way of entertainment, it mattered not whether ten or twenty or a hundred lives were lost in the process. It is a sign that the well-wishers of the nation ought to take good heed of, for as sure as death, it means the beginning of the end if it is allowed to sink too deeply. (The United States is getting to be a pretty rich nation, and as the years roll by, there is a class being formed who neither sow nor reap, simply exist on the efforts of others. If they had to hustle to get three, or even only two meals a day, they would be better citizens, but as they are, they have more money than they know what to do with, and like all unused minds, they breed disease—the disease of ennui in its very worst form. They are cunning about it, too. Ask them for a subscription for a worthy object, and they either have nothing, or give such a pittance that you are ashamed to take it, but let them give a shine, and the object seems to be to spend as much as possible on it, even if it is necessary to smash the old glass on the furniture.

What is the remedy? Well, the proper one is a careful, home training and upbringing, but lacking that, we have seen it suggested that all over a reasonable amount that anyone leaves should go to the State.
Suppose a million was the limit a man could leave to his family, and he left 10 million—nine would go to the State. Not a bad idea to come over.

MANILLA SHOOTING FATALITY

Andrew Grant Dead From a Revolver Shot Through Heart.

Evening Post of Aug. 19. —
Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Grant, living near Manila, were horrified, on returning from church yesterday, to find their son, Andrew, a young man about 25 years of age, lying in the stable bathed in his own blood. Nearby was a revolver, still warm, with one discharged cartridge in its cylinder. The unfortunate young man was still breathing, but died before medical aid could reach him.

The victim of the fatality had recently returned from Cobalt. The other members of the family had driven to church, leaving him alone.
He was well known in the neighborhood. Dr. Grant, Beaverton, Dr.
Grant, of Woodville, Mr. Dan Grant, of Woodville, and Mr. Hugh Grant, father of Lorneville, are uncles of the deceased.

That the revolver was accidentally discharged while Grant was cleaning it is a theory advanced by many. The youth had no car or worries that would be likely to lead to suicide.
Much sympathy is felt for the family, and the whole neighborhood is in gloom.

A GREAT MISTAKE.

"To discontinue an advertisement," says John Wamack, a great merchant, "is like taking down your sign. If you want to do business you must let the public know it. Standing advertisements are better and cheaper than reading notices. They look more substantial and business-like and inspire confidence. I would as soon think of doing business without advertising as without advertising."

CHEMONC LAKE REGATTA

Some Interesting Notes.
Petersboro Review: The Esturion brought about two hundred passengers from Sturgeon Point and Bob-caygeon. Sturgeon Point was well represented, and the visitors were certainly not at all backward in electing their boys and girls, who won a goodly number of the events.
It is estimated that about 2000 persons were present.

In the ladies' single canoe race,
Sturgeon Point were again victorious and incidentally it might be remarked that these were few events that Sturgeon Point was not represented, and in almost every case won.
Miss Ryerson took first and Miss Knowlson took second. Both young ladies came from Sturgeon Point.

The ladies' tandem canoe race was captured by Misses Flavelle and Knowlson of Sturgeon Point. Misses Gwen and Helen Hall came in second.

The gasoline launch races were a feature of the regatta. In the second class, 6 hrs. and over, there were only two entries, the "Wabasco" and the "It". Both are motor boats and are built for speed. "It" also captured the "Wabasco" of the Lindsay Post, and took the race from Commodore Bull's "Wasago."

While advocating cold meals for church-goers on Sunday, Rev. D. S. Ingram, rector of Great Oakley Episcopal church, in Essex, England, spoke in favor of golf on Sunday for business men who found no time for amusement during the week.

A spire that was unique in church architecture has just been torn down at Providence, R. I., it being that of the Jefferson Street Baptist church, which was entirely of brick, even to the apex, each brick being especially fashioned for the place it occupied.

Over 50,000 persons passed through the turnstiles of the great Crystal Palace in London on the occasion of the forty-second anniversary of the Salvation Army, General Booth preaching to over 15,000 of his followers at one of the many services held.

The Episcopal church at Mt. Pocono Pa., one of the mountain summer resorts, has been turned over to the Catholics whenever they wish it for the celebration of mass for the many servants who are needed in that section during the vacation season.

Finding that Jewish residents of New York have not contributed sufficiently to the maintenance of Hebrew religious centers in that city, President Albert Lucas, of the Jewish Centres Association, proposes to accept Christian aid in establishing the work.

The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings has been making strenuous protests of late against the manner in which Exeter Cathedral is being restored, more especially with reference to the sculpture, which it is declared has been obliterated without reason.

Few men in Europe have had a more striking career than the Rev. Dr. Bishop Cabrera, of the Spanish Reformed Church, who was educated to the Catholic priesthood, but became a volunteer exile to Gibraltar, when he returned to lead the Evangelical party after the revolution in 1868.

A despatch from Cleveland, Ohio, states that according to reports submitted to the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America, the union now has 1,000 branches and over 1,000,000 members. A lecture bureau will be established by the convention, and the doctrine of temperance spread among Catholics throughout America.

An active worker in the church for 75 years, William Roberts, the parish clerk of Woborough, Newton Abbott, Devonshire, England, has just celebrated his 90th birthday, the last 44 years having been an official of the church.

THE AFTERGLOW.

There's an afterglow from the sunset sun
In the western sky when the day is done;
In its shimmering rose gleams the evening star.

Like a Hindu's dream of an avatar;
While a gracious voice seems to summon us
As a silver bell chimes an angel's,
And to echo words on earth before—Go in peace, my child, sleep, but sin no more!

There's an afterglow in a mother's eyes
When her first-born child on her white arm lies;
'Tis a light divine; 'tis a radiance given
To a mother here to a saint in heaven.

For the calm and peace of a mother's love
May be known of her and of God above;
For her new-born child she would lay life down,
And that mystic light is her glowing crown.

There's an afterglow on the hallowed face
Of the dead we loved; there's a wondrous grace,
A majestic calm look of mystery,
That the mountain wears of the deep, deep sea,
And we look on him as poor peasant's may
On a king who goes on his royal way—
With a wistful gaze, with a bowed breath—
In that light that glows through the bars of death.

IN TROUBLE AT BRANTFORD.

Former Lindsay Resident Before Magistrate on Charge of Forgery.

Brantford, August 14. — S. W. Smythe, the ex-traveller of the S. F. Mackinnon Company, who was arrested in this city last week on a charge of forgery, and who pleaded guilty on two charges, namely, of placing a forged check at the R. C. Burns store and at the Bank of Hamilton, was this morning let out on suspended sentence by Magistrate Livingston. Surety for $500 for the appearance of Smythe when wanted was furnished by his friends. Crown Counsel Henderson consented to the decision of the court, and took the view that Smythe did not come within the strictly criminal class and committed the offence when suffering from the effects of a spree. Magistrate Livingston strongly advised the prisoner to take the best out of his experience. The prisoner felt his position keenly. His brother appeared in court. Smythe has had a good reputation, and his father was mayor of Lindsay for four years.

This is a Fact.

When a man is intent upon his own affairs, as he usually is when a solicitor or a canvasser approaches him at his place of business, he sheds the veriest torrent of oral persuasion as water rolls off a duck's back. When the same man is in a receptive frame of mind, with his newspaper before him, printed argument soaks in, and, if potent, makes an indelible impression. One live "add" in a first-class newspaper will do the work of a dozen canvassers.

Afraid of Charivari.
(St. Thomas Times)

Writing on the subject of buffoneries practiced at weddings, both in our country, R. K. Kernighan (The Khan), than whom nobody knows the people of rural Ontario better, has expressed it as his firm belief that many of those farmers who remain bachelors through life, do so because they cannot face the ridicule of their rude acquaintances and the honor of a "shivaree". The Toronto Saturday Night thinks this is true in some cases. The young farmer becomes a terrible fund of sledgehammer wit, and their practical jokes have a robust quality that makes them fearless to a person at all sensitive. Let a person once reveal the fact that he is sensitive, or, as it is locally expressed, "touchy", thereafter he is a mark for every rough jester. Life is full enough on the farm, and there is not much doing in villages, so the people must extract amusement from each opportunity that presents itself. But everywhere people go too far with wedding buffonery, and every sensible man and woman in the country should exert an influence in favor of reform.

They Cure Constipation

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable. We publish the formulae of all our preparations.

Haliburton is All Right.

Bob. Independent: Haliburton is still booming, all four mills we can see, as Can's mill is not far out of the village, in full blast. Cattle being shipped every other day or so. No houses to rent; although lots wanted. Potatoes not too bad; glorious weather, and lots of pretty girls strolling around the streets, so what is the matter with Haliburton? It's bright, and next year it will be better than ever, as the papers say about the shows.

During the last seven months 12,000 men and 8,000 women died in Chicago. It is explained that life in Chicago is too strenuous for man.

It transpires that at first the people of Essex Center did not realize that a dynamite explosion was in their midst, Premier Whitney having once stumbled in that neighborhood.

John McCosh, Orillia, has been appointed deputy clerk of the crown and clerk of the county court, Simon Mr. McCosh has resigned the position of police magistrate at Orillia to accept the two new offices.

The Commercial travellers of five associations have inaugurated a movement to secure the same travelling privileges for their wives as they receive themselves, and an effort will be made to influence the railways to this end.

W. C. Deadman, of Lambeth, has a singular monstrosity in the shape of a young porker, which, while having only one head, has two tongues, two trunks, three sets of teeth, attached to the shoulder, and eight legs. The limbs are perfectly formed in every way.

Recently one of the British armored cruisers did a brilliant piece of work in gunnery. With her two 9.2 inch guns 13 shots each weighing 380 pounds, were fired at a target within a space of two minutes, and of the 13 shots 11 struck the bull's eye painted in the centre of the target.

Ottawa Journal: A Hamilton minister, Rev. J. S. Williamson jumped into fifteen feet of water at Grimsby Park and saved a young woman from drowning. Which was a great deal more like the old church militant than spending one's life in trying to find out whether or not some one is selling peanuts on Sunday.

According to the yearly custom, Japan has sent seven prominent army engineers and managers to America to study the latest improvements in railway transportation. The report is that the Japanese Government will shortly build 6,000 miles of additional railway tracks, making a total of 11,000 miles of roadbed in Japan.

Jean Brunn, of Switzerland, is dead at 102 years of age. Two years ago he celebrated his centennial and in a public speech at a banquet he asserted that he had never kissed any woman excepting his mother. He admitted that he smoked and indulged in an occasional drink, but declared that he was happier than the average man because he had never kissed any woman.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—coaxes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. It's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablet simply distributes the unnatural blood pressure.

Brush your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always is. It's simply common sense. We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend.

Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets

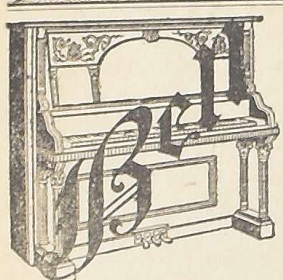

"ALL DEALERS"

Mission of the "Knocker."

An alderman does something wrong. A newspaper mentions the fact. The alderman thereupon grows highly indignant at the newspaper for "knocking," and for "showing up" the wrong that has been done, claiming that the publication of the wrong injures the city in the estimation of outsiders. It is very funny. The above is from the last issue of the Hamilton Spectator. The editor must have picked up an old copy of the Watchman-Warrior, wherein Mayor Vrooman's henchman was saying things about The Post.

Orillia Board of Trade Flag.

Returning from Collingwood, Mr. Geo. Goodwin took the water route taking the steamer at Barrie for Orillia, then via the canal to Kirkfield and Cobocook, and the "Kawartha" to Fenelon Falls. While in Orillia George examined the flag to be presented to Capt. Burgoyne, of the Str. "Kawartha", for carrying the first excursion to Orillia from the Kawartha lakes. The flag—an ensign—is about 4 ft. by 6 ft. of deep blue silk, having in the field the town's crest—two buck deer rampant, shield and motto, "Progress Orillia", neatly done in gold leaf. It is a very fine tribute, and it is quite appropriate that the fittingly named "Kawartha" should be the first bonafide passenger boat to weld the navigation of the two waters. We might add that Mr. Goodwin was instrumental in having this offer made, having written the Orillia Board of Trade to this effect some two weeks prior to the opening of the Kirkfield rift lock.

SISTERHOOD OF ST. JOSEPH

Twelve Novices Made Final Vows, Four Postulants Made Novices

(Peterboro Examiner, Thursday)

The beautiful Chapel of Mount St. Joseph, was the scene of a sublime and impressive ceremony this morning, when four young ladies became novices, renouncing the world, and entering a new life, which they devote entirely to Almighty God.

More important was the ceremony in which four novices, who have been on probation for about two years made their final vows, and are now Sisters of St. Joseph, in every sense. This is the largest number that has ever entered the service of God here at one time, and the chapel was thronged with relatives and friends of the young ladies who were present to offer their congratulations that they had been found worthy to be called to the Sisterhood of St. Joseph.

MASS BY THE BISHOP.

The Chapel was very pretty in its floral, white and gold details, with floral decorations, artistically arranged by some of the Sisters. The two ceremonies were performed by His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, during a low mass, which he celebrated. Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, and Rev. Father McColl, were deacons of honor to His Lordship, and assisted in the sacrifice of the mass. Rev. Dr. O'Brien as Master of Ceremonies, had many duties to perform. The four Postulants, who have been on probation for some months, and who become novices, are: Miss Mary Lalonde, of Cornwall, who received the Sisterhood name of Sister Wilfred.

Miss Lena King, of Thessalon, Sister Mary Francis Xavier.

Miss Mary Kennedy, of St. John's, Newfoundland, Sister Mary Francis Bertha.

Miss Mamie Dalton, Newcastle, N. B., Sister Mary Florence.

The ceremony by which these Postulants were made novices is not only sublime, but it is pathetic. These young ladies appeared in full nuptial attire, accompanied by maids of honor. During the service they were questioned by His Lordship, and expressed the desire to enter the Sisterhood. Soon after they left the Chapel and returned in the humble dress of a Sister of St. Joseph, and were accepted on probation of several years, when, if they are still filled with the holy desire, they take their final vow.

SPIRITUAL BRIDES.

The second ceremony was that in which twelve novices took their final vows of obedience, chastity and poverty. Following is given the names by which they are known to the world and those by which they are known in the Order.

Miss Bridget Ryan, of Renfrew, Sister Mary Celestine.

Miss Gertrude Markle, of Thessalon, Sister Mary Noberta.

Miss Elizabeth Markle, of Thessalon, Sister Mary Constance.

Miss Mary Louisa, of Warkworth, Sister Mary Mercedes.

Miss Allie McCabe, of Grafton, Sister Mary Mildred.

Miss Bridget Laroche, of Mount St. Patrick, Renfrew, Sister Mary Eulalie.

Miss Mary Casey, of Peterboro, Sister Mary Marcella.

Miss Ella Tenham, of London, Sister Mary Delphina.

Miss Mary Ellen Crowley, of Peterboro, Sister Mary Angelica.

Miss Bridget Moreau, of Victoria, Que., Sister Mary Laurencia.

Miss Mary Gannon, of Ennisville, Sister Mary of the Rosary.

Miss Lucy O'Sullivan, of St. Chrysostom, Ont., Sister Mary Francis.

The maids of honor were Misses Ellen Warrington, Mary Galvin, Emma Cook, Marie McCarthy, Florence Groux and Gertrude Condon.

Visiting clergy were: Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Heenan, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan, of Port Hope; Rev. Father Brennan, of St. Mary's; Rev. Father McDonnell, of Alexandria; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Ennisville.

A Band Tournament Judge.

The Port Hope Guide states that Bandmaster Renwick, of the Port Hope band, sent a communication to Mr. Geo. McGuire, the judge at the recent Midland tournament, asking for criticism on his band, and that the judge, in reply, says that he didn't want the Orillia band to appear so inferior, so he marked down the Port Hope band. If this is so, McGuire belongs to a class of band judges who are extremely undesirable. He also advised the addition of several instruments.

Quite a number from here accompanied our baseball team to Fenelon on August 19th, and although the boys did not bring the silver cup home with them, they gave their opponents, Bobcaygeon, winners of the Kawartha League, a run of three fast tourists, the run of their life.

The 'Cayce' boys won out on the luckiest fluke of the season, the ball getting lost and allowing two runs to score.

'Yubie' Cameron pitched good ball for 'Cayce' but was not in it with our own 'Dannie'. Score 4-3.

Both sides did some good fielding. Hartley, raising the hair on spectators' heads when they were off a triple play in the fourth innings.

Now that they had lost the cup, they were anxious to see their pals, Mckenzie's braves from old yearbook, carry it home, but it was not to be, as they, after winning from Bobcaygeon, fell easy victims to the 'Cayce' ones, and some of the Hartley boys are home with nothing for their pains.

The 'Cayce' boys are good sports and Hartley's boys are no less so. A bet of $25 that the 'Invincibles' can put it over them in a nine innings game.

ELDON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

MEMBERS TRANSACTED MUCH BUSINESS AT LAST SESSION

Drainage Matters Came Up for a Lot of Attention

Council met pursuant to adjournment in Plank's Hall, Lorneville, on Saturday, Aug. 10th, at the hour of 11 o'clock a.m. Members all present with Reserve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting of July 15, were read and adopted.

The following reports were received from members of the Council as yet unappointed of last Council meeting:

Reeve Hawkins reported on his and Council Ross' consultation with Horner and Hester McFadyen about the flooding of McFadyen's property, stating they met Messrs. Ross and McFadyen on McFadyen's property, and they, together with Mr. Weeks, went over the ground. The Reeves gave a detailed account of the condition of the grounds and ditches. The matter was fully discussed.

Councillor Ross stated that McFadyen complained to him that there was more water carried through his property from the south on account of the road ditches than would naturally flow there. The matter was left in the hands of the townships solicitor for the present to deal with.

The Reeve and Councillor Ross also reported on the Dan F. and John F. McEachern trouble. They both advised that McEachern's remedy was to start proceedings under the Ditches and Watercourse Act, as the Council could not deepen the road ditches to give them an outlet and at the same time keep within the limit of the statutes.

Councillor Spence reported on the Colin N. McDonald trouble. He drew a plan of the territory, showing the Council the natural water flow, and stated that he could not see that any damage occurred to Mr. McDonald's property on account of the road ditches. No action was taken.

Joseph Staples waited on the Council re the matter of the wire fence erected last year by Christopher Anderson opposite east side of lot 1, con. 6, Eldon, for which the Council refused to allow Anderson any compensation on account of the road allowance not being left the regulation width, as is required by the law of the municipality of Eldon re snow fences. Mr. Staples thought that Mr. Anderson was entitled to receive compensation, for he had measured the road allowance and found it 66 feet wide at the south end of the fence. Part of the fence, as far as he could judge was correct.

The Reeve explained to Mr. Staples that the matter of Anderson's fence had been disposed of last year, but stated that if Mr. Staples had authority for appearing in Mr. Anderson's interest, and if the Council desired to have objection to again appear on the question for discussion, he drew Mr. Staples' attention to the fact that each Councillor had taken the declaration of office and that each one was in duty bound to give every man justice in the discharge of his duty, and when a Councillor reported on the fence in his ward the Council acted solely on his (the Councillor's) report in passing the same.

Councillor Ross stated that he had examined the fence and measured the road allowance in company with Mr. Staples, and found the road allowance too narrow, but said that if Mr. Graham's mill fence on the opposite side of the road was in the correct place, then Anderson's fence was also in the correct place.

Councillor Robinson stated that he had the situation this morning, and to the best of his ability and judgment he would say that Mr. Anderson's fence was on the road allowance, and especially at the north end.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Sawyer & Massey, hoping that it would not be necessary for Mr. Hampson to attend a meeting of the Council in order to get a settlement for the stone crusher.

An application from Wm. Manning for the office of collector for 1907, at a salary of $80.

Mrs. Owen Murphy, asking that her name be placed on the voters' list, and that the Council force Wm. McKenzie to take the oath of office, and also complaining that Mr. Culbert's house is on the road allowance and his family abuse the cattle going by along the road.

From the following, notifying the Council of their intention to erect wire fences as follows: Alex. Matheson, 120 rods along his property; Donald J. Smith, 180 rods along his property; Colin N. McDonald, 115 rods along lot 15, con. 7, Wm. B. Rea, 125 rods along lot 20, fourth quarter road.

RESOLUTIONS.

Gross Negligence Charged in Verdict of Jury at Inquest.

CAUSE OF ESSEX DISASTER

Explosive Was Sent as Ordinary Freight—Employees Took No Extra Precautions—May Institute Criminal Proceedings Against Company—Superintendent Admits Car Was Negligently Handled.

Windsor, Aug. 24.—Gross negligence on the part of the Michigan Central was charged in the verdict of the coroner's jury at the Essex inquest yesterday afternoon. Witnesses were called to trace the car from Black Rock to Essex. The evidence went to show that it was four days on the way, being sent on the morning of Aug. 6, reaching St. Thomas on the evening of Aug. 7, and remaining there until the morning of the ninth, then being shipped to Essex, where it was kept until the next morning—the day of the explosion.

It went all the distance as way freight, stops being made at Welland, St. Thomas and Ridgeway before reaching Essex to unload and receive consignments.

The regulations concerning shipments of explosives were produced and called for special construction of cars. The evidence went to the effect that no precautions were taken by the railway employees.

Six trainmen were called, and only one had seen the regulations. Conductor Barry said it had been the rule to send a despatch ahead of dynamite cars, but this had not been done.

A case of dynamite belonging to the same consignment was produced, and an expert, Frederick Julian, employed by the consignors, the Pluto Powder Co., testified that the dynamite was properly manufactured.

Superintendent Adams of the Michigan Central admitted that the car was not handled as it should have been, but he would not admit the explosion was due to that.

The jury went out 20 minutes before returning the verdict. Crown Attorney Rodd would not make a statement as to whether he would institute criminal proceedings or not.

The verdict against the railway company caused no surprise, particularly in view of the fact that claims agents of the Michigan Central have been on the ground ever since the explosion, quickly making what arrangements for settlement were possible with those whose property was destroyed or damaged. Claims amounting to over $20,000 have already been settled in this way, and it is expected that practically a full settlement will be reached without recourse to the courts.

FOUR MINERS BURIED.

Caught in Cave-In in Pennsylvania Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 24.—Four of the miners who were Thursday caught in a cave-in in No. 14 tunnel of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., near here, are still entombed. The bodies of three were dead. The voice of James Boyle, one of the entombed men, was heard at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, but since then silence has reigned in the vicinity of the cave-in. Boyle's companions are Peter Flynn, John Koenig and Joseph Koenig. The cave-in was caused by a heavy fall of rock. Six men were entombed, but two of them crawled from under some of the debris after several hours. Boyle, one of these Michael Naghton was badly injured, but the other man escaped unhurt. Rescuing parties working in shifts labored all night to free the men still in the mine.

CRASHED INTO BARGE.

Steamer Imperial's Steering Gear Went Wrong.

Montreal, Aug. 24.—The steamer Imperial, belonging to the St. Lawrence Navigation Co., rammed and sank a barge yesterday afternoon in the St. Lawrence River. The Imperial was leaving for Quebec on her regular trip, and had just got nicely started when her steering gear went wrong and she headed at full speed for the dock. Her engines were reversed too late, and she crashed into the barge, which was unloading brick, and sank her. There were six people on board the barge, but they escaped in time. The barge lies 35 feet under water, with 60,000 bricks on board. The Imperial backed off and proceeded on her way to Quebec, as if nothing happened.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The body of Edward McVey, a wealthy contractor, residing in Prairie avenue, was found yesterday in a stairway leading to a basement in a house at 25th and State streets. There were marks of violence on the body, and all money and valuables had been taken.

Killed by Train.

Toronto, Aug. 24.—Alex. McDonald of this city, a foreman in the construction department of the G. T. R., was killed by a train near London yesterday.

He was directing his gang of men and failed to get out of the way of the west-bound Sarnia local. He was hurled 50 feet and had his back and ribs broken, his skull fractured and his collar bone broken. He died in Victoria Hospital, London, a few minutes after arriving there.

Deceased was 70 years of age and had been railroading for thirty years.

MEETS AWFUL DEATH.

Young Man Decapitated in Elevator While at Work.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—While the body of Thomas Davidson descended down the elevator shaft of the Traders' Bank building, his head rested on a cross-beam on the ninth floor, having been severed as though by a guillotine by one of the heavy weights of the elevator.

Davidson, who had been but a short while in this country, engaged at the Traders' Bank building about two weeks ago, to do general work at the building.

Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock he was washing windows and cleaning about one of the elevator shafts, and to do this had to stand on top of the elevator and move it down as he cleaned.

He had reached the ninth floor, when in some way he stuck his head too far out and the weight of the head in the next shaft struck him on the back of the neck. His head was severed by the blow, and the headless trunk fell down the shaft, while the head remained on a cross-beam at the ninth floor.

Nobody seemed to be aware of the accident at the time it happened, but a young man who sells papers in the building on the ground floor heard the body fall to the bottom of the shaft and gave the alarm.

Davidson was 23 years old.

FOUR KILLED—MANY INJURED.

Panic Follows Explosion at Powder Works in 'Frisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Four persons were killed and many injured in an explosion at the Dupont Dynamite works at Berkeley yesterday, and the plant set on fire. When the three thousand employees in the plant of the California Fruit Cannery Association, in this city, heard the explosion they thought there was another earthquake, and rushed wildly for the street. Many were trampled upon and injured, none fatally.

At least thirteen persons were severely hurt at the cannery panic. Ten women were removed to hospitals, and three other women were treated at the cannery.

When the shock of the explosion was first felt, several Italian employees went into the street to investigate. On re-entering the building they said it was an earthquake and this started a stampede.

During the efforts to get outside a few men drew knives and wounded several persons. Others jumped into a chute used to send boxed cans from the second floor of the establishment, and were landed in a heap at the bottom.

ALLOTMENT OF JUDGES.

Union of American Continent in Arbitration Court.

The Hague, Aug. 26.—Joseph H. Choate is working on a new plan for the allotment of judges for the international high court of justice under which the representatives of the United States and those of all the Latin-American countries will form one group. This plan, it is believed, will dissipate any feeling arising from the previous proposed allotment.

This union of the whole American continent, it is considered, would be of great importance, not only in the establishment of the court, but as a great political move, rallying around the United States, as it would, all the states of Central and South America. Such a plan would insure to the court the immediate adherence of 21 countries. Adding to these countries, Germany, Austria, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and Russia, which are also favorable to the proposition, this would give the court the adherence of two-thirds of the countries of the world, without taking into account other countries whose support is most likely, such as the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and Switzerland.

Strike Settled.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—The Valleyfield strike has been settled and the men agreed to return to work this morning. On the whole, the Montreal Cotton Co. has won, as the men have abandoned their demand for 10 per cent. general increase. This was the main dispute in the strike. The company, however, agrees to pay the mule spinners, who are a small part of the strikers, the 10 per cent. advance. The company agrees to submit disputes and claims not properly looked into by foremen to arbitration under the Lemieux Act.

During the strike the cotton mills, employing some 2,500 men, have been closed down.

Douks Causing Trouble.

Kenora, Aug. 26.—The question of what to do with the Doukhobors is growing serious. Saturday the charge of wilfully trespassing on the C. P. R. tracks was brought against the party of 34 at the police court. They pleaded guilty and were remanded in custody until to-day, when it is thought the Government will have to come to some decision in regard to deporting them.

Women and children are allowed their liberty, but they herd around the prison.

Villages Submerged.

Tokio, Aug. 26.—Floods, which are believed to be the heaviest that have been experienced for years, are reported from Central Japan. Some villages have been completely submerged. The extent of the damage done is not known, but it is believed to be very heavy.

FOUGHT IN MID-AIR

J. Hutchinson's Terrible Struggle With Huge Snake.

SWUNG OVER DEEP CHASM

Poisonous Reptile Crawled Down Rope and Attacked Him—Was Preparing to Lay Dynamite Blast—Pit Was One Hundred and Fifty Feet Deep—Fought While Clinging to Rope—Narrow Escape.

New York, Aug. 24.—A despatch to The Herald from Trenton, N. J., says—Half a dozen laborers and fifty or more convicts at the stone quarries of the Mercer County workhouse farm yesterday helplessly watched John Hutchinson, blaster, as he fought for half an hour in mid-air with a big mountain pit snake, a poisonous species, that had crawled down a rope ladder to attack him as he was swinging half-way to the bottom of a chasm one hundred and fifty feet in depth, preparing to place a dynamite blast.

None was able to render aid, and Hutchinson was obliged to fight alone until he beat off the reptile with a small drill. The swinging of the rope spoiled his aim and he missed. He struck again and again, the snake's progress was impeded, and finally it uncoiled from the rope and dropped to the pit below.

Hutchinson signalled for help and was drawn to the top in an almost exhausted condition. As he stepped back two other pit snakes struck at him, but his heavy boots blocked their fangs. They were quickly killed.

He slipped the dynamite into his pocket, and as the snake dropped within his reach he struck it with a small drill. The swinging of the rope spoiled his aim and he missed. He struck again and again, the snake's progress was impeded, and finally it uncoiled from the rope and dropped to the pit below.

Hutchinson signalled for help and was drawn to the top in an almost exhausted condition. As he stepped back two other pit snakes struck at him, but his heavy boots blocked their fangs. They were quickly killed.

MURDERER WAS FOILED.

Victim's Prayers Led to Timely Arrival of Assistance.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—Prayer prevented the escape of a prisoner from the Mt. Holly jail early yesterday morning. George R. Clark, who recently attempted to murder Thomas J. Barrell, had his plans to flee from the institution, but his threat to kill Joseph Misler, his cell-mate, proved his undoing.

Clark was engaged in removing bricks from a chimney in his cell. The noise awoke Misler, and when Clark realized that his effort to escape had been discovered, he removed the blade from a razor, rushed toward Misler and commanded him to pray, saying: "I am going to kill you and then commit suicide."

Misler prayed so fervently that Charles Williams, a "trustee" prisoner, heard his voice. Williams summoned Deputy Sheriff Fleetwood and Turkey Gaskell, and the crime was frustrated.

KILLED BY COUNTERFEITERS.

Deserter From French Army Brutally Murdered.

Palermo, Aug. 24.—The finding yesterday of two half-burned chests containing portions of a human body in the forest of Belletempo brought to light a brutal murder and led to the discovery of an extensive plant for the manufacture of spurious bank notes. Italy has recently been flooded with counterfeit money. The victim of the murder was identified as Henry Francois, a deserter from the French army.

A local engraver, his wife and two merchants were arrested both as the assassins and as counterfeiters. The motive of the crime is alleged to have been the fear of betrayal by Francois, who was a member of the gang.

Two Fires at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Aug. 23.—Two fires yesterday, caused by the explosion of gasoline in clothes' pressing establishments, caused damage estimated at $250,000, and for a time threatened the entire east end section of this city. The three-storey brick building was destroyed, and 14 employees were rescued from the windows by firemen.

The second fire, before it was under control, wiped out seven buildings.

Four men were hurt during the fighting of the fire.

Italian Gets 18 Months.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—Antonio Bardesci, for stabbing Arthur Charbonneau 12 times with a stiletto, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Gunn to eighteen months in Central Prison. The prisoner shielded others in the affair, and the judge suggested that these men should see that Bardesci's wife and family did not suffer. He has five little children.

Jealous Farm Hand.

Trumbull, Conn., Aug. 23.—Lucas Kopinski, a married farm hand, yesterday shot and killed Lillian Mallett, aged 55 years, because she had promised to marry another farm hand. He then set fire to the shed containing the body, which was rescued before the flames consumed it. He was arrested.

Tariff With Australia.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—It is stated that the Acting Minister of Trade and Commerce has for the past two weeks been in daily communication by cable, under the direction of the Canadian Government, with Mr. L. Mallett, aged 55 years, because she had promised to marry another farm hand. He then set fire to the shed containing the body, which was rescued before the flames consumed it. He was arrested.

Youth Drowns.

POWER OF THE LORDS

Question to Be Forced to an Early Issue.

FEW MEASURES ARE PASSED

Serious Political Problem in Britain—Cabinet Ministers Make Vigorous Speeches—Will Ask the Electors for Verdict—Bills Thrown Out by the Upper House—Campaign for Reform Outlined.

London, Aug. 26.—Of the many measures promised in the King's speech at the opening of the present session of Parliament, which will be prorogued next Wednesday, but few have reached the statute books.

Like the education bill and the plural voting bill, the most prominent measures of the last session, and which were thrown out by the House of Lords, the Irish council bill, which was to have been the most important piece of legislation at this session, met with early defeat, but in a different way. The education and plural voting bills gave the Liberals an opening for a campaign against the House of Lords, which is the subject of the speeches of Herbert H. Asquith, former Home Secretary, Richard B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell, Winston Churchill, at various meetings throughout the country Saturday night, is to be carried on vigorously during the recess.

A licensing bill, the object of which was to have been to diminish the evils of drink—another question on which the two Houses promised to clash, and on which the King's speech intimated would come up during the session—was put off on account of the pressure of work; but the Government found in the Scotch small landholders' bill, which Lord Rosebery made his reappearance to attack, a substitute which the House of Commons passed by a large majority, but which was withdrawn by the Government on account of the antagonistic attitude of the peers and the antagonism shown in Scotland and throughout the kingdom by the Labor party. This action of the House of Lords becomes a weapon for attack in the campaign for the reform of the Upper Chamber.

The Irish universities' bill, which also was catalogued in the King's speech, has not yet been introduced.

Among other bills which came up was the Irish evicted tenants' bill, which the House of Lords so radically amended that there is little likelihood of the House of Commons finally accepting it in its altered condition.

London, Aug. 26.—That it is the intention of the Government to force the question of curtailing the power of the House of Lords to an issue was made apparent in speeches delivered in various parts of England Saturday.

Herbert H. Asquith, former Home Secretary, Richard B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell, and Winston Churchill, all emphasized in their speeches that the claim of the House of Lords on equal legislative rights with the House of Commons was the most serious political question of the day.

Mr. Churchill, in speaking at Cheshire, near Manchester, said that the bills rejected by the House of Lords would be re-passed by the House of Commons without delay until the time came to ask the country for a verdict.

Speaking at Corsham, Mr. Asquith asked if the people intended to allow the leader of a discredited minority in the House of Commons to strangle the bills and add to the miseries of the people. He declared that the Government proposed to give the ultimate power to the House of Commons, making it prevail during the course of a single Parliament.

YOUNG LAD SUICIDES.

Eleven-Year-Old Boy Blows His Head Off.

Fairmont, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Charles, the 11-year-old son of Constable M. M. Lawson, committed suicide at his home at Winfield by shooting.

The boy bade his mother good-bye and walked away, but nothing was thought of it until a little later the report of a gun was heard near the house, and upon rushing out Mrs. Lawson found her son with his head almost blown off.

No cause for the suicide is known.

TRUCK CO. BURNED OUT.

Big Blaze in Toledo Causes $200,000 Damage.

Toledo, O., Aug. 26.—Fire of unknown origin which started in the upper storeys of the Moreton Truck and Storage building, a five-storey brick building at 234-236 Huron street, caused a loss last night estimated at about $150,000 to $200,000.

The building was occupied by the International Harvester Co., a restaurant and other small concerns. The fire made rapid progress. The building occupied by the Toledo Club and the newspaper offices of The News-Bee and The Times were filled with smoke and threatened with destruction. The loss is well covered by insurance.

Girls in Factories.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council of Ottawa the statement was made that girls of 10 and 12 years of age are employed in local mica factories to the detriment of their health and in contravention of the Factories Act, and that in one case at least the reward for eleven days' service amounted to only $2.13.

The Ottawa delegates to the next Dominion Trades and Labor Congress will urge for united action on the part of the Federal and Provincial authorities for an increase in the appointment of factory inspectors, and that the latter be given unlimited powers both in regard to inspection and prosecution.

Sutherland Withdraws.

St. Thomas, Aug. 26.—F. Sutherland, the West Elgin Liberal nominee for the House of Commons, has intimated that he will not contest the seat.

CHAOS IN MOROCCO

Sultan's Brother Marching to Meet the French Troops.

A GERMAN SHIP CAPTURED

Was Carrying Cargo of Rifles Under Cover of Spanish Flag—Desperate Encounters With Tribesmen—Arabs Display Reckless Courage—Mowed Down by Hundreds—Europeans Ask for Warship.

Casablanca, Aug. 26.—Absolute fearlessness continues to characterize the attacks delivered by the tribesmen upon the French forces encamped here, and Friday bands of Arabs made isolated reckless advances. A detachment of one hundred natives, while stealing in toward the city, were ambushed near the beach by the French. A merciless fire mowed them down. Those who were not killed fled precipitately, but many dead were left behind. Those who face the French shell fire do not return.

Continuing his offensive campaign, Gen. Drude Saturday pushed his reconnoitering parties four miles out from his centre. The main body of the enemy was not sighted.

Mulai Hafis's Plans.

Tangier, Aug. 26.—A courier from Morocco City, who arrived here Saturday, confirmed the reports that Mulai Hafis, a brother of the Sultan, Abd Hel Asiz, had been proclaimed Sultan on Aug. 16. After announcing his assumption of the throne, by a salute of four guns he immediately formed a court, with Ben Jabbao Ourask, Pasha of Kasbah, as Vizier.

The influence of Abd Hel Asiz in the south is disappearing, and Mulai Hafis has declared his intention to appoint his brother, Mohammed Kalifoff, and then proceed to take command of the Moorish forces besieging Casablanca.

The Europeans who are leaving Fez have asked that a warship meet them at El Arish Aug. 30.

German Vessel With Rifles.

London, Aug. 26.—A despatch from Tangier to the Central News says the French cruiser Du Chayla arrived there yesterday with a German sailing ship which she had captured off the Moroccan coast.

The sailing vessel was flying the Spanish colors when the Du Chayla sighted her. The captain of the cruiser did not like the appearance of the ship and sent a party to board her. They found that the vessel, which was a German, was carrying a cargo of French rifles of the Gros pattern. It is stated that the arms are the property of the Moroccan Government, and were being taken to Mogador.

REVOLT IN ARGENTINA.

Governor of San Luis Is Taken Prisoner and New Governor Appointed.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina, Aug. 26.—A local revolution broke out Saturday night in the City of San Luis, capital of the Province of San Luis, a town of 11,000 inhabitants, and situated about 140 miles southwest of Buenos Ayres.

The chief of police was the leader of the insurrection, and the governor and other provincial authorities were made prisoners. The insurrectionists immediately chose a new governor, named Adare and installed him in office.

News from San Luis last night reports that complete quiet has been restored and further disturbances are not anticipated.

Killed in Auto Accident.

Sanderstown, R. L., Aug. 26.—W. Waldo Merrill, a Boston stock broker, and Eric Landstrom of Mattapan, Mass., a chauffeur, were killed yesterday by the over turning of an automobile, which crashed into a stone wall at a sharp curve in the road leading to Narragansett pier. Four other occupants of the touring car, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Milliken of Milton, Mass., their daughter, Miss Rita Milliken, and Mrs. Merrill, wife of W. Waldo Merrill, escaped with slight injuries, although Miss Milliken is believed to have sustained a fracture of the wrist.

Meat Drivers' Strike.

New York, Aug. 26.—Yesterday was one of peace so far as the striking meat wagon drivers was concerned. The strikers gathered in the vicinity of the packing-houses, but were kept moving by the police and created no disturbance.

Both the strikers and the packers held meetings during the day, but there were no definite results announced. The men claim to have the delivery of meat tied up completely, but the packers state they have a large number of men, and that their business will go on to-day practically as usual.

Denver Train Wrecked.

Grand Junction, Col., Aug. 26.—It was reported last night that the second section of a Denver & Rio Grande passenger train, bound from Salt Lake City to Denver, was derailed near Prevo, Utah, yesterday afternoon, and that several passengers were killed and injured.

A severe storm prevails and details are lacking.

HAS THE BEST TARIFF

Declares Mr. Asquith, Speaking of Canada.

BRITAIN AND PREFERENCE

Chancellor of Exchequer Says None Can Be Given on Staple Foods or Raw Materials—Colonies Cannot Admit Competition on the Same Level With Their Own Industries—Praises Sir Wilfrid.

London, Aug. 26.—Mr. Asquith, speaking on Saturday night, referred to Laurier's pronouncement that none but British would have given autonomy to South Africa. Laurier, he said, then spoke with the voice of empire, not with the voice of the small, disappointed faction at home.

Alluding to preference, Mr. Asquith said the United Kingdom couldn't adopt any form of preference involving taxation on corn, meat and raw material and the colonists, on their part, could give no form of preference which would admit the British manufacturer or level terms into competition with their own protected industries. That was the principle upon which the Canadian, best of all colonial tariffs, was based.

Its principle is still more conspicuous than the new Australian tariff.

If the Government left office to-day he would wish them to be judged by whether they hadn't justified the confidence of the nation in colonial administration.

UNIONIST TRIUMPH.

Election at Bury St. Edmunds Won on Tariff Issue.

Bury St. Edmunds, Eng., Aug. 26.—The Unionists scored a triumph here Saturday when their candidate for a seat in the House of Commons, Hon. Walter Guinness, received 1,631 votes as against 741 cast for W. E. Yates, the Liberal candidate. This is a majority of 890 as against the majority of 434 obtained by Capt. F. W. G. Hervey, Unionist, in the last general election.

Capt. Hervey succeeded to the peerage upon the death of the Marquis of Bristol, and the seat consequently became vacant.

The campaign attracted a great deal of interest, and was fought out on the question of tariff reform. Mr. Guinness is an out and out protectionist.

TRIED TO JUMP TRAIN.

Falls Under Wheels and Was Horribly Mangled.

Hamilton, Aug. 26.—J. Culp was instantly killed and his body horribly mangled just east of the G. T. R. station at Beamsville Saturday. The unfortunate young man is about 20 years of age, and his home was in Beamsville.

He, with a number of other young men about the town, were employed for the day by the Woodman Bros., the contractors who have charge of the Cataract Power Co.'s system of wires, the main line of which runs on the G. T. R. right of way. A freight train came along and Culp tried to board it. He fell under the wheels and his body was horribly mangled.

BASEBALL

C. L. S. 10—Oriental 2.
With their clutches just on the sill-ward for 1907, the Orientals were forced to loosen their grasp when the C.L.S. defeated them last week by the better dose of 10-2.

The evening was a trifle cool for baseball, and a north-east wind was blowing, which made one long for his last year's overcoat with an intense yearning. The crowd was a large one, but fairly liberal, contributing nearly $6 for the needs of the league. Of this the ladies gave their little share, and Joe Roderick is to buy the ice cream for them next summer.

To revert to the game—or rather slaughter—the Orientals put up the gunky, punk, punkiest ball they have exhibited this summer, and for one bad mess, they played decently. The opposition, played decently, but their hitting was the feature. By this win the C. L. S. are now tied for the championship honors with one game to play, with the Wideawakes.

It was just like getting money from home in a box car for the game and money last night. The team was hit hard by the Easterners was a jumpy one. Bosses Dwyer is just summing over with happiness, and has taken a new lease of life.
The Oriental supporters little expected the set-back, but still retain the utmost faith in their pets.

In justice to the Orientals it must be said they were as far off color as they could possibly get. Their deficits by the Sylvesters seemed to have taken the heart out of them.
The horseshoe must surely have been lost. Suggitt was sore and stiff and pitched a poor game. Their hitting was fair, but out of place.

Duck pitched the game of his life for the winners and fielded his position with surprising accuracy. He had seven assists and no errors. O-Neil, Cain and Killen cover yards of ground in the infield, while Leo Cole in the central garden, had a feat on every fly. The surprise of the evening, however, was McIlhenny on first, who certainly deserves credit for the brand of ball put up.

The Orientals came first to bat and went out 1, 2, 3 on pop hits. The C.
L. S. started right from the word go, and pitched up runs. Four batters were out in the first. Cole got first and O'Neil advanced him. Cain bitting him between short and third and scoring the others. Cain and O'Neil also scored. In the second Kiddie drove out a two-bagger for the Wideawakes. Parkins got a hit and Suggitt's hit and a wild return home brought in two runs after two were out. Suggitt was nailed at the plate as he was about to complete the circuit. This was the only scoring the Orientals did. The C. L. S. pitched in one more in the second, three in the third and two in the fourth for luck.

WIDEAWAKES 10, C. L. S. 6.
The Wideawakes are "hoo-dooed"— decidedly so, the C. L. S. think. The latter received a severe drubbing at their hands last week. Darkness was made the excuse to retire in dispute.

The crowd that assembled to witness the contest was a large one.
Both teams did their full quota of rotators, but the C. L. S. supporters had not much of a chance to exhibit their vocal powers. They did their best for their nine, however.

The Wideawakes took a notion to swat the leather, and as soon as they loosened up, the C. L. S. went straight up on an aerial trip. Langdon, of the Wideawakes, was the heavy hitter of the evening, and drove the ball out twice for two and three-baggers.
"Melly" Moynes, Soanes, Hugges and Williams took their turn in making good drives. Two runs were tallied in the second to the C. L. S. one in the fourth was where the real excitement occurred, and when the smoke cleared, the red and greys had hammered out six runs.

The C. L. S. got two in the third and three in the fourth. The Wide-awakes then came to bat for the last time and scored two runs, and a man was on third with none out, when the C. L. S. quit, refusing to play, and Umpire Butler called the game.
A half innings more had to be played.

The game was a complete surprise to the C. L. S., who never dreamed of their opponents showing such form as they did last night. Killen and O'Neil were decidedly off color for the C. L. S. the former mishandling the ball four times, each error being costly.

The Wideawakes strenuously objected to leaving the game unfinished, as the C. L. S. had been doing all in their power to prolong the last innings. Duck going so far as to throw the ball over the fence, playing for darkness. Just one half an innings more had to be played but the Wide-awakes appeared to have too big a lead and Manager Jos. Dwyer asked that the game be called.

Along the base lines, particularly the first base line a very hot game and their conduct was disgraceful at times, they hurled epithets at the players.

Koyl for the Wideawakes pitched a good hard game. His support was listless at times.

PETERBORO 6—LINDSAY 4.

These old-time rivals met for the second time of the season on the Peterboro diamond August 22, and the "Peters" pulled out two runs in the good.

In the holiday season it was hard to get nine players together and a pitcher was not available, but Poay Workman jumped into the breach and pitched a whirlwind of a game.
The locals led by a good margin at several stages of the game, but a few juicy errors gave the Electric City side the game.

That the score was so close came as a surprise to local fans. Fast fielding and good batting, however, helped the locals.

Flaherty, Burns and Burridge were on the points for Peterboro and were touched up frequently. Quinlan's wizd arm was saved for Port Hope's benefit Saturday.

PETERBORO—LINDSAY GAME.

Examiner: In an exhibition game that was utterly devoid of any exciting features, the local ball team yesterday beat Hero. Workman's band of Lindsay Red Stockings by 5 runs to 4, before a fair sized crowd, who seemed to have left their voices and their enthusiasm at home. The game was not as interesting as the close score would lead one to believe, the fielding being rather loose. The Red Socks led for the greater part of the game, being two to the good in the first of the eighth. Peterboro got two in their half and won out in the ninth with one down.

The locals had a patched up lineup and did not play their best strappy game. Bad errors gave Lindsay several runs, and on the other hand, poor base running let the locals several counters. The men newer forgot Saturday's game with Cobourg, and did not exert themselves very much.

A DIFFICULT FEAT.

Jimmy Ryan, while playing right field for Chicago, performed a clever feat, leaping into the bleachers at Washington and capturing a fly. But Ryan's greatest catch was made on the old Staten Island grounds. The centre field there was built over the beach and was an inclined plane of boards, which slanted up from the field. Ryan, who was playing in right, saw a home line drive going outward. The centre fielder, who had run almost to the edge of the bleachers, stopped. Ryan, however, thought he could reach the ball. He raced across and up, leaped, and with the ball, disappeared over the edge of the bleachers. His feat mates ranked to the rescue. Ryan was standing in three feet of water, as the tide was at flood, and holding the ball. He waded out and, in spite of the ardent protest of the Metropoli-tans, was awarded the catch.

A NEW AILMENT.

Every once and awhile some versatile genius crops up in baseball and hands out something new.
A Mr. A. J. Kennedy, a Philadelphia pitcher, has invented a new ailment.
Kennedy, whose arms and shoulders have apparently been bad, has just been looked over by a physician. The doctor says that the muscles back of Kennedy's shoulders are so abnormally developed that they have pushed one of his ribs out of position. The doctor replaced the rib and Kennedy is now out of business altogether.
The only fear now is that some brilliant talker may overdo the muscles of his face talking to the umpire
and wrench his jaw bone out of place.

TOIT CAUGHT FOR COBOURG.

In a Midland League game in Peterboro on Saturday, the home team defeated Cobourg by 14 runs to 6.
Jack Toit, formerly of the Toronto Eastern League team, caught for Cobourg, while the Peters battled their pitchers out of the box. Cobourg developed that they have pushed one of his ribs out of position. The doctor replaced the rib and Kennedy
is now out of business altogether.
The only fear now is that some brilliant talker may overdo the muscles of his face talking to the umpire
and wrench his jaw bone out of place.

A TEAM IN HIMSELF.

This season has demonstrated the fact that the great Honus Wagner, of Pittsburgh, is without a doubt the mightiest ball player in the business from every point of view. His only rival for years has been Lajoie, but the repeated injuries that the Frenchman has sustained every year put him out of the running.

THE COMMITTEE'S DECISION.

The T. B. L. executive committee met last Monday and considered the record of the C. L. S. Wideawake game. The game was ordered to be played over again from the fourth innings to the seventh. The score at that period of the game being 6-8 in the Wideawakes' favor.

C. L. S. 7, WIDEAWAKES 4.

Excitement, more, and that is putting it very mildly, was shown at last Monday's ball game. The C. L. S. in full strength and an additional Cote, were there with a merry band of fans and rosters, certain of pulling down the two run lead of the Wide-awakes from the game of Friday last.
Wideawakes appeared with seven men only, two of their number, Nesbitt and Koyl, not showing up at all.
Koyl was away for some unaccountable reason; Nesbitt was missing, though he was in town. It did not struggle the team, but left the Wideawakes open for a protest, as they used two men without authorization, Stoddard and N. Menzies.

The Wideawakes opened up on Duck in the first innings for three well-earned runs and things looked good for Dicky Butler's Braves, but the C. L. S. came back strong with the willow, and with the aid of a few errors thrown in, scored six runs, leaving them one to the good all round. The Wideawakes then got down to business after being retributed in order in second innings.
The Wideawakes, with a succession of third innings, with a succession of hits and good base running, they tallied three more runs, putting them in the lead. The C. L. S. came to bat for their last innings, and on an overthrow, J. O'Leary made the out-cut. Right here, let it be said, Langdon, who proved to be a find, got down to business, and with a man on third, which, if he scored would have tied the game, struck out the hard hitting O'Leary and Duck.

Great excitement prevailed all through the game and either team were likely to win at any stage, as they both appeared to have their batting clothes on.

THE C.L.S. PROTEST.

To the President and Executive Committee of the Lindsay Town League:

Dear Sirs.—On behalf of the C. L. S.
Baseball Club, I wish to protest the game played on Aug. 27th, on the following grounds:

1st.—Playing Stoddard, who is a member of the Orientals.
2nd.—Playing Menzies without a certificate.

3rd.—I maintain the executive have no power to change an umpire's decision on a game, as was done in this case, thereby making the position of umpire a farce.—Signed,

JOS. DWYER,
Manager C. L. S., B.B.C.

FOR THE FANS

The Maybes and Express Nine tonight.

Doc Newton won his game for New York recently.

Harris, the Providence pitcher, is a clever man.

Report bills Rube Kissinger for New York next season.

Burns, Peterboro's catcher, counts
the ball in great shape.

Workman struck Burridge out twice yesterday in Peterboro.

"They're lightning on bases" said Capt. Bert Menzies of the Peterboro club.

Herb Workman left for Sutton last night to play a game for that town's nine.

Sentelle, known as "Peaucluck", of fame as a third baseman, may play with Toronto.

Pounds the Toronto pitcher, who will report next spring, has won twelve and lost eight games for Harrieburg in the Tri-State.

Mitchell of Cincinnati was a wee-bit under the weather Tuesday. The best he could do was to clip out three singles, a double and a home run.

The Express Nine trimmed the May-bes August 21, to the tune of 7 to 2.
The winners played stellar ball and are going to make a bid for the Henley trophy.

The Massey-Harris baseball team, of Toronto, are negotiating for a game here on Labor Day with the Sylvesters. Mr. Percy Skitch, formerly of Iowa, figures on the Toronto line-up.

American League news just now runs about 80 per cent slump. The Naps have had their regular mid-season slump; the Tigers are being played for their fall slump; Washington and St. Louis are in their chronic slump condition, while the Pirates are slumping sporadically and at not too great intervals.

The secret of successful batting has been discovered by Frank Chance. Hit the ball in the eye, he says. Other authorities say hit the ball on the nose, still others hit it in the soles of the feet, while there are those who declare that the only correct and resultable spot to apply the bat is the trade mark.

Walter Johnson, the new pitcher of the Washingtons, who has done excellent work in the two games he has pitched for the Cantillons, is described by Jack Warner as being of loose build and with a free, easy delivery. "He reminds me more of Christy Mathewson than anybody else," says Warner, "and has a barrel of speed."

They have not got room enough for the spectators who crowd to the ball games in Detroit. A big planing mill and lumber yard, adjoining the park back of right and centre fields, has been leased, and the ground has been leveled, and the fence will be moved back about 150 feet. Though no more seats can be provided, there will be plenty of standing room. The diamond is to be moved out this fall and a double-decker grandstand erected during the winter.

Here is how the New York correspondent of Sporting News hands it out to our old friend, "Doc" Newton:
"Newton looked to me as if he had just tumbled out of bed when Griffith sent him to the pitch. He acted as if he had a pain in his head and he looked some fat ones over the pitch, which the Browns hammered all over the lot. Griffith, however, allowed the physician to stay in the box until the visitors had made three runs to win the game. Then Chebro went to the slab and did fine work."

Eddie Karger made a new record for the present season in both major leagues in the second game when he lost Boston down without a hit in the seven innings this contest went. Not only that, but he did not give a single free pass, not a runner reached first, and it was a pity that the game was not allowed to go the full nine innings, as he was going in such magnificent fashion that it was altogether a pity that he would have lost the two remaining innings in the style he pitched the seven. McGilguy's share of the record-breaking lay in the fact that he won two consecutive games on two consecutive days, a feat which has not been performed in either major league this season.
As for the Cardinals, the team smashed its own winning record for the season to smithereens by winning five straight games, six out of the last seven, and getting an even break on the score at home, with nine games won and nine games lost.—St.
Louis Globe-Democrat.

HOCKEY

The International Hockey League, of Lake Linden, Mich., has refused the offer of a handsome cup to be played for as emblematic of the international championship, the men financing the League not wishing to endorse liquor in any form.

RUNNING.

Tom Longboat failed to lower the American four-mile record Aug. 22,
the Indian is erratic.

"Curly" Elliott, the "winged mid-gut", will once more run against the pick of Victoria and Holliburn counties in the five mile race during the fair this fall.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

Miss May Sutton, the champion woman tennis player, is in Toronto.

O. H. Latremouille, of the Toronto police force, is the champion athlete of the police forces of Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

THE ROAD RACE.

The five-mile road race, billed for the Agricultural exhibition this fall promises to be a drawing card. Many contestants are taking part. The race takes place on the last day of the fair, the start taking place from the foot of Kent-st. at 1 o'clock. The course is up Kent-st. to Adelaide-st. to the Agricultural Park. The race to be finished on the half-mile track.
The first prize is a gold watch, second a silver watch.

A THOUSAND-MILE WALK.

For the benefit of science, Dan O-Leary, 62 years old, pedestrian, who has walked a total of 92,000 miles during his lifetime, will attempt to walk a thousand miles in 1,000 consecutive hours on a Cincinnati track.
The track will be padded with tan bark, and in the centre will be a tent with provisions where O'Leary will rest each hour after he has completed the mile. Each day physical examinations will be made and a record kept. Local physicians declare it impossible for a man to accomplish the feat, but O'Leary says he will do it. The start will be made next week.

IN CAMP AT "MUD TURTLE."

Lindsay Party 'Revell'ing in Ozone and Pure Enjoyment.

Camp Iola, Mud Turtle Lake,
Camp Iola is situated on Little Mud Turtle Lake, near what they call the "Chutes", some three miles above Coboconk, and is composed of eight joyful fellows, as follows: Messrs. C. Revall, W. Revell, Lindsay, T. Revell, Cleveland; J. Watson, Leamington;
A. Fisher, C. Fisher, B. Terry, W.
Perkins, Lindsay.

Since arriving the fishing has been splendid. The first day Camp Revall caught a 10-lb. lunge, and on Thursday Bill Revell caught a 4-lb.
loose.

Thursday the two "redskins", Cam Revall and Bill Perkins went to Coboconk after grub. The charms of the Cobocook sign proved irresistible, and consequently they didn't get home till after dark. The rest of the boys at camp had to get out and gather grasshoppers for bait next morning.

Miss B. Brown, Lindsay, and lady friend visited the camp on Saturday.
Mr. C. Perkins and Mr. M. H. Revall, of Lindsay, spent Sunday at camp.

These Revells, commonly known as "Teddy", arrived from Cobocook on Tuesday.

Mr. Jas. Watson, of Leamington, had the misfortune to upset out of the canoe. He got wet and sported around in pajamas for the balance of the day.

The boys visited the Holland camp a mile up the river, on Tuesday evening, and had a splendid time telling fish stories around the camp fire.
Some of the boys are leaving for Friday morning at five for Scudville Lake, some twenty miles above, for a two days' fish. The fish story will follow later.

"Chet" Terry has gained five pounds since coming to camp.
A grand regatta was held on Tuesday on Big Mud Turtle Lake, and "Hornet" Revall carried off the honors in the revell race.

In reference to the cooking department, we must not forget to mention Mr. Fisher, who excels in making apple sauce. "CAMP SCRIBE"

WORE FUR COATS AT CHURCH

But Crops in the West are Still Safe
From Frost.

The following from the Peterboro Examiner refers to a gentleman who formerly resided in Mariposa, and was well known in Lindsay:

Mr. Wm. Eyres, who is largely interested in farming in the Canadian West, is receiving daily reports of the conditions there, and he stated to the Examiner that so far he had been notified of no serious frost, and the crops were represented to be satisfactory in the majority of cases.
It is true that at Red Deer there was snow on Sunday and at Calgary a lady wore her fur coat to church —still it might have been a new one —but there was very little frost, certainly not enough to do any injury to the crops, and Mr. Eyres is confident that the western wheat will come through the ordeal in good condition. The danger point has not yet been passed, but it will only be a matter of a few days.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, '07

YOU ARE INVITED.

During Lindsay's big fair, which takes place on the 19th, 20th and 21st of next month, many of our subscribers will visit town. To all such we extend a hearty welcome to see "The Post" in its new home. We think we have fine premises, and we wish to have the pleasure of showing our friends what a modern, well equipped office their family paper has.

OUR VANISHING NAVIGATION

The lowness of the water in the river is causing our citizens so much annoyance that The Post called upon Superintendent McClelland, of Peterboro, to learn what we could of the trouble and any prospective remedy. Mr. McClelland said that his men had let away, within the last few days, a large quantity of water that had been stored in small lakes up north, and that Balsam and Orono lakes were now at flood level. This water should now be flowing into Sturgeon Lake, and in a day or so the water should raise several inches. He also said evaporation had been so great this season, coupled with the continued lack of rain, that water was not available to maintain the normal level.

The Post also telephoned Bobbysgon, and learned that there is a very bad leak in the dam at Little Bob that is losing fully as much water as is entering Sturgeon Lake. If this be correct, there can be little relief expected this season, but we understand an amount has been provided to replace the present dam during the coming winter with a new one.

THE SHUB VICOROUS.

The other day, remarks an exchange, when the announcement was made that Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, was about to set out on a political pilgrimage throughout the country, the Montreal Star, whose management is said to have been entrusted with some election arrangements of importance to the party, volunteered some fatherly advice as to the wisdom of carefully choosing his associates. It said:

Two members whom Mr. Borden should certainly leave at home are Hon. Mr. Foster, of Toronto, and Mr. Fowler, of New Brunswick. In the former the people have lost confidence, and the latter has no business to go before a popular audience as the representative of a great party until he makes good his insinuations uttered on the floor of parliament.

This utterance on the part of the Star was well received by the Tory organs generally, and not a word was heard in protest against the proposal to avoid defilement by excluding these men from the leader's entourage. Mr. Borden, however, has opened his campaign, and one of his first acts is to invite Mr. Foster, the excommunicated, to be his companion and fellow-spokesman in his Maritime tour.

What does it mean? What is Foster's power over Borden that he should thus disregard the advice—shall we say, dictum—of Mr. Hugh Graham, of the Star, chief party ranger, and call the Man with a Fast to his arms? Is it a hint to Mr. Graham to take up a more modest position in the rear? Is it due to sheer lack of brains and ability in the party? Or can it be that Mr. Borden's Northwest trip in association with the land-grafting party had in it anything which might lead him to wish to avoid the slightest appearance of reflecting on Foster or risking his antagonism?

Will Fowler, too, be asked to join the party? And what will the Star say? The affront to it cannot be explained away. One can almost imagine Foster's face taking on some thing as nearly like a smile, as ever lights up his funeral gloom, as he looks in the direction of Montreal and makes strange signs with his thumb at his nose. The Star is to be heard from.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TRAINING.

The Catholic Register is impelled by recent experiences to advocate the use of the higher or secondary schools by the Catholic scholars, remarks the Kingston Whig. Our contemporary is delighted with the splendid standing of the scholars in the entrance examinations, a standing which is not confined to any city or district in the province. The Catholic schools have been greatly improved in their teaching force, so that there is the evidence of the higher standing which is taken by the pupils of the separate schools.

Encouraged by this fact the Register does not see why the Catholic people should content themselves with the education which is granted in the primary schools. "Truth and custom," says our contemporary, "have somehow magnified and misinterpreted the 'entrance' as the point where school life closes, instead of regarding it in its true sense as the beginning or entrance to knowledge. For such it really is. All before is out a preparation to the understanding of things that make for effectiveness in the race of life. For years there has been talk of a Catholic high school for Toronto. If every child whose right it now is to attend a high school asserts that right by presenting itself for the tuition the high school affords, accommodation for so doing must and will be provided. Unanimity in this matter will benefit not alone the individual child, but our Catholic youth generally. From every point of view the path to follow at the opening of the next school term is plainly for every successful candidate to present himself or herself for admission to the secondary school."

In Toronto the high schools are crowded, and there is not, as in Kingston, a high school which is maintained by the Catholic people without aid from the government or the city. The ambition is to excel, however, and the idea is gathering force that there is something in the teaching of the Separate schools—the zeal or ardour of the teachers, the energy put into their works—which is showing its effects all over the province.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Japanese are forging ahead. In 1890 it was reported that 55.06 per cent. of the boys and 59.04 per cent. of the girls of school age were attending school—figures which had increased five years later to 93.50 and 89.88 respectively. During the school year 1903-4 (the latest for which we have figures) 94,500,000 was spent on public education, and 5,978,121, or 93.23 per cent. of the children, boys and girls combined, of school age were recorded as receiving elementary instruction. Such a people will not fail to make rapid progress.

POINTERS FOR SPORTSMEN

Hunting on Sunday Will Invite Action by Game Warden.

As Sept. 1st, the opening day for the shooting of duck, plover and snipe, falls on Sunday next, it is possible that a few of our sportsmen may feel tempted to let fly at the birds on that day if they happen to come across a flock, instead of waiting until the next morning, as the law demands. For the benefit of such Game Warden Bradshaw asks us to publish the following clause of the Fish and Game Act:

Clause 13.—No person shall on the Lord's Day hunt, take kill or destroy any game, or use any gun or other engine for that purpose.—63 Vic. 49, s. 6.

Warden Bradshaw will visit the various game resorts Saturday night and Sunday, with assistants furnished by Lindsay and Sturgeon Point Fish and Game Associations, and law-breakers will be severely punished.

Mr. Wallace Jones, of Sturgeon Point, saw a flock of about 100 ducks flying from the north towards Emily Creek the other day. This is a much larger flock than has been noticed hitherto, and suggests the possibility of the birds being the first contingent of the fall flight from the northern lakes.

The low water is bothering the old duck hunters quite a bit. Old "birds" are useless owing to the receding water, having left the channels there to lanes of bottomless mud in place of the navigable waterways of yore. Every day parties can be seen poking their way through the sedge looking up new points of vantage, and this is having a bad effect on the birds, as they are being constantly disturbed.

Non-residents of the Province who wish to hunt ducks and other small game must pay a license fee of $25 this season. If moose and deer are the desired quarry, the fee is $30. The first-mentioned license is of green tint, the latter red.

Hours of Labor on the Farm.

Orillia Times: Why should the farmer expect his hands to work more hours than a man in town? This is one of the reasons why he finds it so difficult to obtain hands. No laboring man will endure working from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m. for 10 hours' pay. It is a relic of the old times only, and as the farmer thinks it pays him to do so, he will continue till the inability to procure help drives the fact into him. In some places farmers demand 10 hours a day and claim that it pays. They do not slave themselves to death; their boys and girls stay on the farm; they can obtain help that will stay with them, and the yearly bit of money at the hand still keeps up with the old time slavery of 14 or 15 hours a day.

THE NEW COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Will Add Vastly to Usefulness of Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

An Outline of the Studies Comprised in the Course, Which Opens Next Week—Equivalent in Value to One Year at Guelph Agricultural College.

On Tuesday, September 3rd, the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province will re-open. Many farm boys have this summer passed the Entrance examination, and with many of these boys and with their parents, the question is, "What about a course at the Collegiate?" Lindsay Collegiate Institute for the first time in its history will this year offer to its students a course in agriculture. This course has been designed specially for farmers' sons, and for boys who intend to make farming their life's work, their life's business.

In this age, when farm labor is high in price and hard to get at any price, and at this season of year, when help is so much needed on the farm, the question arises—Is a course at the Collegiate, with what it costs in time and money, well it pay? Without hesitation, but after having considered all the pros and cons, we answer emphatically, "Yes." Farming is both a science and a business. Only the farmer who, through years of experience and reading, or who, through training and education, has acquired a knowledge of the scientific principles according to business methods—only this man can be a truly successful and contented farmer.

The course in the Collegiate will teach both the science and the business of farming. The course has been designed specially for boys, who intend going onto farms, not it is so broad a course, and embraces so many subjects that it cannot fail to interest and be of use to any boy. Every boy wants to know how to drive and feed horses, how to know the different classes of horses and how to select good individuals in these classes. Almost every boy wants to know how to handle cattle. In the course boys will be taught how to raise and how to buy and feed good beef steers; how to build up a good dairy herd; how to feed for largest profits; how to take the records of each cow's production; how to weigh her milk and test it for butter fat. The course in poultry will also interest both boys and girls. Many boys are now making more than their pocket money by keeping a few hens, and perhaps by running an incubator. The course in poultry will deal with all of the most useful breeds of poultry and with the most advanced methods of producing eggs and market poultry, and methods for preparing for market and marketing. In horticulture a broad training will be given, which also should prove interesting to all boys, and even to girls. The production of globe and other plants and flowers will be dealt with; the most advanced methods of vegetable growing will be taught in classes and illustrated in the experimental plots; methods of pruning, grafting, cultivating and spraying fruit trees will be discussed and illustrated, also the growing of the smaller bush fruits. From time immemorial "the busy bee" has been held before boys as an example of industry, but how few boys, or even men, know how the bee gathers its honey, how it carries its honey, or how it deposits its honey, much less how to feed and care for a colony of bees. A course in agriculture will give to the students a good working knowledge of the care of bees and the production of honey.

These are but a few of the many subjects which will be taught in this new course in agriculture. A course in entomology will take up the more common beneficial and injurious insects, their habits of life, and methods for increasing the beneficial and destroying the injurious. The course in soil physics will give a knowledge of the many different types of soils and of the best methods of treating each class for most successful crop production. The work in chemistry will deal with the composition of the soil and with the best fertilizers for various soils and for various crops; also the composition and manufacture of the various insecticides and fungicides will be fully explained. A course in dairying will explain the manufacture of butter and cheese and the production of milk and cans of milk during the process of manufacture. A course in forestry will deal with the care of our remaining wood lots, also with methods for reforesting waste lands and for producing and planting shade trees along our line and roadside fences. The course in agronomy will be perhaps one of the most practical, as it will take up the most advanced methods of crop production, the rotation of crops, the judging and selection of grains for seed, the recognition of and eradication of weeds.

Space will not permit us to more than mention the many subjects of this broad course, but sufficient has been stated to show that the course in agriculture will be one of the most interesting and practical courses in the curriculum of the Collegiate Institute. This course should induce many farmers' sons to enter the Collegiate, and all boys entering the Collegiate should give the course in agriculture careful consideration. For students who do not intend to take more than two years in the Collegiate, this course, with the English, Science and Mathematics of the regular course, which it includes, offers probably the broadest and most useful training. Also, as this course is equivalent to a year at the Ontario Agricultural College, it is worthy of consideration from those who intend going on for professional positions.

A circular giving a detailed outline of the course has recently been issued by the Department at Toronto, and any wishing further information regarding the course should apply to the teacher in Agriculture, Mr. T. H. Reed, at his office in Lindsay, on Kent-st., opposite the Market.

R. B. RITCHIE WAS KILLED IN A STREET CAR ACCIDENT

Aliighted From a Trolley in Yonge st. and Walked in Front of One Going in the Opposite Direction—Came Here From New Liskeard.

Star of Tuesday: A fatal accident occurred about 1.45 this morning, when R. B. Ritchie, a Colbat investor, was struck by a northbound car at the corner of Agnes and Yonge-sts. and died thirty minutes after his removal to St. Michael's Hospital.

Ritchie had stepped from a car which he had boarded at the corner of College-st., and was crossing the tracks in the rear of the car he had just left, when he was struck by a northbound car in charge of Motor-man John Neal, 33 Dovercourt road. Ritchie fell clear of the wheels, but struck the pavement with such force that the base of the skull was split completely open. The unfortunate man was taken into a night by restaurant, where Mrs. Graham and Mr. Martin attended him until the arrival of an ambulance, which removed him to St. Michael's Hospital.

The deceased has two brothers in Toronto and five at New Liskeard, Ontario, where his parents also live.

WALKED 1,150 MILES.

Visitor From Indiana Saved Railway Fare to Muskoka Lakes

Midland Free Press: A young man walked into town the other day from Lafayette, Indiana. He had been forced to lie over a day at Penetang, because the high wind had prevented the sailing of the City of Toronto. Hearing a great deal of the growth and business of Midland he walked over to see the town for himself.

The visitor was Mr. A. W. Smalley. He started from Columbus, Ohio, on June 15th, dressed in a Khaki suit and carrying a knapsack weighing fifteen pounds. He travelled on foot, stopping for meals and lodging, generally at hotels in the smaller towns, but sometimes at farm houses. In this way he walked through eastern Ohio to Pittsburgh, Perth, then south into Maryland and east to Gettysburg, from that point far south into Virginia and north again to Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia, next up the Delaware and Susquehanna Valleys and across western New York to Niagara, crossing Lake Ontario to Toronto, he came here on foot, and after going to Barry Sound by boat, will finish his journey at Muskoka. He has covered 1,150 miles on foot, besides several hundred more in wagons, boats and electric cars. He says that the best treatment he has received along the road has been in Ontario.

DOINGS AT THE MARKET.

Clerk Callaghan Kept Busy Weighing Stock, Hay, Coal, etc.

Evening Post of Aug. 28: Things have been pretty slow at the market lately. Mr. McIlhenny is preparing to ship a carload of cattle and later one of hogs. Hogs at present are bringing $6.25. Cheese has been going over the scales of late.

Hay at present is exceedingly scarce, selling as high as $13. The prices run from $11 to $13.

A carload of ashes and quantities of old iron have crossed the scales for the Sylvester Co. and others. Mr. McIlhenny recently bought a large Durham bull weighing 1935 lbs. He intends to ship it with the rest of the cattle on his ranches. He has about 125 head of cattle in all.

Quantities of coal from McLennan & Co. and from Flavelles Limited were weighed for Francis-st. and south ward schools, and also a small amount for the House of Refuge.

Come to Owen Sound.

Mr. Frank Adams left on Saturday for Brighton to visit his father-in-law for a few days before leaving for Owen Sound, where he has purchased and will operate a fruit evaporating plant. Mr. Adams was quite popular in town, and his many friends hope to see him back again ere the snow flies.

ONTARIO.

OPS TOWNSHIP LEGISLATORS

THE VARIOUS RATES TO BE LEVIED FIXED IN COMMITTEE.

A Fairly Short Session—The Business Transacted at the Meeting.

A regular meeting of Ops Council was held on August 26th, with all members present. The minutes of last meeting were read, and on motion of Messrs. Coulter and Wilson were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A letter from S. A. Armstrong, Inspector of Prisons and Asylums, enclosing a list of persons who, it is alleged, were admitted to asylums as residents of the municipality, and chargeable to it under the provisions of the Act, with blank forms to be filled and returned to the Department.

A letter from D. J. McDonald, Roadmaster of C.P.R. Co., stating our letter in reference to the improvement of the crossing at Pottery Corner had been forwarded to the Superintendent.

A copy of a resolution passed by Mansvers Council calling the attention of Ops Council to a portion of Mansvers boundary, said to be dangerous to public travel.

Requests from Weldon, Rea and Mrs. Jackett, that the persons interested in their respective drains be notified to clean them out.

An order from the township engineer, that Thos. O'Neill be paid $22.50 for work on the Hartnett drain, and be charged therefor.

Councillor O'Loughlin reported that he had viewed the road on 4th gr. line, 1st con., and the boundary leading southward to Mr. F. Thompson's place and found part of the roadbed rough and in need of gravel to cover the stone bottom, and that the boundary road, being high land, grading would suffice. He said he would try to expend $20 or $30 grading the gr. line this fall.

WORK AT GRAVEL PIT.

Mr. Thos. A. Newman, caretaker of the gravel pit, said he was obliged to have work done on the pit to the value of about $15 to make a frontage of 25 ft. so that several teams might be loaded at once. The Council approved, and on motion of Messrs. Wilson and Coulter, he was paid $7. Richard Hopkins $6.75, and Patrick Murphy 75c. for the work done.

With regard to the resolution passed by Mansvers Council the Commissioner for Ops said he had viewed the road complained of since that resolution was passed and did not consider it dangerous to public travel, and all thought that the other members of the Council would be of his opinion if they saw it.

A resolution was passed accordingly, a copy of which the Clerk was instructed to forward to Mansvers Council.

Mr. Wilson explained to Council that he had to expend more money on crushing stone than he expected. Owing to the scarcity of gravel in his extensive road division there was a large quantity of stone to be crushed, which was very expensive. He would require an additional grant of $165. The Council were satisfied with his explanation and judicious expenditure—the stone had to be left over for another year—and on motion of Messrs. Coulter and Best his appropriation was increased by $165.

MUST BE CLEANED OUT.

Mr. Coulter moved, seconded by Mr. Best, that the Clerk notify the patrons of Drain No. 1 to have their respective portions of said drain cleaned out by the 20th of September next, as required by the award of the Engineer, or the Council will hereafter complete the work at the expense of those in default, and that the patrons of the Jackett-Hutchinson drain, and those of the Weldon-Rea branch of the Malton drain be also notified to clean out said drains, as per agreement, before Sept. 20th prox., otherwise the work will be done at their expense.

TAX RATES STRUCK.

In committee of the whole the Council considered and discussed the township rate necessary for the present year and decided to levy a rate of 3-1/4 mills per dollar.

Mr. O'Loughlin then moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the following rates be levied on the assessed property of the township for 1907, and that a by-law be introduced to confirm the same, namely, township rate, 3-1/4 mills per dollar; county rate, 3-1/2 for those liable for County school rate, 3-3/4 mills for supporters of Lindsay schools not benefiting by the County school grant; general Public school rate, 2-1/4 mills; Separate school rate, 3 mills; and the several Public school section and Union section rates, as required by the requisitions of the several boards of trustees; railway rate, 65 cents; municipal and the drainage levies being fixed by by-laws.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Best, that the following accounts now passed be paid, viz.: Thos. DeGeld, fencing pit, $9; Jos. Hickson, half cost top, washout, $1.50; Thos. Laird, work in gravel pit, $1.50; Geo. McHugh, for gravel in 1906 and '07, $14.50; Thos. O'Neill, work Hartnett drain, $22.50; Henry W. Jackson, fee as fence viewer, $2.00; W. F. O'Boyle, award of fence viewers, $1.00.—Carried.

A by-law to confirm rates and levies was then passed, after which the Council adjourned, on motion of Messrs. O'Loughlin and Coulter, to meet at the call of the Reeve.

W. F. O'BOYLE, Clerk.

LICENSE LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Woodstock Sentinel - Review contends that the section of the Liquor License Act licensing bar-tenors whatever may have been the intention of those responsible for it, is capable of being used to prevent, rather than facilitate the enforcement of the law. In short, the responsibility for violating the law is now, in some instances, placed upon the bar-tender, when it ought to rest with the landlord.

The Pioneer, the organ of the temperance people, and at the same time the apologist of the Whitney Government, now sees the point in this way:

"Under law, as it formerly stood, the licensee was personally responsible for all that was done in his house. If he allowed another man to sell liquor unlawfully he had to bear the heavy penalty for the offence to which he was a party. Now, the poor tool may be used as a scapegoat, and a comparatively light fine makes the licensee-holder exempt from punishment. The system is a distinct encouragement to law-breaking, and a shield for the trickster, who, under the former plan, would have to take the consequences of the crime which he permitted, including the risk of losing his license."

In the attempt of the Whitney Government to ride two horses at once in dealing with the license question—to please the traffic and not antagonize the temperance element—much has been done to prevent effective enforcement of the law. The two-fifth clause, thrust into the local option law, was certainly not in the interests of temperance reform, and it cannot be said that the provision relieving a licensee-holder from responsibility and saddling it upon an employee—the bartender—with the ostensible object of facilitating the enforcement of the law, is compensatory, but actually hostile to effective enforcement of the law.

THE ALL-RED LINE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's advocacy of a line of fast British steamers between the various colonies and the mother country has created a vast amount of talk, and aroused much criticism—some of it unfavorable. The idea is one that must appeal to everyone desirous of promoting the imperial spirit, and at the same time to immensely the trade carried on between the respective countries. The London Times, which generally interprets the feelings of the great mass of the British people at home, recently referred to the project in the following terms:

The scheme is one in which Canada's interest is too obvious to need demonstration, while the interests of the whole Empire are likely to be promoted by it in a very great degree. Canadian sympathy with the project has got beyond the mere theoretical stage. We hear now from Ottawa of a syndicate with Lord Strathcona's name at the head of it—assuredly the best guarantee for the stability of any enterprise of the kind. It is not only a fast passenger service that Canada is anxious for. She wants also, as Mr. Borden, the leader of the Canadian opposition has pointed out, a thorough and effective freight service at the lowest possible rate. These suggestions, apparently, are being adopted by those actively interested in the scheme. It is estimated that the cost of the Atlantic section of an all-red route would be $225,000 for both the British and Canadian governments. There is every prospect for the serious consideration of such a subsidy by the imperial government. We joined with Canada and the Australian governments in subsidizing the Pacific cable; on the motion of a Liberal minister, Lord Rosebery, we financed the Uganda railway; and only five years ago, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier reminded the conference, we gave a subsidy to the Cunard company for the service to New York. The scheme of an all-red route has, perhaps, a stronger claim on imperial support than any former plan of inter-communication. It will require careful thought, and it may have to be done piecemeal, but most certainly it is not a project to be unceremoniously set aside.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Four bye-elections to fill vacancies in the Commons will be held next month. Perhaps they may help to dispel Tory tears of a general election this fall.

Canada's foreign trade for the first four months of the fiscal year was over $214,000,000, an increase of $22,000,000 over the corresponding period of last year. Our export of manufactures increased $750,000 in July.

Mr. Borden reproaches the Liberals with their desire to have an annual surplus in the Post Office Department. Certainly that is one charge which could not be made against their predecessors, who, moreover, gave a wretched service for the money.

Montreal Herald, notwithstanding the warning of the Star that heretofore he is going to stamp Nova Scotia with Mr. Borden. Mr. Fowler is yet to hear from, but he may pluck up courage enough to tackle a few meetings in Prince Edward Island.

It is stated by a western correspondent that there are 132 opium mines in Alberta, and that seventy of them are operated, producing from five to fifteen hundred tons per day. They are scattered over the province. Coal is also found in Saskatchewan. Thus, in addition to farming and stock raising, these provinces will have important mining industries. Petroleum is also found in Alberta, and is expected to form the basis of still another industry. The resources of western Canada are immense. The Peace and Athabasca river country is now attracting much attention to its fertile soil, its forests and its minerals.

The editor of the Bob, Independent, in an article referring to the criticism of a minister by another member of the cloth for drinking a bottle of pop over a hotel bar, asks, "And why not Scotch?" He then continues:

There is no reason why, any drinking place should not be a perfectly proper one for a man to take his wife or daughter. If it is not so it should not be permitted to exist. If these drinking places are given to improper conduct, who is better able to set an example of correct behaviour than the ministers. So far from fault being found with the rev. gentleman for entering the bar, he was perfectly within his rights, and his line of duty. If the Associations of ministers in each town made an agreement to periodically visit all bars they would probably accomplish more good for the cause than by condemning each other, from their pulpits.

EVADE PAYING DOC TAXES.

Many Citizens Use Subterfuges to Escape Paying Tax.

Chief Vincent has an interesting time of it these days collecting the dog taxes. People who care enough for a dog to feed it and keep it should be willing to pay the nominal annual tax, but such is not the case, and all kinds of subterfuges are used to evade the law. One "lady" owner of a dog that she owned a pet. Later, when she was confronted with evidence, she said the dog was her son's. Other deceptions of similar nature are continually being employed, but the Chief says he will take no excuses—any unlicensed dogs will have to undergo the death penalty.

ON HIS BLINDNESS.

(By John Milton.)
When I consider how my light is spent Ere half my day, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide,
Lodged with me useless, though my soul more lent
To serve more loathly my Maker, and that My true account, lest he returning, chide,
"Doth God exact day labour, light denied?"
I fondly ask; but please to prevent
That murmur, soon replies, "God doth not need Either man's work, or his own gifts;
Who bests his mild yoke, they serve him best:
Sweet is the lot that fills his ordinary cell, Lest his light should be put out, and his
They also serve who only stand and wait."

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST.

Clipped from Our Exchanges and Original.

Rev. S. C. Lord, of Grafton, has been called to the Presbyterian charge at Fendelon Falls.

The Bishop of St. Albans, who recently announced his intention of preaching in workhouses, began his crusade at Bishop's Stortford Union workhouse. He preached from the text "Honor all men."

Dr. Arnold of Rugby would not permit his boys to say, "Christ died for us," but instead he taught them to say, "Christ died for me." So we are to take the messages and promises of the Bible and apply them to our individual life.

At a vestry meeting of Christ church at Bobcaygeon, held the other evening, it was unanimously agreed to request His Grace, the Archbishop of Toronto, to appoint Rev. Mr. Barker, now of Stouffville, to the charge of the parish of Bobcaygeon.

The "Dead March" in Saul was played in St. Paul's church at the close of the morning service in memory of the late Mrs. A. E. Pilkey, by Inspector Knight, who presided at the organ in the absence of Miss Leary. The hymn, "My God, My Father, While I Survive" was sung in the morning, and "Will He Come, O let the World" in the evening.

The Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Inverness, Scotland, will deliver a lecture to-night in St. Andrew's schoolroom on his travels, particularly in Australia, contrasting the conditions of that land with Canada. The reverend gentleman has done a considerable amount of travelling, and being a fluent speaker, his lecture is bound to be interesting.

Christian Science may be a delusion and a snare, and Mrs. Eddy may be unable to handle her own affairs, but her teaching has taken a deep hold upon many people. The London Tribune says that the Christian Science is only forty years old, and was first heard of in Great Britain fifteen years ago. At that time the name was unknown in the whole of Europe. To-day the Christian Scientists claim a million votaries and more than 650 churches, and point to nearly all the principal countries of the world where the doctrine is taught and their heads of healing practices. In London a high temple or church is being erected for the Scientists which when completed will accommodate a congregation of 1,700.

AT STURGEON POINT

The afternoon's service at Sturgeon Point was taken by the Rev. Dr. Barclay, pastor of the Forest-ave. Presbyterian church, Decoron, who was called on to fill the pulpit without preparation owing to the unavoidable absence of Rev. Geo. W. Henderson, who was to take the service. The Rev. Doctor gave an excellent talk, full of helpful messages and delivered it in a convincing and forcible manner. The service was well attended notwithstanding the heavy wind-storm.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Inverness, Scotland, preached both sermons at the Presbyterian church on Sunday. Mr. McDonald is a minister of wide experience, who has travelled extensively in the course of his work, and he was listened to with interest.

At the evening service he chose for the subject of his sermon the story of the prodigal son, so familiar, but ever appealing to all. He read the passage from the scripture, expounding it with commentaries as he went along. In his sermon he noted the similarity of the course the prodigal took to the course many take in the present day. The youth demanded his allotted portion from his father and took his departure from home. He began his downward career. Similarly many of God's children consume their portion of God's benefits in riotous living, leaving God eternally out of their lives. Like the father of the prodigal, God is ever willing to receive back the repentant sinner. No matter how low the man has fallen, return is always possible. Miss Margaret Jackson played on the pipe organ in the absence of Mr. H. Hamilton. The solo parts of the anthem were taken by Miss Leggett and Mr. R. C. Gray.

CLEAN HANDS, CLEAN MIND.

Dr. Franklin Webb tells us that the hands are the most unclean part of the body; that they should be frequently washed each day, to keep them free of poison.

He points out, for many experiments made by him and other scientists, that the hands convey more poison to the tips of the fingers than any other organ of the body, and that keeping them clean is the only way to prevent their carrying disease.

If castle soap and water will keep the hands pure, as much might be said in another way for keeping the mind pure. The castle soap of pure thoughts, sustained by pure actions, will keep poison out of the mind and build the strong character that will not go wrong.

The average boy has splendid life opportunities before him. He has work to accomplish, school to conquer, church and Sunday school to make a part of his life, constant friends to win, parents to sustain. All these things call for the highest efforts—the straining of the mind to get to the top, just as the muscles get forth when a tree is to be climbed.

If a boy is afraid of unclean hands he has a thousand more reasons to fear an unclean mind. Wash out the idle and vicious thoughts and desires. Think of the best and the holiest. Make it a daily habit and watch your spiritual character grow into new strength.

A GOOD SERMON.

Mr. H. A. Pearson, of this town, late Y.M.C.A. secretary at Collingwood, is now in charge of the splendidly equipped "Y" in St. Catharines. On Sunday of last week he took charge of the evening service at the leading Methodist church and preached from John 11, 3—"There was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews; the same came to Jesus by night and said unto him, 'Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God; for no man can do these miracles that thou doest except God be with him.' Jesus answered and said: 'Verily, verily, I say unto thee except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God.'"

The speaker said, in part, that there have been leaders in all ages who have drawn to themselves certain followers and certain classes. But we find that Jesus drew to himself all classes and all colors, men and women. No man was so good that he could not find some good in him. He wanted leaders—men who could attract the people, who had enough education to explain his gospel. He wanted also leaders who could stand before the scenes and be "the power behind the throne." On one occasion Nicodemus went to "Christ secretly and asked Him the question quoted in the text. He went secretly because he was afraid of his neighbors, afraid that if he approached Jesus to seek doctrine as an apostate from his own further might the Jews would accuse him of being a convert to Christ's doctrine and an apostate to his own faith. So he went to Christ and asked the question quoted in the text, and Jesus answered in the words repeated in the scripture. The evening came, Nicodemus went home and he went home a Christian man.

There are those of us who, like Nicodemus, have heard the gospel preached and have been touched by it, but unlike Nicodemus, we neglect to seek further light. There are men in our public service, in the church, who are in every way fitted to be leaders—if we only would be born again. The power of God, sometimes comes to these as the healing power of Christ passed out to the woman who had faith that if she could only touch the hem of His garment, it and makes them leaders of men.

It is true that we can come to God at any time. But why put it off? Why not do it when we are young and strong and have so many years of service before us? We owe it to God. Why not pay? We cannot understand how the power of God comes to men. We all have read how He imbued the brazen serpent raised by Moses to cure the Israelites of deadly snake bite. We know that if we only come to God we can get that power.

(The speaker closed with a strong appeal to his hearers to seek the healing power of God to "be born again.")

Tommy (whose father is a policeman)—Yes.

ing desire to probe her secret to the bottom, he was also carefully studying every nook and cranny. There was only one way out of the room—by the door, which was half-open. He carefully moved so that he might face it, and if a swift rush were necessary not have the table between him and the road to escape.

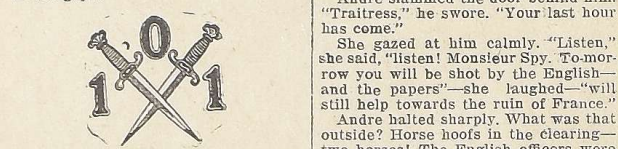

"There are the papers," she said in her passionless tones. She had taken them from a cupboard in the wall.

He betrayed no eagerness, but his fingers trembled and his heart thumped wildly as he looked them through by the dim light of the lantern, one eye at a time watching the masked girl, who quietly knelt down by the fire with her back to him and began to blow on the embers with a bellows.

"They are what you want, are they not?" she remarked over her shoulder.

"I believe so," he answered as carefully.

Yes, the vivandiere was right. The paper was a complete plan of the French encampment, marking accurately the positions of each battalion and each battery, and in the corner was drawn in blood a curious sign—two crossed daggers with 101 inserted in the gaps.

It sent an icy shiver through him, this countermark of the traitor's success and good faith. God! they were betrayed indeed to those damned Austrian hounds and English dogs. But he, Andre de Nerac, had saved the King and the army of France!

"I thank you," he said, folding the paper up and putting it deliberately within his cloak.

"Do not desire your thanks," she replied as she blew away some ashes.

Andre stared in dumb bewilderment at her on her knees there in front of the fire. Should he run her through at once or strangle her for an execrable traitress? The woman betrayed neither fear nor interest. She seemed to have forgotten his presence.

"Are you 'No. 101'?" he asked at last.

"Oh, no," she was laughing softly. "I am only her agent."

"Then the trait—then she is a woman?"

"Yes," she stood up and shook some cinders from her cloak. "Yes, she is a woman." And Andre knew she was lying. The fingers on his sword relaxed. Kill her he could not—yet. Depart he could not—yet. For he was in the grip of a weird fascination—a secret whose mystery numbed his senses.

"It is marvellous," he muttered, "but the English army thanks 'No. 101' and you."

"Yes," she answered indifferently. "It is marvellous, but the English army is nothing to her nor to me. For myself I defend the English officers, but like you, sir, I simply do as I am bid. Give me the gold and I will wish you good-night."

The gold! English gold! Pest on it! The vivandiere and he had thought of everything but that. The perspiration swelled on to his forehead. He grasped his sword and took a step towards the doorway.

"You were given no gold," he said brusquely and waited with drawn breath.

"No!" she shrugged her shoulders and astonished him by kneeling down and taking up the bellows. "It is like English officers to buy secrets and not pay for them."

"You are unjust to the English," he protested. Ah! that surely was a stroke of genius.

"I know them, the English," she said without looking round.

Dead silence broken only by the wheezy puffs of the bellows. Pity, fear, astonishment, and a burning curiosity wrestled in Andre's breast. Was this masked girl flesh and blood or a devil in human form?

"Do you want the papers back?" he demanded.

"They are not mine to ask. I was told to give them to you; keep them."

The icy contempt in her voice stung.

noofs stamping out the dead woman's face as she lay where he had left her—a ride us of devilment—gobbling through the pains of hell—that was Andre's recollection of his return until he dropped fainting within his own lines.

Two flickering candles danced in his eyes as he opened them.

"Bravo!" whispered a caressing voice. "Bravo!"

He was lying in a long chair and the little vivandiere was kneeling beside him.

"Bravo!" she repeated, "and now drink—drink!" She forced brandy, glorious and hot, down his throat.

"Ah!" He sat up. The horror was slowly fading away, though he could still see floating between her face and his that black cabin rearing red, and that outcast woman's face crushed into pulp beneath the iron of his horse's shoe. "The papers—the plans," he muttered.

"They are here," she waved them softly, they were stammering with blood. "You are saved—France and the army and the King are saved and you—you have saved us."

Andre smiled, letting his head drop. He was supremely happy. Denise would hear of this—Denise—ah!

"Come, my friend," the vivandiere whispered, "look at yourself. It is too good."

He took the mirror from her and laughed—laughed loud and long. Here was, indeed, a picture of a ruffian with a uniform torn and singed, the paint smeared over his cheeks, one sleeve cut away, and his left arm bandaged! Pah! that was where Statham had stabbed him. He would pay for it tomorrow—no, to-day—to-day!

"I found the papers when you fainted," said the vivandiere. "I wept when I found them, for I was sick with fear that you had failed, and now, mon ami, I take them to Monsieur le Marechal."

"Yes, Mademoiselle, they are yours."

Then Andre told his story while she listened eagerly. But he did not tell her all, for instinctively he felt some things he had discovered that night had better be looked at as a secret in his own heart until he knew more.

"I do not think that was 'No. 101,'" she remarked thoughtfully. "But it is a pity you did not see her face. Some day hereafter it might be useful to be able to recognize that woman."

"Perhaps so," he assented, and he added to himself, "I shall see it before I die. It is written in the stars." For the curious thought haunted his mind that if he had seen that woman's face he would never have returned. Yet Captain Statham had seen it; suddenly his cry, his look in that narrow passage, rose before him. Was it what he had seen which had shot such awful fear and horror into his eyes? Could it be that the girl in the mask was—ah! he must wait before the question was answered. And the answer would certainly come. That too was written in the stars.

"And now sleep, Vicomte," his companion whispered. "In four hours the dawn will be here. A battle is at hand, and once more you must fight for the fair eyes of your mistress, for the honor of France and the King."

She half-carried him to the bed. The flame-red pictures of the night kept shooting through a blackness of pain in his eyes. How tired and weak he was. From far away a trumpet note rang, a drum throbbed, a snatch of reveling song bubbled mockingly up.

"I made a promise," dropped the soothing words in his ear, "but Monsieur le Vicomte must never betray the secret to Monsieur le Marechal. The King. Yet remember, I beg, there is nothing—nothing—I will not do for you if I can serve you, for I am grateful—more grateful than a woman can say. A cushion was slipped under his neck. Two soft arms enfolded him for a brief second. "The lips, Vicomte," came the caressing chant—"the lips that a king has kissed salute you." His head rested on her breast. "Adieu!" She had vanished and his numbed senses ebbed away into an enchanted oblivion. The

SCALY SORES AS BIG AS PENNIES

Covered Whole Head and Neck After an Attack of Measles—Hair All Came Out—Doctor's Treatment Had No Effect—Suffered 6 Months

CURED IN 3 WEEKS BY CUTICURA COSTING $1.50

"After having the measles my whole head and neck were covered with scaly sores about as large as a penny. They were just as thick as they could be. My hair all came out. I let the trouble run along, taking the doctor's blood-mercury and rubbing on salve, but it did not seem to get any better. I stayed that way for about six months; then I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and in about a week I noticed a big difference, and in three weeks the majority of the scales had fallen off. I was well entirely and I have not had the trouble any more, and as this was seven years ago, I consider myself cured. I used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, one box of Cuticura Ointment, and one cake of Cuticura Soap. I think it a splendid medicine, and I recommend it wherever I can. WOMEN WHO WEAR WELL.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and the body will be healthy. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve nigrily adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

FUR-SMUGGLING CASE

Defendant Simon Marshall Goes Clear on the Charge

But Magistrate Moore Voiced His Belief that Accused Had in His Possession at the Time Mentioned Something that was Contraband.

Evening Post of Aug. 23.
"I'll allow every possible effort the Crown Attorney may make to know the truth of what was in that bundle. I'm satisfied that the witness at the last sitting did not tell the truth," said Justice Magistrate Moore this morning, when the investigation into the alleged fur-smuggling case was resumed. The defendant, Mr. G. H. Hopkins, had several times in his workshop as to the way the trial was being conducted.

THE EVIDENCE.
The Crown had several witnesses ready. James Horn was the first. He is a woolen mill merchant of town, and had dealings in wool with the prisoner. The sack produced in court, he said, was a typical wool sack. He had said, in answer to a telephone message from the Express office on or about June 20th, that wool was expected from the north, because he was constantly buying from there. "We don't deal in furs," he concluded.

Stafford Barnett, who was the Canadian Express driver at the time of the affair, was the second witness. He said he had seen the sack and a right to the room, Marshall was known to him, and had expressed furs from Lindsay. O'Keefe had handed him the sack, and there was no hole in it. He didn't put the hole in it, he locked it up and handed the key to Mitchell, who said, "Let me see that room." "I'll take the key," O'Keefe told him the sack was "held" by a policeman. He saw Marshall getting into Mitchell's rig and starting off down town. The door of the Express room was open when he (Barnett) came back about 11 o'clock and the key was turned about 12 o'clock. He made no explanation.

T. W. Belch, who was assistant station master at Kinnmount at that time, was the next witness for the Crown. His evidence was of little account, he being positive of very little that occurred that day. He said he had no recollection of the bundle. Constable John Jones, of Fenelon Falls, told an interesting story of the affair. He was coming down from Fenelon Falls on his way to Toronto that day, when he overheard a conversation between John Brightman Simon Marshall, the accused, was next heard in his own defence, after which Magistrate Moore took occasion to say a few words of strong meaning. He fully believed that an infraction of the law had occurred, and that the evidence of young Dwyer and certain other witnesses was true. Marshall sought to discredit the testimony of these parties, but he (Magistrate Moore) repudied no faith in his denials of guilt, nor in the evidence of several of the witnesses. He felt convinced in his own mind that the bundle in question contained beaver skins as stated, or other contraband being handled by Marshall. However, the evidence available was not sufficiently clear on that point, and he would have to discharge the accused.

MAGISTRATE SPEAKS.

PROWLING DOGS VISIT OPS. SECOND REGATTA AT POINT

Farmers Tormented by Packs of Half Starved, Savage Canines.

A pack of savage, half-wild dogs has infested the farms and woods of North Ops, and are overrunning the country, subsisting on the domestic animals and flocks of the farmers, and are causing the latter endless worry and trouble.

The canines hunt in packs, and the victims of their carnivorous appetites are generally chickens, ducks, geese, small pigs, etc. Mr. John Jackson, one of the farmers who is losing considerably by these depredations, made a complaint to Chief Vincent recently. He stated that several farmers had suffered to some extent from the ravages of the dogs. Mr. W. J. Lee had 24 ducks killed, Mr. T. Helm had one killed, and he (Jackson) actually saw a turkey being carried off by a lean-looking hound. Pigs, calves, and not even cattle, are immune from the savage attacks of the marauding pack of the farmyard. He endeavored to shoot them, but with little success, the dogs being extremely sly and wary. They hide in the grain, poking their heads up to see if the farmers are approaching.

One theory that has been advanced is that the dogs are the half-starved animals that infest the streets of Lindsay. It is thought that when hunger presses them they form into a pack and go hunting for prey. The nuisance is one the farmers are determined to stamp out because if the town dogs once form the habit of visiting the country barnyards and orchards the situation will be intolerable.

BELLEVILLE SENSATION.

Young Woman Chased By a Naked Man

Evening Post of Aug. 22.
Belleville Ontario: Last evening, shortly before six o'clock, a young lady residing on the Marshall road, about a mile west of the town, had an experience which she is liable to forget for the rest of her life. It appears she was on her way home from the city, and when about 100 yards west of the driving park, a man, in a complete state of nudity, suddenly appeared from a lawn leading from the south, and gave chase. The man had not a stitch of clothing on his body, and a mask completely covered his face, so that she was unable to identify her pursuer. She ran for her life toward her home, when her cries aroused some of the neighbors, when the man scampered off and disappeared. The young lady was nearly frightened out of her wits. About a week ago a sister of the young lady had a similar experience, and now the driving park, a vicinity is up in arms, and if the guilty wretch is caught it is liable to go hard with him. It is only a few weeks ago when a west Belleville young lady was accosted by an unknown man on the Trenton road, and it is believed to be the same party. It is thought by some that the man must be a lunatic.

Hopkins Boys Won the Sturgeon Lake Dinghy Championship.

Thursday afternoon the cottagers and visitors again flocked to the lake front to witness a series of races. As will be remembered, the dinghy race on the program for Regatta day could not be decided owing to the absence of wind, and had to be postponed. By mutual agreement between the sailors it was fixed for Thursday, and the Regatta committee decided to offer prizes for a couple of other races and so help to make an interesting afternoon. The plan succeeded admirably.

The dinghy race, six miles, for the ownership of a silver cup, had two contestants—two Ryerson boys and Mr. Nasmith, from Ancona Point. Eric Ryerson crossed the line first with a lead of about 100 yards, but having disregarded the rules, which had been very clearly explained by the judges, was ruled out. Hopkins taking first and Geo. Ryerson second place.

Ladies' Tandem—1st. Miss Armstrong and Miss Warner; 2nd Miss Knowlson and Miss Clara Flavell. Mixed Tandem—1st Miss Knowlson and B. Hopkins. The other contestants were Miss Clara Flavell and Ron Fort; Miss Phelps and C. Gladman; Miss Armstrong and B. Wilson.

Four in Canoe—1st Bruce Wilson, Bruce Hopkins, R. Fort, and W. Knowlson; 2nd, Messrs. Davidson, Ryerson, Frostand, Ryerson; 3rd Messrs. Simpson, Mullett and Dickson Bros.

Port Hope Guide: A by-law to enable the town council to install a municipal lighting service will not have the slightest chance of being approved by the electors if it is presented as the previous by-law was. The ratepayers before voting for the by-law, will demand full information as to the council's plans, so that they may be in a position to decide whether the scheme is feasible or not.

ONTARIO FARMERS INTERESTED

Blended Flour is Growing in Popularity Every Day.

Modern farming has become a business proposition, and men engage in agriculture because it returns annual profits. The soil is the paymaster, and the variety, quantity, and quality of goods produced, determines the success of the man engaged in the agricultural business.

But the market must be considered, and demand must be created, and catered to, if business is to advance. Unfortunately for Ontario farmers, the demand for what ought to be the most valuable product of their fields has declined. Western millers have introduced a flour which, though lacking in flavor, contains more "strength", or gluten, than that which is milled from the more finely flavored Ontario wheat. Ontario consumers, of the extensive advertising of the alleged superiority of Western flour, have been deceived, and that flour must be sacrificed to strength, so the home market was largely lost, and the farmers began to notice the increased cost of feed, and the low prices to be obtained for their wheat.

By a series of chemical analyses, and experiments which have extended over a decade it has been demonstrated that by the addition of a small proportion of Western wheat, Ontario blended flour contains the necessary gluten to successfully compete with its Western rival, and still retain the flavor which is peculiar to Ontario grain. Bread made from blended flour soon made a ready sale in Toronto, and within a year or two after the introduction of blended flour on the market, the manufacturers have shown such preference for these Ontario-milled flours that certain milling firms have doubled their plants in the last six months.

It has already been pointed out that the farmer as a business man, must consider the market and the inexorable law of supply and demand. Now Ontario ought to desire the attention, and the home market of the Province should feel the effect of the demand for Ontario blended flour. But the former is both a producer and a consumer, and as such, has a double interest in helping to create a demand for Ontario-grown wheat. When the individual farmer realizes that the purchase of the new flour means better bread on his table, and the price for his wheat, and an ultimate substantial decrease in the cost of bran and shorts, the battle to regain the Ontario market for an Ontario product will be as good as won.

GAY TIMES AT ROSEDALE.

This Pretty Kawartha Resort Has Many Summer Visitors.

Evening Post of Aug. 24.
Rosedale is quite gay at present. Every cottage is filled up and quite a number of tents remain use.

A house boat with a party of fourteen, in charge of Mr. Fred Robson, of Toronto, is making this spot headquarters for a few days.

The weather is beautiful this week, in consequence the motor boats, canoes and rowboats are making numerous excursions to the various points of interest—Cobocook, Kirkfield and up the Burnt river. Mr. Goodman's gasoline yacht has been kept on the Burnt river with excursion parties. The result of the Kawartha and Manitowishigee has also been carrying record crowds this week. The fishing has been fairly good. Mrs. H. J. Lytle, of Lindsay, landed a 10-12 pound "lunge" on Wednesday. Dr. J. C. Devitt, of Bowmanville, and Mr. Jas. Humphries, of Toronto, have been the lucky ones in catching black bass, having landed several good strings. One morning's catch comprised five black bass, two being over three pounds; three from two pounds to 2-1/2 pounds each. They also landed an eight pound muskellunge.

An Advertising Pointer.

If ninety per cent of the letters you send out of your office were so intelligently addressed that they never reached their destinations, would you conclude that letter writing didn't pay? Or would you take measures to see that in future your correspondence should be dispatched with greater care? Here and there a business man is to be found who has given up advertising as a poor investment because his "ads" were so uninteresting that nobody cared to read them, or because he inserted them in mediums which didn't carry his message to the people he wanted to reach. Misdirected advertisements are as useless as misdirected letters.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

Collier's Weekly tells of a town that has a "Rest-Room" for farmers' wives. It is about time that some consideration was taken of these patient, useful citizens, especially when we are so dependent upon their labors. In Oskaloosa, Iowa, a room in the City Hall has been fitted up as a rest room. It is clean, mustard curtains are on the windows; half a dozen rockers and other easy chairs are in the room; the table is spread with magazines and papers; agreeable pictures are on the walls, and a few shelves of books are there, beside a clock, which really keeps time. Out of this room opens an apartment supplied with three long tables, twenty or more dining chairs, and a sofa. On these tables the women can spread their lunches. Opening out of the sitting room there is a large toilet, generously supplied with clean towels, soap, combs, etc. A motherly woman presides over these rooms. The paper does not say how the room is financed, but it does say that the matron has her wages paid, the place is heated, and well supplied with literature, growing plants, and clean linen. It was not only patronized by farmer women, but the girls from the telephone office and other female clerks made good use of it. There is something that might be useful in every town. Merchants and others who want the produce and trade of our farm women might see that such a room is provided and maintained. The different women's organizations, (especially women's clubs, literary and social, and the W. C. T. U.) might also make it their business to arrange that a well-kept "rest-room" is maintained in every town and city.

A SEEDLESS TOMATO.

Now it is the seedless tomato. Science is never idle. It is busy evolving new products for the field and garden as it is discovering new sources of disease or harnessing the forces of nature to new uses.

Two methods of producing a seedless tomato have been tried with success. One of them is by selection and crossing promising varieties; the other, by high feeding with fertilizers.

The success attained brings out strikingly the varieties that may be made to occur in plants as a result of scientific effort.

Development of a seedless tomato has not come suddenly—few real advances in science or worldly affairs do.

For a number of years Professor B. D. Halsted and his associates have been working quietly, but continuously and enthusiastically, at the New Jersey experimental station. They have been breeding vegetables and experimenting with them in a number of ways.

More or less of such work has been done at the experiment stations of the country, some dealing with specialties of this kind, others with generalities.

The production of any vegetable novelty always attracts interest among seed growers and gardeners, although many such productions never become of permanent benefit to mankind.

Whenever Professor Halsted, however, succeeded in evolving a seedless tomato he conferred a real boon upon the millions whose palates crave the juicy red fruit of the tomato vine.

It is well known, of course, that the ordinary tomato contains hundreds of seeds. The form which has been developed at the New Jersey station seldom contains more than fifty seeds.

Frequently there are not more than five or six, and many of them are found to contain not a single seed.

It is believed that an entirely seedless variety will be fixed and will remain as the joy of gardeners and consumers through all the coming years.

In fact, the new variety has become pretty well established already. It is called the Giant, because of the very large size that the plant attains.

SETS A GOOD EXAMPLE

Local Banking Institute Plans to Help the Fair and Farmers.

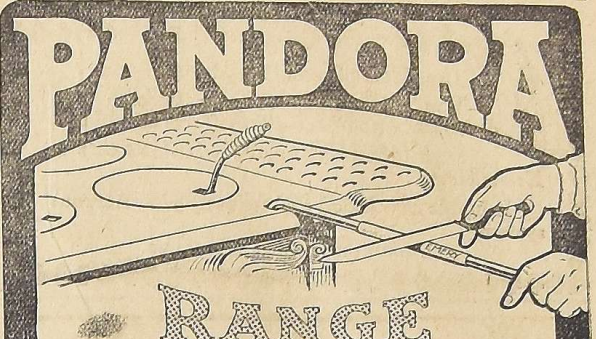

We are informed that the Victoria Loan & Savings Co. of this town, actuated by a desire to do their part in helping the officers of Lindsay Central Exhibition to achieve a grand success this year, and also promote the raising of good horses in the County of Victoria, have decided to offer a cash prize of $25.00 for the best draught team exhibited at the coming Central. The prize is well worth competing for, and it is expected that many good stock raisers will exhibit in the above class. No doubt if the showing warrants, the Co. will continue the prize another year.

OHEAP MEATS.

Farmers and others requiring large quantities of meat are requested to call at CALVERT'S, Lindsay, for their supplies. We intend selling meat at greatly reduced prices. GEO. H. CALVERT & SON, Academy of Music Block.—w2.

Eliminate Examination.

Dr. John Seath, Superintendent of Education, stated the other day that any changes in the course of study for the Public or High schools of the province to be made within the next few months would not in any way disturb the schools. Pupils and teachers could easily adjust themselves to alterations. It is intimated that several were being considered for introduction into the schools next September. It will be seven or eight years before those are in full operation. They tend, Mr. Seath remarked, towards the elimination of written examinations.

A convenience much appreciated by every owner of a Pandora is the towel rod attached to the range. As one-third of the rod is made of emery, it makes a splendid knife sharpener, too.

It's always there handy for you. You need waste no time hunting around for the easily misplaced "steel." Bright idea, eh?

An accurate thermometer is a reliable guide to successful baking, while an inaccurate one is a "cheat" of the worst kind.

"The Essence of Essential Education," "The Pith of Practical Principles."

We are prepared to give to three persons, six months, four months, and two months respectively of this "best business training" free of any tuition charges. The three persons mentioned will be the first three who send us the best three "catch phrases," or should the one selected as the BEST be sent by three persons, they will rank in order as received, first received will be given first place, second received, second place, and third received, third place. All other contestants who send in the phrase selected as the best and who subsequently enter our school for at least a three months' course will be given one month as a bonus, free of tuition charges.

The conditions of the competition are easy of fulfillment.

All contestants must be candidates for a business training for at least a portion of the School Year 1907-1908, or in other words, all persons competing must be eligible for, and purpose taking before June 1908, at least a one month's course in Day or Evening Classes in some Commercial School or Business College.

It costs nothing to try except a little brain exercise, and a few moments of time in writing us. Talk it over with your friends, those who are not competing, get their ideas with your own, remembering that two heads are better than one.

The shorter the phrase the better, as long as one or more good ideas are conveyed.

All answers must reach us not later than September 30th. If at a distance mail in time.

In order that you may the better know something of the special advantages of this school, and thus get ideas to use in the forming of the phrase, we will be pleased to mail all contestants upon request, a Booklet descriptive of our school and its courses of study. Fall term begins Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. Mention this paper when writing. Address

The Home Journal for August.

The principal feature of the Home Journal of Toronto for the current month is the expose of the city market in an illustrated article entitled "Toronto's Abomination" which is a most scathing denunciation of the Health Department, other special features are the illustrated articles on the "National Council of Women," "The Summer Picnic," "The Kawartha Lakes." In connection with the latter is given a new setting of "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," as sung at Stony Lake. Additions have been made to the departments of fancy dress, fashions, household economics, and a page is devoted to the work of the Ontario Women's Institutes. The whole number is a creditable production and deserving of the support of the Canadian home.

BE A BOOSTER ROOSTER.

Do you know there's lots of people settin' round in every town, Growlin' like a broody chicken, knockin' every good thing down? Don't you be that kind of cat, 'cause they ain't no use on earth.

You just be a booster rooster—crow an' boost for all you're worth.

If your town needs boostin' boost 'er don't hold back and wait to see

If some other fellow's willin' to sail right in, this country's free. No one's got a mortgage on it, it's just yours as much as his.

If your town is shy on boosters, you get in the boostin' biz.

If things just don't seem to suit you an' the world seems kinder wrong.

What's the matter with all boostin' just to help the thing along? 'Cause if things should stop a-goin' 'd be in a sorry plight—

You just keep that horn a-blowin' boost 'er up with all you might.

If you see some fellow tryin' for to make some project go, An' you can boost it up a trifle, that's your cue to let 'em know.

That you're not a-goin' to knock it just because it can't your 'shout.

But you're going to boost a little, 'cause he's got the best thing out.

If you know some fellow's father's just forgot 'em, for you know the same fellow's got some good points, them's the one's you want to show.

'Cast your loaves out on the waters,' they'll come back, a sayin' true, Maybe they will come back 'buttered' when some fellow boosts for you.

MY UNCLE KNOWS.

I was always used, when I went to bed,

Right under the clothes to hide my head;

But my uncle Joe came back one day—

I was only three when he went away—

And he told me what I didn't know In all my life, did my uncle Joe.

"There are no bogies at night," he said;

Just birds and flowers that have gone to bed,

And crickets and such things scattered 'round,

Tucked up in the dark all safe and sound;

"And dreams out of Wonderland," said he,

On the lookout for sleepy-heads like me."

So I'm not afraid of the dark one bit;

But I lie half awake, just watching it,

And wait for the dreams to take me.

And lead me away to the Wonderland.

Sometimes I think if it wasn't true, But just pretending, what should I do!

But since he says it, it must be so, I say,

For my uncle knows, does my uncle Joe.

THE DEAD ONE.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,

Who never to himself hath said: "My trade of late is getting bad, I'll try another ten-ink ad?"

If such there be go mark him well, For him no bank account shall swell.

No angels watch the golden stair, To welcome home the millionaire.

The man who never says for trade By local line or ad displayed.

Cares more for rest than worldly gain And patronage but gives him pain.

Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound Disturb his solitude profound;

Here let him rest in calm repose, Untroubled, except by men he owes.

And when he does go forth, him deep That night may break his dreamless sleep.

Where no rude clamor may dispel The quiet that he loved so well.

And that the world may know its loss Place on his grave a wreath of moss And on the stone above, "Hush, here Anan who did not advertise."

STRANGE TURNS IN POLITICS.

(Weekly Sun, Toronto.)

At the last session of the Dominion Parliament, Mr. Saffner, of Souris, moved to reduce the duty on agricultural implements from 17 1/2 to 10 per cent. Mr. Borden, Conservative leader in the Commons, is about to make a tour of the Dominion, and the Brantford Examiner links the motion and proposed tour together.

It says of Brantford is on Borden's list of places of call, perhaps he will tell the manufacturers of what city whether or not he is in sympathy with the motion introduced by one of his followers.

Could there be a more striking illustration of the change which has taken place in party alignments since '96 than is contained in the above paragraph? Here is a leading Liberal journal challenging the leader of the Dominion Conservative party to defend a movement inaugurated by one of his followers, looking towards free trade. MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Honeybourne — Barry

The home of Mr. Chas. Pym was the scene of a very pretty wedding (Wednesday, Aug. 21st, when Nellie, daughter of Mr. Garrett Barry, of Fenelon Falls, was united in the bonds of matrimony to William Honeybourne, of Lindsay. Rev. A. C. Collier, M.A., curate of St. Paul's, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends.

The bride was prettily gowned in cream crepe-de-chine over a blue waist and carried a bouquet of asters and roses. Miss Violet Barry, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore cream serge and carried a bouquet of asters. Mr. Charles Barry, of Allandale, was best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. John Barry, of Fenelon Falls. The house was decorated for the occasion with a variety of flowers arranged neatly.

After the ceremony was performed a pleasant time was spent in music, singing and games. The young couple left later for a visit to the bride's parents in Fenelon Falls. On their return they will reside at 20 William-st.

A large number of guests were present from Allandale, Rosedale and Bracebridge, and the presents were numerous and useful.

McFadden — Begley

Peterboro Review: At eight o'clock mass in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning was celebrated a very interesting ceremony in the marriage of Miss Mary Philomena, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. Begley, to Mr. Hugh Francis McFadden, of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColi, in the presence of a number of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was attired in a neat travelling costume, was assisted by her cousin, Miss Mary Begley, of Lindsay, both carrying beautiful bouquets. Mr. James Gillogly, of Lindsay, ably filled the duties of best man.

At the conclusion of the wedding mass, the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. P. J. Begley, Victoria-ave, where a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of.

The popularity of the bride was attested by the beautiful wedding presents received.

Mr. and Mrs. McFadden left on the 5.30 G. T. R. train for Toronto and on their return will take up residence in Lindsay.

OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. Maines.

Free Press, Aug. 22nd: After an illness of only a few days, Mrs. Wm. Maines passed away at her home, Queen-st., on Monday evening.

Deceased, though not enjoying the best of health, had a number of boarders. One of them had an abscess on his neck, which Mrs. Maines had been dressing. By and by her thumb became sore, but no attention was paid to it for several days, thinking it was a blister that was causing the trouble. It got worse, however, and became inflamed and swollen. Dr. Clark was called in and pronounced it blood poisoning, caused in all probability, from dressing the abscess on the boarder's neck.

Treatment was at once administered, but the poison rapidly spread throughout her entire system, and on Saturday morning she became unconscious, in which condition she remained until death. Mrs. Maines had spent a life of service, treating the sick of others and nursing them back to life. Six years ago her husband met his death at one of the saw mills here and was laid to rest in Lakeview cemetery. She had reached the age of 66 years, and was survived by three sons, two daughters, and two sisters, the latter being Mrs. Perry Brown, of Toronto, and Mrs. Lorne Starr, of Lindsay.

For many years she had been an active member of the Loyal True Blue Association, and on Wednesday the members of Midland Faith Defender Lodge headed the cortege to Lakeview cemetery and performed the last sad rites to their departed sister as she rested peacefully beside her sleeping husband. The deceased was a consistent and pure-living member of the Baptist church. Services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Simpson, pastor of the Methodist church, in the absence of the Baptist pastor.

HOTELKEEPER DARCY WAS CULITY

Indians Who Fought on the Esturion Cot

Liquor There.

The drunken Indians who created a disgraceful row on the Str. Esturion while returning from Stony Lake regatta on the 12th inst. were tried for the offence on Thursday before County Magistrate Edmondson, who gave judgment as follows:

On the charge of assaulting Fred Wright, mate on the steamer, Isaac Johnson was fined ten dollars and costs. On the same charge Jonas Jacobs and Alex. Knott were assessed five dollars and costs and David Jacobs, one dollar without costs.

For "being drunk" David and Jonas Jacobs and Alex. Knott were each taxed five dollars and costs.

What the costs in each case will amount to is not known yet, but it is expected that they will be pretty heavy.

HEAVILY FINED
His Worship also gave judgment in the case of H. W. Darcy, proprietor of the Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls, for selling liquor to an Indian on Civic holiday, August 12th. Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for Darcy. He was fined $50.00 and costs. This is the minimum fine under the clause relating to the sale of liquor to Indians.

HUNGRY FOR GOOD CHEESE

FIVE BUYERS ON LINDSAY BOARD MONDAY MORNING.

Mr. Clémens, for Flavell's Ltd., Bought 1396 Boxes at 11 1-2c.

There were a pleasant lot of sales—on Monday morning's meeting of Victoria County Cheese Board, the reason being the presence of five buyers, three being from Peterboro. They were Messrs. Brown, Clémens (for Flavell's Limited), Gillespie, Cook and Weir, Peterboro.

"We are after cheese," remarked Mr. Weir to President Robertson, after a hearty handshake. "The pastures are drying up down our way, and we've got to come to you."

"Glad to have you come often," responded Mr. Robertson. "Somehow the demand seems keener when we have a couple of visiting buyers." And the home men looked at one another and smiled.

FACTORIES BOARDING.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese placed opposite:

THE BIDDING.

"Now, gentlemen, make your offers," remarked the President.

Mr. Clémens led off with 10 3-4c. Mr. Cook called 11c. Mr. Weir made it 1-1/2c. better, Mr. Clémens came back with 11 1-4c. Mr. Cook made it 11 3-8c. for the Board, and Mr. Clémens took the mark and raised to 11 7-16c. He called Reaboro, Bobcaygeon and a few other factories, but the gossamer refused to part with their product at the price, manifesting a desire for the even half.

"The figure I've offered is the highest given in two weeks," remarked Mr. Clémens.

This failed to melt the hearts of the salesmen, although one of them expressed his willingness to accept the offer if the others would.

After a few moments' delay Mr. Clémens said, "Well, I'll make it 11 1-2c." He called Bobcaygeon, Reaboro, North Verulam, and Red Rock as a starter, and on getting his second wind, went ahead with a rush until every factory had been engaged up.

"Well, we've had a real nice visit," remarked Buyer Cook, "but I'm sorry to go away empty-handed. You've got a mighty good price, because I count it worth an extra sixteenth to inspect and ship cheese from this district."

The next sale will be held two weeks hence, when the last half of August make will be offered.

Str. "ESTURION"—During June, July and August, special Half Regular Return Fare from Lindsay to Bobcaygeon on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 40c. Valid for return same day of issue. To Sturgeon Point, daily regular return fare 25c. Valid 30 days from issue.

DELAYED EXCURSION PARTY.

Esturion Crowded Near Bobcaygeon—Late Arrival in Lindsay.

Evening Post of Aug. 23. Citizens who venture the trip down the river or lake at this season of low water seem to be incurring considerable risk of disaster. Last evening the Esturion took on at the lower wharf about 75 people, some of whom had walked a mile and a half to reach the dock. The steamer was bound for Bobcaygeon, where a garden party under the auspices of Christ church was the attraction.

Part of the Sylvester band went along, and the trip down was an enjoyable one, although the steamer struck a number of logs on the trip down Lindsay river, greatly alarming certain timid passengers, and when near Bobcaygeon the grinding of the vessel over the rocks was decidedly fearsome. However, Mate Brooks managed to land passengers in safety, and all enjoyed a couple of pleasant hours, the villagers extending a cordial welcome.

On the return trip things happened— as the boat was passing out into the lake, she grounded and remained fast for almost an hour and a half. A line had to be passed to the shore, several hundred yards away, and the captain pinned by passengers, before a release was effected. It was 2 a.m. before the Sturgeon Point people disembarked, and almost 4 o'clock when the lower wharf was reached and the many excursionists set out on their journey over the rails and ties on their weary way up town.

Touring the Kawarthas.

Evening Post of Aug. 22. The handsome steam yacht Sancia, from Lake Couchiching, arrived in port last evening with the Tudhope party, of Orillia, who left that town Tuesday to make a tour of the Kawarthas Lakes under the guidance of Mr. Geo. Goodwin, of this town.

The party comprised: Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tudhope, the Misses Begg, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cooke, Mr. Roy A. Cranee and Dr. A. H. Morton. They the night at the Simpson house, and this morning secured arrangements and inspected the town thoroughly, being most favorably impressed. After dinner they boarded the yacht and left for Bobcaygeon, on their way down the lakes.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of and not itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. With-out that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and salivary complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

DRAINING OF LAKE SCUGOG.

PORT PERRY STAR SOUNDS A NOTE OF WARNING.

Predicts Another Slaughter of Fish and Other Undesirable Things.

In last week's issue the editor of the Port Perry Star set forth at some length, editorially, some reasons why the citizens of Lindsay and Port Perry should join hands in registering a vigorous protest against the constant lowering of the water in Lake Scugog. The possibility of the fish being again decimated by frost during a cold winter will be disheartening news to the members of Lindsay Fish and Game Association, and, indeed, to every citizen who realizes that every sportsman attracted to this locality leaves behind him a considerable sum of money in return for a few fish and the pleasure of breathing our brand of ozone and perhaps sampling our blend of whiskey.

More important, of course, than any question relating to fish or fishermen, is that of the health of the people, and beyond doubt this will be very seriously endangered if the draining of the lake be continued further. But let the Star be heard; brother evil threatens. A few years ago, owing to an unusually early winter when the water froze to a phenomenal depth, the fish in the lake died by the thousands, and were almost entirely cut off. Conseququently fishing has ever since been prohibited, and an effort was required to be made at some expense to restock the lake. Now if the water remains at its present low level throughout next winter, and the fish which, happened before will undoubtedly happen again, and once more the stock of fish will be destroyed. The town of Port Perry has already suffered greatly on account of there being no fishing there, and can but poorly afford to have the close season prolonged for another year.

Then there is another, and a greater menace still, arising from the low level of the lake. It has been remarked that the water at present is scarcely more than a foot above the intake pipe through which the town secures its water supply. If this be true, and should the level of the lake not be raised before next January, the intake pipe will be almost certainly frozen in, and the town's supply will be cut off. This is a condition that no property owner or business man cares to contemplate. Naturally one is led at once to inquire into the cause or causes of the unusually low water. This has by no means been a dry season, and there has been no lack in the supply of water. The water is low simply on account of the waste and leakage at Lindsay. It has been intimated that the mill owners at Lindsay are using more water than they are entitled to use. Leaving that issue of sight for the moment it is very evident that something requires to be done on the works in the river to prevent the shameful waste of water now going on there day and night. In the first place the dam is in urgent need of repairs. The water is seen trickling through it at its base in quite large streams almost its entire length. The river is fully a foot and a half, if not two feet below the top of the dam. The locks, too, are of the most antiquated style, and are in a most disreputable condition. The water comes boiling up from beneath the gates, rushing through the centre where the gates fail to meet, and pouring out through the rotten crib work at the sides in all directions. The fish way too, in its present condition, is utterly useless, and serves only to add to the constant waste of water. The entire works, including the dam and the locks, need to be thoroughly overhauled and put in modern and approved shape. Until this is done there can be no hope of keeping up the level of the water in the lake.

An appeal to the Government should be made at once in this connection. The people of Lindsay and Port Perry should unite in this appeal. Both have good cause for action in the premises. And joint action on the part of these two places would no doubt bring to pass the work that is imperatively needed. We hope to see the matter taken hold of with vigor and determination. The case is an urgent one.

Summer Advertising.

I recently had the opportunity of examining an advertiser's records, which showed that his largest sales for any month in the year were in October. The only explanation was that this was the accumulative result of the advertising he had done in the summer months. Many advertisers are, however, opposed to advertising in the summer months. Some have reasonable grounds for this; some simply cannot be bothered with advertising because others do it, or because they've heard it doesn't pay. People eat, drink and live in the summer, and buy goods, just the same as they do in the winter. Many read more in summer than in winter, because they have more time to spare. —Leonard Dunbarshire, Publisher Spare Moments.

Missed Death By Three Inches.

Bob Independent: Mr. Wm. Mann, who was councillor for so many years had a marvellous escape the other day. He was helping to set up a stumping machine, part of which consists of three great sticks of timber about twenty feet long that stand up on end forming a triangle. By some means they fell grazing Mr. Mann's back. His clothes were torn off and his back bruised. Three inches more and he would have been smashed to a pulp. It gave those around a fright they will not forget for a while.

Separate School Teachers Successful.

Peterboro Examiner: Though the official returns have not as yet been made public, it is understood that the Department of Education has forwarded to every Separate school teacher who tried the recent examinations held in St. Peter's school here, a certificate, all having succeeded in passing the examination. This is a very creditable showing and proves that the teachers, although in the past they have not been in possession of the certificates demanded by the Education Act of Ontario, were well qualified to teach. In the neighborhood of 60 teachers tried the examinations here, they having come from many points in this district.

HE HAS FAITH IN THE WEST.

MR. ROBT. BRYANS THINKS THERE WILL BE A BIG CROP.

Regard Silver Bar District, Alberta, as Good as Mariposa.

Mr. Robt. Bryans, town, who returned last Friday evening from a five weeks' trip through the West, extending as far as Edmonton, is satisfied that unless, most unexpected conditions set in, another large crop will reward the husbandmen of that flourishing portion of this great Dominion.

Mr. Bryans, it will be remembered, some months ago disposed of several sections of land in Southern Alberta at a figure which about doubled his original investment, and his recent trip was taken in the hope of being able to make another good purchase. This time he invested in two choice quarters in the famous Clover Bar district, about sixteen miles east of Edmonton, seven miles south of Fort Saskatchewan, and three miles from a point where the Grand Trunk Pacific will erect an elevator. Mr. Bryans also acquired a couple of situated building lots in North Edmonton.

"That's going to be a big city there," he remarked with emphasis. The population now is close on 20,000, and in the course of a few years Strathcona, now a brick town of 4,000, is sure to join hands with its more go-ahead neighbor. When I visited there everything was on the move, and it was estimated that 3,400 people were living in tents owing to the impossibility of building houses rapidly enough to supply the great demand."

SAW LATE MRS. PICKIE.

Mr. Bryans also visited Vermilion, 134 miles east of Edmonton, to which point a train now runs daily over the C.N.R. He had tea with the late Mrs. Albert Pickie at the time of the visit, about three weeks ago, and danced on his knee the neighbor's child from whom Mrs. Pickie contracted the fever which resulted fatally. Her own little daughter, aged about two years, had taken the fever previously, but made a quick recovery.

Speaking of Clover Bar district, Mr. Bryans said it reminded him of Mariposa. "There's field after field of the prettiest fall wheat I ever saw spring out of the earth," was the way he described the soil qualities. Many settlers from Reabour and Lindsay districts are located there, and all are prospering—the Reid, McArthur, Moore, Burke, and other well-known families. Many Ontario young ladies are teaching in the schools of the section, and the attendance of children is good. Speaking of the crops, Mr. Bryans said that in Southern Manitoba there had been a dearth of early rains and land had been ploughed up. A terrific hail storm had also done a lot of damage in other parts more favored. In centre and north Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the crops were on the whole good, and in parts magnificent indeed. Mr. Bryans added as an afterthought that Swift & Co., the great Chicago packers, are erecting a great establishment near Edmonton.

Telegraphy Opens the Way

TO A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

Several thousand Telegraph Operators will be required by the various Railway companies within the next nine months.

ON AUGUST 1st, I will open a School in Lindsay, to be known as the

National School of Telegraphy

Board here is reasonable, and all ordinary students should graduate here within six months. Write or see me for terms. The greatest and most successful managers of to-day have, with rare exception, risen from the ranks of the operators.

Salaries of operators run from $50 to $80 per month, according to the importance of the position. Operators who are Agents, make from $60 to $100 per month, and are always eligible for promotion. Lady operators for commercial work are in great demand.

Qualifications necessary are few but absolutely essential, viz.: a common school education, strict sobriety, honesty, industry and carefulness.

Sir William C. Van Horne, of C.P.R. fame, began his railway career as an operator, so did J. W. Leonard, C. W. Spencer, Geo. C. Jones, and scores of others, all now holding high positions.

Address NATIONAL SCHOOL OF TELEGRAPHY, Lindsay, Ontario.

Principal.

IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Told in Interesting Form by the Bright Correspondents of The Post at the Various Centres.

CENTRE ELDON.

(Special to The Post.)

Most of the farmers around here are almost through harvesting. Several have had some of their threshing done, and report the grain turning out good.

Mr. Malcolm Morrison, who had the misfortune of breaking his leg, is doing as well as could be expected. We hope to see him about again ere long.

Mr. John Gillanders had a windmill erected on his barn. John will make things hum if he will get the wind when required.

Our school re-opened on Monday, 19th, with Miss Post as teacher. We hope success may be with them this term also.

Rain is much needed in this district. Grasshoppers are numerous around here, and prove very destructive to gardens and root crops.

We are sorry to hear that Ned McArthur of Palestine, lost one of his horses last week. Mr. McArthur is to be pitied, as he has to buy another one and prices are high for horses at present.

DUNSFORD

(From Our Own Correspondent.) The farmers around Dunsford are nearly through harvesting, and the whistle of the threshing engine may be heard every day.

A company of from twenty to thirty men of this vicinity has purchased a new threshing machine and engine. The new outfit is strictly up-to-date, and is giving perfect satisfaction.

The Farmers' Bank of Canada has established a flourishing agency in our village. The new outfit, although it is as yet but plainly furnished, is open every Tuesday night and all day Wednesday.

The Dunsford school re-opened for the fall term last Monday with Mr. R. C. Gray as teacher. Mr. H. L. Lindsay having resigned to take a position in the Farmers' Bank of Canada.

Mr. McGill, of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, spent a few hours at Dunsford last Wednesday. There was a large crowd out to the service in the Methodist church last evening. The singing was exceptionally good. Mr. Skitch, of Peterboro, and Mr. Lewis, of Ancona Point, sang solos that were much enjoyed by all. Mr. Lewis also helped in the singing by the use of his violin.

Dunsford is progressing favorably as a business centre, but is doing nothing in the way of sports. A village as large as Dunsford should have a sporting organization of some kind. Why not start football going now that the nights are getting cooler and the harvest is about completed?

Mr. Stubbs, of Peterboro, is going to give an entertainment consisting of stereopticon views and music, in the English church hall, Thursday evening, Sept. 3.

WOODVILLE

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Market here every Thursday.

The farmers of this vicinity are very busy at the harvest, and they report that the crops this year are first class.

Mr. R. Parker, teacher at Galt, is spending his vacation at his home near Dunsford.

The Rev. Mr. Lawrence, from the State of New York, preached at the afternoon service in the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

Mr. Ed. Wood, of Toronto, spent a few days of last week with Mr. E. Gordon.

Miss King, of Peterboro, and Miss Cooper, of Toronto, are visiting at Mr. Silas Thurston's.

SCOTCH LINE

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Much harvesting is still to be done. However, with the weather so favorable, what remains will soon be taken off.

Some threshing has been done already, and the yield, especially of mixed grains, is quite up to the standard.

It is doubtful whether in any other section of the province are the farmers so apparently united in their determination to make agriculture pay as they are on the Scotch Line, and its vicinity. They have but recently purchased an entire threshing outfit of the most improved style, with the object of lowering their yearly expenditure. Men who thoroughly understand the business of threshing have been engaged to manage the outfit, thus enhancing its chances for a successful season.

The water problem with many farmers has become almost serious during the harvest months, some extra having to be driven two or three miles for water. This means a falling off in the yield of milk and a corresponding decrease in the output of the cheese and butter factories.

Mr. Dougall Robertson lost a fine calf last week. It is thought death was due to the animal having drunk too much water.

Our schoolhouse, during the holidays has been thoroughly cleaned and painted, and presents a more up-to-date appearance. To Mr. Chas. Attill, of Bobcaygeon, is due much credit for the finished appearance which his work presents.

Mr. Alex Burgess is at present pointing the stone wall which he built for Mr. John Beatty.

GLENARM

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Miss J. McMillan, of Bracebridge, is visiting with friends in Palestine.

Miss Alma Staples is spending holidays with friends at Argyle.

Miss Graham, teacher at Palestine, returned to her school last week.

Maggie and Johnny Sinclair, of Portrie, are spending holidays with their uncle, Mr. D. Brown, of Glenarm.

LITTLE BRITAIN

(Special to The Post.) The re-opening services in connection with Little Britain Methodist church will take place Sunday and Monday, Sept. 15 and 16th.

On Sabbath the Rev. Henry Harper, M. A., of Oxbridge, chairman of that district, will preach at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m., when special collections will be taken.
